SATURDAY..... .....MARCH 14, 1874

WHERE WE CIRCULATE 'FIGARO."

Everybody knows that "FIGARO" has been distributed free for years very generally throughout the city, and has been circulated as programme in every theatre and place of amusement in San Francisco; and we want everybody to know that "FIGARO" is always distributed on the Oakland Ferry-boats that bring the passengers by the great overland train to this city, and is placed in their hands every day—Sundays included. That it is mailed free every day to all the leading hotels on the Pacific Coast. That "FIGARO" is circulated by Taylor & Co., the Oakland bill distributors, every day throughout the central portions of Oakland. That it is also distributed at Sacramento and on the Sacramento steamers on their down trips to this city, and in all towns on the river side, as may be seen by the annexed certificate from A. H. Nahor, distributing agent on the steamers:

This is to certify that I have agreed to, and do, distribute "FIGARO" thoroughly on the Sacramento steamers on their down trips to San Francisco, and have made arrangements to have it generally distributed in the towns of Benicia, Martinez, Collinsville, Sherman Island, Rio Vista, Courtland, Antioch, Pittsburg Landing, New York Landing, and in all of the hotels, saloons, public places, etc., in Sacramento City. ALFRED H. NAHOR.

March 4th, 1874.

Arrangements are being made for further circulation on other lines of travel, so that "FIGARO" shall be "here, there and everywhere," and be placed in the hands of all strangers, families and business men en route to this city.

Real Sorrow.

At a very successful seance in Cincinnati, the other night, a man burst into tears when the medium described very accurately a tall, blue-eyed spirit by him, with side whiskers and hair parted in the middle. "Do you know him?" inquired the man at his side in a sympathetic whisper. "Know him? I guess I do," replied the unhappy man, wiping his eyes. "He was engaged to my wife. If he hadn't died he would have been her husband instead of me. Oh! George! George!" he murmured in a voice choked with emotion, "why did you peg out."

A Shrewd Darkey.

The following dialogue was overheard the other day in Vicksburg: "Say, Jim, I'se noticed somefin' in dis town, is you?" "I dunno whedder I is or no, Si; what is it?" "It's dis: Is you noticed when a strange darkey comes here dat 'mounts to sumfin,' de white folks say, 'Who is dat colored man?' but the oullud people say. 'Who is dat nigga?' Jim, a nigga ain't got no sense, no how," "Dat's so, Si, sho's yer born."

The Ladies of To-day and 30 Years Ago.

Thirty years ago the advantages one could have were few compared with to-day. Then, if a lady was troubled with any complaints incidental to womanhood, she was obliged to trust to the various methods then in vogue, and seldom with any relief being derived. The bases of nearly all the medicines then were mineral. The superiority and safety of vegetable over mineral medicine has been demonstrated by the medical faculty all over the world. The Marsh Truss Co. (31 years standing) have in connection with their Truss department a Medical Infirmary, where they make ladies cases a specialty. Their medicines are all purely vegetable. Ladies troubled with delicate diseases should call at once on the Marsh Truss Co., 613 Montgomery street, and have their cases attended to. Special consulting room for ladies. 2-x

Lipman's Great Discovery.

Propably no object has called forth more preparations than that of restoring and beautyfying human hair; and among all, J. Lipman's wonderful restorer stands beyond question at the head for efficiency and perfect safety. This is absolutely free from Sugar of Lead or Lac Sulphur, and never fails to produce the effect desired; requires no other preparation; is easily applied, and is, without doubt, the simplest, best and cheapest hair restorative in use. Sold by all druggists. General Agents, Chas. Langley & Co., Wholesale Druggists, San Francisco. 1v

PACIFIC COAST DRAMATIC NEWS.

SACRAMENTO.—The Sacramento people have now got an entertainment that suits them. They could not appreciate English operas and delightful comedies by the Susan Galton and Jennie Lee troupes, but lectures on "Rum," at a low price of admission, draw good houses. Dr. Haskell has been doing this sort of thing at the Metropolitan Theatre since Tuesday evening, and is at it still. The Bee of Thursday says: The theatre was again crowded last night notwithstanding the bad weather, book sale and brilliant party. Each succeeding lecture is entirely new and better than the preceding. The playing and singing of Fannie Gibson are admirable, and many a one that hasn't the faintest idea of being converted to absolute abstinence, finds one's way there for the commendable purpose of hearing a pretty woman sing.

The Bee of Wednesday last had the following: Josh Billings is expected here on next Tuesday's overland train, to lecture before the Sacramento Literary Institute on the evening of that day, March 17th inst. This will be the opening one of the new course of three lectures. His subject will be "Buty and the Beest."

OAKLAND.—The Oaklanders have not had any amusement for some time past. This evening Little Mac, Jake Wallace and Miss Irving will give an entertainment at the Academy of Music.

HOLLISTER.—The drama entitled "Down by the Sea" was performed on the 11th, at Beatty's Hall, for the benefit of the Fire Department, the proceeds being devoted to the purchase of a fire bell. Dr J Olark, E Aguirs, John Kerns, A L Smith, R Shaw, R H Brotherton, Mrs N C Briggs, Mrs Thos Yost, and Miss Alice Bisbee were the performers.

SMARIEVILLE.—Having no regular dramatic correspondent in this flourishing place, we borrow the following from the Marysville Appeal: Our correspondent "M" sends us the following: "Had it not been for the organization of a Brass Band and an Amateur Dramatic Club, our village would be voted dead. But by aid of the numerous toots of various brass instruments in the hands of several novices, you may rest assured that the perpetual deafening noise proves we are not all defunct yet. The Dramatic Club is the pet of everyone hereabouts, and we all help to encourage its members, it being for a good cause. The proceeds of their labor will be towards a benefit for the Protestant Union Church of this place. They have organized by electing Mr. Gratiet as President and Mr. Frank Cory as Secretary. The first piece to be performed will be "Ten Nights in a Bar room." I don't think the State can beat this place for material requisite to play "Ten Nights in a Bar-room"—the male portion of this community having a great deal of experience that way. It is hoped we will have a numerous audience from your city, to repay the many visits we have heretofore paid you on such occasions.

ASTORIA, W. T.—Charles Vivian, assisted by Mme. Beiffarth, and others, gave an entertainment here on the 6th.

VIRGINIA CITY.—Miss Katharine Rogers, who is playing a remarkably successful engagement at Piper's Opera House, appeared on Monday evening in Boucicault's latest success, "Led Astray," playing Armands Chandoce. Wm J Cogswell appeared as Rodolphe Chandoce, Miss Florence Kent as Mathilde, and Maurice Pike as Hector Placide. On Wednesday evening, Miss Rogers took her farewell benefit, and the play of "A Woman's Heart" was performed.

SALT LAKE.—John T Raymond, in spite of the stormy weather, is playing a very successful engagement at the theatre. Last week he appeared in "Our American Cousin," "Only a Jew," "Toodles," and other plays. On Monday last, Miss M E Gordon (Mrs J T Raymond), commenced an engagement in the great American play of "Divorce." "The Wicked World" was to follow. The engagement of Mr. Raymond and Miss M E Gordon will close this evening.

Not Discouraged.

In place of being disheartened by the long spell of stormy weather that we have had, G. D Morse, 417 Montgomery street, made the best of the matter, and to be in readiness for pleasant weather has perfected his "Art Palace," which, as the public well know, has been "Par Excellence" heretofore. A visit to his Parlors and an examination of his new style of Photographs, Crayons, etc., will show that the acme of perfection has been reached. 2-r

Chinamen Below Par.

The Consolidated Tobacco Company of California not only employ white labor but are putting upon the market the finest flavored and best made Cigars ever offered on this coast. Mr. Briggs, the genial Manager of the Company, at the office, 304 Pine street, will be pleased to have the public generally call and sample the Cigars, and learn the low prices which they furnish really good cigar for. 3-J

The Young Man from the East.

"I'm a stranger in this city,
I'm lately from the East,
And mighty fond of oysters;
Where can I get a feast?
I've been to all the restaurants,
But nowhere could I find,
A plate of Eastern oysters,
Of the old-fashioned kind."

"Well, I can tell you," said his friend,
"Exactly where to go,
And where to get your oysters,
Direct from where they grow.
Just take a stroll down PINE STREET,
At 410, below the Market,
You'll see a sign, 'THE SADDLE ROCK,'
You can't fail to remark it.

"Emerson Corville keeps the place,
The best saloon in town,
There you can get your oysters raw,
Or fried so crisp and brown.
He's the largest oyster dealer
On the Pacific Coast,
And that he keeps the freshest
Has ever been his boast.

"He's got nice little private rooms,
Where you can sit at ease,
And eat your California stew,
Or Eastern if you please.
All the young men of fashion go
Right to the SADDLE ROCK,
To eat their EASTERN OYSTERS
And drink their Rhenish hock."

A Sight Not Often Seen.

A day or two since we visited Col. Andrews' establishment, at 221 Montgomery street, and were surprised at the immense stock of precious gems that the Colonel keeps. There were—

'Great pearls, milk-white, shining like the moon;
Emeralds, grass green;
Sapphires, like skies of June;
And one great diamond outshone them all,
Large as a pigeon's egg, and clear as wine—
When held before the sun a gem divine."

A half day could not be more profitably spent than in a visit to the Colonel's emporium. If one does not wish to purchase, the genial Colonel takes great pleasure in showing his immense stock to visitors, and explaining the intricate workmanship and the artistic designs necessary to produce even one of the ornaments that go to make up his large and valuable stock.

Sir Walter Raleigh created a consternation when he appeared before his servants smoking a pipe of Tobacco. The sight was a new one to them, and they, as well as the public in general were slow to learn the use of the Weed Had they had Tobacco of the quality and perfect flavor which the Perique and Golden Thread Smoking Tobacco of to-day have, smoking would much sooner become almost universal. The Gilroy Tobacco Company (office 304 Pine street), are offering the above-named Tobaccos to the public, and we advise those in want of a good article to give them a trial. 3-J

The Art of Dancing and Deportment.

Those who appreciate culture will be glad to learn that Professor C. H. Lester has opened an Academy for the purpose of teaching, not only dancing, but those graces of deportment without which no one can shine in society. Prof. Lester is a thorough master of his art, one of the best on this side of the Rocky Mountains. Classes are held at Grand Central Hall on the corner of Sixth and Market streets on Mondays and Thursdays.

THE SCIENCE—for it is a science—of taking the impression of any animate or inanimate thing on Glass, Porcelain or Cardboard, by using the sun as an auxiliary, is an important one. Improvements have been made from time to time by those who have made Photography a study To our mind (and a visit will make our readers agree with us) the Artist who presides at the Florence Gallery, 28 Third street, has attained a degree of excellence seldom achieved, if ever equalled. His Life-Size Portraits are excellent and prices low. 2bh

Epicure's Retreat.

Bunker's 74 and 75 California Market, and is never disappointed, for "Bob," is a good feeder himself, and always keeps on hand the very best in his line. Bunker's celebrated Club Sausages will tickle the palate of the most fastidious. Even dyspeptics laugh after eating those sausages. 1z

DR. BEERS, Patent Gold Crowns for broken

Oysters.

In strolling round the other night,
To look at 'Frisco by gas light,
Our careless feet, by chance did stray
To where a fountain's ceaseless play
Of sparkling waters, made a screen
Through which a sweet bouquet was seen;
While mossy stone and pearly shell,
O'er which the waters softly fell,
Made that window seem to be
Some fairy grotto of the sea.
Stop," said my friend, "let's go in here
It looks so nice—and try their cheer."
"All right," I said, "I must agree
That this place suits me to a T."
No sooner had we found a seat
Than at our side a waiter neat
Made his appearance, asked our wish—
Said they had almost any dish
That we might name. We found it true,
And cooked magnificently, too;
All kinds of oysters, juicy, fat,
Cooked every style; just think of that,
And if your mouth don't water, then
You're different from other men.
They'd clams and crabs and terrapins;
In fact, we found they had within
That cosy place all kinds of game,
Fish, flesh or fowl which we could name,
While every dish was, I am sure,
Prepared to tempt an epicure.
The ladies, too, have found, 'twould seem,
That they have here the best ice cream;
So here they flock, the little sinners,
To get what they call "such nice dinners."
Whoever doubts this let him rush
To three hundred thirty-seven Bush,
And there this truth he'll find made plain:
Who goes there once will go again.

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

THE OPERA HOUSE.—As we prophesied would be the case, Sam Wetherill had a tremendous house last night, when he took his annual benefit. The performance was an excellent one Messrs. Harrigan and McGlone appeared and acquitted themselves very well indeed in song and dance and were encored three times, Con. T. Murphy recited his original poem "A Letter of Death" in a telling manner, and Miss Maggie Moore, who was enthusiastically received, made a great hit in a new song and dance written for her by Billy Welch. The very pleasing operetta of "66; or Fortune's Chance" concluded the evening's entertainment. Mr. Wetherill being loudly called for, made his appearance and expressed his thanks to the audience in a brief speech. At the matinee to-day, and again this evening, the very varied and attractive programme published on our first page will be presented.

CALIFORNIA THEATRE—The play of "Romeo and Juliet" with Miss Neilson as the heroine, drew an immense house last night. At the matinee to day, and again this evening, the delightful pastoral "As You Like It" will be performed, and Miss Neilson will again present her admirable impersonation of Rosalind, in which character she has no rival save Carlotta LeClercq, whom in form and feature she surpasses. Her rendition of the part, while in subtle delicacy it falls short of that of Miss LeClercq, is one which is sure to be preferred by the general public, and must be pronounced by far the most critical and admirable conception most artistically carried out.

OPERA NIGHT—CALIFORNIA THEATRE.—On Sunday night the beautiful opera of "Martha" will be presented by Madame Inez Fabbri, Signor Pietro Bacci, Miss Anna Elzer, Signor Orlandini, and E. Rethervisch. The chorus and orchestra will be under the direction of Prof. Mulder-Fabbri. To enhance the attraction of the opera, the wonderful Girards have been engaged, and will appear in the Market scene in the fourth act. This will probably be the last appearance in this city of these extraordinary artistes.

DRAMATIC ENTERTAINMENT AND BALL.—This evening a grand amateur dramatic and musical entertainment and ball will be given at Platt's Hall, to augment the funds of the Hebrew Ladies Sewing Society. The performance will be under the supervision of Lewis Morrison, of the California Theatre, and the committee of arrangements comprises some of the leading merchants of the city. These ladies give their time to making clothes for babies and shrouds for the dead. They call upon the public to provide material for their willing fingers to work on. We think the public will not be backward in this, and confidently anticipate that Platt's Hall will be crowded. The box office is open to-day at the Hall.

THE NEW PALACE AMPHITHEATRE.—Manager John Wilson, the enterprising proprietor of the Palace Amphitheatre, will be the recipient of a complimentary benefit, tendered to him by all the Company and attachees of this establishment, this afternoon and evening, when one of the greatest bills of the season will be offered, including all the star acts by the star artistes of this excellent company. It will also be the occasion of the first and only appearances here of the Baby Elephant, the smallest animal of its species in the United States—the pet of the ladies and children at Central Park, New York, and the most sociable elephant in the world, together with a number of other attractions which will be found in the programme to-morrow. We know of no man in the profession more deserving of a number at the hands of the public than John Wilson, whose enterprise and energy has created for the convenience of the amusement public of San Francisco one of the most comfortable amphitheatres in America, and has brought here the finest troupe of equestrian artistes that has ever crossed the continent.

BELLA UNION THEATRE.—The new bill performed at this house last night proved quite a success, and will be repeated to-night, and to-morrow night. It comprises the sensation drama of "Two Olimes" with Ed. Murray, Miss Alice Ross, Miss Jennie Johnson, J. W. Summers and others in the cast, songs and dances by Moore and Bray, acts by Matt Kelly, Johnny Tuers and others, and a great variety of performances which will be found specified on our first page. Ed. Murray has made quite a hit in the character of Jimmy Finnegan.

BUCKLEY'S NEW VARIETIES.—A great Saturday night entertainment will be presented at this house by Geo. C. Thompson, Ned Buckley, Miss Ida May and a host of other performers whose names appear on our first page. The same bill will be performed to-morrow night.

WOODWARD'S GARDENS.—Extra entertainment on Saturday and Sunday, and also St. Patrick's Day. Harry Andrews has made an engagement with Captain G. Barbier, of the Aeronautic Society, Paris, to go up with his immense silk balloon "Le Leconte," which is capable of carrying fourteen persons. Applications for passage can be made at the Gardens.

GOLDEN GATE PARK.—Those who drive out to the new park should visit The Villa which has just been opened. Here they will find four public parlors and ten private dining rooms. Guido Mangenberg & Co the proprietors get up epicurean breakfasts, dinners and suppers at short notice.

THE CLIFF HOUSE.—Captain Foster, the genial host of the Cliff House, entertains visitors from all parts of the Globe at his famous sea-side resort. The Cliff House is THE one thing San Francisco has to boast of as different from anything else in the world. Omnibuses run every day from the terminus of the Lone Mountain Railroad.

ANATOMICAL MUSEUM.—One of the most complete collections of the kind in the United States, comprising hundreds of costly and beautiful wax models, is daily on view (to gentlemen only) at the Museum on Montgomery street. An hour may be profitably spent here.

NOTES.—The Dockrill Royal Parisian troupe, consisting of R H Dockrill and Madame Dockrill, the star equestrienne of the world, M Kennebel the funniest of French clowns, his brother also an original genius, and others, will arrive here to-night by special train from Ogden with their stud of horses. They come under engagement to Manager Wilson, of the Palace Amphitheatre, and will inaugurate a new season of equestrian entertainment at that popular place of amusement.

A. F. Bailey agent of Charles Vivian reports to "FIGARO" from Portland, under date of March 5, Troupe coming down to San Francisco overland if the road is open.

Mrs. G. Chapman reports to "FIGARO", from Sacramento, to the effect that her daughter, Miss Belle Chapman, after a successful tour of the United States with the Chapman Sisters, will shortly return to her home in Sacramento.

As soon as the Lenten season is over Signor Carmini Morley intends to give an operatic performance, for the purpose of introducing some of his pupils to the public, notably Miss Fanny Mareton, who is studying the role of Leonora, in "Il Trovatore."

Lewis Morrison, though suffering seriously from bilious cholic, attempted to play the part of Romeo last night, and struggled on bravely until the commencement of the first act, when he was unable to proceed. Luckily this happened just after Mercutio, played by Barton Hill, had been killed, and that actor immediately changed his dress and taking up the part of Romeo played it without missing a word. Few actors can boast of having "doubled" Mercutio with Romeo, and certainly few could do so as well as Mr. Hill did last night.

John T. Raymond, now in Salt Lake City, will commence his engagement at the California Theatre on April 6th, when he will produce Gilbert's latest success—"The Wicked World."

Schuberth & Co, have published "The Naiad Queen March," arranged by J. Hoffman, and dedicated to Miss Ellie Wilton.

Miss Neilson's engagement is for two weeks only, but it is probable, in consideration of the immense success she has met with, that she will extend it for another week.

Miss Ellie Wilton is to have a benefit at the California Theatre before long. No one has better earned one, and the public will be glad of an opportunity to show their appreciation of the efforts of this charming and genuine actress.

The business for next week at the California Theatre is as follows: Monday and Thursday evenings "Romeo and Juliet," Tuesday and Wednesday "As You Like It," Friday and Saturday evenings and Saturday matinee "The School for Scandal."

John McCullough was reported at Laramie last night. He will reach St. Louis in due time, to begin his two weeks' engagement on the 16th

Sam Wetherill, the Treasurer of the Opera House, was, on the occasion of his benefit last night, presented with a very handsome and valuable solitaire ring. Con T. Murphy made the presentation on behalf of friends of Mr. Wetherill, who had prepared this pleasant surprise.

The public will be glad to hear that Miss Jennie Lee, the popular comedienne, has recovered from her recent indisposition and will shortly reappear.

Next week in addition to many other attractions, Little Mac will make his reappearance at the Opera House.

EASTERN DRAMATIC NEWS.

In New York, the Strakosch Italian Opera troupe were at the Academy of Music. Nilsson appeared in "Mignon" on the 2d, and in the same opera at the matinee on the 7th. Wagner's "Lohengrin" was mentioned as likely to be produced .....Lucca was presenting German opera at the Stadt Theatre. "Les Huguenots" was performed on the 4th.....Ilma di Murska signalized her return from Havana by giving operatic performances at the Lyceum Theatre on the 5th, 6th and 7th.....At Wallack's, John Gilbert, who has been ill, made his reappearance on the 7th in the "Rivals," which succeeded "Money".....At the Fifth Avenue Theatre, Gilbert's new comedy of "Charity" was produced on the 3d .....At Booth's Madame Janauschek appeared in "Marie Stuart" at the matinee on the 6th, and in "Macbeth" in the evening, closing the second week of her engagement.....French opera bouffe was revived at the Lyceum Theatre by the Aimee troupe on the 7th..... ..At Niblo's, "Leatherstocking," George Fawcett Rowe's American play, was proved a fair success, and was retained on the boards until the 7th, when Frank Mayo and Miss Rosa Rand appeared in "Davy Crockett".....At the Grand Opera House, the pantomime of "The Two Fugitives," founded on "Robert Macaire," was being played with H. D. Fox as Jacques Strop. The variety portion of the programme embraced Prof. Davies and his trained dogs, Curtis and Goodrich, the champion skaters; the Martens Family, the Bigl Sisters, the Wilson Brothers, and other well known favorites.....Bryant's Minstrels were giving a performance consisting of first part and negro acts.....Led Astray" still held the stage at Union Square Theatre.....At Wood's Museum, Miss Alice Harrison appeared on the 2d. "Bertha, the Sewing Machine Girl" was produced on the 9th.....At Tony Pastor's, the Stuart Sisters and Miss Blanche Selwyn were the latest additions to the company.....At the Theatre Comique, Harrigan and Hart appeared in new acts, and the Yeddo Japs gave their gymnastic performance.....At the Metropolitan Theatre, in addition to the variety company, Mlle. Zoe appeared on the 2d in "The Wept of Wish-ton-Wish".....At the Bowery Theatre, a new drama entitled "Little White Hair; or, the Last of the Modocs" was produced on the 2d. Miss Ella Wesner was suffering from inflammation of the palate, and had undergone a surgical operation which prevented her from continuing her engagement.....At the Olympic Theatre, the Berger Family, Miss Angie Schott, Harry Stanwood, and a very full variety company were performing. The latest novelty was a new burlesque by J. J. McCloskey, entitled, "Led Her Astray; or, Love's Labor Lost."

Mr. J. J. Wallace, formerly of Wood's Museum, New York, was announced to appear as George Francis Train, in "The Man from America," at the Arch Street Theatre, Philadelphia, on the 2d.

Miss Charlotte Cushman commenced an engagement at the Walnut Street Theatre, Philadelphia, on the 2d.

The Fielding-, John and Maggie, opened at the Grand Central Variety Theatre, Philadelphia, on the 2d.

Mr. T. Grattan Riggs appeared at Wood's Museum, Philadelphia, on the 2d.

Mr. F. S. Chanfrau opened at Ford's Theatre, Washington, on the 2d,

Mr. Lawrence Barrett will appear in New Haven, Conn., on the 20th.

Miss Maggie Mitchell will play in Boston, commencing on the 23d.

Sothern will play in New Haven, Conn., on the 14th.

Edwin Booth, McVickers, Chicago, 22d, four weeks.

The New York Mercury says: Miss Rose Wood and Mr. Lewis Morrison, now concluding their California and Philadelphia engagements, will open at the Academy of Music, Cleveland, May 18, in their new and original play entitled "Rose" said to be one of the finest plays on the stage, to be followed by "Field and Fireside." Shortly after this they will appear at the Walnut, Philadelphia.

Boucicault arrived in New York on the 25th ult.

Joe Murphy is in Milwaukee, to-night.

Mrs. James A. Oates and troupe, Cleveland, March 9, one week; Toledo, 16th, 17th. Tour through the South, the past season is said to have been a failure on the whole. Mrs. Oates is said to have lost what grip she had there.

Little Nell, with Robinson's Opera-house Company of Cincinnati, Omaha, 17th, 18th, and 19th. B. Grismer lately joined them from the Columbus Athenæum.

Henry McHale, of the Rochester Opera-house who shot a Mr. Franke last December, under a jealous suspicion with regard to his wife, had recently a trial lasting over eight days. The jury failed to agree, and Mr. Hale was remanded to prison for a new trial.

Miss Winnetta Montague lies ill with the small-pox at the Bingham Hotel. She caught it there through occupying a room where a small-pox patient had recently died.

Vokes Family, Athenæum, Boston, March 2d.

Miss Kate Newton and Mr. George Skelton will probably accompany Mr. J. L. Toole to this country.

Irwin Tremaine in a mesmeric entertainment, Utica, N. Y., March 3d.

Robert McWade, St. Charles, New Orleans, March 9th.

W. F. Burroughs, lately in the stock of Wood's Museum, Philadelphia, began starring at the Capitol, Albany, March 9th.

Mr. and Mrs. Barney Williams, Park Theatre, Brooklyn, during Easter week.

The New York Mercury says: Miss Neilson and her husband, Mr. Lee, left here on the 24th for San Francisco, in quest of the luck which, unfortunately, they have not obtained through the Eastern section of the Continent during the past season. Miss Neilson has proved conclusively that the want of luck was not caused by any lack of ability on her part, but rather by lack of money in the Eastern States. She bids fair to play an engagement in San Francisco as profitable as that of either Sothern or Dion Boucicault.

Lydia Thompson and troupe, Olympic, St. Louis, March 2d, two weeks.

William Corbyn, of the Vokes Family, writes to the Mercury from Hartford, 25th: The sisters emerge from two feet of snow into the "Belles of the Kitchen," expecting to find empty benches, and are surprised by a theatre crammed. Curious country and people to brave a storm to gratify fun and curiosity.

Edmond Gerson has been arranging in Philadelphia for a tour through the country with a variety troupe, in which Regamey, the caricaturist, late of Niblo's, will be one of the principal features.

The New York Mercury says: Woods Cooke and Millie Turnour return from San Francisco soon to fulfill an engagement with John Murray. Mr. Murray proposes the coming season to extend his tour toward sun-down, and give "out west" an opportunity of seeing a "Star from the East."

Joe Childs and Ida Wallace advertise that they can be engaged for the coming tenting season with a first-class circus.

The steamship Schiller, on her late trip from Hamburg, brought twenty-four race horses, ten ostriches, and six antelopes, consigned to P. T. Barnum, for his new hippodrome.

Chas. McEvoy's Original Hibernicon, reopens season at Rochester, 17th, thence Quebec, April 6th, one week; Montreal 13th.

The New York Critic, of which we have made some fun occasionally, is at least a fair paper, as the following shows: "The "FIGARO," published by J. P. Bogardus, at San Francisco, is one of the most reliable amusement journals published in America. Their enterprise in procuring rare show news affords the Eastern gorillas an opportunity of obtaining items of importance, attainable only through the "FIGARO," and then indulge in the piggish propensity of not crediting it to the right source. It is edited in an intelligent manner, and one of our most valued exchanges."

It, to set a good example, publishes San Francisco amusement news, giving due credit to "FIGARO."

The Boston Courier doesn't care about Lord Dundreary. It expresses itself as follows: Dundreary has drivelled through the week at the Boston Theatre, not, however, to such large audiences as greeted him during the first week of his engagement. This is not to be wondered at when we consider that calves-foot jelly, although a very nice dish, palls on the appetite much quicker than roast beef, and that the action and dialogue of any dramatic entity, however slight, wears better with the public than the senile meanderings of such a stammering nonentity as Dundreary.

Tearing Down Old Landmarks.

Some men's lives are failures because they have mistaken their vocation. No matter what a man's calling may be, he should study to make that calling a success. There is more skill in selecting and arranging the adornments of our homes than many have any idea of. One of the most difficult articles to arrange with taste is Carpets. One must have an eye to the surroundings, the height of the room, the number of windows, the style of the other furniture, and then proceed to select the Carpet. For some rooms one must have a large pattern, in others a small figure; bright colors do not always look the best. Mr. Burnham, one of the firm of J. W. Burnham & Co., 618 Market and 17 Post street, has made the selecting of Carpets and Window-Hangings a study, and selected his stock accordingly—Brussels, Ingrains, Tapestry and Velvets, to say nothing of Oil Cloths, of which they make a specialty. Messrs. B. & Co. are obliged, we regret to say, to close out their entire stock at a sacrifice, on account of the tearing down of their present store, in order to rebuild. For the next thirty days Mr. Burnham can be found at his place of business, and will give his advice and long experience to all that may require it. 3-D

WHERE WE CIRCULATE "FIGARO."

Everybody knows that "FIGARO" has been distributed free for years very generally throughout the city, and has been circulated as programme in every theatre and place of amusement in San Francisco; and we want everybody to know that "FIGARO" is always distributed on the Oakland Ferry-boats that bring the passengers by the great overland train to this city, and is placed in their hands every day—Sundays included. That it is mailed free every day to all the leading hotels on the Pacific Coast. That "FIGARO" is circulated by Taylor & Co., the Oakland bill distributors, every day throughout the central portions of Oakland. That it is also distributed at Sacramento and on the Sacramento steamers on their down trips to this city, and in all towns on the river side, as may be seen by the annexed certificate from A. H. Nahor, distributing agent on the steamers:

This is to certify that I have agreed to, and do, distribute "FIGARO" thoroughly on the Sacramento steamers on their down trips to San Francisco, and have made arrangements to have it generally distributed in the towns of Benicia, Martinez, Collinsville, Sherman Island, Rio Vista, Courtland, Antioch, Pittsburg Landing, New York Landing, and in all of the hotels, saloons, public places, etc., in Sacramento City. ALFRED H. NAHOR.

March 4th, 1874.

Arrangements are being made for further circulation on other lines of travel, so that "FIGARO" shall be "here, there and everywhere," and be placed in the hands of all strangers, families and business men en route to this city.

The Ladies of To-day and 30 Years Ago.

Thirty years ago the advantages one could have were few compared with to-day. Then, if a lady was troubled with any complaints incidental to womanhood, she was obliged to trust to the various methods then in vogue, and seldom with any relief being derived. The bases of nearly all the medicines then were mineral. The superiority and safety of vegetable over mineral medicine has been demonstrated by the medical faculty all over the world. The Marsh Truss Co. (31 years standing) have in connection with their Truss department a Medical Infirmary, where they make ladies cases a specialty. Their medicines are all purely vegetable. Ladies troubled with delicate diseases should call at once on the Marsh Truss Co., 513 Montgomery street, and have their cases attended to. Special consulting room for ladies. 2-x

Lipman's Great Discovery.

Propably no object has called forth more preparations than that of restoring and beautyfying human hair; and among all, J. Lipman's wonderful restorer stands beyond question at the head for efficiency and perfect safety. This is absolutely free from Sugar of Lead or Lac Sulphur, and never fails to produce the effect desired; requires no other preparation; is easily applied, and is, without doubt, the simplest, best and cheapest hair restorative in use. Sold by all druggists. General Agents, Chas. Langley & Co., Wholesale Druggists, San Francisco. 1v

Epicure's Retreat.

The epicurean fond of nice grain-fed, pig-pork chop, tenderloin or roast, resorts to R. F. Bunker's 74 and 75 California Market, and is never disappointed, for "Bob," is a good feeder himself, and always keeps on hand the very best in his line. Bunker's celebrated Club Sausages will tickle the palate of the most fastidious. Even dyspeptics laugh after eating those sausages. 1x

Important to Smokers.

Few men in San Francisco are aware that the enterprising firm of Kahn & Haas are employing white females labor in the manufacture of their Cigars. The very best material is used in this establishment. Call and convince yourself at 773 Market street, between Third & Fourth street. Finest brands Havana Cigars constantly on hand. 11-T

Great Bargains in Clothing.

The only store in the city that has the largest cheapest and finest assortment of Men's and Boys Clothing, is H. Poyser's Montgomery Avenue Clothing Store, 719 Montgomery street, between Washington and Jackson. Also, a large assortment of Men's and Boys' Overcoats and Cloaks, and the finest stock of Gents' Furnishing Goods, Trunks, Valises, etc. 2-x

Critics.

Mr. Wheeler, "Nighe Crinkle" of the New York World, was recently interviewed by the Spirit of the Times reporter. On being asked, "Do you believe that critics are born, not made?" he replied:

If you mean newspaper critics, who write about the current amusements, they are neither born nor made; they are accidents. It is very much with these critics as it is with actors—they tumble out of the coulisses of journalism upon the stage, make a hit, and discover that they are made. It is a great mistake to suppose that a critic possesses any one quality that is not universal. All men are critics. The only point of difference between a good and a bad one is the power of discrimination. The duty of the newspaper critic is not to tell us what is bad, but how and in what it is bad or good. To do that he should be something more than a juror to give a verdict; he must be a judge to deliver an opinion. The amount of intelligence and experience and taste will be the measure of that criticism's worth. The one noticeable thing about this age of criticism is not that every man considers himself capable of criticising, but that he considers it his duty to print his criticisms. My own opinion is that there is something too much of the critical spirit abroad; its prevalence tends to make men live and act with a view to the popular record, whereas they should live and act with a view of doing their duty to the best of their ability. It substitutes a social and fictitious conscience for the inner and infallible one which every man ought to carry about with him.

As there are no dramatic critics employed on the San Francisco newspapers, but the "lokulitemses" write up "notices," Mr. Wheeler's remarks don't apply here.

Cheap Advertising.

The New York Dispatch in its Odds and Ends department says: We hasten to inform contributors that this isn't an "obituary department." A man in Newark, N. J., appears to think so. Last week he sent us a poem headed "In Memoriam." He lamented in it the death of his wives—four of them. He probably thought we'd publish his posm, and that some of the sentimental lady readers of "Odds and Ends" would fall in love with him for his gushing love for those four "passed away," and would offer to become the fifth. The Newark man, in our opinion, has had his share of wives, and we won't assist him in his attempt to monopolize the marriageable women of the land.

The Child of the Period.

Frank, aged six years, is asked by his mother to be a good boy and let her undress him and put him to bed. He replies: "I ain't sleepy, and I shan't." "Oh, do, there's a good boy, and I will buy you some candy," the mother says. "I shan't" retorts Frank. The mother appeals to the father of young hopeful. "Charlie, dear, do get Frankie to go to bed." On this Frank says "What's the use of asking him. You know both of you together can't make me if I don't want to." This is an actual conversation which we listened to a few evening's ago." Train up a child" etc. A lovely training half the children in San Francisco get Strange that they grow up to be hoodlums.

Frantic Delight.

The St. Louis Globe tells of a man it knows who was so delighted the other day by learning that his baby had a tooth that he fell over a chair and knocked out three of his own. If the father continues that eccentric way of celebrating the arrival of his baby's teeth, by the time baby gets all his'n the "old man" will have to go it alone on spoon victuals. But that should be no deprivation, as the doctors inform us, that oat meal porridge is very nutritious and exceedingly cheap. When we lose all our teeth we'll try it, but not till then.

Imperial Milk Punch.

Repentance Came Too Late.

The following extract from a love letter which was recently picked up, shows anything but a contented mind:

MY OWN DEARLY BELOVED CHARLIE: charlie darling again I find time to write to you after along silance. it is painful to me charlie these long and dreary days and months that seem to me as years sunce I last see you. oh charlie, if I could only go back a year and undo the past I would give one half of my life were it mine to give, if I was where I was two years ago this day. oh charlie if I had of known as much as I do now, oh how dearly I loved you all that time, but never knew it charlie. I love you, and I never did or ever will love any other man as I love and worship my own darling. charlie I do not like him, he is so cross sometimes. I think of you by day and dream of you five nights out of every seven. I would be willing to take all the scoldings you ever gave me every day in the year if I was so situated as I was two years ago, but that is impossibal, and I must live on in this way notill I die, but my heart will always be yours, and if at any time you I can do anything for you just call on me and I will let everything els go to serve you.

We don't suppose that the hard-hearted "charlie" was a bit moved by this epistle, or he would have treasured it, instead of dropping it in the street.

The Amenities of Journalism.

We always did admire editorial courtesies. There is something refreshing in reading that the editor of a rival sheet is "a besotted wretch, whose pen is dipped in his own rotten heart, whence it conveys the fetid stuff to the innocent paper on which it is printed." The Southern papers are very heavy in this style of complimentary matter. Recently, the Florence (Ala.) Times informed the editor of the Huntsville Advocate that he was "a contemptible, little, dirty, polluted, sneaking Yankee." Probably both gentlemen are now satisfied that the world knows them as they are. We once heard a couple of men quarreling. A friend asked one of them what was the matter. He replied: "He told me what I was, and I told him what he is. He told me that I was a d—d old fool, and I told him that he was a d—d old gin pig." When men are so easily satisfied, who dare find fault with them?

Hans Stopplefelt's Opinion.

Hans keeps a grocery store on Second street. He has been a litte annoyed lately at the idea of the women of San Francisco trying to shut up the liquor shops after the manner adopted by those in the East. He expressed himself as follows the other day. "I tinks dis is all dam foolishness, ant it wast better der vomens minds der pusiness that they don't come brayin rount mine grocery sdore and make dam shackasses of demselves." Hans doesn't like "braying women."

A Sight Not Often Seen.

A day or two since we visited Col. Andrews' establishment, at 221 Montgomery street, and were surprised at the immense stock of precious gems that the Colonel keeps. There were—

'Great pearls, milk-white, shining like the moon;
Emeralds, grass green:
Sapphires, like skies of June;
And one great diamond outshone them all,
Large as a pigeon's egg, and clear as wine—
When held before the sun a gem divine."

A half day could not be more profitably spent than in a visit to the Colonel's emporium. If one does not wish to purchase, the genial Colonel takes great pleasure in showing his immense stock to visitors, and explaining the intricate workmanship and the artistic designs necessary to produce even one of the ornaments that go to make up his large and valuable stock.

Sir Walter Raleigh created a consternation when he appeared before his servants smoking a pipe of Tobacco. The sight was a new one to them, and they, as well as the public in general were slow to learn the use of the Weed. Had they had Tobacco of the quality and perfect flavor which the Perique and Golden Thread Smoking Tobacco of to-day have, smoking would much sooner become almost universal. The Gilroy Tobacco Company (office 304 Pine street), are offering the above-named Tobaccos to the public, and we advise those in want of a good article to give them a trial. 3-x

The Art of Dancing and Deportment.

Those who appreciate culture will be glad to learn that Professor C. H. Lester has opened an Academy for the purpose of teaching, not only dancing, but those graces of deportment without which no one can shine in society. Prof. Lester is a thorough master of his art, one of the best on this side of the Rocky Mountains. Classes are held at Grand Central Hall on the corner of Sixth and Market streets on Mondays and Thursdays.

THE SCIENCE—for it is a science—of taking the impression of any animate or inanimate thing on Glass, Porcelain or Cardboard, by using the sun as an auxiliary, is an important one. Improvements have been made from time to time by those who have made Photography a study To our mind (and a visit will make our readers agree with us) the Artist who presides at the Florence Gallery, 23 Third street, has attained a degree of excellence seldom achieved, if ever equalled. His Life-Size Portraits are excellent and prices low. 2ph

Not Too Tratural.

The Wisconsin dominies get along much better than the members of the cloth in New England. A sermon architect in the State named was found to be so healthy on exaggeration that he was chuched for the failing or fault. He acknowledged his besetting sin with all humility, remarking, in good faith, that he was well aware of his weakness, and had "shed barrels of tears over it." Down East this would have let him out without debate; but his brethren out West set him down in the following gingerly style: "We find Mr.—— guilty of not always handling the truth with sufficient carefulness to meet the wants of ordinary veracity." If that is not a well upholstered censure, it will be hard ever to write one. Wisconsin seems determined to allow her people to be as imaginative as her soil is fertile. Only tickle her with a hoe and she laughs with a harvest.

Brotherly Love.

The door-bell of a wealthy Jew, who lived up town, was loudly rung the other day and a man announced himself as the long-absent brother of the master of the house. Of course the brethren were delighted at meeting, though their salutations were different. "Why, Joseph, where on earth did you come from?" said the dweller in—— street. "Why, Schasup, is that stone in your shirt shenuine?" asked the affectionate wanderer. After which he not only inquired after the health of the different members of the family, but whether he had any more jewels of the same sort.

A Western enthusiast exclaims: "I'd rather be a doorkeeper in the hall of the Grangers than to shovel sugar in the stores of the middlemen."

"You might have heard the unfolding of a cambric handkerchief" is the French phrase for expressing profound silence.

Not Discouraged.

In piece of being disheartened by the long spell of stormy weather that we have had, G. D. Morse, 417 Montgomery street, made the best of the matter, and to be in readiness for pleasant weather has perfected his "Art Palace," which, as the public well know, has been "par Excellence" heretofore. A visit to his Parlors and an examination of his new style of Photographs, Crayons, etc., will show that the same of perfection has been reached. 2-T

DR. ABORN—DEAR SIR: The last time I was your city, a year ago February, you treated me Catarrh. I had been troubled with the abo about THIRTEEN YEARS, and was skeptical about your being able to relieve me. The last time I called on you prior to my return home, I promised to inform you whether you had effected a permanent or temporary cure. I HAVE NOT NO SLIGHTEST TRACE OF CATARRH, and as it is over a year since I was under your treatment, I think I am safe in saying, that you have effected a perfect cure in my case. You are at liberty to use this letter as you see fit.

Yours Respectfully,

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

California Theatre.

Miss Neilson is playing one of the most successful engagements ever known in this city. So much talent and beauty combined in one person make her a star of exceptional attractive powers. She will appear to-night in her admirable impersonation of Juliet in "Romeo and Juliet," and to-morrow night as Rosalind in "As You Like It."

Opera House.

The entertainment given at this house is one which the public never weary of. To-night that remarkable phenomenon, Little Mac, will appear in addition to the constellation which always shines here. Such a combination of artistes is presented at no other theatre in the United States, and the constant changes made in the programme render the entertainment offered always new. As will be seen by referring to our first page, Miss Susan Galtes, Alfred Kellner, John Howson, Little Mac, Billy Sweetman, Con. T. Murphy, Welch and Rice, George S. Knight, and all the stars will appear in an immense bill. The performance will conclude with the charming operetta of "66; or, Fortune's Chance," which proved such a success when produced on Friday last on the occasion of Sam Wetherill's benefit. On Friday evening next the ushers and doorkeepers of the Opera House will take their annual benefit. We hope the public will show their appreciation of these obliging and courteous gentlemen by crowding the house.

Opera.

The opera of "Martha," with the added attraction of the appearance of the Wonderful Girards in the Market scene, drew a good house last night and the entertainment was much enjoyed by all present. Madame Inez Fabbri appeared as Lady Harriet, Miss Anna Eiser as Nancy, Signor Bacci as Lionel, Signor Orlandini as Plunkett, E. Rothervirch as Lord Tristan, and J. Bonsevier as the Sheriff.

Platt's Hall.

A very large and fashionable audience assembled in this hall Saturday night, when an amateur dramatic and musical entertainment and ball was given for the benefit of the Hebrew Ladies' Sewing Society. The musical portion of the entertainment was very pleasing, the "Maniac Lover" was capitally played by amateurs, and the ball was most successfully managed. The entertainment must have netted a considerable sum for the benefit of the noble society for which it was given.

Soiree Musicale.

Frank Gilder, the talented pianist, will give a musical entertainment for a benevolent object this evening at Badger's Piano Rooms, No. 13 Sansome street, between Bush and Sutter. Tickets can be obtained at the rooms during the day and at the door in the evening. The programme prepared for the occasion is an excellent one, and comprises vocal as well as instrumental music.

Palace Amphitheatre.

The last two nights of the season are announced at this place of amusement. There will be a great performance to-night, a matinee to-morrow (St. Patrick's Day), and another performance in the evening. All the stars will appear in the programme of acts published on our first page.

Bella Union Theatre.

The sensational drama of "Two Orphans," Grecian Statues by Miss Alice Ross, dances by Moore and Bray, song and dance by Miss Susie Robinson, Ed. Murray's "Budget of Fun," Johnny Tacey' comic acts to-night. To-morrow night the Royal Tycoon Japanese Troupe, now on their way home after an extended tour of the United States and Europe, will make an appearance in their best acts.

Buckley's New Variety Theatre.

Ned Buckley, Miss Ida May, George C. Thompson, and other favorite artistes will appear in a great programme to-night, and Johnny Price, song and dance artiste, will make his first appearance.

Woodward's Gardens.

These beautiful gardens present thousands of attractions. To-morrow, in addition to all the other delights of this charming pleasure resort Professor Allen's balloon will make ascensions to the clouds from morning to night. The silk balloon will go up on Saturday.

City Gardens.

The first picnic of the season will be given by the San Francisco Rifles, who will hold their second annual picnic at the City Gardens on Sunday next. The Rifles will be escorted to the Gardens by the California Jagers, a delegation from the Steuben Guards and the pioneers of the German Rifles. A series of performances will be given in the afternoon.

Notes.

Harry Clark and Mlle. Leure, the trapeze performers, and Carl Bosco the illusionist, have formed a combination, and will leave for Eureka, Humboldt Bay, this afternoon.

The baby elephant "Princess Mollie," will hold levees at Oakland, during the present week.

The Dockrill-Kenibel Parisian Circus Troupe arrived yesterday, and will open on Wednesday evening. They bring along with them seven of the best circus horses in the United States.

ANATOMICAL MUSEUM.—One of the most complete collections of the kind in the United States, comprising hundreds of costly and beautiful wax models, is daily on view (to gentlemen only) at the Museum on Montgomery street. An hour may be profitably spent here

What Next?

Every one knows how a photograph looks when viewed through a stereoscope—but a stereoscope cannot always be had. G. D. Morse, at 417 Montgomery street has obviated this difficulty by producing a photograph that is so clear and sharp in its outlines that one would almost think he was looking through the lens of a stereoscope. Mr. Morse's parlors look more like an art gallery than a place of business. 3 p

Spring Style Hats.

TRUE LOVE.

I would that every angry shaft
From Trouble's bitter sheaf,
Would wing its flight to pierce my heart,
To give to thine relief.

I would that every ill and woe,
And every carking care,
Would force their dr ear way within my breast,
That I for thee might bear.

I'd genial deem the icy chill,
The biting frost and cold,
The stormy tempest, love, if thou
Wert sheltered in the fold.

If my frail bark were tossed about,
Of angry waves the sport,
Calm as on glassy lake I'd feel,
If thou wert safe in port.

And if thy choice o'er me should pass,
To bless another's life,
His truest friend I'd ever be,
Because thou wert his wife.

—Chamber's Journal.

Taking It Coolly.

A short time ago a chimney in a Detroit boarding-house was burned out, and there was great excitement, it being the belief that the house would go. The landlady rushed up stairs and pounded at the doors, screaming to the boarders to get up. All jumped out but a Toledo man, and as she rattled at the door he called out: "What's the row?" "Get up—get up; the house is on fire!" she screamed. "It is, eh?" he growled back, "Well, what's that to me? I don't own the old caravansary, do I?"

An Harmonious Howl.

A Chicago paper circulates the dreadful rumor "that a second Gilmore will gather all the singing societies and brass bands in the thirty-seven States and concentrate them in Philadelphia in 1876, with intent to unite them in one harmonious howl. Is it for this that we have suffered 100 years of freedom?"

Probably a Misprint.

A Southern paper calls Mrs. Harriet Beecher Stowe "an old ghoul." The St. Louis Globe thinks the editor meant "an old gal."

It is said that the bridal trousseau of Queen Victoria's last daughter-in-law will not be admitted into England free of duty. Rough!

"These goods will be sold at oxyon," is what we learn from a placard in front of a Cheap John store.

Prohibition laws are said to be great helps to the corkscrew trade.

Oysters.

In strolling round the other night,
To look at Frisco by gas light,
Our careless feet, by chance did stray
To where a fountain's ceaseless play
Of sparkling waters, made a screen
Through which a sweet bouquet was seen;
While mossy stone and pearly shell,
O'er which the waters softly fell,
Made that window seem to be
Some fairy grotto of the sea.
Stop," said my friend. "let's go in here
It looks so nice—and try their chair."
"All right," I said, "I must agree
That this place suits me to a 'T.'"
No sooner had we found a seat
Than at our side a waiter neat
Made his appearance, asked our wish—
Said they had almost any dish
That we might name. We found it true,
And cooked magnificently, too;
All kinds of oysters, juicy, fat,
Cooked every style; just think of that,
And if your mouth don't water, then
You're different from other men.
They'd clams and crabs and terrapin'g
In fact, we found they had within
That cosy place all kinds of game,
Fish, flesh or fowl which we could name,
While every dish was, I am sure,
Prepared to tempt an epicure.
The ladies, too, have found, 'twould seem,
That they have here the best ice cream;
So here they flock, the little sinners,
To get what they call "such nice dinners."
Whoever doubts this let him rush
To three hundred thirty-seven Bush,
And there this truth he'll find made plain:
Who goes there once will go again.
Pacific Oyster House, 337 Bush street, above Montgomery; open Day and Night.
CHARLES RAAKE, Proprietor.

The Lucky Number.

Fortunia, the Goddess of Luck, must have designated one hundred and forty-four as her symbol. W. E. M'phew believes in the number. He drew the second grand prize in the last lottery on that number, and then moved his large and complete stock of Drugs, Perfumes, etc., to 144 Fourth street. Naturally happy and free-hearted, he continues in business for the pleasure it affords him. He is actually giving a splendid Sachet Package of Rimmel's or Lubin's to every customer that comes to his store. 3-s

For a good, quiet, nice saloon, commend us to the "Orient," 720 Market street. Messrs. Goldworthy & Weston are saloon-keepers who know their business thoroughly, and consequently keep only the best of Wines, Whiskys and Cigars. We can commend the "Orient" as one of the best places in the city. Try once and you will be satisfied. 2-o

Unbearable Tyranny Overthrown.

Max Adelar says: We learn from an exchange that "The Legislature of Massachusetts has lately passed a law making it necessary that a dozen eggs weigh one and one-half pounds." We approve of this. The hens have too long had their own way in this business of laying eggs, and they have constantly defrauded the public. It is high time this outrage was crushed, and we are glad that the Legislature of Massachusetts is going to do it. If free American citizens are to be imposed upon with impunity by debauched and corrupt chickens, the government for which William Penn fought and John Hancock died, is a disgraceful failure. Hereafter Massachusetts hens will either have to lay two-ounce eggs or emigrate. The people will submit to their tyranny no longer. They have borne the yolk until it has become unendurable. They denounce present prices for present eggs as eggstortion, and hens they demanded a reform with the determination to draw up this chicken bill and pullet through the legislature.

Scene—Garden of Eden. Adam—Madam, I'm Adam. Eve—Adam, I'm Madam. They embrace.

A winter so financially hard has never been known in Lansingburg, N. Y. Seven marriages have been postponed.

There is one thing which the most improvident young men are always able to keep, and that is late hours.

The Young Man from the East.

"I'm a stranger in this city,
I'm lately from the East,
And mighty fond of oysters;
Where can I get a feast?
I've been to all the restaurants,
But nowhere could I find,
A plate of Eastern oysters,
Of the old-fashioned kind."

"Well, I can tell you," said his friend,
"Exactly where to go,
And where to get your oysters,
Direct from where they grow.
Just take a stroll down PINE STREET,
At 410, below the Market,
You'll see a sign, 'THE SADDLE ROCK,'
You can't fail to remark it;

"Emerson Colville keeps the place,
The best saloon in town,
There you can get your oysters raw,
Or fried so crisp and brown.
He's the largest oyster dealer
On the Pacific Coast,
And that he keeps the freshest
Has ever been his boast.

"He's got nice little private rooms,
Where you can sit at ease,
And eat your California stew,
Or Eastern if you please.
All the young men of fashion go
Right to the SADDLE ROCK,
To eat their EASTERN OYSTERS
And drink their Rhenish hock."

Tearing Down Old Landmarks.

Some men's lives are failures because they have mistaken their vocation. No matter what a man's calling may be, he should study to make that calling a success. There is more skill in selecting and arranging the adornments of our homes than many have any idea of. One of the most difficult articles to arrange with taste is Carpets. One must have an eye to the surroundings, the height of the room, the number of windows, the style of the other furniture, and then proceed to select the Carpet. For some rooms one must have a large pattern, in others a small figure; bright colors do not always look the best. Mr. Burnham, one of the firm of J. W. Burnham & Co., 618 Market and 17 Post street, has made the selecting of Carpets and Window-Hangings a study, and selected his stock accordingly—Brussels, Ingrains, Tapestry and Velvets, to say nothing of Oil Cloths, of which they make a specialty. Messrs. B. & Co. are obliged, we regret to say, to close out their entire stock at a sacrifice, on account of the tearing down of their present store, in order to rebuild. For the next thirty days Mr. Burnham can be found at his place of business, and will give his advice and long experience to all that may require it. 3-D

Chinamen Below Par.

The Consolidated Tobacco Company of California not only employ white labor but are putting upon the market the finest flavored and best made Cigars ever offered on this coast. Mr. Briggs, the genial Manager of the Company, at the office, 304 Pine street, will be pleased to have the publi generally call and sample the Cigars, an learn the low prices which they furnish really good cigar for. 3-s

Highly Important.

Many a man with a good head spoils the appearance of it by wearing a hat which does not suit him. Every imaginable style of hat can be obtained at "THE" Hat Store, 647 Washington street (second Hat Store below Kearny). The prices are remarkably reasonable. 1s

"FIGARO."

THE JOURNAL OF AMUSEMENTS.

TUESDAY .....MARCH 17, 1874

WHERE WE CIRCULATE "FIGARO."

Everybody knows that "FIGARO" has been distributed free for years very generally throughout the city, and has been circulated as programme in every theatre and place of amusement in San Francisco; and we want everybody to know that "FIGARO" is always distributed on the Oakland Ferry-boats that bring the passengers by the great overland train to this city, and is placed in their hands every day—Sundays included. That it is mailed free every day to all the leading hotels on the Pacific Coast. That "FIGARO" is circulated by Taylor & Co., the Oakland bill distributors, every day throughout the central portions of Oakland. That it is also distributed at Sacramento and on the Sacramento steamers on their down trips to this city, and in all towns on the river side, as may be seen by the annexed certificate from A. H. Nahor, distributing agent on the steamers:

This is to certify that I have agreed to, and do, distribute "FIGARO" thoroughly on the Sacramento steamers on their down trips to San Francisco, and have made arrangements to have it generally distributed in the towns of Benicia, Martinez, Collinsville, Sherman Island, Rio Vista, Courtland, Antioch, Pittsburg Landing, New York Landing, and in all of the hotels, saloons, public places, etc., in Sacramento City. ALFRED H. NAHOR.

March 4th, 1874.

Arrangements are being made for further circulation on other lines of travel, so that "FIGARO" shall be "here, there and everywhere," and be placed in the hands of all strangers, families and business men en route to this city.

The Ladies of To-day and 30 Years Ago.

Thirty years ago the advantages one could have were few compared with to-day. Then, if a lady was troubled with any complaints incidental to womanhood, she was obliged to trust to the various methods then in vogue, and seldom with any relief being derived. The bases of nearly all the medicines then were mineral. The superiority and safety of vegetable over mineral medicine has been demonstrated by the medical faculty all over the world. The Marsh Truss Co. (31 years standing) have in connection with their Truss department a Medical Infirmary, where they make ladies cases a specialty. Their medicines are all purely vegetable. Ladies troubled with delicate diseases should call at once on the Marsh Truss Co., 513 Montgomery street, and have their cases attended to. Special consulting room for ladies. 2-x

Lipman's Great Discovery.

Probably no object has called forth more preparations than that of restoring and beautifying human hair; and among all, J. Lipman's wonderful restorer stands beyond question at the head for efficiency and perfect safety. This is absolutely free from Sugar of Lead or Lac Sulphur, and never fails to produce the effect desired; requires no other preparation; is easily applied, and is, without doubt, the simplest, best and cheapest hair restorative in use. Sold by all druggists. General Agents, Chas. Langley & Co., Wholesale Druggists, San Francisco. 1v

Epicure's Retreat.

The epicurean fond of nice grain-fed, pig-pork chop, tenderloin or roast, resorts to B. F. Bunker's 74 and 75 California Market, and is never disappointed, for "Bob," is a good feeder himself, and always keeps on hand the very best in his line. Bunker's celebrated Club Sausages will tickle the palate of the most fastidious. Even dyspeptics laugh after eating those sausages. 1x

Important to Smokers.

Few men in San Francisco are aware that the enterprising firm of Kahn & Haas are employing white females labor in the manufacture of their Cigars. The very best material is used in this establishment. Call and convince yourself at 773 Market street, between Third & Fourth street. Finest brands Havana Cigars constantly on hand. 11-r

Great Bargains in Clothing.

The only store in the city that has the largest cheapest and finest assortment of Men's and Boys Clothing, is H. Too Bad.

Some people may be able to see the use of having a Legislature, but we cannot, nor can A. M. Winn. If that body now sitting in Sacramento had granted Mr. Winn's modest request, and voted him some ten or twelve thousand dollars, he would still be editing the "Shop and Senate." As it is, the paper is dead, dead for want of money to keep it alive. The responsibility of its death rests with the Legislature. No one ever read the paper but A. M. Winn, but it should have been kept alive as a comfort and delight to him. What Mr. Winn will do now we don't know. He has ever been one of the most consistent advocates of the rights of labor. That is, of the right of every man who likes to labor to do so. Mr. Winn himself does not like to labor, but he rejoices in seeing others labor. He will stand by a man sawing wood for an hour, and condole with him on the low rates of wages, but he isn't on the saw himself. What the working men of San Francisco are to do, now Shop and Senate is dead, we can't tell. And what bothers us most of all is, to guess what Mr. Winn will do.

Real Republicanism.

The Alta is so bitterly opposed to anything savoring of monarchy, that it won't even use grammatical English, because that is called the Queen's English. It winds up an editorial note on the subject of the etiquette of European Courts, in the following elegant style:

'Ain't this "royal blood" tom-foolery outlived its usefulness?

Judging from its popularity with certain people, we don't think it are. In its hatred of aristocracy, gentle manners, and correct English, as opposed to Republican principles, the Alta surpasses any paper published in the United States.

Liberal Enough.

"It is not what a man denies or accepts that makes him a Christian," says Mr. Beecher; "the man whose thought, temper, speech and action show him to be most like the Lord Jesus, is most a Christian." Surely, "Christian" liberality cannot go farther than this in its definition of what it is to be a Christian. But such a definition is dreadfully inconsistent with historic and instituted Christianity.

Appreciating a Good Thing.

A gentleman once asked, "What is woman?" when a married man replied, "She is an essay on grace and goodness in one volume, elegantly bound. Although it may be dear, every man should have a copy of it."

If the above be correct, we can't see why some people make such a fuss whenever Brigham Young makes an addition to his library.

In Earnest.

The ladies of San Francisco are determined to do their best to discourage drinking, and though they use different means to accomplish their purpose from those adopted in the East, they declare in the words of Spartacus, slightly varied, they "Will make Rum howl."

A Very Low Jail.

There has never been a clergyman, lawyer, physician, editor, deacon, steward, church warden, class-leader nor son of a clergyman in the New Hampshire State Prison.

Well never mind. Cheer up and hope for better things by and by.

An Electrical Novelty.

A German named Scalkenbach recently appeared at the Cambridge Music Hall, London, with an instrument called the "Military Orchestra with Electric Motion," which is thus described: "The player, while sitting at a kind of piano, can by pressing keys or pulling out stops, sound instruments which are fixed in various parts of the hall, and are connected with an electric battery. The sounds of drums, cymbals, a triangle, castanets, thunder, the voice of the cuckoo, the whistle of a railway engine, the singing of birds, the striking of a clock, the chimes, the sighing of the wind, pattering rain, flowing water were all cleverly imitated. Pistols and cannons were also fired, and colored lights were made to appear. In conclusion, Herr Scalkenbach played a musical composition which illustrated by sound the adventures of a man-of-war ship, including the arrival in port and departure, an approaching storm, the mariner's prayer, parade on board, the victory, and the finale."

Woman's Work.

The Rev. T. Higgison, who says so many good things in behalf of woman, has explained the reason why women in this country are not as strong and enduring, physically, as those of foreign countries; and says (in substance, of American women in the common walks of life:)

She is expected to sew, mend, iron, wash, bake, brew, fry, stew, mop, wash dishes, take care of children, wait upon her husband, and be a lady withal in company. Her house must be in order early in the forenoon, and she prepared to go out and pay calls in a black silk dress and silver card case. In addition to all this, she very often sits up after midnight doing extra shop work to pay for little Ella's music lessons. All this every 'capable' American woman will do or die. She does it and dies, and then we wonder that her constitution gives out sooner than that of an illiterate Irish woman, whose highest ideal is to supply her young Patricks with adequate potatoes."

Unpoetical.

The word husband, with which young women before marriage associate so much poetry and romance, is not in its etymology all that fancy may represent it. It is Anglo-Saxon—husbonda, composed of hus and bonda, meaning house boer. We fear the significance of the word is truer than many spouses would wish to admit.

A Real Grievance.

A young lady of Lyons, Iowa, recently said: "Some men are always talking about patronizing their own town—always harping on that duty—and yet they go abroad to get married, while we all stand waiting! I do hope that some of these men who marry Eastern women will get cheated."

The Women Movement.

There was a jumping match between seven young ladies in Waupon, Wisconsin, for a silver medal. The contestants wore loose trowsers and no skirts, and are described as so bewitching that the spectators cheered themselves hoarse. Sarah Jane Smith won.

Woman's Work.

Another lady preacher has secured a pulpit in Boston. Her name is Lora Haines, and she has been several years studying for the ministry. She is thirty years old, and has "a pleasing but not beautiful face."

A Sight Not Often Seen.

A day or two since we visited Col. Andrews' establishment, at 221 Montgomery street, and were surprised at the immense stock of precious gems that the Colonel keeps. There were—

'Great pearls, milk-white, shining like the moon;
Emeralds, grass green;
Sapphires, like skies of June;
And one great diamond outshone them all,
Large as a pigeon's egg, and clear as wine—
When held before the sun a gem divine."

A half day could not be more profitably spent than in a visit to the Colonel's emporium. If one does not wish to purchase, the genial Colonel takes great pleasure in showing his immense stock to visitors, and explaining the intricate workmanship and the artistic designs necessary to produce even one of the ornaments that go to make up his large and valuable stock.

Sir Walter Raleigh created a consternation when he appeared before his servants smoking a pipe of Tobacco. The sight was a new one to them, and they, as well as the public in general were slow to learn the use of the Weed Had they had Tobacco of the quality and perfect flavor which the Periqua and Golden Thread Smoking Tobacco of to-day have, smoking would much sooner become almost universal. The Gilroy Tobacco Company (office 304 Pine street), are offering the above-named Tobaccos to the public, and we advise those in want of a good article to give them a trial. 3-r

The Art of Dancing and Deportment.

Those who appreciate culture will be glad to learn that Professor C. H. Lester has opened an Academy for the purpose of teaching, not only dancing, but those graces of deportment without which no one can shine in society. Prof. Lester is a thorough master of his art, one of the best on this side of the Rocky Mountains. Classes are held at Grand Central Hall on the corner of Sixth and Market streets on Mondays and Thursdays.

THE SCIENCE—for it is a science—of taking the impression of any animate or inanimate thing on Glass, Porcelain or Cardboard, by using the sun as an auxiliary, is an important one. Improvements have been made from time to time by those who have made Photography a study To our mind (and a visit will make our readers agree with us) the Artist who presides at the Florence Gallery, 28 Third street, has attained a degree of excellence seldom achieved, if ever equalled. His Life-Size Portraits are excellent and prices low. 2th

San Francisco the Home of the Drama.

Mrs. D. P. Bowers, was recently interviewed by the reporter of Wilke's Spirit of the Times. The interviewer asked "where have you found the most appreciative audiences." To this the great tragedienne replied: "Well, my success this season has been unusually great in almost every city I have visited. Of all places for legitimate audiences, however, commend me to San Francisco. It is a city where society and adulterous plays have hardly yet affected the tastes of theatre-goers, and the greatest encouragement is given to art. Every good artist I know who visited that city has played his best engagement there. The California Theatre is equal in every respect to the best theatre in New York, and the stock company is unusually excellent; they have played so long together that they understand each other, and the audiences understand them, and that's a great consideration. Sothern, Boucicault, and Katharine Rogers have recently played unprecedented engagements there."

Insufficient Grounds.

Mr. Routledge, of Elyria, N. Y., took unto himself a wife without previously consulting her mother. When the old lady saw the little joke she whaled her daughter. The tender bride was so indignant at her new husband for not taking a hand in the dispute that she put in a bill for divorce on the plea of desertion. The judge said he had never heard that a man's refusal to lick his mother-in-law was ground for divorce, and he refused the application, ordering the husband to pay the fees of court.

Improper.

An Eastern paper heads a long editorial article on astronomy: "A Few Moments with Venus." Bro. Pickering wouldn't allow that heading to appear in either of his papers, for fear people might think it "improper."

Not Discouraged.

In place of being disheartened by the long spell of stormy weather that we have had, G. D. Morse, 417 Montgomery street, made the best of the matter, and to be in readiness for pleasant weather has perfected his "Art Palace," which, as the public well know, has been "Par Excellence" heretofore. A visit to his Parlors and an examination of his new style of Photographs, Crayons, etc., will show that the same of perfection has been reached. 2-r

AN OPEN LETTE

MARYSVILLE, March 1st,

DR. ABORN—DEAR SIR: The last time I was your city, a year ago February, you treated me Catarrh. I had been troubled with the above about THIRTEEN YEARS, and was skeptical about your being able to relieve me. The last time called on you prior to my return home, I promised to inform you whether you had effected permanent or temporary cure. I HAVE NOT THE SLIGHTEST TRACE OF CATARRH, and as it is over a year since I was under your treatment, I think it safe in saying, that you have effected a permanent cure in my case. You are at liberty to use my letter as you see fit.

Yours Respectfully,

MRS. ELIZBETH SEAFORTH

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

Opera House.

The entertainment presented at this house is a very attractive one. The finale to the first part, entitled "Bell of the Period," acted by Sweatnam, Welch, Rice and Murphy, is very lively. Little Mac, who received a tremendous welcome on making his appearance last night, presents his original Essence, Welch, Reed and Robinson appear in "Too Much Alike," Billy Sweatnam, sings pathetic ballads, and Miss Susan Galton, Alfred Kelleher and John Howson present the charming operetta of "65; or, Fortune's Chance."

California Theatre.

A very large and fashionable audience enjoyed the performance of "Romeo and Juliet" last night, and Miss Neilson's impersonation of the heroine received an unanimous verdict of approval. To-night and to-morrow night "As You Like It" will be played, and on Thursday night the last performance of "Romeo and Juliet" will be given.

Palace Amphitheatre.

There will be great matinee to-day after the procession, and this evening the season will close with a wonderfully attractive performance by all the stars of the arena, who have drawn such crowded houses during the past six weeks. On Monday evening the Dockrill-Kenibel Parisian Troupe will commence a new season, and will doubtless renew their triumphs of two years ago. They bring their own horses and constitute a company by themselves. See programme for benefits.

Bella Union Theatre.

To-night, in addition to the numerous other attractions, the Royal Tycoon Japanese Troupe will commence an engagement at this house. It is so long since an entertainment of this kind has been given in this city that the public will enjoy once more witnessing the extraordinary feats presented by these artistes. Miss Alice Ross, Ed. Murray and all the stars will appear in a great bill, including the popular hit of "Two Climes."

Buckley's New Variety Theatre.

Johnny Price, who made quite a hit last night in song and dance, will appear to-night in a clog dance, George C. Thompson will present his favorite impersonation of "Old Black Joe," and Ned Buckley, Frank Mortimore and Miss Ida May and many others will appear.

Woodward's Gardens.

These beautiful gardens present thousands of attractions. To-day, in addition to all the other delights of this charming pleasure resort. Professor Allen's balloon will make ascensions to the clouds from morning to night. The silk balloon will go up on Saturday.

City Gardens.

The first picnic of the season will be given by the San Francisco Rifles, who will hold their second annual picnic at the City Gardens on Sunday next. The Rifles will be escorted to the Gardens by the California Jagers, a delegation from the Steuben Guards and the pioneers of the German Rifles. A series of performances will be given in the afternoon.

ANATOMICAL MUSEUM.—One of the most complete collections of the kind in the United States, comprising hundreds of costly and beautiful wax models, is daily on view (to gentlemen only) at the Museum on Montgomery street. An hour may be profitably spent here.

Tearing Down Old Landmarks.

Some men's lives are failures because they have mistaken their vocation. No matter what a man's calling may be, he should study to make that calling a success. There is more skill in selecting and arranging the adornments of our homes than many have any idea of. One of the most difficult articles to arrange with taste is Carpets. One must have an eye to the surroundings, the height of the room, the number of windows, the style of the other furniture, and then proceed to select the Carpet. For some rooms one must have a large pattern, in others a small figure; bright colors do not always look the best. Mr. Burnham, one of the firm of J. W. Burnham & Co., 518 Market and 17 Post street, has made the selecting of Carpets and Window-Hangings a study, and selected his stock accordingly—Brussels, Ingrains, Tapestry and Velvets, to say nothing of Oil Cloths, of which they make a specialty. Messrs. B. & Co. are obliged, we regret to say, to close out their entire stock at a sacrifice, on account of the tearing down of their present store, in order to rebuild. For the next thirty days Mr. Burnham can be found at his place of business, and will give his advice and long experience to all that may require it. 3-D

What Next?

Every one knows how a photograph looks when viewed through a stereoscope—but a stereoscope cannot always be had. G. D. Morse, at 617 Montgomery street has obviated this difficulty by producing a photograph that is so clear and sharp in its outlines that one would almost think he was looking through the lens of a stereoscope. Mr. Morse's parlors look more like an art gallery than a place of business. 3-P

Spring Style Hats.

Chinamen Below Par.

The Consolidated Tobacco Company of California not only employ white labor but are putting upon the market the finest flavored and best made Cigars ever offered on this coast. Mr. Briggs, the genial Manager of the Company, at the office, 304 Pine street, will be pleased to have the public generally call and sample the Cigars, and learn the low prices which they furnish really good cigar for. 3-J

Glorious!

For health and pleasure, a hot or cold salt water "splash" at the Sanitarium Baths, foot of Powell St., North Beach—terminus of Kearny and Montgomery street car lines. Five tickets for $1. 1bi

Fresh and Sweet.

For the best confectionery, go to Canty and Wagner's, 107 Montgomery St. near Sutter. N

[FOR "FIGARO."]

"THE OULD HATS OF '98."

DEDICATED TO MESSRS. WELCH AND RICE.

These hats were made in Dublin town,
In the year of ninety-eight,
And you can see they are still in style,
For they look both clean and neat.
These hats are very dear to us
Since we left sweet Dublin Bay,
And the only time you see them out
Is on Saint Patrick's Day.

CHORUS—We are Irishmen both heart and hand,
From far across the say,
And the only time we wear these hats
Is on Saint Patrick's Day,

These hats were worn by heroes bold
That lived in the Emerald Isle,
When O'Connell went to Parliament
They were just out in style.
The were worn by dukes and earls too,
For they looked so trim and neat;
Three cheers, me boys, for the ould hats
That were worn in ninety eight.

CHORUS—

Oh when Saint Patrick's day comes on—
It's the seventeenth of March—
Then we turn out, both brave and stout,
Everything as stiff as starch.
We march along and sing a song,
Dressed up in green and blue,
It reminds us of the good old days
When these old hats were new.

CHORUS—

HUGHEY ROBINSON.

What We Are Coming To?

The Hartford Times says: Miss Olympia Brown was married last Spring, but has not changed her name. She says that she and her husband agreed before they were married that they should hold on to their own names; in fact, she would not have married without such an agreement. I asked her if Mr. Willis (her husband) did not wish to hange his name to Brown. She said, "Oh, no; he would be simple if he did, Willis being a much prettier name; besides, had his name been Higginbottom he would have preferred to retain it, considering it was his own, and the one he had always been known by." I asked her if no one ever called her Willis. She said, "Oh yes, sometimes they did; but she did not wage any special war on that, any more than if they had called her some pet name that never belonged to her." And so it is John Henry Willis and the Rev. Olympia Brown; and he attends to his grocery business, and she preaches to her congregation of saints and sinners every Sunday, and they keep a snug little house in Bridgeport, on Golden Hill, and the name on the door is "Olympia Brown," that partner in this matrimonial firm being the better known of the two. Had it been the reverse, John Henry's name would have probably greeted the passer-by on Golden Hill.

Oysters.

In strolling round the other night,
To look at 'Frisco by gas light,
Our careless feet, by chance and stray
To where a fountain's ceaseless play
Of sparkling waters, made a screen
Through which a sweet bouquet was seen;
While mossy stone and pearly shell,
O'er which the waters softly fell,
Made that window seem to be
Some fairy grotto of the sea.
Stop," said my friend, "let's go in here
It looks so nice—and try their cheer."
"All right," I said, "I must agree
That this place suits me to a 'T.'"
No sooner had we found a seat
Than at our side a waiter neat
Made his appearance, asked our wish—
Said they had almost any dish
That we might name. We found it true,
And cooked magnificently, too;
All kinds of oysters, juicy, fat,
Cooked every style; just think of that,
And if your mouth don't water, then
You're different from other men.
They'd clams and crabs and terrapins'll
In fact, we found they had within
That cosy place all kinds of game,
Fish, flesh or fowl which we could name,
While every dish was, I am sure,
Prepared to tempt an epicure.
The ladies, too, have found, 'twould seem,
That they have here the best ice cream;
So here they flock, the little sinners,
To get what they call "such nice dinners."
Whoever doubts this let him rush
To three hundred thirty-seven Bush,
And there this truth he'll find made plain:
Who goes there once will go again,
Pacific Oyster House, 337 Bush street, above Montgomery; open Day and Night.
CHARLES HAAKE, Proprietor.

The Lucky Number.

Fortune, the Goddess of Luck, must have designated one hundred and forty-four as her symbol. W. E. Mayhew believes in the number. He drew the second grand prize in the last lottery on that number, and then moved his large and complete stock of Drugs, Perfumes, etc., to 144 Fourth street. Naturally happy and free-hearted, he continues in business for the pleasure it affords him. He is actually giving a splendid Sachet Package of Rimmel's or Lubin's to every customer that comes to his store. 3 B

FOR a good, quiet, nice saloon, commend us to the "Orient," 720 Market street. Messrs. A Bad Case.

A peculiar type of spotted fever rages in a house on De Kalb avenue, Brooklyn. Mr. Augustus Jermyn returned home rather late on Washington's Birthday. Mr. Jermyn is a patriot. He had celebrated the anniversary with a choice band of convivial friends. He was not drunk; but it would be an insult to his patriotic fervor to say that he was not "slightly" elevated. When he rang the bell his wife came to the door. She was not a timid woman; but she was startled by the jaunty cock of his hat, the ridiculous jocosity of his necktie, the hilarious muddiness of his overcoat, and the profundity of his winks and smiles. She led him to his chamber, sat him down in a chair, took off his hat and coat and vest and boots, and then tried to lead him to his downy couch. Jermyn couldn't be led, but commenced tossing his arms about and shouting: "We won't go home till morning. Who cares? Let's be jolly. Our wives 'll scold, will they? Let 'em. Who fears his wife is a slave. I don't. Let's make a night of it, and d—n the women." Just about this time Mr. Jermyn first became aware that he was attacked by spotted fever. He didn't get out for two or three days, and then he told his friends that he had a terrible time of it; While laboring under the fever he felt all the while as though he was being clubbed by the police for being a communist. Mrs. Jermyn smiles when her friends speak of her husband's spotted fever, and her eyes wander wooingly to the broom reclining by the mantelpiece.

Mary's Lamb Amplified.

Mary was the proprietress of a diminutive incipient sheep, whose outer covering was as devoid of color as congealed atmospheric vapor, and to all localities to which Mary perambulated, her young Southdown was morally sure to follow. It tagged her to the dispensary of learning one diurnal section of time which was contrary to all precedent, and excited the cachinations of the seminary attendants when they conceived the presence of a young mutton at the establishment of learning. Consequently the preceptor expelled him from the interior, but he continued in the immediate vicinity, and continued in the neighborhood without fretfulness until Mary once more became visible.

"What caused this specimen of the genus ovis to bestow so much affection on Mary?" the impetuous progeny vociferated.

"Because Mary reciprocated the wool producer's esteem, you understand," the tutor answered back.

The Young Man from the East.

"I'm a stranger in this city,
I'm lately from the East,
And mighty fond of oysters;
Where can I get a feast?
I've been to all the restaurants,
But nowhere could I find,
A plate of Eastern oysters,
Of the old-fashioned kind."

"Well, I can tell you," said his friend,
"Exactly where to go,
And where to get your oysters,
Direct from where they grow.
Just take a stroll down PINE STREET,
At 410, below the Market,
You'll see a sign, 'THE SADDLE ROCK,'
You can't fail to remark it.

"Emerson Corville keeps the place,
The best saloon in town,
There you can get your oysters raw,
Or fried so crisp and brown.
He's the largest oyster dealer
On the Pacific Coast.
And that he keeps the freshest
Has ever been his boast.

"He's got nice little private rooms,
Where you can sit at ease,
And eat your California stew,
Or Eastern if you please.
All the young men of fashion go
Right to the SADDLE ROCK,
To eat their EASTERN OYSTERS
And drink their Rhenish hock."

Highly Important.

Many a man with a good head spoils the appearance of it by wearing a hat which does not suit him. Every imaginable style of hat can be obtained at "THE" Hat Store, 647 Washington street (second Hat Store below Kearny). The prices are remarkably reasonable. 1n

WHERE WE CIRCULATE "FIGARO."

Everybody knows that "FIGARO" has been distributed free for years very generally throughout the city, and has been circulated as programme in every theatre and place of amusement in San Francisco; and we want everybody to know that "FIGARO" is always distributed on the Oakland Ferry-boats that bring the passengers by the great overland train to this city, and is placed in their hands every day—Sundays included. That it is mailed free every day to all the leading hotels on the Pacific Coast. That "FIGARO" is circulated by Taylor & Co., the Oakland bill distributors, every day throughout the central portions of Oakland. That it is also distributed at Sacramento and on the Sacramento steamers on their down trips to this city, and in all towns on the river side, as may be seen by the annexed certificate from A. H. Nahor, distributing agent on the steamers:

This is to certify that I have agreed to, and do, distribute "FIGARO" thoroughly on the Sacramento steamers on their down trips to San Francisco, and have made arrangements to have it generally distributed in the towns of Benicia, Martinez, Collinsville, Sherman Island, Rio Vista, Courtland, Antioch, Pittsburg Landing, New York Landing, and in all of the hotels, saloons, public places, etc., in Sacramento City. ALFRED H. NAHOR.

March 4th, 1874.

Arrangements are being made for further circulation on other lines of travel, so that "FIGARO" shall be "here, there and everywhere," and be placed in the hands of all strangers, families and business men en route to this city.

The Ladies of To-day and 30 Years Ago.

Thirty years ago the advantages one could have were few compared with to-day. Then, if a lady was troubled with any complaints incidental to womanhood, she was obliged to trust to the various methods then in vogue, and seldom with any relief being derived. The basis of nearly all the medicines then were mineral. The superiority and safety of vegetable over mineral medicine has been demonstrated by the medical faculty all over the world. The Marsh Truss Co. (31 years standing) have in connection with their Truss department a Medical Infirmary, where they make ladies cases a specialty. Their medicines are entirely vegetable. Ladies troubled with delicate diseases should call at once on the Marsh Truss Co., 513 Montgomery street, and have their cases attended to. Special consulting room for ladies. 2-x

Sir Walter Raleigh created a consternation when he appeared before his servants smoking a pipe of Tobacco. The sight was a new one to them, and they, as well as the public in general were slow to learn the use of the Weed Had they had Tobacco of the quality and perfect flavor which the Periqua and Golden Thread Smoking Tobacco of to-day have, smoking would much sooner become almost universal. The Gilroy Tobacco Company (office 304 Pine street), are offering the above-named Tobaccos to the public, and we advise those in want of a good article to give them a trial. 3-y

The Art of Dancing and Deportment.

Those who appreciate culture will be glad to learn that Professor C. H. Lester has opened an Academy for the purpose of teaching, not only dancing, but those graces of deportment without which no one can shine in society. Prof. Lester is a thorough master of his art, one of the best on this side of the Rocky Mountains. Classes are held at Grand Central Hall on the corner of Sixth and Market streets on Mondays and Thursdays.

A DESIRABLE BILL.

We understand that Mr. Freeman will shortly introduce a bill regulating the price of newspapers in San Francisco. This is a most welcome measure, and we are sure that it will receive the approval of the public. It is a shameful and disgraceful fact, that the Bulletin, which is not half or a quarter as good a paper as it ought to be, costs thirty-seven and a half cents a week, or ten cents a copy, and that the Alta, which is only useful to auctioneers and people who wish to buy furniture, is sold for thirty cents a week, or ten cents a copy. Mr. Freeman's bill will regulate this matter so that the Bulletin will be sold for ten cents a week, or five cents a copy, and the Alta at the same price. Under the existing state of things, when the public can get a paper like FIGARO for nothing, no one can think this reduction in the price of the heavy morning and evening dailies of this city oppressive. Mr. Freeman is convinced that the proprietors of these papers can, at the prices which he proposes, make a handsome profit on the money invested. It has been urged that the Alta and Bulletin are not making money at present rates but we do not see what this has to do with Freeman's bill. It might just as well be urged in behalf of the Pacific Railroad that the expenses of keeping the road open during the Winter season prevent the company from making any profit, even at the present rates of fares and freights. This has nothing to do with the matter, we repeat. Freeman knows what he is about, and is determined that the people of San Francisco shall have cheap, if not good, newspapers. "We that circulate free, it touches not us; let the galled jade wince, our withers are unstrung."

"The Open Letter."

An original paper is such a novelty in California that it should be welcomed by the public. The Open Letter, published weekly in Vallejo, contains more original matter than any paper of its size in the State, and the matter is good. It is bright, incisive and devil-may-care. It has all the brightness the News Letter used to have in its palmy days, and none of its badness. Even its business notes are original, as may be judged from the following: "I am dying, father," said a sweet little girl of twelve summers on a sick bed, "and after I am gone be sure to have me buried in one of John Callendar's beautiful burial caskets which you can get at No. 267 Virginia St.," and pressing his hand affectionately her eyes closed, and falling into a sound sleep she woke up next morning as festive as a lark. She will live to be a useful and ornamental member of Vallejo society yet, but her words made an impression on the old man's mind which he can never forget."

Rough on the Aisles.

The Examiner of Tuesday, speaking of the immense audience which witnessed the performance of "Romeo and Juliet," on the preceding evening, says:

Every nook and corner was occupied, and the aisles were, as usual, suffocated with chairs long before the curtain was raised upon the first act. This is not as it should be, and Mr. Hill would do well to instruct the ushers not to allow any chairs to be taken from the lobby until those who have secured seats have been able to get at them.

This is dreadful. We too call upon Mr. Hill to prevent the aisles from being suffocated with chairs. The ushers, who really are most successful in keeping the chairs out of the aisles until long after the curtain has risen, and all people should be in their seats, will think the reporter who cries out against the aisles being suffocated, ought to be choked off.

Taking Care of the Women.

The Chronicle points out the fact that the new law concerning the employment of women in drinking saloons and other places, is rather more comprehensive in its provisions than its framers probably intended it should be. It is a great pity that women are so much worse by nature than men. It is not necessary to frame laws forbidding men to frequent liquor saloons, dance cellars, and other low places. They can do this, and come out just as pure as ever if there are no women there. We all know that woman is responsible for the first wickedness ever committed (unless we are unholy enough to doubt the story of Adam and Eve and the apple and the snake,) and it is quite as certain that she has been equally responsible for nearly all the wickedness which has been committed since the world began. If it were not for women, men would be altogether too lovely to live on this earth, and would be taken up to heaven in chariots of fire. The purity of tone which prevails at bachelor parties is a proof of this. The first section of the law in question prescribes a fine not exceeding $500 or imprisonment in the County Jail not exceeding three months, or both, for any person who shall "cause, procure or employ any female to play for hire, drink or gain, upon any musical instrument in any drinking-saloon, ball-room, dance-cellar, public garden, or any public highway, common or street, or on a ship, steamboat or railroad car, or in any place whatsoever where two or more persons are assembled together;" also, the female so offending, is to be made punishable by a fine of $100, or imprisonment for a month, or both. The including of public gardens among the proscribed places is rather rough on Woodward's Gardens. The law is to go into effect on May 10th, and then we shall see what we shall see. That women, who should be protected and cared for by men, should be forced by their necessities to hire themselves to wait on drunken and degraded men, to play for them, to dance with them, is sad enough, but we doubt very much if this precious law will mend the evil. We are pretty sure that it will be found to be inoperative, and that the places which it is designed to close will find means to defy it. It is strange that in the United States the only two classes who require to be specially legislated for, are women and Indians. We wonder when the time will come when women will be sufficiently civilized, and pure, and self-reliant to require no more laws to prevent them from becoming utterly demoralized than male beings do.

A Real Grievance.

A young lady of Lyons, Iowa, recently said: "Some men are always talking about patronizing their own town—always harping on that duty—and yet they go abroad to get married, while we all stand waiting! I do hope that some of these men who marry Eastern women will get cheated."

Dying Out.

Says the Detroit Free Press: "Buffalo Bill was killed again at Fort Scott last Monday, and now we have only seven more left." Brethren, let's weep over the fate of this one, and pray that the rest may soon join him in the happy hunting grounds.

Woman's Work.

Another lady preacher has secured a pulpit in Boston. Her name is Lora Haines, and she has been several years studying for the ministry. She is thirty years old, and has "a pleasing but not beautiful face."

Dean Swift said: "No wise man ever wished to be younger." Then all the fools ain't dead yet.

A Sight Not Often Seen.

A day or two since we visited Col. Andrews' establishment, at 221 Montgomery street, and were surprised at the immense stock of precious gems that the Colonel keeps. There were—

'Great pearls, milk-white, shining like the moon;
Emeralds, grass green;
Sapphires, like skies of June;
And one great diamond outshone them all,
Large as a pigeon's egg, and clear as wine—
When held before the sun a gem divine."

A half day could not be more profitably spent than in a visit to the Colonel's emporium. If one does not wish to purchase, the genial Colonel takes great pleasure in showing his immense stock to visitors, and explaining the intricate workmanship and the artistic designs necessary to produce even one of the ornaments that go to make up his large and valuable stock.

The Science—for it is a science—of taking the impression of any animate or inanimate thing on Glass, Porcelain or Cardboard, by using the sun as an auxiliary, is an important one. Improvements have been made from time to time by those who have made Photography a study To our mind (and a visit will make our readers agree with us) the Artist who presides at the Florence Gallery, 28 Third street, has attained a degree of excellence seldom achieved, if ever equalled. His Life-Size Portraits are excellent and prices low. 2bh

Epicure's Retreat.

The epicurean fond of nice grain-fed, pig-pork chop, tenderloin or roast, resorts to H. F. Bunker's 74 and 75 California Market, and is never disappointed, for "Bob," is a good feeder himself, and always keeps on hand the very best in his line. Bunker's celebrated Club Sausages will tickle the palate of the most fastidious. Even dyspeptics laugh after eating those sausages. 1z

Mary's Lamb Amplified.

Mary was the proprietress of a diminutive incipient sheep, whose outer covering was as devoid of color as congealed atmospheric vapor, and to all localities to which Mary perambulated, her young Southdown was morally sure to follow. It tagged her to the dispensary of learning one diurnal section of time which was contrary to all precedent, and excited the cachinations of the seminary attendants when they conceived the presence of a young mutton at the establishment of learning. Consequently the preceptor expelled him from the interior, but he continued in the immediate vicinity, and continued in the neighborhood without fretfulness until Mary once more became visible.

"What caused this specimen of the genus ovis to bestow so much affection on Mary?" the impetuous progeny vociferated.

"Because Mary reciprocated the wool producer's esteem, you understand," the tutor answered back.

An Irreverent Boy.

A Cincinnati boy, after gazing long and meditatively upon a painting representing the Biblical decline of pork—where the drove of devil-possessed swine were rushing down the hill into the sea—and being told the story, remarked: "I'll bet the old man'd found some way to pack the hogs and sell 'em for prime mess, without wasting a ham."

Tearing Down Old Landmarks.

Some men's lives are failures because they have mistaken their vocation. No matter what a man's calling may be, he should study to make that calling a success. There is more skill in selecting and arranging the adornments of our homes than many have any idea of. One of the most difficult articles to arrange with taste is Carpets. One must have an eye to the surroundings, the height of the room, the number of windows, the style of the other furniture, and then proceed to select the Carpet. For some rooms one must have a large pattern, in others a small figure; bright colors do not always look the best. Mr. Burnham, one of the firm of J. W. Burnham & Co., 618 Market and 17 Post street, has made the selecting of Carpets and Window-Hangings a study, and selected his stock accordingly—Brussels, Ingrains, Tapestry and Velvets, to say nothing of Oil Cloths, of which they make a specialty. Messrs. B. & Co. are obliged, we regret to say, to close out their entire stock at a sacrifice, on account of the tearing down of their present store, in order to rebuild. For the next thirty days Mr. Burnham can be found at his place of business, and will give his advice and long experience to all that may require it. 3-n

AN OPEN LETTE

MARYSVILLE, March 1st, 18

DR. ABORN—DEAR SIR: The last time I wa your city, a year ago February, you treated me Catarrh. I had been troubled with the above about THIRTEEN YEARS, and was skeptical at your being able to relieve me. The last tim called on you prior to my return home, I pr ised to inform you whether you had effecte permanent or temporary cure. I HAVE NOT: SLIGHTEST TRACE OF CATARRH, and as it is ov year since I was under your treatment, I think I safe in saying, that you have effected a perma cure in my case. You are at liberty to use t letter as you see fit.

Yours Respectfully,

MRS. ELIZBETH SEAFORTH

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

Opera House.

This house was positively thronged last night, and a better pleased audience we never witnessed. The entertainment given is a very lively one, and the fun is not allowed to flag a minute. Little Mac's essence is the delight of all who witness it. George S. Knight is recalled five and six times to tell more funny stories, and play tunes on extraordinary instruments. Welch, Reed and Robinson make the audience scream with laughter by their capital acting in "Too Much Alike," Billy Sweetnam's pathetic ballads are most effectively rendered, and the beautiful operetta of "6; or, Fortune's Chance," performed by Miss Susan Galton, Alfred Kelleher and John Howson, winds up the evening's entertainment. Among the attractions to be offered on Friday next, when the ushers and doorkeeper take their annual benefit, we may mention the reappearance of that universal favorite, Miss Jennie Lee, and the clever comedian, J. P. Burnett, and the appearance of Natator, the manfish, the Ducrow Brothers, Harrington and McGlone and Murphy and Mack. The box sheet is now open.

California Theatre.

To-night the delightful play of "As You Like It," with all the attractions of Miss Neilson's acting in the part of Rosalind, beautiful wood scenes by Porter, and charming elogics by Joseph Maguire, and chorus of thirteen voices will be given for the last time. To-morrow night will be the last of "Romeo and Juliet," and on Friday evening Miss Neilson will appear as Lady Teazle in "The School for Scandal."

Palace Amphitheatre.

This spacious place of amusement was thronged yesterday afternoon and again in the evening, and the immense crowd of pleasure-seekers present enjoyed themselves thoroughly. In consequence of the popularity of the great troupe engaged here, and in order to give the members of the Deckrill Troupe an opportunity to recover from the fatigue of the overland journey, the present season will be continued during the week. The programme for this evening appears on our first page. On Friday evening, the talented Woods Cooke will take his benefit.

Bella Union Theatre.

The thrilling performances by the Royal Tycoon Troupe of Japanese, created quite a sensation at this theatre last night. In addition, the drama of the "Two Crimes" is played by Ed Murray, Miss Jennie Johnson, Miss Alice Ross and others, and a brilliant variety entertainment is given. It is no wonder the Bella Union Theatre is crowded nightly.

Buckley's New Variety Theatre.

The reappearance of Ned Buckley, Miss Ida May, George C. Thompson and Johnny Price makes the company at this popular variety theatre a very strong one. All the stars will appear to-night in a very varied programme.

Woodward's Gardens.

These beautiful gardens present thousands of attractions. To-day, in addition to all the other delights of this charming pleasure resort, Professor Allen's balloon will make ascensions to the clouds from morning to night. The silk balloon will go up on Saturday.

City Gardens.

The first picnic of the season will be given by the San Francisco Rifles, who will hold their second annual picnic at the City Gardens on Sunday next. The Rifles will be escorted to the Gardens by the California Jagers, a delegation from the Steuben Guards and the pioneers of the German Rifles. A series of performances will be given in the afternoon.

ANATOMICAL MUSEUM.—One of the most complete collections of the kind in the United States, comprising hundreds of costly and beautiful wax models, is daily on view (to gentlemen only) at the Museum on Montgomery street. An hour may be profitably spent here.

Notes.

Kenebel, the funny French clown who is shortly to appear at John Wilson's Palace Amphitheatre, advertises in all the papers for 1000 butterflies. Here is a chance for Henry Edwards; as he is the only man in the country that can fill the order, he can dictate his own terms. Kenebel must have the butterflies or there can be no Butterfly Act, do you see?

Carlo Brothers, the gymnasts, so long with Chiarini's Circus, arrived from Australia by the "Mikado" yesterday.

We would recommend all who need the services of a thorough Dentist to visit Dr. G. S. Boyle, 135 Kearny, and avail themselves of his services. All work guaranteed.

LEW BATTLER, the well-known Minstrel, now entertains his friends at his Saloon, 334 Bush street. Give him a call. 3-s

What Next?

Every one knows how a photograph looks when viewed through a stereoscope—but a stereoscope cannot always be had. G. D. Morse, at 417 Montgomery street has obviated this difficulty by producing a photograph that is so clear and sharp in its outlines that one would almost think he was looking through the lens of a stereoscope. Mr. Morse's parlors look more like an art gallery than a place of business. 3-p

Spring Style Hats.

Glorious!

For health and pleasure, a hot or cold salt water "splash" at the Sanitarium Baths, foot of Powell St., North Beach—terminus of Kearny and Montgomery street car lines. Five tickets for $1. 1bi

M. FREUND, at 36 Second St., has just received 6,000 pieces of Embroidered Edging and Insertings, which he offers at 7 cents a yard and upwards. 3-s

SAN FRANCISCO,

FROM THE SEA.

Serene, indifferent of Fate,
Thou sittest at the Western Gate;

Upon thy heights so lately won
Still slant the banners of the sun;

Thou seest the white seas strike their tents,
O Warder of two Continents!

And scornful of the peace that flies
The angry winds and sullen skies,

Thou drawest all things, small or great,
To thee, beside the Western Gate.

* * * * * * * * * *

O, lion's whelp, that bidest fast
In jungle growth of spise and mast,

I know thy cunning and thy greed,
Thy hard high lust and willful deed.

And all thy glory love to tell
Of specious gifts material.

Drop down, O fleecy Fog, and hide
Her skeptic sneer, and all her pride!

Wrap her, O Fog, in gown and hood
Of her Franciscan Brotherhood.

Hide me her faults, her sin and blame,
With thy gray mantle cloak her shame!

So shall she, cowled, sit and pray
Till morning bears her sins away.

Then rise, O fleecy Fog, and raise
The glory of her coming days:

But as the cloud that flecks the seas,
Above her smoky argosies.

When forms familiar shall give place
To stranger speech and newer face;

When all her throes and anxious fears
Lie hushed in the repose of years;

When Art shall rise and Culture lift
The sensual joys and meaner thrift,

And all fulfilled the vision, we
Who watch and wait, shall never see—

Who, in the morning of her race,
Toiled fair or meanly in our place—

But, yielding to the common lot,
Lie unrecorded and forgot.

—BRET HARTE.

A Quiet Man.

At a party held in Brooklyn recently, the talk fell on the quarrels of married people. One married gentleman remarked, while a heavenly simper spread over his face: "I've been a married man these fifteen years, and I've never spoken a cross word to my wife." The simper disappeared from his countenance when his wife spoke: "I'd just like to have heard you speak a cross word to me." That family evidently consists of one, and that one is not he.

A Long Way Off.

A clergyman being invited to open a legislature with prayer, offered the following ambiguous petition: "May corruption and sin in every form be as far from every member of the legislature as Thou art."

Oysters.

In strolling round the other night,
To look at 'Frisco by gas light,
Our careless feet, by chance did stray
To where a fountain's ceaseless play
Of sparkling waters, made a screen
Through which a sweet bouquet was seen;
While mossy stone and pearly shell,
O'er which the waters softly fell,
Made that window seem to be
Some fairy grotto of the sea.
"Stop," said my friend, "let's go in here
It looks so nice—and try their cheer."
"All right," I said, "I must agree
That this place suits me to a 'T.'"
No sooner had we found a seat
Than at our side a waiter neat
Made his appearance, asked our wish—
Said they had almost any dish
That we might name. We found it true,
And cooked magnificently, too;
All kinds of oysters, juicy, fat,
Cooked every style; just think of that,
And if your mouth don't water, then
You're different from other men.
They'd clams and crabs and terrapins;
In fact, we found they had within
That cosy place all kinds of game,
Fish, flesh or fowl which we could name,
While every dish was, I am sure,
Prepared to tempt an epicure.
The ladies, too, have found, 'twould seem,
That they have here the best ice cream;
So here they flock, the little sinners,
To get what they call "such nice dinners."
Whoever doubts this let him rush
To three hundred thirty-seven Bush,
And there this truth he'll find made plain:
Who goes there once will go again.

Pacific Oyster House, 337 Bush street, above Montgomery; open Day and Night.

CHARLES HAAKE, Proprietor.

The Lucky Number

Fortunio, the Goddess of Luck, must have designated one hundred and forty-four as her symbol. W. E. M ybew believes in the number. He drew the second grand prize in the last lottery on that number, and then moved his large and complete stock of Drugs, Perfumes, etc., to 144 Fourth street. Naturally happy and free-hearted, he continues in business for the pleasure it affords him. He is actually giving a splendid Sachet Package of Rimmel's or Lubin's to every customer that comes to his store. 3-b

For a good, quiet, nice saloon, commend us to the "Orient," 720 Market street. Messrs. John McCullough in St. Louis.

The St. Louis Republican of the 8th, has the following genial notice of genial John:

Next week Mr. John McCullough enters upon another engagement at the Olympic Theatre. It will be remembered he opened the present dramatic season for Messrs. Spalding & Pope, and at the same time played with them his first star engagement He may therefore be said to have commenced his dramatic career here. At any rate he inaugurated in this city a new career which he had marked out for himself, and it was a most successful beginning. In fact it was an ovation to the young actor, and a hearty commendation of his design of pursuing the legitimate drama to its legitimate results. The support and encouragement he then received cannot fail to be repeated on his reappearance at this house, Monday, March 16th. There is is another notable fact in connection with his prospective engagement. The management are resolved to produce Shakspeare with more attractive surroundings of scenery, costumes and effects than ever were seen here before. They intend to make it a Shakspearian jubilee, and Noxon, the scenic artist of the establishment, has been engaged in his preparations for the coming event for some time past. "Hamlet" will be McCullough's opening piece, and this play is to have three new scenes. Other plays to follow will be produced with the same care and exactness of detail. The costumes are to conform strictly to character, time and place, according to the best authorities on this subject. Knight's Shakspeare has been called into requisition as a guide, the costumers are at work, the carpenters are hammering, the scene painters are designing and coloring, the actors are studying up, the notes of preparation ring all around the field and McCullough is coming.

Too Much Testimony.

In Saginaw, Mich., they were trying a case of poisoning. The principal witness, Benjamin Colvin, rather laid out the defendant's counsel when asked if he didn't have some trouble with the defendant. He answered: "Not more, sir, than I had with you when we were playing draw poker, and you stole four jacks and beat my flush, skinning me out of $64." There was one man in the court room who did not join in the laugh.

The Coming Struggle.

The Boston Traveller makes this observation: For many years the liquor sellers have been making war upon the peace, the comforts and rights of women; the injured party is now taking the field, seeking security against further wrong. We may soon see the great body of the people of the country arrayed on the one side or the other.

The Women Movement.

There was a jumping match between seven young ladies in Waupon, Wisconsin, for a silver medal. The contestants wore loose trowsers and no skirts, and are described as so bewitching that the spectators cheered themselves hoarse. Sarah Jane Smith won.

The Young Man from the East.

"I'm a stranger in this city,
I'm lately from the East,
And mighty fond of oysters;
Where can I get a feast?
I've been to all the restaurants,
But nowhere could I find,
A plate of Eastern oysters,
Of the old-fashioned kind."

"Well, I can tell you," said his friend,
"Exactly where to go,
And where to get your oysters,
Direct from where they grow.
Just take a stroll down PINE STREET,
At 410, below the Market,
You'll see a sign, 'THE SADDLE ROCK,'
You can't fail to remark it.

"Emerson Corville keeps the place,
The best saloon in town,
There you can get your oysters raw,
Or fried so crisp and brown.
He's the largest oyster dealer
On the Pacific Coast,
And that he keeps the freshest
Has ever been his boast.

"He's got nice little private rooms,
Where you can sit at ease,
And eat your California stew,
Or Eastern if you please.
All the young men of fashion go
Right to the SADDLE ROCK,
To eat their EASTERN OYSTERS
And drink their Rhenish hock."

Chinamen Below Par.

The Consolidated Tobacco Company of California not only employ white labor but are putting upon the market the finest flavored and best made Cigars ever offered on this coast. Mr. Briggs, the genial Manager of the Company, at the office, 304 Pine street, will be pleased to have the public generally call and sample the Cigars, and learn the low prices which they furnish really good cigar for. 3-j

WHERE WE CIRCULATE "FIGARO."

Everybody knows that "FIGARO" has been distributed free for years very generally throughout the city, and has been circulated as programme in every theatre and place of amusement in San Francisco; and we want everybody to know that "FIGARO" is always distributed on the Oakland Ferry-boats that bring the passengers by the great overland train to this city, and is placed in their hands every day—Sundays included. That it is mailed free every day to all the leading hotels on the Pacific Coast. That "FIGARO" is circulated by Taylor & Co., the Oakland bill distributors, every day throughout the central portions of Oakland. That it is also distributed at Sacramento and on the Sacramento steamers on their down trips to this city, and in all towns on the river side, as may be seen by the annexed certificate from A. H. Nahor, distributing agent on the steamers:

This is to certify that I have agreed to, and do, distribute "FIGARO" thoroughly on the Sacramento steamers on their down trips to San Francisco, and have made arrangements to have it generally distributed in the towns of Benicia, Martinez, Collinsville, Sherman Island, Rio Vista, Courtland, Antioch, Pittsburg Landing, New York Landing, and in all of the hotels, saloons, public places, etc., in Sacramento City. ALFRED H. NAHOR.

March 4th, 1874.

Arrangements are being made for further circulation on other lines of travel, so that "FIGARO" shall be "here, there and everywhere," and be placed in the hands of all strangers, families and business men en route to this city.

The Ladies of To-day and 30 Years Ago.

Thirty years ago the advantages one could have were few compared with to-day. Then, if a lady was troubled with any complaints incidental to womanhood, she was obliged to trust to the various methods then in vogue, and seldom with any relief being derived. The bases of nearly all the medicines then were mineral. The superiority and safety of vegetable over mineral medicine has been demonstrated by the medical faculty all over the world. The Marsh Truss Co. (31 years standing) have in connection with their Truss department a Medical Infirmary, where they make ladies cases a specialty. Their medicines are all purely vegetable. Ladies troubled with delicate diseases should call at once on the Marsh Truss Co., 313 Montgomery street, and have their cases attended to. Special consulting room for ladies. 2-x

Sir Walter Raleigh created a consternation when he appeared before his servants smoking a pipe of Tobacco. The sight was a new one to them, and they, as well as the public in general we're slow to learn the use of the Weed Had they had Tobacco of the quality and perfect flavor which the Perique and Golden Thread Smoking Tobacco of to-day have, smoking would much sooner become almost universal. The Gilroy Tobacco Company (office 304 Pine street), are offering the above-named Tobaccos to the public, and we advise those in want of a good article to give them a trial. 3-x

The Art of Dancing and Deportment.

Those who appreciate culture will be glad to learn that Professor C. H. Lester has opened an Academy for the purpose of teaching, not only dancing, but those graces of deportment without which no one can shine in society. Prof. Lester is a thorough master of his art, one of the best on this side of the Rocky Mountains. Classes are held at Grand Central Hall on the corner of Sixth and Market streets on Mondays and Thursdays.

Important to Smokers.

Few men in San Francisco are aware that the enterprising firm of Kahn & Hass are employing white females labor in the manufacture of their Cigars. Miss Host of the Morton House (on Post street, near Kearny), finding that first-class accommodations, at reasonable rates, has had a tendency to fill his Hotel to overflowing, has determined to enlarge his present accommodations so that families visiting the city will be enabled to find a home in its literal sense. 2w

Press Photographs.

From the Press Photographs of the Open Letter, published in Vallejo, we take the following, republishing it with the object of helping along a most worthy young man, who ought to have been presented with a gold watch and chain by the Bulletin proprietors, as an acknowledgment of his services as Modoc war correspondent, but who, alas! still wears a hair chain made out of the criniferous ornament of a scalp removed from the head of a Modoc chieftain by one of our brave and magnanimous boys in blue:

WILLIE BUNKER.

A fellow of infinite jest, and most excellent fancy, devoted chiefly to the production of nursery literature. Young Bunker is believed to be a lineal descendant of old Bunker, the war chief of the Penobscot Indians, on whose ranch the historic battle of the revolution was perpetrated. Young Bunker still retains the natural impetuosity of the aboriginal blood, and his writings are characterized by the wild improbability and uncouth simplicity of the untutored mind. He is a quick observer and ready constructor of abstruse fancies; a stroll through a Chinese alley or under the wharves, sufficing for the inspiration of an interminable conglomeration of unmitigated damned nonsense. During the Modoc war he assisted in conveying dispatches for the Chronicle, developing talents which led to his engagement upon the Bulletin, at $11 a week. Mr. Bunker contributes largely to the magazine literature of the day, and is the author of the blood-curdling romance in the Golden Era entitled "The White Hand, or the Jeweled Snake." He receives $9 for that single production, at the rate of a bit and a half a column. Young writers will thus perceive the remuneration gained by genius when coupled with reputation.

We Say So Too.

The Carson Tribune comes out as follows:

We hereby state, for the benefit of whoever it may concern, and state it as our ultimatum, that the next man, be he newspaper editor, employe, or any other man, who insinuates that we were ever anything but a free man, or, as it has been hinted, that we were expatriated from our native country to this—or any other—a recurrence of such a hint or even innuendo that may be by any ratiocination construed into a charge of the kind, we shall visit on the author such corporeal punishment as we best may.

The San Jose Mercury hastens to set itself right thusly:

Who says he was expatriated from his native country? Don't we know that there was one prolonged and universal howl of sorrowful regret sent up to heaven, by the men, women, children and dogs of his native town, when he left? Banished from his native land! Not much! He left in the broad blaze of noonday, with banners flying and firebells ringing out a parting adieu. We don't know who he is, nor what it is all about; but then we don't care to take any chances with such a bellicose editor.

We haven't any idea who it is edits the Carson Tribune, but we cordially endorse the utterance of the San Jose Mercury. We hope there won't be any trouble.

A Poetical Wail.

The Courier-Journal sings to the praying ladies: "O, woman! in our hours of ease, you know we'll do whate'er you please; we'll promise to renounce the sin of Bourbon, brandy, rum and gin, and go so far as to refrain (except when tempted) from champagne; but have some mercy, do, my dear, and leave, oh, leave us lager beer."

A Brooklyn preacher is giving word pictures of hell. He describes it so vividly one could imagine "he'd been there."

Imperial Milk Punch.

The best of beverages. Try it. Made and sold only by Asa L. Wangeman, at his symposiac of fine Wines, Liquors and Segars, corner of Leidesdorff and Halleck streets. Superb Hot Lunch from 11 to 2. N. B.—Stock reports telegraphed directly from the Board especially for this saloon. 2x

London Theatricals.

The London correspondent of the Boston Courier writes that the theatres have lately been forced to bow to the superior excitement and attractions of the elections, and nothing of importance has therefore been brought out until Saturday, when a new play called "Philip," and written by Mr. Hamilton Aide, the well-known novelist and song-writer, was produced at the Lyceum. Mr. Aide could scarcely have made his debut as a dramatic author under more favorable conditions, such being the popularity that Mr. Henry Irving has achieved as an actor that in any piece in which he may sustain the principal character is sure to attract unusual attention and the presence of a distinguished audience. The drama opens in Spain. Two brothers, the Counts Philip and Jean de Mirafiore, Spanish nobles, with more pride than money, are rivals for the love of a poor dependent girl. A quarrel ensues, which causes Philip to fly to America, imagining himself a fratricide. Eight years subsequently to these events he returns to Paris a rich man, and encountering his former love there marries her, leaving her in ignorance of his crime. Complications arise from the subsequent disclosure of this and from the jealousy of the Count aroused by suspicions of the infidelity of his wife, whose persecutor eventually proves to be Count Jean, who, having escaped death at his brother's hand, has devoted himself to avenge. There are some powerful situations in the play, which is, however, marred by some errors in construction, and especially a scene in the last act, where, as in a story of Balzac, the husband proceeds to wall up with solid masonry the door of an apartment in which his wife's lover is supposed to be concealed. This, while intended to be tragical, certainly verges on the ludicrous. The dialogue is very effective, although many sentences have a familiar sound as well-worn forms of expression on the stage. Mr. Irving is never more expressive than when depicting the pangs of remorse, and in his present role has ample opportunity for thus displaying his power. As a lover he is not so successful, and the girl must be of a peculiar temperament who could be fascinated by his gloomy, abstracted air, and deep, melancholy voice. Taken altogether, however, "Philip" may be pronounced a decided and legitimate success. As I have said, there is little that is new to notice at the other theatres. "Amy Robsart" has been revived successfully at Drury Lane, but Miss I. Wallis's illness has necessitated a temporary alteration in the cast. Mr. Paul Merritt's drama of "Rough and Ready" has been well received at the Adelphi, with Mr. and Mrs. Billington and Miss Meyrick in the principal parts.

Sitting Them Hard.

Miss Phoebe Cozzens, of St. Louis, lectured, the other night, dressed, according to an exchange, "in a heavy silk" with polonaise overskirt, all richly trimmed with black lace roses at the belt, breast and hair." The Inter-Ocean says it doesn't care a Philadelphia centennial what she wore, but is out to the hall of art because she said that the acquirements of the male lawyers were limited to poker-playing and tossing pennies for free drinks.

A Woman's Right.

It is intended to run women for School Commissioners in Philadelphia at the coming election. Judge Pierce was to have advocated the cause of the ladies, but he disowns the soft impeachment. The Boston failure has not scared the ladies a bit. They claim a right to look after the education of their own children.

A Sight Not Often Seen.

A day or two since we visited Col. Andrews' establishment, at 221 Montgomery street, and were surprised at the immense stock of precious gems that the Colonel keeps. There were—

'Great pearls, milk-white, shining like the moon;
Emeralds, grass green:
Sapphires, like skies of June;
And one great diamond outshone them all,
Large as a pigeon's egg, and clear as wine—
When held before the sun a gem divine."

A half day could not be more profitably spent than in a visit to the Colonel's emporium. If one does not wish to purchase, the genial Colonel takes great pleasure in showing his immense stock to visitors, and explaining the intricate workmanship and the artistic designs necessary to produce even one of the ornaments that go to make up his large and valuable stock.

The Science—for it is a science—of taking the impression of any animate or inanimate thing on Glass, Porcelain or Cardboard, by using the sun as an auxiliary, is an important one. Improvements have been made from time to time by those who have made Photography a study To our mind (and a visit will make our readers agree with us) the artist who presides at the Florence Gallery, 23 Third street, has attained a degree of excellence seldom achieved, if ever equalled. His Life-Size Portraits are excellent and prices low. 2bh

Epicure's Retreat.

The epicurean fond of nice grain-fed, pig-pork chop, tenderloin or roast, resorts to R. F. Bunker's 74 and 76 California Market, and is never disappointed, for "Bob," is a good feeder himself, and always keeps on hand the very best in his line. Bunker's celebrated Club Sausages will tickle the palate of the most fastidious. Even dyspeptics laugh after eating those sausages. 1x

The Queen of the Lobby.

A Sacramento correspondent says of the Queen of the Lobby, who is a native of San Francisco, to whose indefatigable efforts the passage of the Women's Educational bill is due:

There isn't anything remarkable about the personal appearance of this extraordinary lobbyist, that would lead the casual observer to suppose she was irresistible. She is petite in stature—her face is of the innocent, expressionless school-girl variety and her hair red. Not flaxen—not blonde—not auburn—but a square, no-mistake red—red as a New York fireman's shirt. This is Sallie Hart, who has quietly and gently mesmerized both branches of the Legislature.

A Soft Thing on Ice.

They had a marriage on the ice at Patterson, N. J., a couple of weeks ago. The affair hasn't been chronicled in the papers among the fashionable intelligence. It would have been but for one circumstance. Just as the minister was bestowing the benediction on the happy pair the ice under him gave way and he disappeared. And then the bride and groom and the company turned to flee, but the ice gave way under them, and they all had to struggle with the cold water and ice, and wade to shore. It was a romantic marriage, you see. But the groom has the rheumatism, and the bride the chills and fever. And he says "d—n romance," and she takes quinine and gruel and weeps.

Sunday Toys.

A lawyer in Brooklyn has a little daughter aged four years, that will be one of the petticoated diplomats of the future. Recently her mother, returning from church, found her marshalling a long array of her brother's toy soldiers on the nursery floor. "Are you playing with soldiers on Sunday, Louise?" said mamma. "O, dese are de army of the Lord," was the quick response of their curly-headed commander.

A Mourner.

It is only a few months since deep affliction entered the family of a young married lady of Troy, N. Y., whose habiliments of deep mourning have ever since bespoke unutterable sorrow. So sad, indeed, was this lady, that she recently gave a masquerade, and issued her invitations on mourning paper.

AN OPEN LETTER.

MARYSVILLE, March 1st, 1874.

DR. ABORN—DEAR SIR: The last time I was in your city, a year ago February, you treated me for Catarrh. I had been troubled with the above for about THIRTEEN YEARS, and was skeptical about your being able to relieve me. The last time I called on you prior to my return home, I promised to inform you whether you had effected a permanent or temporary cure. I HAVE NOT THE SLIGHTEST TRACE OF CATARRH, and as it is over a year since I was under your treatment, I think I am safe in saying, that you have effected a permanent cure in my case. You are at liberty to use this letter as you see fit.

Yours Respectfully,

MRS. ELIZBETH SHAFORR.

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

California Theatre.

Seats are engaged at this theatre far into next week. Miss Neilson's engagement is one of the most successful ever played here. To night, the gaudy and accomplished actress will appear in "Romeo and Juliet," which will be played for the first time, and to-morrow night as Lady Teazle, in "The School for Scandal." Next week, "The Hunchback," "The Lady of Lyons," and probably "Kenilworth" will be presented.

Opera House.

Billy Sweetnam, Con. T. Murphy, Billy Welch, C. Montague, W. F. Baker and J. G. Russell appear in the first part, Little Mac presents his wonderful essence, George S. Knight his specialties, Welch, Reed and Robinson a screaming act, Billy Sweetnam a pathetic ballad, and Miss Susan Galton, Alfred Kellcher and John Howson the very pleasing and amusing operetta entitled "Sixty-Six; or, Fortune's Chance." To-morrow night, when the ushers and doorkeepers will take their benefit, great extra attractions will be offered, including the reappearance of the vivacious Miss Jennie Lee.

Palace Amphitheatre.

Johnny Cooke in his hurdle act, Fred O'Brien in wonderful leaps, George Holland in a somersault, Woods Cooke in a great hurdle act, Miss Adelaide in her graceful performance on the slack wire and thrilling feats on the horizontal bar by Leon and Latscalle are among the attractions at this house to-night. To-morrow night, a great programme will be presented for the benefit of the favorite performer, Woods Cooke.

Bella Union Theatre.

The Royal Tycoon Troupe of Japs, the two-act drama of "Two Climes," Miss Alice Ross, Ed Marray, Johnny Fuers, Moore and Bray, and many others in specialties, and the laughable afterpiece entitled "Broker's Help," make up a capital evening's entertainment at this popular variety theatre.

Buckley's New Variety Theatre.

George C. Thompson in his great specialty of "Old Black Joe," Ned Buckley, Miss Ida May, Frank Mortimore, and others in lively performances, Miss Katie Zoe in songs, and others in various specialties, will entertain all who visit this house to-night.

Woodward's Gardens.

These beautiful gardens present thousands of attractions. To-day, in addition to all the other delights of this charming pleasure resort, Professor Allen's balloon will make ascensions to the clouds from morning to night. The silk balloon will go up on Saturday.

City Gardens.

The first picnic of the season will be given by the San Francisco Rifles, who will hold their second annual picnic at the City Gardens on Sunday next. The Rifles will be escorted to the Gardens by the California Jagers, a delegation from the Steuben Guards and the pioneers of the German Rifles. A series of performances will be given in the afternoon.

ANATOMICAL MUSEUM.—One of the most complete collections of the kind in the United States, comprising hundreds of costly and beautiful wax models, is daily on view (to gentlemen only) at the Museum on Montgomery street. An hour may be profitably spent here.

Tearing Down Old Landmarks.

Some men's lives are failures because they have mistaken their vocation. No matter what a man's calling may be, he should study to make that calling a success. There is more skill in selecting and arranging the adornments of our homes than many have any idea of. One of the most difficult articles to arrange with taste is Carpets. One must have an eye to the surroundings, the height of the room, the number of windows, the style of the other furniture, and then proceed to select the Carpet. For some rooms one must have a large pattern, in others a small figure; bright colors do not always look the best. Mr. Burnham, one of the firm of J. W. Burnham & Co., 618 Market and 17 Post street, has made the selecting of Carpets and Window-Hangings a study, and selected his stock accordingly—Brussels, Ingrains, Tapestry and Velvets, to say nothing of Oil Cloths, of which they make a specialty. Messrs. B. & Co. are obliged, we regret to say, to close out their entire stock at a sacrifice, on account of the tearing down of their present store, in order to rebuild. For the next thirty days Mr. Burnham can be found at his place of business, and will give his advice and long experience to all that may require it. 3-D

What Next?

Every one knows how a photograph looks when viewed through a stereoscope—but a stereoscope cannot always be had. G. D. Morse, at 417 Montgomery street has obviated this difficulty by producing a photograph that is so clear and sharp in its outlines that one would almost think he was looking through the lens of a stereoscope. Mr. Morse's parlors look more like an art gallery than a place of business. 2-r

Spring Style Hats.

RECOLLECTION.

Remember me when long, long years have fled,
When all this past appears a shadowy dream;
Let me not float, a leaf upon the stream
Of memory, unwept, forgotten, dead!

Remember me, if far in other lands
When you can look no longer on my face;
Do not forget the now oft-sought embrace,
In clasping other, perchance stranger hands!

Remember me, if you should win their love,
When you will greet them with a happy bliss;
Remember that my lips were once your bliss;
They will not be more truthful, time will prove.

Remember me if sickness rack your frame,
If none can cool your feverish, aching brow;
Think I would soothe you, were I near as now;
And lull you with soft whispers of your name.

Remember me when, smiling, you bestow
A sunny glance on other eyes that shine;
Remember, once those smiles were only mine,
And ponder, was it well to bid me go?

Remember me, if grief should come to shroud
Your life in all the misery of woe;
If so-called friends should pass you by, and lo!
You find yourself alone in that vast crowd—

Remember me, and then with throbbing heart
Come back and call me to my place of rest;
My old, old home of quiet—on your breast—
And having come, we two will never part.

The Household Monarch.

A writer in the Hearth and Home speaks of the household well-spring of pleasure after the following fashion: Nobody in all the wide world is quite so kingly in look and manner as a healthy, happy babe, between the ages of six months and three years. With what royal composure the wee thing receives caresses and blandishments. How condescending is the air with which, from his lofty perch in somebody's willing arms, he looks down upon the world. How amiably he lets himself be loved, and how perfectly recompensed for all your love you feel, when in its own sweet, innocent way, the little child shows that he loves you.

Color and Sound.

One of the latest eccentricities of fashion is a color named "elephant's breath." And yet there are some people who think that fashion is of no use in the world. What but fashion could have ever discovered the color of "elephant's breath." One of these days we expect to see our ladies arrayed in a beautiful tint of "ass's brays," or clothed in the "voice of the universe," or decorated with the "lion's roar," or gaudy with the "rat's squeal."

Decidedly Irritating.

A Texan said he wouldn't have cared a cuss if his wife had eloped with a man, but to know that she went off with an infernal Mexican just raised his dander every time he thought of it.

Oysters.

In strolling round the other night,
To look at 'Frisco by gas light,
Our careless feet, by chance did stray
To where a fountain's ceaseless play
Of sparkling waters, made a screen
Through which a sweet bouquet was seen;
While mossy stone and pearly shell,
O'er which the waters softly fell,
Made that window seem to be
Some fairy grotto of the sea.
Stop," said my friend. "let's go in here:
It looks so nice—and try their cheer."
"All right," I said, "I must agree
That this place suits me to a 'T.'"
So sooner had we found a seat
Than at our side a waiter neat
Made his appearance, asked our wish—
Said they had almost any dish
That we might name. We found it true,
And cooked magnificently, too;
All kinds of oysters, juicy, fat,
Cooked every style; just think of that,
And if your mouth don't water, then
You're different from other men.
They'd clams and crabs and terrapins;
In fact, we found they had within
That cosy place all kinds of game,
Fish, flesh or fowl which we could name,
While every dish was, I am sure,
Prepared to tempt an epicure.
The ladies, too, have found, 'twould seem,
That they have here the best ice cream;
So here they flock, the little sinners,
To get what they call "such nice dinners."
Whoever doubts this let him rush
To three hundred thirty-seven Bush,
And there this truth he'll find made plain:
Whoever's there once will go again.
Pacific Oyster House, 337 Bush street, above Montgomery; open Day and Night.

The Lucky Number

Fortuna, the Goddess of Luck, must have designated one hundred and forty-four as her symbol. W. E. Mayhew believes in the number. He drew the second grand prize in the last lottery on that number, and then moved his large and complete stock of Drugs, Perfumes, etc., to 144 Fourth street. Naturally happy and free-hearted, he continues in business for the pleasure it affords him. He is actually giving a splendid Sachet Package of Rammel's or Lubin's to every customer that comes to his store. 3 B

George Elliot's Sayings.

Faithfulness and constancy mean something else besides doing what is easiest and pleasantest to ourselves. They mean renouncing whatever is opposed to the reliance others have in us—whatever would cause misery to those whom the course of our lives has made dependent on us.

I couldn't live in peace if I put the shadow of a willful sin between myself and God.

I desire no future that will break the ties of the past.

If the past is not to bind us, where can duty lie? We should have no law but the inclination of the moment.

You must remember it isn't only laying hold of a rope—you must go on pulling. It's the mistake you lads make, that have got nothing either in your brains or your pocket, to think you've got a better start in the world if you stick yourselves in a place where you can easily keep your coats clean, and have the shop wenches take you for fine gentlemen. That wasn't the way I started, young man. When I was sixteen my jacket smelled of tar, and I wasn't afraid of handling cheeses. That's the reason I can wear good broadcloth now, and have my legs under the same table with the heads of the best firms in St. Ogg's.

If I got places, Sir, it was because I made myself fit for 'em. If you want to slip into a round hole, you must make a ball of yourself—that's where it is.

You'll have to begin at a low round of the ladder, let me tell you, if you mean to get on in life.

You youngsters nowadays think you're to begin with living well and working easy; you've no notion of running afoot before you get on horseback.

Foreign Notes.

"Aida" is to be produced at the Italian Opera House, Paris, early in April, with Krauss as prima donna.

The romantic drama of "Elizabeth" was revived at Drury Lane Theatre, London on the 2d, in honor of the home bringing of the Duchess of Edinburgh.

Mr. Richard Younge's famous English "Caste" company has been disbanded.

Mr. H. J. Byron, the dramatic author, and manager of the New Criterion Theatre, London, purposes adopting the American system. The performances will commence at eight, and terminate at an early hour, and matinees will be given. The house will be opened on Easter Monday, with Mr. Byron's latest production, entitled an "American Lady," in which himself and Mrs. John Wood will appear.

The colored jubilee singers, who went to England some months ago, are said to have already remitted £7,000 to this country, and hope to send £3,000 more in April.

A Double-Leaded Editorial.

A Mississippi paper needs the services of a new editor. The last one went out with a revolver to uphold an editorial, and he returned in a wheelbarrow with a blanket over him.

The Young Man from the East.

"I'm a stranger in this city,
I'm lately from the East,
And mighty fond of oysters;
Where can I get a feast?
I've been to all the restaurants,
But nowhere could I find,
A plate of Eastern oysters,
Of the old-fashioned kind."

"Well, I can tell you," said his friend,
"Exactly where to go,
And where to get your oysters,
Direct from where they grow.
Just take a stroll down PINE STREET,
At 410, below the Market,
You'll see a sign, 'THE SADDLE ROCK,'
You can't fail to remark it.

"Emerson Corville keeps the place,
The best saloon in town,
There you can get your oysters raw,
Or fried so crisp and brown.
He's the largest oyster dealer
On the Pacific Coast,
And that he keeps the freshest
Has ever been his boast.

"He's got nice little private rooms,
Where you can sit at ease,
And eat your California stew,
Or Eastern if you please.
All the young men of fashion go
Right to the SADDLE ROCK,
To eat their EASTERN OYSTERS
And drink their Rhenish hock."

Chinamen Below Par.

The Consolidated Tobacco Company of California not only employ white labor but are putting upon the market the finest flavored and best made Cigars ever offered on this coast. Mr. Briggs, the genial Manager of the Company, at the office, 304 Pine street, will be pleased to have the public generally call and sample the Cigars, an learn the low prices which they furnish really good cigar for. 3-y

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

California Theatre.

Seats are engaged at this theatre far into next week. Miss Neilson's engagement is one of the most successful ever played here. To night, the lovely and accomplished actress will appear in "Romeo and Juliet," which will be played for the last time, and to-morrow night as Lady Teazle, in "The School for Scandal." Next week, "The Hunchback," "The Lady of Lyons," and probably "Kenilworth" will be presented.

Opera House.

Billy Sweetnam, Con. T. Murphy, Billy Welch, B. Montague, W. F. Baker and J. G. Russell appear in the first part. Little Mac presents his wonderful essence, George S. Knight his specialties, Welch, Reed and Robinson a screaming act, Billy Sweetnam a pathetic ballad, and Miss Susan Galton, Alfred Kelleher and John Hewson the very pleasing and amusing operetta entitled "Sixty-Six; or, Fortune's Chance." To-morrow night, when the ushers and doorkeepers will take their benefit, a great extra attractions will be offered, including the reappearance of the vivacious Miss Jennie Lee.

Palace Amphitheatre.

Johnny Cooke in his hurdle act, Fred O'Brien in wonderful leaps, George Holland in a somersault act, Wooda Cooke in a great hurdle act, Miss Adelaide in her graceful performance on the slack wire, and thrilling feats on the horizontal bar by Leon and Leicella are among the attractions at this house to-night. To-morrow night, a great programme will be presented for the benefit of the favorite performer, Wooda Cooke.

Bella Union Theatre.

The Royal Tycoon Troupe of Japs, the two-act drama of "Two Crimes," Miss Alice Rose, Ed Marrar, Johnny Tears, Moore and Bray, and many others in specialties, and the laughable afterpiece entitled "Broker's Help," make up a capital evening's entertainment at this popular variety theatre.

Buckley's New Variety Theatre.

George C. Thompson in his great specialty of "Old Black Joe," Ned Buckley, Miss Ida May, Frank Mortimore, and others in lively performances, Miss Katie Zoe in songs, and others in various specialties, will entertain all who visit this house to-night.

Woodward's Gardens.

These beautiful gardens present thousands of attractions. To-day, in addition to all the other delights of this charming pleasure resort, Professor Allen's balloon will make ascensions to the clouds from morning to night. The silk balloon will go up on Saturday.

City Gardens.

The first picnic of the season will be given by the San Francisco Rifles, who will hold their second annual picnic at the City Gardens on Sunday next. The Rifles will be escorted to the Gardens by the California Jagers, a delegation from the Steuben Guards and the pioneers of the German Rifles. A series of performances will be given in the afternoon.

ANATOMICAL MUSEUM.—One of the most complete collections of the kind in the United States, comprising hundreds of costly and beautiful wax models, is daily on view (to gentlemen only) at the Museum on Montgomery street. An hour may be profitably spent here.

Tearing Down Old Landmarks.

Some men's lives are failures because they have mistaken their vocation. No matter what a man's calling may be, he should study to make that calling a success. There is more skill in selecting and arranging the adornments of our homes than many have any idea of. One of the most difficult articles to arrange with taste is Carpets. One must have an eye to the surroundings, the height of the room, the number of windows, the style of the other furniture, and then proceed to select the Carpet. For some rooms one must have a large pattern, in others a small figure; bright colors do not always look the best. Mr. Burnham, one of the firm of J. W. Burnham & Co., 618 Market and 17 Post street, has made the selecting of Carpets and Window-Hangings a study, and selected his stock accordingly—Brussels, Ingrains, Tapestry and Velvets, to say nothing of Oil Cloths, of which they make a specialty. Messrs. B. & Co. are obliged, we regret to say, to close out their entire stock at a sacrifice, on account of the tearing down of their present store, in order to rebuild. For the next thirty days Mr. Burnham can be found at his place of business, and will give his advice and long experience to all that may require it. 3-D

What Next?

Every one knows how a photograph looks when viewed through a stereoscope—but a stereoscope cannot always be had. G. D. Morse, at 417 Montgomery street has obviated this difficulty by producing a photograph that is so clear and sharp in its outlines that one would almost think he was looking through the lens of a stereoscope. Mr. Morse's parlors look more like an art gallery than a place of business. 2-r

Spring Style Hats.

We would recommend all who need the services of a thorough Dentist to visit Dr. G. S. Boyle, 135 Kearny, and avail themselves of his services. All work guaranteed.

J. FREUND, at 38 Second St., has just received 15,000 pieces of Embroidered Edging and Insertings, which he offers at 7 cents a yard and upwards. 3-z

RECOLLECTION.

Remember me when long, long years have fled,
When all this past appears a shadowy dream,
Let me not float, a leaf upon the stream
Of memory, unwept, forgotten, dead!

Remember me, if far in other lands
When you can look no longer on my face;
Do not forget the now oft-sought embrace,
Nor classing other, perchance stranger hands!

Remember me, if you should win their love,
When you will greet them with a happy bliss;
Remember that my lips were once your bliss;
They will not be more truthful, time will prove.

Remember me if sickness rack your frame,
If none can cool your feverish, aching brow;
Think I would soothe you, were I near as now;
Then lull you with soft whispers of your name.

Remember me when, smiling, you bestow
A sunny glance on other eyes that shine;
Remember, once those smiles were only mine,
And ponder, was it well to bid me go?

Remember me, if grief should come to shroud
Your life in all the misery of woe;
If so-called friends should pass you by, and lo!
You find yourself alone in that vast crowd—

Remember me, and then with throbbing heart
Come back and call me to my place of rest;
My old, old home of quiet—on your breast—
Nothing having come, we two will never part.

Household Monarch.

The Household Monarch.

A writer in the Hearth and Home speaks of the household well-spring of pleasure after the following fashion: Nobody in all the wide world is quite so kingly in look and manner as a healthy, happy babe, between the ages of six months and three years. With what royal composure the wee thing receives caresses and blandishments. How condescending is the air with which, from his lofty perch in somebody's willing arms, he looks down upon the world. How amiably he lets himself be loved, and how perfectly recompensed for all your love you feel, when in its own sweet, innocent way, the little child shows that he loves you.

Color and Sound.

One of the latest eccentricities of fashion is a color named "elephant's breath." And yet there are some people who think that fashion is of no use in the world. What but fashion could have ever discovered the color of "elephant's breath." One of these days we expect to see our ladies arrayed in a beautiful tint of "ass's brays," or clothed in the "voice of the universe," or decorated with the "lion's roar," or gaudy with the "rat's squeal."

Decidedly Irritating.

A Texan said he wouldn't have cared a cuss if his wife had eloped with a man, but to know that she went off with an infernal Mexican just raised his dander every time he thought of it.

Oysters.

In strolling round the other night,
To look at 'Frisco by gas light,
Our careless feet, by chance and stray
To where a fountain's ceaseless play
Of sparkling waters, made a screen
Through which a sweet bouquet was seen;
While mossy stone and pearly shell,
O'er which the waters softly fell.
Made that window seem to be
Some fairy grotto of the sea.
"Stop," said my friend, "let's go in here
It looks so nice—and try their cheer."
"All right," I said, "I must agree
That this place suits me to a 'T.'"
No sooner had we found a seat
Than at our side a waiter neat
Made his appearance, asked our wish—
Said they had almost any dish
That we might name. We found it true,
And cooked magnificently, too;
All kinds of oysters, juicy, fat,
Cooked every style; just think of that,
And if your mouth don't water, then
You're different from other men.
They'd clams and crabs and terrapins!
In fact, we found they had within
That cosy place all kinds of game,
Fish, flesh or fowl which we could name,
While every dish was, I am sure,
Prepared to tempt an epicure.
The ladies, too, have found, 'twould seem,
That they have here the best ice cream;
So here they flock, the little sinners,
To get what they call "such nice dinners."
Whoever doubts this let him rush
To three hundred thirty-seven Bush,
And there this truth he'll find made plain:
Who goes there once will go again,
Pacific Oyster House, 337 Bush street, above Montgomery; open Day and Night.
CHARLES HAAKE, Proprietor.

The Lucky Number

Fortunia, the Goddess of Luck, must have designated one hundred and forty-four as her symbol. W. E. M'phew believes in the number. He drew the second grand prize in the last lottery on that number, and then moved his large and complete stock of Drugs, Perfumes, etc., to 144 Fourth street. Naturally happy and free-hearted, he continues in business for the pleasure it affords him. He is actually giving a splendid Sachet Package of Rimmel's or Lubin's to every customer that comes to his store. 3 B

George Elliot's Sayings.

Faithfulness and constancy mean something else besides doing what is easiest and most pleasant to ourselves. They mean renouncing whatever is opposed to the reliance others have in us—whatever would cause misery to those whom the course of our lives has made dependent on us.

I couldn't live in peace if I put the shadow of a willful sin between myself and God.

I desire no future that will break the ties of the past.

If the past is not to bind us, where can duty lie? We should have no law but the inclination of the moment.

You must remember it isn't only laying hold of a rope—you must go on pulling, that's the mistake you lads make, that have no pot nothing either in your brains or your pocket, to think you've got a better start in the world if you stick yourselves in a place where you can easily keep your coats clean, and have the shop wenches take you for fine gentlemen. That wasn't the way I started, young man. When I was sixteen my jacket smelled of tar, and I wasn't afraid of handling cheeses. That's the reason I can wear good broadcloth now, and have my legs under the same table with the heads of the best firms in St. Ogg's.

If I got places, Sir, it was because I made myself fit for 'em. If you want to slip into a round hole, you must make a ball of yourself—that's where it is.

You'll have to begin at a low round of the ladder, let me tell you, if you mean to get on in life.

You youngsters nowadays think you're to begin with living well and working easy; you've no notion of running afoot before you get on horseback.

Foreign Notes.

"Aida" is to be produced at the Italian Opera House, Paris, early in April, with Krauss as prima donna.

The romantic drama of "Elizabeth" was revived at Drury Lane Theatre, London on the 2d, in honor of the home bringing of the Duchess of Edinburgh.

Mr. Richard Younge's famous English "Caste" company has been disbanded.

Mr. H. J. Byron, the dramatic author, and manager of the New Criterion Theatre, London, purposes adopting the American system. The performances will commence at eight, and terminate at an early hour, and matinees will be given. The house will be opened on Easter Monday, with Mr. Byron's latest production, entitled an "American Lady," in which himself and Mrs. John Wood will appear.

The colored jubilee singers, who went to England some months ago, are said to have already remitted £7,000 to this country, and hope to send £3,000 more in April.

A Double-Leaded Editorial.

A Mississippi paper needs the services of a new editor. The last one went out with a revolver to uphold an editorial, and he returned in a wheelbarrow with a blanket over him.

The Young Man from the East.

"I'm a stranger in this city,
I'm lately from the East,
And mighty fond of oysters;
Where can I get a feast?
I've been to all the restaurants,
But nowhere could I find,
A plate of Eastern oysters,
Of the old-fashioned kind."

"Well, I can tell you," said his friend,
"Exactly where to go,
And where to get your oysters,
Direct from where they grow.
Just take a stroll down PINE STREET,
At 410, below the Market,
You'll see a sign, 'THE SADDLE ROCK,'
You can't fail to remark it.

"Emerson Corville keeps the place,
The best saloon in town,
There you can get your oysters raw,
Or fried so crisp and brown.
He's the largest oyster dealer
On the Pacific Coast,
And that he keeps the freshest
Has ever been his boast.

"He'd got nice little private rooms,
Where you can sit at ease,
And eat your California stew,
Or Eastern if you please.
All the young men of fashion go
Right to the SADDLE ROCK,
To eat their EASTERN OYSTERS
And drink their Rhenish hock."

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

Opera House.

To-night, when those worthy and obliging gentlemen, the ushers and doorkeeper, take their annual benefit, there will be a big bill and no doubt a correspondingly big house. The performance will commence with a capital first part by Maguire's California Minstrels. After this Little Mac will appear in his wonderful essence, Natator, the man-fish, in his extraordinary aqueous feats, Miss Jennie Lee will sing "Good Bye, Sweetheart," Messrs. Harrington and McGlone will appear in song and dance, the Ducrow Brothers will perform on the trapeze, Messrs. Murphy and Mack will execute their Excelsior Jig, Geo. S. Knight will give his amusing version of "Shoo Fly," Master Tommy Butler will perform a clog dance, and the sparkling operetta of "66; or, Fortune's Chance," will terminate the evening's entertainment. At the matinee to-morrow the bill which has drawn such crowded houses during the week will be presented.

California Theatre.

One of the largest and most fashionable audiences of the season witnessed the performance of "Romeo and Juliet" last night, and all were delighted with the beauty and talent of Miss Neilson, and full of admiration for her gorgeous costumes. To-night, "The School for Scandal" will be presented with a cast which can scarcely be equalled, and cannot be surpassed at any theatre. It will comprise Miss Neilson as Lady Teazle, Henry Edwards as Sir Peter Teazle, Barton Hill as Charles Surface, John Wilson as Joseph Surface, Miss Ellie Wilton as Lady Sneerwell, Mrs. Sophie Edwin as Mrs Candour, Miss Carrie Wyatt as Maria, J. C. Williamson as Moses, Walter M. Leman as Sir Oliver, W. A. Mestayer as Sir Benjamin Backbite, E. J. Buckley as Careless, S. W. Leach as Rowley, and Charles Henri as Trip. This play will be performed at the matinee to-morrow.

Palace Amphitheatre.

To-night, a bill presenting extraordinary attractions will be presented for the benefit of the daring and graceful Woods Cooke, who will signalize the occasion by performing some of his best feats. There will be a matinee to-morrow, and in the evening Fred O'Brien, the champion vaulter of America, will take his farewell benefit.

Bella Union Theatre.

The Royal Tycoon Troupe of Japanese, whose thrilling performances have been witnessed by so many at this theatre, have been reengaged for a few nights and will appear to-night in conjunction with Miss Alice Ross, Ed. Murray, Moore and Bray, and the star variety company performing here. The drama of "Two Chimes" is still retained on the bill.

Buckley's New Variety Theatre.

Frank Mortimore in his sketches, George O. Thompson in his great act of "Old Black Joe," Ned Buckley in amusing Ethiopian farces, Miss Ida May in serio-comic songs, Mlle. Blanche in ballads, and a great variety of other entertainments will be presented to-night.

Woodward's Gardens.

These beautiful gardens present thousands of attractions. To-day, in addition to all the other delights of this charming pleasure resort, Professor Allen's balloon will make ascensions to the clouds from morning to night. The silk balloon will go up on Saturday.

City Gardens.

The first picnic of the season will be given by the San Francisco Rifles, who will hold their second annual picnic at the City Gardens on Sunday next. The Rifles will be escorted to the Gardens by the California Jagers, a delegation from the Steuben Guards and the pioneers of the German Rifles. A series of performances will be given in the afternoon.

ANATOMICAL MUSEUM.—One of the most complete collections of the kind in the United States, comprising hundreds of costly and beautiful wax models, is daily on view (to gentlemen only) at the Museum on Montgomery street. An hour may be profitably spent here.

Tearing Down Old Landmarks.

Some men's lives are failures because they have mistaken their vocation. No matter what a man's calling may be, he should study to make that calling a success. There is more skill in selecting and arranging the adornments of our houses than many have any idea of. One of the most difficult articles to arrange with taste is Carpets. One must have an eye to the surroundings, the height of the room, the number of windows, the style of the other furniture, and then proceed to select the Carpet. For some rooms one must have a large pattern, in others a small figure; bright colors do not always look the best. Mr. Burnham, one of the firm of J. W. Burnham & Co., 618 Market and 17 Post street, has made the selecting of Carpets and Window-Hangings a study, and selected his stock accordingly—Brussels, Ingrains, Tapestry and Velvets, to say nothing of Oil Cloths, of which they make a specialty. Messrs. B. & Co. are obliged, we regret to say, to close out their entire stock at a sacrifice, on account of the tearing down of their present store, in order to rebuild. For the next thirty days Mr. Burnham can be found at his place of business, and will give his advice and long experience to all that may require it. 3-D

What Next?

Every one knows how a photograph looks when viewed through a stereoscope—but a stereoscope cannot always be had. G. D. Morse, at 417 Montgomery street has obviated this difficulty by producing a photograph that is so clear and sharp in its outlines that one would almost think he was looking through the lens of a stereoscope. Mr. Morse's parlors look more like an art gallery than a place of business. 2-T

We would recommend all who need the services of a thorough Dentist to visit Dr. G. S. Bowie, 185 Kearny, and avail themselves of his services. All work guaranteed.

M. FREUND, at 38 Second St., has just received 5 pieces of Embroidered Edging and Insertings, which he offers at 7 cents a yard and upwards. 3-B

LOST.

BY R. H. WARNER.

The branches are wailing, wailing,
The winds are heavy and chill;
The shadows sailing and sailing,
Go chasing over the hill,
Lo, Lo! fast and forlorn,
Maddened and sore affrighted,
Rushes like one benighted,
And the masses of cloud she crosses,
To left and to right she tosses,
With glimmering golden horn;
Oh, Heart, thou art stricken and ailing,
Watching and waiting for morn.
While the night is so wearily waning;
But useless is thy complaining,
Thy sorrow is unavailing
To call back the Unreturning;
And foolish thy fond endeavor
To fan again into burning
The cold and desolate ashes—
To kindle again into flashes
A fire that has vanished forever.

—Galaxy for December.

Notes of the Crusade.

Chicago affords a fine missionary field, but thus far there have been more words than work.

At Sturgis, Mich., all the liquor saloons have been closed. One old lady began the work alone.

Reports from the South say that the temperance revival has broken out at several points in Mississippi and Tennessee.

Some of the Cleveland women will not raid until they are properly arrayed, and are having "praying costumes" made.

"Cincinnati boasts of 3,000 shops where liquor is retailed, which furnishes support for 15,000 families," is the way one paper puts it.

In Shelby, O., large meetings are held each day and night, and the women take their knitting to the saloons and spend the evenings.

The Germans of Cincinnati have called a meeting to form a regiment to protect them in their "liberty of conscience." This is interpreted as an attempt to scare the women.

The New York Times snuffs the conflict from afar, when it says: "The 'woman's war'—we adopt the uncouth phrase for the want of a better—against liquor saloons extends rapidly."

At Oswego, Ill., there are but two saloons; the keeper of one brings chairs and a carpet into his saloon for the women, and is very amiable; but Troll, the other one, locks his doors and swears.

The Cincinnati brewers announced that the saloons that have been closed in the smaller towns have already cut down the demand for ale and beer from the breweries of that city to the extent of 600 kegs a day.

Oysters.

In strolling round the other night,
To look at 'Frisco by gas light,
Our careless feet, by chance and stray
To where a fountain's ceaseless play
Of sparkling waters, made a screen
Through which a sweet bouquet was seen;
While mossy stone and pearly shell,
O'er which the waters softly fell,
Made that window seem to be
Some fairy grotto of the sea.
"Stop," said my friend, "let's go in here
It looks so nice—and try their cheer."
"All right," I said, "I must agree
That this place suits me to a 'T.'"
No sooner had we found a seat
Than at our side a waiter neat
Made his appearance, asked our wish—
Said they had almost any dish
That we might name. We found it true,
And cooked magnificently, too;
All kinds of oysters, juicy, fat,
Cooked every style; just think of that,
And if your mouth don't water, then
You're different from other men.
They'd clams and crabs and terrapins';
In fact, we found they had within
That cosy place all kinds of game,
Fish, flesh or fowl which we could name,
While every dish was, I am sure,
Prepared to tempt an epicure.
The ladies, too, have found, 'twould seem,
That they have here the best ice cream;
So here they flock, the little sinners,
To get what they call "such nice dinners,"
Whoever doubts this let him rush
To three hundred thirty-seven Bush,
And there this truth he'll find made plain:
Who goes there once will go again.
Pacific Oyster House, 337 Bush street, above Montgomery; open Day and Night.
CHARLES HAAKE, Proprietor.

Chinamen Below Par.

The Consolidated Tobacco Company of California not only employ white labor but are putting upon the market the finest flavored and best made Cigars ever offered on this coast. Mr. Briggs, the genial Manager of the Company, at the office, 304 Pine street, will be pleased to have the public generally call and sample the Cigars, and learn the low prices which they furnish really good cigar for. 3-J

For a good, quiet, nice saloon, commend us to the "Orient," 720 Market street. Messrs. Goldworthy & Weston are saloon-keepers who know their business thoroughly, and consequently keep only the best of Wines, Whiskys and Cigars. We can commend the "Orient" as one of the best places in the city. Try once and you will be satisfied. 2-O

The Censor.

The Open Letter, published in Vallejo, has the following: It is probably not known to the general mass of readers that in all the large newspaper offices, and some of the small ones, there is employed a person known as "the censor," whose office it is to look over every thing written for the paper and strike out everything which he thinks ought not to go into print. He is usually an old, bald-headed lunatic, well advanced in years, in whom the bump of cautiousness is so abnormally developed as to amount to an absolute deformity. Peering wisely through the dead dimness of his dusty spectacles, he keeps his eye peeled for anything new, startling, or original, which may happen to emanate from the editors, reporters, or correspondents of the journal over which he exercises his baleful, blighting influence. The moment a new idea falls beneath his optic, he tightens his grip upon an immense blue lead pencil, and with a few rapid motions of his hand obliterates it from the page. The skillful manner in which he jerks the pith out of an idea, breaks off the point of a joke, butchers the full meaning of a plain sentence, squelches an opinion, and turns a positive assertion into a negative admission, is only acquired by long practice and constant application. After an article has been thus emasculated by a censor who really understands the business, the writer peruses the paper in a vain search after his own handiwork, and not being able to discover it, is forced to the final conclusion that his production has been laid over for the purpose of inserting it in some subsequent issue, or thrown out entirely to make way for the opinions of a more conservative individual.

When this explanation is understood by our readers, then will the extraordinary stupidity of some of our Pacific Coast papers be more fully accounted for.

The Young Man from the East.

"I'm a stranger in this city,
I'm lately from the East,
And mighty fond of oysters;
Where can I get a feast?
I've been to all the restaurants,
But nowhere could I find,
A plate of Eastern oysters,
Of the old-fashioned kind."

"Well, I can tell you," said his friend,
"Exactly where to go,
And where to get your oysters,
Direct from where they grow
Just take a stroll down PINE STREET,
At 410, below the Market,
You'll see a sign, 'THE SADDLE ROCK,'
You can't fail to remark it.

"Emerson Corville keeps the place,
The best saloon in town,
There you can get your oysters raw,
Or fried so crisp and brown.
He's the largest oyster dealer
On the Pacific Coast
And that he keeps the freshest
Has ever been his boast.

"He's got nice little private rooms,
Where you can sit at ease,
And eat your Cailfon in stew,
Or Eastern if you please.
All the young men of fashion go
Right to the SADDLE ROCK,
To eat their EASTERN OYSTERS
And drink their Rhenish hock."

A Sight Not Often Seen.

A day or two since we visited Col. Andrews' establishment, at 221 Montgomery street, and were surprised at the immense stock of precious gems that the Colonel keeps. There were—

'Great pearls, milk-white, shining like the moon;
Emeralds, grass green:
Sapphires, like skies of June;
And one great diamond outshone them all,
Large as a pigeon's egg, and clear as wine—
When held before the sun a gem divine."

A half day could not be more profitably spent than in a visit to the Colonel's emporium. If one does not wish to purchase, the genial Colonel takes great pleasure in showing his immense stock to visitors, and explaining the intricate workmanship and the artistic designs necessary to produce even one of the ornaments that go to make up his large and valuable stock.

The Lucky Number.

Fortune, the Goddess of Luck, must have decimated one hundred and four-score as her symbol. W. E. Mabey believes in the number. He drew the second grand prize in the last lottery on that number, and then moved his large and complete stock of Drugs, Perfumes, etc., to 144 Fourth street. Naturally happy and free-hearted, he continues in business for the pleasure it affords him. He is actually giving a splendid Sachet Package of Rimmel's or Lubin's to every customer that comes to his store. 3 B

Spring Style Hats.

"FIGARO."

THE JOURNAL OF AMUSEMENTS.

Published every Day in the Year by

J. P. BOGARDUS

—AT—

523 Merchant and 535 Washington Sts
Below Montgomery, San Francisco.

FRIDAY..... .....MARCH 20, 1874

WHERE WE CIRCULATE "FIGARO."

Everybody knows that "FIGARO" has been distributed free for years very generally throughout the city, and has been circulated as programme in every theatre and place of amusement in San Francisco; and we want everybody to know that "FIGARO" is always distributed on the Oakland Ferry-boats that bring the passengers by the great overland train to this city, and is placed in their hands every day—Sundays included. That it is mailed free every day to all the leading hotels on the Pacific Coast. That "FIGARO" is circulated by Taylor & Co., the Oakland bill distributors, every day throughout the central portions of Oakland. That it is also distributed at Sacramento and on the Sacramento steamers on their down trips to this city, and in all towns on the river side, as may be seen by the annexed certificate from A. H. Nahor, distributing agent on the steamers:

This is to certify that I have agreed to, and do, distribute "FIGARO" thoroughly on the Sacramento steamers on their down trips to San Francisco, and have made arrangements to have it generally distributed in the towns of Benicia, Martinez, Collinsville, Sherman Island, Rio Vista, Courtland, Antioch, Pittsburg Landing, New York Landing, and in all of the hotels, saloons, public places, etc., in Sacramento City. ALFRED H. NAHOR.

March 4th, 1874.

Arrangements are being made for further circulation on other lines of travel, so that "FIGARO" shall be "here, there and everywhere," and be placed in the hands of all strangers, families and business men en route to this city.

The Ladies of To-day and 30 Years Ago.

Thirty years ago the advantages one could have were few compared with to-day. Then, if a lady was troubled with any complaints incidental to womanhood, she was obliged to trust to the various methods then in vogue, and seldom with any relief being derived. The bases of nearly all the medicines then were mineral. The superiority and safety of vegetable over mineral medicine has been demonstrated by the medical faculty all over the world. The Marsh Truss Co. (31 years standing) have in connection with their Truss department a Medical Infirmary, where they make ladies cases a specialty. Their medicines are all purely vegetable. Ladies troubled with delicate diseases should call at once on the Marsh Truss Co., 513 Montgomery street, and have their cases attended to. Special consulting room for ladies. 2-x

Sir Walter Raleigh created a consternation when he appeared before his servants smoking a pipe of Tobacco. The sight was a new one to them, and they, as well as the public in general were slow to learn the use of the Weed Had they had Tobacco of the quality and perfect flavor which the Perique and Golden Thread Smoking Tobacco of to-day have, smoking would much sooner become almost universal. The Gilroy Tobacco Company (office 304 Pine street), are offering the above-named Tobaccos to the public, and we advise those in want of a good article to give them a trial. 3-x

The Art of Dancing and Deportment.

Those who appreciate culture will be glad to learn that Professor C. H. Lester has opened an Academy for the purpose of teaching, not only dancing, but those graces of deportment without which no one can shine in society. Prof. Lester is a thorough master of his art, one of the best on this side of the Rocky Mountains. Classes are held at Grand Central Hall on the corner of Sixth and Market streets on Mondays and Thursdays.

Important to Smokers.

Few men in San Francisco are aware that the enterprising firm of Kahn & Haas are employing white females labor in the manufacture of their Cigars. SOCIAL MONOPOLISTS.

The object for which the social reformers of the age are striving, is, the suppression of selfishness—the wish to prove that the general good is individual good. They have a hard task. Selfishness is inherent in human nature. Railroad men, ship builders, capitalists, mine owners and manufacturers are not the only monopolists. Society in San Francisco is full of monopolists. We know one man who monopolizes all the critical talent with regard to dramatic matters; he knows it all and will not allow anyone else to know anything. Another monopolizes all the musical knowledge, and works himself into a passion if anyone else tries to exhibit any of that knowledge which belongs exclusively to him. Another knows all the law, and the other lawyers are mere pretenders. Then we know a woman who monopolizes all the misery, and bad luck and sickness. Tell her Mrs. Muggins is in trouble and she will reply: "Don't tell me she is in trouble. What are her troubles to mine? She in trouble, indeed! and her husband making two hundred dollars a month. Look at me. John out of work, Katie sick with the measles, Charlie cut his thumb with the axe, and not money enough in the house to pay the rent, which is due to-morrow." If you tell her she is looking well, she will say: "Looking well, am I? I'm sure I don't feel well. I don't believe there ever was a woman who suffered as much as I do. When I haven't a headache I have a toothache, or a backache, or rheumatism, or bilious colic, or something or other. It provokes me when people tell me I'm 'looking well.' With my troubles and sickness it's a wonder I'm not worn to a skeleton. Just because I look well and don't complain, I never get any sympathy. Ah! no one knows my troubles but myself!" Then there's our friend, Major Sluicefork, who came here in '49. He monopolizes all the knowledge of early times in California. If another man attempts to tell a story of those days he finds a dozen inaccuracies in it. One would think, to hear the Major talk, that he was the only man who came here in '49. Another of our friends is the only man in the city who is really a judge of a good cigar; he "has been in Havana where they are made," he will tell you, and in consequence he must be a judge. Another of these social monopolists is convinced that he is the only man who can read "Shamus O'Brien," and he considers any attempt to do so by anyone else an infringement on his rights. It is a pity, for the sake of these monopolists, that their specialties cannot be protected by some copyright law. As it is, they are not happy. They are constantly being made miserable by people who pretend to knowledge or talent which they are convinced pertains to them alone. On the whole, we don't think any monopolists are really happy. They know that they are envied and hated by others on whose rights they have infringed. Communism, as opposed to monopoly by individuals or companies, is sensible. To wish to be happy, well and rich, is a natural, healthy wish: to wish expressedly to be happier, in better health or richer than anyone else, is mean. A man can make himself happier, richer (because happier), and better, by sharing his happiness and his wealth with his fellow creatures. Down with monopoly! and speed the day when true communism shall be the rule of life.

A Decatur Critic.

Chiffonier, of the Boston Courier, says: I have once or twice called attention to the fact that if any of our city newspapers wish to make a genuine sensation they should forthwith engage the services of some western dramatic "critic." There are scores of mute, inglorious Hazlitts laboring on obscure sheets in the Mississippi valley, any one of whom would make the fortune of a publisher, sagacious enough to bring him East. The young man now employed by the Decatur Journal certainly deserves a broader field for the exercise of his powers than his present position will afford, for he lately introduced a notice of Mr. Barrett's performance of "Hamlet" in this felicitous style:

The company was greeted by a comparatively slim house, about two-thirds of the seats in the parquette betraying a dreary state of solitary emptiness, while fully half the audience roosted in the cock-loft, enjoying the economical luxury of that delectable refuge, owing to the fancy prices of admission. Popular rates would have secured a much larger audience and increased receipts, many appreciative but impecunious cusses being unable to make the raise in these stirring times of financial stringency.

He then goes on to say that "Mr. Barrett is an English actor of comparatively recent notoriety in this country," and in speaking of the support he faithfully notes the distinguishing characteristics of the parts assumed by the actors. Polonius, for instance, is "an old mountebank and charlatan," and the gentleman who essayed the role is credited with "a dry kind of humor that was exceedingly ludicrous." This is rather ambiguous praise, to say the least.

A Hot Brick's Vagaries.

Mrs. Battles suffers from cold feet, and the other night she warmed up a brick, intending to take it to bed with her. She laid it down by the bedside while she attended to the baby, and then she forgot about it and turned in. After awhile Battles came over to the room, and when he had assumed his night-shirt, he began to say his prayers. When he was about half way through, he happened to move his knee a little to the left, and it came in contact with the hot brick. For an instant he thought something had stung him, and, jumping up, he got the lamp and came back to ascertain what it was. He saw the brick lying there, but it never occurred to him that that was the cause of the trouble, so he picked it up for the purpose of throwing it out of the window. Then he suddenly dropped it with a cry of pain, and, after an indignant denunciation of Mrs. Battles, he procured a piece of paper, and, in a furious rage, hurled the brick through the window sash. It hit a policeman who happened to be standing on the pavement below, and, in less than ten minutes, Battles was on his way to the station-house, where he was looked up all night upon a charge of assault and battery. He was released in the morning after paying twenty dollars fine. He has not finished his prayers yet, and Mrs. Battles now warms her feet with a flannel petticoat.

Love's Labor Lost.

"He never told his love." It wasn't his fault, however. He went to her house the other evening to do it. But he didn't. He found another fellow beside her on the sofa, another arm around her taper waist, another pomatumed head upon her marble shoulder, and another hand clasped by her'n. He merely remarked, "I'll be blowed!" and put out for the nearest place where consolation is sold at fifteen cents a dose. He took so many doses that he imagined he could sing, and when he was wending his way home he aroused the indignation of a policeman by singing, "Her heart is another's, she never can be mine." "Stop that noise, ye omadhaun," said the policeman; "yer making a worse hullaballoo than a crazy shtame wissle could." "Unfeeling man, answered the disappointed youth, "have you no soul for music? I'm waking the echoes with my plaintive melody." "It's achin' the ears of the wakers ye are wid yer infernal yowling. Stop it, or I'll take ye in." He didn't stop it, and he was taken in. The next morning he got out by being out of pocket five dollars. Such are love's vicissitudes.

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

CALIFORNIA THEATRE—A very large and brilliantly fashionable audience attended this theatre last night, every inch of room being occupied. How excellently "The School for Scandal" is played when it is presented at this theatre, everyone is well aware, and its production has never failed to crowd the house. Last night Henry Edwards was admirable as ever as Sir Peter Teazle Barton Hill presented the best Charles Surface, we have ever seen in California, and probably the best in the United States, and John Wilson gave us the Joseph Surface, with which we are so familiar, and in which, if there is nothing strikingly original there is at least little to displease. Miss Neilson looked lovely, (though powdered hair is not especially becoming to her style of beauty) as Lady Teazle, dressed the part magnificently and played it with much animation. She was especially good in the quarrel scene. Mrs. Sophie Edwin, who received a pleasant welcome on making her reappearance, played the role of Mrs. Candour very well indeed, and Miss Ellie Wilton in the role of Lady Sneerwell, displayed much ability. Miss Carrie Wyatt gave a very pleasant impersonation of Maria, Walter Leman was excellent as Sir Oliver, W. A. Mestayer's Sir Benjamin Backbite, was the same clever performance as ever, albeit he made one slip in the text, as he did Easton Hill, (wonderful to relate) J. C. William on presented his idea of Moses, which we have before stated, differs from Sheridan's, inasmuch as he makes Moses too independent and self-assertive for a Jew money-lender in London, and fails to reproduce the accent of the London Jew. We are sure the critic of the Chronicle will agree with us in this criticism. E. N. Thayer gave a very clever performance of Crabtree, S. W. Leach was an admirable representative of old Rowley, E. J. Buckley made a good Careless, and did the auctioneer business well, and altogether the comedy was well played. It will be presented at the matinee to-day, and again this evening.

THE OPERA HOUSE.—The doorkeeper and ushers, who took their benefit last night, had, as they deserved, an excellent house, and were kept pretty busy admitting and seating the numerous audience which flocked to the Opera House to enjoy the admirable entertainment prepared for it. The volunteers, Messrs. Harrington and McGlone, Messrs. Murphy and Mack, Natator the man-fish, and Master Butler, received liberal applause for the manner in which they perform d their various specialities, and Miss Jennie Lee, who was warmly received on making her reappearance at this house, sang "Good Bye Sweetheart, Good Bye," charmingly. At the matinee to-day, and again this evening, the rich bill which has proved so successful during the week, will be presented It may be found on our first page, and comprises first part, interlude and a charming operetta, by the Swan Galton troupe.

THE NEW PALACE AMPHITHEATRE.—Wooda Cooke, the great somersault performer, had a fine benefit last night, and a splendid performance was given. A grand matinee entertainment will be given to-day, and this evening the famous leaper, Fred O'Brien, will take his farewell benefit prior to his return to the East Extraordinary attractions will be presented as may be seen by referring to our first page. To-morrow night will be the last of the season, and on Monday night the famous Dockrill and Kenebel Parisian Circus, will commence a series of entertainments. There will of course be a great rush to see these wonderful artistes, who in their specialties, have no equals.

JOSH BILLINGS.—This popular humorist, whose wise and witty sayings have been published again and again in every paper in the United States, will make his appearance and deliver a lecture at Platt's Hall on Wednesday evening next. He will give another lecture on the following evening. Josh Billings is so well known and appreciated on this side of the Rocky Mountains that he is sure of a large audience on both occasions.

BELLA UNION THEATRE.—After a rich first part Moore and Bray will appear in song and dance, Miss Alice Ross in serio-comic songs, Fred Ritchie in Dutch blunders, Ed Murray in his "Budget of Fun," Johnny Tuers, Tommy Bree and others in amusing acts, the Royal Tycoon troupe of Japanese in their wonderful feats, Miss Jennie Johnson, Miss Alice Ross, Ed Murray and others in the drama of "Two Olimes," and a host of other artists in varied specialties.

BUCKLEY'S NEW VARIETIES.—To-night, Ned Buckley and Harry Davoy will appear in the screaming act of "The Music Lesson," Geo. C. Thompson in his specialties, and in his great impersonation of Old Black Joe, and a great number of other favorites in a pleasing olio of songs, acts and dances.

WOODWARD'S GARDENS.—Besides the usual entertainment given in the Pavilion, and the instrumental concert, Professor Allen's balloon "Sierra Nevada," will make ascensions to the clouds to-day and Sunday. The silk balloon, which was detained by the snow blockade, and only arrived here yesterday, cannot be made ready to make ascensions before Saturday next.

CITY GARDENS.—The first picnic of the season. The San Francisco Rifles, will hold their second annual picnic at the City Gardens to-morrow. The Rifles will be escorted to the Gardens by the California Jagers, a delegation from the Steuben Guards and the pioneers of the German Rifles. A series of performances will be given in the afternoon.

GOLDEN GATE PARK.—Those who drive out to the new park should visit The Villa which has just been opened. Here they will find four public parlors and ten private dining rooms. Guido Mangeaberg & Co the proprietors get up epicurean breakfasts, dinners and suppers at short notice.

THE CLIFF HOUSE.—Captain Foster, the genial host of the Cliff House, entertains visitors from all parts of the Globe at his famous sea-side resort. The Cliff House is THE one thing San Francisco has to boast of as different from anything else in the world. Omnibuses run every day from the terminus of the Lone Mountain Railroad.

ANATOMICAL MUSEUM.—One of the most complete collections of the kind in the United States, comprising hundreds of costly and beautiful specimens in wax, illustrating the human anatomy, is now on exhibition at the Museum, 625 Washington street. Open from 10 A.M. to 10 P.M. Admission 25 cents.

NOTES.—Miss Neilson's engagement at the California Theatre will terminate on Monday evening, the 30th inst. The rest of the week will be partially devoted to benefits of members of the company. J. C. Williamson will take his benefit on the 31st, and will produce one of his new California plays—"Struck Oil." Miss Ellie Wilton will take her benefit on April 2d. "A Victim of Circumstances" will be played, with Barton Hill as M. Bonnefoi.

Mons. Perrier, the French athlete, who was matched to wrestle with Mons. Tessier, met with an accident while wrestling on Monday night, and is incapacitated for the present.

Mr. and Mrs. Heath e, favorite members of the theatrical profession in Melbourne, arrived from Austral a this week.

Miss Neilson will appear as Julia, in "The Hunchback," and Pauline in "The Lady of Lyons," during the coming week.

The Rev. John Thomas, B. A., of the Fitzwilliam-Street Unitarian Church, Huddersfield, England, writes to FIGARO on behalf of the relatives of James Stonby Hartley, asking for information of his whereabouts, if alive, and date of his death, if deceased. Mr. Thomas states that he was last heard of as a violincello player in a band of "Christy's Minstrels" in San Francisco. Any information concerning Mr. Hartley left at the FIGARO office will be forwarded to Huddersfield.

The New York Dispatch publishes in full FIGARO's criticism of John McCullough in the character of Hamlet. The Dispatch is aware that FIGARO is the only dramatic authority on the Pacific coast, as we have before modestly observed. It really is not much to claim when one considers what the OTHER papers are in that respect. The Dispatch also points out the fact that Barton Hill is rapidly gaining favor in California, and quotes from FIGARO to prove it, thus again acknowledging FIGARO as the only, etc., etc.

A bald-backed horse, without a hair on its hide, has arrived from New Zealand and will shortly be placed on exhibition.

Houseworth is to issue a beautiful photograph of Miss Neilson as Juliet, and Mrs. Judah as the Nurse, in "Romeo and Juliet." Juliet is represented as coaxing the old Nurse, who has just returned from her mission to Romeo.

A Dickens Ball is to be given at Platt's Hall on April 16th, for the benefit of the San Francisco Female Hospital. Each person present will represent one of the characters created by the great novelist. Micawber is easily found in John Howson, Uriah Heep in J. P. Burnett, Miss Jennie Lee would make a capital Marchioness, Henry Edwards and G. T. Bromley have already been picked out for the Cheeryble Brothers, and society in San Francisco is being sorted out for representatives of Toots, Traddles, Captain Cuttle, Mr. Pickwick, Dora, Agnes, Emily, and other personages of Dickens' novels.

The Salt Lake Herald, bidding adieu to John T. Raymond, who played a most successful engagement in that city, is now doing equally well in Virginia City, and will, of course, crowd the California Theatre here, where he commences an engagement on the 6th, says: "The gentleman is one of the best comedians at present on the stage, and some of his impersonations remind us strongly of that prince of English comedians—J. L. Toole. He is natural, artistic, never overstrained and always irresistible. A young man, with the most flourishing reputation of any man in his line now on the stage, Mr. Raymond only requires the creation of a new character or two to suit his peculiar talents, when his star will shine with a brilliancy outrivaling that of Jefferson and Owens.

A large water color picture, by F. Whymper, taken from the beautiful grounds of the Berkeley Villa Association, is on view at the gallery of Morris Schwab & Co., on Post street. It includes Oakland, the wharf, bay, etc., with a distant glimpse of the city, and is a work of art deserving of praise.

The remodeling the Alhambra Theatre is progressing very rapidly. The carpenters have nearly completed their work, and the fresco painters are busy at the ceiling. The new circles are much larger than the old one, and are very graceful in outline. The Alhambra when finished will be a very beautiful Theatre.

The Girards are going to fill in time, prior to their departure for Australia, by making a little interior trip. They will show at Petaluma on Monday and Tuesday next, and afterwards at Healdsburg, Napa, and Stockton. "Yankee Adams," (the old and original one), Miss Mary Watson, Miss Ida Kellogg, and C. E. Hunt will furnish the dramatic portion of the entertainment.

EASTERN DRAMATIC NEWS.

In New York, the event in the theatrical world was the production on the 2d at Daly's Fifth Avenue Theatre of Mr. Gilbert's new comedy of "Charity." The New York Courier says: The play is one of the best that has been seen in New York since the production of "Led Astray," and it is acted carefully, intelligently, and conscientiously. It is true that adultery plays a part in its story, but it is treated in a manner totally at variance with the morbid and maudlin sentimentality which marks the treatment of the subject in the drama of the modern French school. "Pygmalion and Galatea" "The Palace of Truth," and "The Wicked World" had proved Mr. Gilbert's worth as a dramatic writer, and "Charity" will not take away from it one whit. Its language is terse and epigrammatic, cutting into the shams and foibles of the day and laying bare the canting hypocrisy of men and women. Mrs. Van Brugh is a woman who has erred in early days, but has since devoted a life of charity, goodness, and humility as an expiation for her crime. Her secret is discovered by a snivelling scoundrel named Smalley, however, and he crushes her almost to the ground by a series of combinations through which he expects to obtain her wealth. She is rescued, though by good friends, one of the means of release being a wretched tramp whom she has befriended—and the villain brought to grief. The evolvement of the plot is complicated, but it retains the spectators' attention to the very close, as full is it of human import and interest. The play receives capital treatment at the hands of Mr. Daly's company .....At Wallack's, "The Heir at Law" was revived on the 7th, and was to be followed by other old comedies.....At the Academy of Music, the Strakosch Italian Opera Troupe were drawing good houses to hear "Les Huguenots," "Martha," "Aida" "Lucia" and other operas. ....At Booth's Theatre, Madame Janauschek was to appear as Queen Katharine in "Henry VIII" during the last week of her engagement, which came to a close on the 14th, Dion Boucicault was to reappear on the 16th..... The Lyceum Theatre was reopened on Wednesday the 3d, when Miss Bessie Darling, a new aspirant for dramatic fame, made her first appearance in "The Honeymoon." A New York paper says: Miss Darling is fair, fat, but not forty. She is a pupil of Miss Fanny Morant, and would undoubtedly win renown upon the amateur stage. The house was filled with her friends on the occasion of her first appearance, and the utterance was the signal for applause and bouquets. Indeed, if applause and bouquets are the emblems of success, Miss Darling must be the greatest actress of modern times. Unfortunately for Miss Darling they are not, and we somewhat fear that she will be compelled to learn that mediocrity will not command stage popularity, and so retire to the techoics that so astonished her hearers on a former occasion. On Friday Mlle. E. Sorel, a new prima donna, appeared as Marguerite in "Faust," and created a favorable impression, Sig. Rossi-Galli winning special applause by an extremely powerful rendering of the character of Mephistopheles.....On the 7th, the Aimee Troupe commenced a season of French Opera Bouffe.....At Niblo's, Frank Mayo and Miss Rose Rand appeared on the 7th in "Davy Crockett".....At Wood's Museum, Mr. Wallace was playing in his own drama "The Man From America." E. L. Davenport is to commence another engagement shortly..... At the Olympic, the Berger Family and Sol Smith Russell have made a great hit, and were engaged for another week.....'Led Astray" still drew well at Union Square Theatre.....At the Grand Opera House, "Jack Harkaway at Sea," "Humpty Dumpty at School," Prof. Davis and his trained dogs and other attractions were offered .....At Bryant's Minstrels, Vernon Sidney, a new vocalist, and Prof. Unsworth's Lecture on Light, were the novelties.....At Tony Pastor's, J. W. Eagan, Irish comedian, the Daly Brothers, song and dance men, and Miss Blanche Selwyn were among the attractions.....G. L. Fox and George H. Tyler, opened the Broadway Theatre on the 6th when "Humpty Dumpty" was revived .....At the Theatre Comique, J. H. Budworth, Harrigan and Hart, Earnest Bane, a female character impersonator from England, and Poole's drama of "The Italian Padroni" were the novelties.....At the Bowery Theatre, J. J. McCloskey's latest drama, entitled "Out on the Plains," was produced on the 7th, and Mlcg Sarbro a Japanese gymnast appeared.....At the Metropolitan Theatre, Sam Hickey and Master Barney were playing "Bad Whiskey," the Martinettis were appearing in pantomime, and Jenny Hughes was singing ballads.

Lydia Thompson and troupe, were due in Cincinnati on the 16th.

Lawrence Barrett played in Bloomington, Ill., on the 17th.

E. L. Davenport played in Springfield, Mass., on the 14th.

Sothern played in Springfield, Mass., on the 11th.

A Mr. Isaac S. Isaacs endeavored recently to lay an injunction upon the production of Gilbert's "Charity," at the Fifth Avenue Theatre, on the ground that he had patented the name for a play of his own, years before. Case not settled. Mr. Isaac S. Isaacs had better claim a monopoly of all the cardinal virtues.

Little Nell and Company, Omaha, 3th, 14th; Council Bluffs, 19th, 21st. We wonder if the California Diamond is returning to San Francisco, where her brilliancy was first discovered.

Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Florence will open at Niblo's Garden in "Eileen Oge," April 6th. This engagement will be the last at this theatre under Jarrett & Palmer's management.

Edward Charles Voltz, stage manager of the Olympic, St. Louis, was married there recently to Miss Rosalie K., daughter of Mr. John H. Jack. Clara Morris being there at the time, acted as one of the bridesmaids.

John McCullough, Olympic, St. Louis, 16th.

There are said to be numerous candidates in the field for Niblo's Garden. Tony Pastor, John Stetson, Josh Hart, Robert W. Butler, and several outsiders are bidding furiously for its possession. The fatest offer is $50,000 per annum.

A New York paper says "the Sheep's Feet" (Le Pied du Mouton) will be the next attraction at the Opera House in that city. This was the first spectacular scenic play which made a great success in San Francisco. It was produced at the Metropolitan Theatre by the Bulsley Family, and ran over fifty nights.

The Philadelphia City Item says: Miss Neilson will fulfill her promise to give a matinee for the benefit of the Philadelphia Fountain Society, on Thursday, the 9th of April next, at the Academy of Music. The proceeds of this performance will be presented to the President of the Fountain Society on that occasion, with a view to the erection of a fountain as a testimonial of her gratitude and kind feelings to the people of Philadelphia. The great popularity of Neilson, and this generous gift to one of our most useful societies ought and will secure a crowded and appreciative audience.

"Lucky or California in 1858," a new romantic drama by Fred Lyster, suggested from Bret Harte's poem "Her Letter," is in preparation at Mrs. John Drew's Arch Street Theatre, Philadelphia.

The San Francisco Minstrels will commence a brief season at the Eleventh Street Opera House, Philadelphia, on the 23d.

Mr. Wybert Reeve commenced an engagement at Wood's Museum, Philadelphia, on the 9th.

G. F. Rowe appeared in "Leatherstocking" At Fox's Theatre, Philadelphia, on the 16th.

A new play, by Charles Gayler, will, be produced at Booth's Theatre during the season.

Miss Carlotta LeClercq commenced an engagement in Baltimore on the 9th.

"Led Astray" is in rehearsal at the Walnut-street Theatre, Philadelphia.

Tony Pastor is spoken of as the possible manager of Niblo's Garden.

The New York Dispatch says of Gilbert's comedy of "Charity," which has proved a success in New York:

"To the surprise of many, it turns out to be a really good comedy, and bids fair to attain very great success in our city. We can only account for its London failure on the ground that English audiences have such a thorough detestation of plays of the adulterous kind that, no matter how skillful the treatment, the subject will prevent it from being accepted, and we honestly confess it is a feeling we should like to see further developed by our own people."

So it appears that seeing "Charity" has not implanted that virtue in the breast of the Dispatch critic. Is adultery worse than murder?

The New York Mercury says: Charles B. Griste, late agent of the San Francisco Minstrels, has returned to this city, the troupe intending to open shortly at Carncross & Dixey's house, in Philadelphia, for as long as it may pay.

The Grand Duke Theatre, in a Baxter street basement—in which the performers are bootblacks or newsboys, and the audience of a similar youthful material—has now a rival in the Grand Duchess Opera House, in a basement of 85 Roosevelt. It is about twenty feet square. Admission, two cents. Boxes, five cents. No extra charge for reserved seats.

Marie Bonfanti, Mons. Novissimo, Theresa Antonio, Cora Adriana, and Mlle. Bilton, Olympic, New York, March 30th.

Miss Neilson reappears in New York, at Booth's Theatre, on Monday evening, April 20th.

The Yokes receive $400 each performance, and went to the Howard Athenæum because the Boston Theatre refused to give them one-half the gross receipts. They had an immense house and a warm reception.

E. A. Sothern will play at the Theatre, Richmond, Va., from the 23d, to 28th.

Miss Nellie Brooks, Cogill and Cooper, and J. W. Wallace were the new faces at Enoch's Varieties, Philadelphia, during the week ending March 7th.

WHERE WE CIRCULATE "FIGARO."

Everybody knows that "FIGARO" has been distributed free for years very generally throughout the city, and has been circulated as programme in every theatre and place of amusement in San Francisco; and we want everybody to know that "FIGARO" is always distributed on the Oakland Ferry-boats that bring the passengers by the great overland train to this city, and is placed in their hands every day—Sundays included. That it is mailed free every day to all the leading hotels on the Pacific Coast. That "FIGARO" is circulated by Taylor & Co., the Oakland bill distributors, every day throughout the central portions of Oakland. That it is also distributed at Sacramento and on the Sacramento steamers on their down trips to this city, and in all towns on the river side, as may be seen by the annexed certificate from A. H. Naher, distributing agent on the steamers:

This is to certify that I have agreed to, and do, distribute "FIGARO" thoroughly on the Sacramento steamers on their down trips to San Francisco, and have made arrangements to have it generally distributed in the towns of Benicia, Martinez, Collinsville, Sherman Island, Rio Vista, Courtland, Antioch, Pittsburg Landing, New York Landing, and in all of the hotels, saloons, public places, etc., in Sacramento City. ALFRED H. NAHER.

March 4th, 1874.

Arrangements are being made for further circulation on other lines of travel, so that "FIGARO" shall be "here, there and everywhere," and be placed in the hands of all strangers, families and business men en route to this city.

The Ladies of To-day and 30 Years Ago.

Thirty years ago the advantages one could have were few compared with to-day. Then, if a lady was troubled with any complaint incidental to womanhood, she was obliged to trust to the various methods then in vogue, and seldom with any relief being derived. The bases of nearly all the medicines then were mineral. The superiority and safety of vegetable over mineral medicine has been demonstrated by the medical faculty all over the world. The Marsh Truss Co (31 years standing) have in connection with their Truss department a Medical Infirmary, where they make ladies cases a specialty. Their medicines are all purely vegetable. Ladies troubled with delicate diseases should call at once on the Marsh Truss Co., 313 Montgomery street, and have their cases attended to. Special consulting room for ladies. 2-x

Sir Walter Raleigh created a consternation when he appeared before his servants smoking a pipe of Tobacco. The sight was a new one to them, and they, as well as the public in general we're slow to learn the use of the Weed. Had they had Tobacco of the quality and perfect flavor which the Perique and Golden Thread Smoking Tobacco of to-day have, smoking would much sooner become almost universal. The Gilroy Tobacco Company (office 304 Pine street), are offering the above-named Tobaccos to the public, and we advise those in want of a good article to give them a trial. 3-y

The Art of Dancing and Deportment.

Those who appreciate culture will be glad to learn that Professor C. H. Lester has opened an Academy for the purpose of teaching, not only dancing, but those graces of deportment without which no one can shine in society. Prof. Lester is a thorough master of his art, one of the best on this side of the Rocky Mountains. Classes are held at Grand Central Hall on the corner of Sixth and Market streets on Mondays and Thursdays.

Important to Smokers.

Few men in San Francisco are aware that the enterprising firm of Kahn & Haas are employing white females labor in the manufacture of their Cigars. The very best material is used in this establishment. Call and convince yourself at 773 Market street, between Third & Fourth street. Finest brands Havana Cigars constantly on hand. 11-r

Great Bargains in Clothing.

The only store in the city that has the largest, cheapest and finest assortment of Men's and Boys' Clothing, is H. Poyser's Montgomery Avenue Clothing Store, 719 Montgomery street, between Washington and Jackson. Also, a large assortment of Men's and Boys' Overcoats and Cloaks, and the finest stock of Gents' Furnishing Goods, Trunks, Valises, etc. 2-x

Miss Host of the Morton House (on Post street, near Kearny), finding that first-class accommodations, at reasonable rates, has had a tendency to fill his Hotel to overflowing, has determined to enlarge his present accommodations so that families visiting the city will be enabled to find a home in its literal sense. 2w

Special to Ladies.

PACIFIC COAST DRAMATIC NEWS.

SACRAMENTO.—The San Francisco Minstrel troupe, composed of amateurs, have been doing pretty well at the Metropolitan Theatre during the week. They will close to-night. On Tuesday evening Josh Billings lectured at the Congregational Church to an immense audience. The Bee says: "The lecture lasted from 8 to half-past 9 o'clock, but the time seemed even to the perpendicular audience but a few minutes. The applause was one continuous roar of laughter, through the chinks of which the great humorist could hardly wedge in a sentence to further stimulate it. The genuine sense which underlies all of Billing's funny things is more apparent when they are heard spoken by him than when they are only read, and a sentence which would be passed in a newspaper as merely laughable for its utter absurdity, is found, when told by the writer, to be a keen if covert thrust at some folly of the human nature of the period." The humorist lectured on the following evening to an equally good house.

SAN JOSE.—Howe's Panopticon, consisting of views of places in Europe, China and the United States, was exhibited at the Opera House, on Thursday evening, and again last night. There will be a matinee to-day and an evening exhibition. Miss Katie Howe and H. O'Neil enliven the entertainment with songs and music. The Mercury pleads hard for a lecture by Josh Billings.

STOCKTON.—Josh Billings (H. W. Shaw), delivered a characteristically humorous lecture last night, which was much enjoyed by a large audience.

MARYSVILLE.—Josh Billings will deliver his lecture entitled "Baby and the Beast," at the Marysville Theatre on Monday evening.

GRASS VALLEY.—Dr. Haskell lectured on Temperance at the Methodist Church on Tuesday. The Union promises the Grass Valley people "a rich intellectual treat within a month or two." It says Calvin McDonald proposes to visit Grass Valley, "to detail to the people here a description of the 'Massacre of Glencoe.' If there is anything in the world the Grass Valley people are interested in, it is the 'Massacre of Glencoe.' The excitement caused by this announcement will be immense.

NEVADA.—The Nevada City Dramatic Club will soon do "Luke, the Laborer" and "Irish Assurance" for the delectation of the public.

CHICO.—Miss Mary E. Wadsworth gave a concert at the Town Hall on Tuesday evening.

VIRGINIA CITY.—Miss Katharine Rogers closed her very successful engagement at Piper's Opera House on Tuesday evening. On Monday Miss Florence Kent took a benefit, when the comedy of "Jenny Lind" and the military drama of the "French Spy" were performed. On Tuesday evening, the favorite comedian, John T. Raymond, and the charming Miss M. E. Gordon commenced an engagement, appearing in "Dot; or the Cricket on the Hearth," and "Foodles." On Wednesday the bill consisted of "Everybody's Friend" and "A Regular Fix." On Thursday evening "Uncle Dick's Darling" and the "Spectre Bridegroom" were played. Last night Mr. Raymond took a benefit. The engagement is proving a very successful one. "The Wicked World" and "Rip Van Winkle" are underlined.

SALT LAKE CITY.—On Monday evening, in consequence of the non-arrival of Miss Katharine Rogers, 'Under the Gaslight" was played by the stock company. Miss Rogers made her first appearance on Tuesday evening in "Romeo and Juliet," on the following evening "Leah" was played, and on Thursday "The Hunchback" was presented with Miss Rogers as Julia. The Salt Lake papers are unanimous in their praise of Miss Rogers' talent.

PORTLAND, O.—The Military Allegory and tableaux entitled the "Color Guard," was presented at Oro Fino Theatre on the 13th and 14th, for the benefit of widows and orphans of soldiers and sailors.

A Sight Not Often Seen.

A day or two since we visited Col. Andrews' establishment, at 221 Montgomery street, and were surprised at the immense stock of precious gems that the Colonel keeps. There were—

'Great pearls, milk-white, shining like the moon;
Emeralds, grass green;
Sapphire, like skies of June;
And one great diamond outshone them all,
Large as a pigeon's egg, and clear as wine—
When held before the sun a gem divine."

A half day could not be more profitably spent than in a visit to the Colonel's emporium. If one does not wish to purchase, the genial Colonel takes great pleasure in showing his immense stock to visitors, and explaining the intricate workmanship and the artistic designs necessary to produce even one of the ornaments that go to make up his large and valuable stock.

The Young Man from the East.

"I'm a stranger in this city,
I'm lately from the East,
And mighty fond of oysters;
Where can I get a feast?
I've been to all the restaurants,
But nowhere could I find,
A plate of Eastern oysters,
Of the old-fashioned kind."

"Well, I can tell you," said his friend,
"Exactly where to go,
And where to get your oysters,
Direct from where they grow.
Just take a stroll down PINE STREET,
At 410, below the Market,
You'll see a sign, 'THE SADDLE ROCK,'
You can't fail to remark it.

"Emerson Corville keeps the place,
The best saloon in town,
There you can get your oysters raw,
Or fried so crisp and brown.
He's the largest oyster dealer
On the Pacific Coast,
And that he keeps the freshest
Has ever been his boast.

"He's got nice little private rooms,
Where you can sit at ease,
And eat your Cailfort in stew,
Or Eastern if you please.
And the young men of fashion go
Right to the SADDLE ROCK,
To eat their EASTERN OYSTERS
And drink their Rhenish hock."

Tearing Down Old Landmarks.

Some men's lives are failures because they have mistaken their vocation. No matter what a man's calling may be, he should study to make that calling a success. There is more skill in selecting and arranging the adornments of our homes than many have any idea of. One of the most difficult articles to arrange with taste is Carpets. One must have an eye to the surroundings, the height of the room, the number of windows, the style of the other furniture, and then proceed to select the Carpet. For some rooms one must have a large pattern, in others a small figure; bright colors do not always look the best. Mr. Burnham, one of the firm of J. W. Burnham & Co., 618 Market and 17 Post street, has made the selecting of Carpets and Window-Hangings a study, and selected his stock accordingly—Brussels, Ingrains, Tapestry and Velvets, to say nothing of Oil Cloths, of which they make a specialty. Messrs. B. & Co. are obliged, we regret to say, to close out their entire stock at a sacrifice, on account of the tearing down of their present store, in order to rebuild. For the next thirty days Mr. Burnham can be found at his place of business, and will give his advice and long experience to all that may require it. 3-d

The Lucky Number

Fortunio, the Goddess of Luck, must have decided one hundred and forty-four as her symbol. W. E. Mybew believes in the number. He drew the second grand prize in the last lottery on that number, and then moved his large and complete stock of Drugs, Perfumes, etc., to 144 Fourth street. Naturally happy and free-hearted, he continues in business for the pleasure it affords him. He is actually giving a splendid Sachet Package of Rimmel's or Lubin's to every customer that comes to his store. 3-n

Spring Style Hats.

THE SCIENCE—for it is a science—of taking the impression of any animate or inanimate thing on Glass, Porcelain or Cardboard, by using the sun as an auxiliary, is an important one. Improvements have been made from time to time by those who have made Photography a study. To our mind (and a visit will make our readers agree with us) the artist who presides at the Florence Gallery, 25 Third street, has attained a degree of excellence seldom achieved, if ever equalled. His Life-Size Portraits are excellent and prices low. 2bh

Epicure's Retreat.

The epicurean fond of nice grain-fed, pig-pork chop, tenderloin or roast, resorts to R. F. Bunker's, 74 and 75 California Market, and is never disappointed, for "Bon," is a good feeder himself, and always keeps on hand the very best in his line. Bunker's celebrated Club Sausages will tickle the palate of the most fastidious. Even dyspeptics laugh after eating those sausages. 1z

Chinamen Below Par.

The Consolidated Tobacco Company of California not only employ white labor but are putting upon the market the finest flavored and best made Cigars ever offered on this coast. Mr. Briggs, the genial Manager of the Company, at the office, 304 Pine street, will be pleased to have the public generally call and sample the Cigars, and learn the low prices which they furnish really good cigar for. 3-z

For a good, quiet, nice saloon, commend us to the "Orient," 720 Market street. Messrs. Goldworthy & Weston are saloon-keepers who know their business thoroughly, and consequently keep only the best of Wines, Whiskys and Cigars. We can commend the "Orient" as one of the best places in the city. Try once and you will be satisfied. 2-o

Oysters.

In strolling round the other night,
To look at 'Frisco by gas light,
Our careless feet, by chance did stray
To where a fountain's ceaseless play
Of sparkling waters, made a screen
Through which a sweet bouquet was seen;
While mossy stone and pearly shell,
O'er which the waters softly fell,
Made that window seem to be
Some fairy grotto of the sea.
"Stop," said my friend, "let's go in here;
It looks so nice—and try their cheer."
"All right," I said, "I must agree
That this place suits me to a 'T.'"
No sooner had we found a seat
Than at our side a waiter neat
Made his appearance, asked our wish—
Said they had almost any dish
That we might name. We found it true,
And cooked magnificently, too;
All kinds of oysters, juicy, fat,
Cooked every style; just think of that,
And if your mouth don't water, then
You're different from other men.
They'd clams and crabs and terrapin,
In fact, we found they had within
That cosy place all kinds of game,
Fish, flesh or fowl which we could name,
While every dish was, I am sure,
Prepared to tempt an epicure.
The ladies, too, have found, 'twould seem,
That they have here the best ice cream;
So here they flock, the little sinners,
To get what they call "such nice dinners."
Whoever doubts this let him rush
To three hundred thirty-seven Bush,
And there this truth he'll find and made plain:
Who goes there once will go again.
Pacific Oyster House, 337 Bush street, above Montgomery; open Day and Night.
CHARLES HAAKE, Proprietor.

What Next?

Every one knows how a photograph looks when viewed through a stereoscope—but a stereoscope cannot always be had. G. D. Morse, at 417 Montgomery street has obviated this difficulty by producing a photograph that is so clear and sharp in its outlines that one would almost think he was looking through the lens of a stereoscope. Mr. Morse's parlors look more like an art gallery than a place of business. 2-r

A Pleasant Location.

Persons desiring comfortable lodgings in a central location, should visit the Alhambra, and inspect the fine suites of rooms to let there. The building is a very fine one and is well lighted and ventilated.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

LIFE OF EDWIN FORREST,

....BY....

JAMES REES,

(OLLEY OIBBER).

THE LIFE OF EDWIN FORREST, WITH REMINISCENCES AND PERSONAL RECOLLECTIONS OF THE GREAT AMERICAN TRAGEDIAN—The author, Mr. Rees, was a warm admirer of the tragedian, having enjoyed the closest intimacy and personal friendship with him for a period of nearly fifty years, and in the latter part of his life was his constant companion. He was one of the few men who understood Mr. Forrest not only professionally, but socially, and had opportunities possessed by no one else, of becoming acquainted with the whole of his professional career, as well as with the various phases of his character in private life. He gives a complete history of Mr. Forrest's life, from the time of his birth until his death, as well as many anecdotes and incidents which have never been collected or published before, published in one large duodecimo volume of over five hundred pages.

Every copy of the work contains a portrait of Edwin Forrest, engraved on steel, in line and stipple, in the finest style of the engraver's art, from the last picture for which Mr. Forrest sat, and which he pronounced to be the best portrait ever taken of himself, as well as a copy of his Autograph, his Last Will in Full, and the Charter of the "Edwin Forrest Home," which he endowed. The work is bound in Morocco cloth, gilt back, and is sold at the low price of Two Dollars a copy.

MARYSVILLE, March [illegible]

DR. ABORN—DEAR SIR: The last time I was in your city, a year ago February, you treated me for Catarrh. I had been troubled with the above about THIRTEEN YEARS, and was skeptical about your being able to relieve me. The last time I called on you prior to my return home I promised to inform you whether you had effected a permanent or temporary cure. I have not the SLIGHTEST TRACE OF CATARRH, and as this is the first year since I was under your treatment, I think I am safe in saying, that you have effected a permanent cure in my case. You are at liberty to use this letter as you see fit.

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

Opera House.

Large audiences are the rule at this house. It would be strange if this were not the case considering the immense attraction presented by the combined companies. To-night an excellent first part will be given by Billy Sweatnam, Billy Welch Con T. Murphy, W. F. Baker, J. G. Russell, and others. After this George S. Knight who is a great favorite will appear in his specialities. Little Mac and Jule Robinson will present the "Two Actors," Welch and Rice will appear for the first time in their original song and dance entitled "Daisey." Billy Sweatnam and Charley Reed will perform the very funny act entitled "Uncle Abe and Sister Ruth" and the performance will conclude with Offenbach's operetta entitled "Two Many Cooks, or the Rose of St. Fleur" in which Miss Susan Galton, John Howson and Alfred Kelcher will appear. Friday evening next is set apart for the benefit of that funniest of Dutchmen, Geo. S. Knight.

California Theatre.

At the matinee on Saturday, and again in the evening this theatre was crowded. To-night, Miss Neilson will appear as Julia in "The Hunchback" in which she made her first appearance before a London audience. To-morrow night "As You Like It" will be played for the last time. On Wednesday and Friday "The Hunchback" will be repeated, and Thursday and Saturday will be the only two evenings on which "The Lady of Lyons" will be played, with Miss Neilson as Pauline. This play will also constitute the matinee entertainment.

Palace Amphitheatre.

To-night, a new season presenting extraordinary attractions will commence at this popular place of amusement. The Dockrill-Kenobel Parisian Troupe comprising M. Dockrill, the talented ringmaster, Miss Dockrill, the premiere equestrienne of the world, Mons. Kenobel, the funniest of clowns, his brother who is talented in his peculiar specialities, and a number of fine horses will appear in the great programme published on our first page. The Parisian Troupe will be strengthened by the addition of the stars of the late combination comprising Fred O'Brien, Leon and Laiselles, S. O. Kingsley, Katy Holloway, Geo. Holland, Johnny Cooke, Wm. Warner, L. Samwells, Dorr and Worland, the Australian Brothers, and El Nino Willie. Those who wish to gain admission to-night must either reserve their seats or go early.

JOSH BILLINGS.—This popular humorist, whose wise and witty sayings have been published again and again in every paper in the United States, will make his appearance and deliver a lecture at Platt's Hall on Wednesday evening next. He will give another lecture on the following evening. Josh Billings is so well known and appreciated on this side of the Rocky Mountains that he is sure of a large audience on both occasions.

Bella Union Theatre.

The Royal Tycoon Troupe of Japanese appear nightly in wonderful feats. Moore and Bray present new songs and dances, Miss Alice Ross sings serio-comic songs, Ed Murray presents his "Budget of Fun," and the two last named artistes appear with Miss Jennie Johnson in the drama entitled "Two Climes," which has made quite a hit. The laughable sketch of "The Double-Beded Room" terminates the evening's fun.

Buckley's New Variety Theatre.

"The Mysterious Restaurant," "Old Black Joe," "The Haunted Pawnshop," and "The Music Lesson" are the acts to be performed to-night by Ned Buckley, Geo. C. Thompson, Harry Dewey, Frank Mortimore and others.

Woodward's Gardens.

The only thing that interferes with the amusement of visitors to these Gardens is, the wind which sometimes blows so hard that the balloon cannot be sent up. A barricade forty feet in height is now being built to shelter the balloon and secure for it a quiet start. A large addition is also being made to the Pavilion in the shape of a handsome structure of iron and glass. The shark, the aviary and the aquarium are objects of interest.

Prof. Denton's Lectures.

This will be the last week of the instructive course of lectures by Prof. Denton, at Mercantile Library Hall. These lectures have proven immensely popular, and the Hall is crowded nightly. The lecture to-night will be on "The Future of our Planet and its Inhabitants as indicated by Geology." The subject to-morrow night will be "The Origin of Life and Man."

ANATOMICAL MUSEUM.—One of the most complete collections of the kind in the United States, comprising hundreds of costly and beautiful wax models, is daily on view (to gentlemen only) at the Museum on Montgomery street. An hour may be profitably spent here.

The Season of Picnics.

The first picnic of the season was given yesterday by the San Francisco Rifles, at the City Gardens. The day was bright, balmy and delicious, and the initiative picnic was a complete success. Every social association, military organization and society of every kind, are marshaling their forces for the grand demonstration to be made on their "annual picnic." To show how rapidly the work is going on, we give a list of the coming picnics at the most popular picnic resorts, which will be held as noted below :

DOWN BY THE BROOK.

Down by the brook went Effie and I,
Down by the brook 'neath the forest trees,
When the air with the breath of flowers was sweet,
And the long grass swayed to the Summer breeze,
The brooklet danced in the sunbeams bright,
And murmured its own sweet song of glee,
While over our heads the merry birds
Were filling the air with melody,

Ah, me! I wonder if ever now
Her thoughts go back to that dear old time
When under the forest trees we sat,
Hearing the ripples' dreamy rhyme?
And dipping her hand in the waters bright,
How lazily she with the ripples played!
And the dimples hid in her soft, fair cheek
As I watched her there 'neath the old trees' shade.

Alas for the vows we plighted then!
Her heart was fickle, and mine was strong;
The love she gave on that Summer's day
Lasted only the Summer long!
Down by the brook, 'neath the grand old trees,
Effie and I no more may go,
And only the birds in their leafy nests
Shall hark to the ripples' dreamy flow.

Making People Safe.

They have enacted a law in Kentucky, making it a penal offense to practice medicine or surgery without a certificate to show that the practitioner has regularly graduated either in Europe or America. When every ambitious youth who can distinguish cream of tartar from washing-soda conceives himself entitled to enter the lists as a quasi contractor to supply with quiet occupants adjacent churchyards, the situation is a grave one in the strictest sense. Human life should be carefully guarded, by suitable legislation, from every species of avoidable sacrifice, and especially at the hands of the heedless, whether they carry an air-gun or a lancet, a box of pills or a revolver.

Setting it Right.

An old farmer employed a son of Erin to work for him on his farm. Pat was constantly misplacing the end boards of the cart—the front board behind and the tail board in front, which made the old gentleman very irritable. To prevent blunders he painted on both boards a large "B," then calling Pat to him and showing him the boards, said: "Now, you blockhead, you need make no mistake, as they are now both marked. This (pointing to one board) is 'B' for before, and that (indicating the tail board) is 'B' for behind," whereupon the old gentleman marched off with great dignity.

The Young Man from the East.

"I'm a stranger in this city,
I'm lately from the East,
And mighty fond of oysters;
Where can I get a feast?
I've been to all the restaurants,
But nowhere could I find,
A plate of Eastern oysters,
Of the old-fashioned kind."

"Well, I can tell you," said his friend,
"Exactly where to go,
And where to get your oysters,
Direct from where they grow.
Just take a stroll down PINE STREET,
At 410, below the Market,
You'll see a sign, 'THE SADDLE ROCK,'
You can't fail to remark it.

"Emerson Corville keeps the place,
The best saloon in town,
There you can get your oysters raw,
Or fried so crisp and brown.
He's the largest oyster dealer
On the Pacific Coast,
And that he keeps the freshest
Has ever been his boast.

"He's got nice little private rooms,
Where you can sit at ease,
And eat your California stew,
Or Eastern if you please.
All the young men of fashion go
Right to the SADDLE ROCK,
To eat their EASTERN OYSTERS
And drink their Rhenish hock."

Tearing Down Old Landmarks.

Some men's lives are failures because they have mistaken their vocation. No matter what a man's calling may be, he should study to make that calling a success. There is more skill in selecting and arranging the adornments of our homes than many have any idea of. One of the most difficult articles to arrange with taste is Carpets. One must have an eye to the surroundings, the height of the room, the number of windows, the style of the other furniture, and then proceed to select the Carpet. For some rooms one must have a large pattern, in others a small figure; bright colors do not always look the best. Mr. Burnham, one of the firm of J. W. Burnham & Co., 618 Market and 17 Post street, has made the selecting of Carpets and Window-Hangings a study, and selected his stock accordingly—Brussels, Ingrains, Tapestry and Velvets, to say nothing of Oil Cloths, of which they make a specialty. Messrs. B. & Co. are obliged, we regret to say, to close out their entire stock at a sacrifice, on account of the tearing down of their present store, in order to rebuild. For the next thirty days Mr. Burnham can be found at his place of business, and will give his advice and long experience to all that may require it. 3-D

THE SCIENCE—for it is a science—of taking the impression of any animate or inanimate thing on Glass, Porcelain or Cardboard, by using the sun as an auxiliary, is an important one. Improvements have been made from time to time by those who have made Photography a study To our mind (and a visit will make our readers agree with us) the artist who presides at the Florence Gallery, 23 Third street, has attained a degree of excellence seldom achieved, if ever equalled. His Life-Size Portraits are excellent and prices low. 2bh

Epicure's Retreat.

The epicurean fond of nice grain-fed, pig-pork chop, tenderloin or roast, resorts to R. F. Bunker's 74 and 76 California Market, and is never disappointed, for "Bob," is a good feeder himself, and always keeps on hand the very best in his line. Bunker's celebrated Club Sausages will tickle the palate of the most fastidious. Even dyspeptics laugh after eating those sausages. 1z

From one tooth to a full upper set, from $5 to $20. Filling reasonable. By Dr. Crowell, D.

Macready's Stage Business.

Mr. Murdock, in a recent lecture in Boston, related the following anecdote: "Macready always premeditated his stage business, which was an important relic of histrionic art. On one occasion, just before going on the stage in the character of Richelieu, Macready took hold of the end of a scene-piece, and began practicing his stage business. While going over his 'coughing' part one of the stage carpenters came along, and struck him three times on the back. Macready yelled, and turned upon the unfortunate carpenter, but just at this juncture the call-boy came up and said, 'Mr. Macready, the stage is waiting,' so Macready had to rush on, after keeping the audience waiting for some time, and was seized with such a natural fit of coughing that he was rewarded with the prolonged applause of the spectators, who took the reality for acting."

A Jumble of Absurdities.

It is quite a common declaration of the pulpit that men are losing their reverence for sacred things. The clergy are doing the same thing, if the Rev. Dr. McCraig, of the Ninth Presbyterian Church, in Chicago, may be believed. He is publicly reported to have declared sacred history to be a "jumble of absurdities;" and he boldly adds that "Evolution started with sawdust and fire mist and made a world, and from monads, trilobites and flies, has climbed all the way up to man and Christian civilization." When the church listens to such doctrines as Dr. Craig is here credited with enunciating, can we wonder that congregations grow sparse and cold—that thinking men and women despair of eternity when "monad, trilobites and flies" represent the original bases of current humanity.

Effeminate Men.

An effeminate man, says a recent writer, is a weak poultice. He is a cross between table beer and ginger pop, with the cork left out, a fresh water mermaid found in a cow pasture with her hair filled with dandelions. He is a teacup full of syllabub, a kitten in trowsers; a sick monkey with a blonde moustache. He is a vine without any tendrils; a fly drowned in oil; a paper kite in a dead calm. He likes a butterfly—nobody can tell why. He is as harmless as a penny worth of sugar candy, and as useless as a shirt button without a hole. He is as lazy as a slug, and has no more hope than last year's summer fly. He goes through life on tiptoe, and dies like cologne water spilled over the ground.

Oysters.

In strolling round the other night,
To look at 'Frisco by gas light,
Our careless feet, by chance did stray
To where a fountain's cesseless play
Of sparkling waters, made a screen
Through which a sweet bouquet was seen;
While mossy stone and pearly shell,
O'er which the waters softly fell,
Made that window seem to be
Some fairy grotto of the sea.
"Stop," said my friend, "let's go in here;
It looks so nice—and try their cheer."
"All right," I said, "I must agree
That this place suits me to a 'T.'"
No sooner had we found a seat
Than at our side a waiter neat
Made his appearance, asked our wish—
Said they had almost any dish
That we might name. We found it true,
And cooked magnificently, too;
All kinds of oysters, juicy, fat,
Cooked every style; just think of that,
And if your mouth don't water, then
You're different from other men.
They'd clams and crabs and terrapins;
In fact, we found they had within
That cosy place all kinds of game,
Fish, flesh or fowl which we could name,
While every dish was, I am sure,
Prepared to tempt an epicure.
The ladies, too, have found, 'twould seem,
That they have here the best ice cream;
So here they flock, the little sinners,
To get what they call "such nice dinners."
Whoever doubts this let him rush
To three hundred thirty-seven Bush,
And there this truth he'll find made plain:
Who goes there once will go again,
Pacific Oyster House, 337 Bush street, above Montgomery; open Day and Night.
CHARLES HAAKE, Proprietor.

The Lucky Number

Fortuna, the Goddess of Luck, must have designated one hundred and forty-four as her symbol. W. E. Mayhew believes in the number. He drew the second grand prize in the last lottery on that number, and then moved his large and complete stock of Drugs, Perfumes, etc., to 144 Fourth street. Naturally happy and free-hearted, he continues in business for the pleasure it affords him. He is actually giving a splendid Sachet Package of Rimmel's or Lubin's to every customer that comes to his store. 3 B

Spring Style Hats.

Everybody knows that "FIGARO" has been distributed free for years very generally throughout the city, and has been circulated as programme in every theatre and place of amusement in San Francisco; and we want everybody to know that "FIGARO" is always distributed on the Oakland Ferry-boats that bring the passengers by the great overland train to this city, and is placed in their hands every day—Sundays included. That it is mailed free every day to all the leading hotels on the Pacific Coast. That "FIGARO" is circulated by Taylor & Co., the Oakland bill distributors, every day throughout the central portions of Oakland. That it is also distributed at Sacramento and on the Sacramento steamers on their down trips to this city, and in all towns on the river side, as may be seen by the annexed certificate from A. H. Nahor, distributing agent on the steamers:

This is to certify that I have agreed to, and do, distribute "FIGARO" thoroughly on the Sacramento steamers on their down trips to San Francisco, and have made arrangements to have it generally distributed in the towns of Benicia, Martinez, Collinsville, Sherman Island, Rio Vista, Courtland, Antioch, Pittsburg Landing, New York Landing, and in all of the hotels, saloons, public places, etc., in Sacramento City. ALFRED H. NAHOR,

March 4th, 1874.

Arrangements are being made for further circulation on other lines of travel, so that "FIGARO" shall be "here, there and everywhere," and be placed in the hands of all strangers, families and business men en route to this city.

The Ladies of To-day and 30 Years Ago.

Thirty years ago the advantages one could have were few compared with to-day. Then, if a lady was troubled with any complaints incidental to womanhood, she was obliged to trust to the various methods then in vogue, and seldom with any relief being derived. The basis of nearly all the medicines then were mineral. The superiority and safety of vegetable over mineral medicine has been demonstrated by the medical faculty all over the world. The Marsh Truss Co. (31 years standing) have in connection with their Truss department a Medical Infirmary, where they make ladies cases a specialty. Their medicines are all purely vegetable. Ladies troubled with delicate diseases should call at once on the Marsh Truss Co., 613 Montgomery street, and have their cases attended to. Special consulting room for ladies. 2-x

Sir Walter Raleigh created a consternation when he appeared before his servants smoking a pipe of Tobacco. The sight was a new one to them, and they, as well as the public in general were slow to learn the use of the Weed Had they had Tobacco of the quality and perfect flavor which the Perique and Golden Thread Smoking Tobacco of to-day have, smoking would much sooner become almost universal. The Gilroy Tobacco Company (office 304 Pine street), are offering the above-named Tobaccos to the public, and we advise those in want of a good article to give them a trial. 3-x

The Art of Dancing and Deportment.

Those who appreciate culture will be glad to learn that Professor C. H. Lester has opened an Academy for the purpose of teaching, not only dancing, but those graces of deportment without which no one can shine in society. Prof. Lester is a thorough master of his art, one of the best on this side of the Rocky Mountains. Classes are held at Grand Central Hall on the corner of Sixth and Market streets on Mondays and Thursdays.

Important to Smokers.

Few men in San Francisco are aware that the enterprising firm of Kahn & Haas are employing white females labor in the manufacture of their Cigars. The very best material is used in this establishment. Call and convince yourself at 773 Market street, between Third & Fourth street. Finest brands Havana Cigars constantly on hand. 11-x

Great Bargains in Clothing.

The only store in the city that has the largest cheapest and finest assortment of Men's and Boys Clothing, is H. Peyser's Montgomery Avenue Clothing Store, 719 Montgomery street, between Washington and Jackson. Also, a large assortment of Men's and Boys' Overcoats and Cloaks, and the finest stock of Gents' Furnishing Goods, Trunks, Valises, etc. 2-x

Miss Host of the Morton House (on Post street, near Kearny), finding that first-class accommodations, at reasonable rates, has had a tendency to fill his Hotel to overflowing, has determined to enlarge his present accommodations so that families visiting the city will be enabled to find a home in its literal sense. 2w

Cutting Criticism.

J. M. Hardie, who was quite a favorite in San Francisco, has been attempting to play Shakspeare in Philadelphia, and gets it hot from the All-Day City Item. He appeared at the Walnut Street Theatre on the 9th, as Macbeth, Miss Charlotte Cushman playing Lady Macbeth. The Item says:

We cannot praise it. We do not like to criticise. How ungracious is the office of the critic; especially, when he is compelled, by a sense of duty, to find fault?

Mr. Hardie has attempted "Shakspeare without a Master," and, like all such adventurous spirits, he is lost in a sea of doubt and difficulty. The Gallowglasses should have seen his costume! But, let that pass. He read badly last night, without understanding his lines. How, then, could he interpret them? His action was redundant, his favorite attitude being "Ajax, defying the lightning." His hands and arms did windmill service. He lacked variety and repose. His emphasis was nearly always wrong. In a word, the performance was dire. On this gentleman's tomb will be written the words, "Here lies the actor who would not be advised!"

It may be some comfort to Hardie to find that the Item is equally severe on the star of the evening. It says of her:

Miss Cushman fails constantly. She mumbles and moans and gasps. Even her pronunciation is defective. She says "sovereign," for suvereign," and we could give a dozen examples, in which she slighted the stage authority—Walker.

Speaking of the Walnut Street Theatre generally, it says:

We do not like to say it; but, the overshadowing sin of the Walnut is bad pronunciation. This was not so in the days of Mr. Peter Richings. Think of an actor reading aloud, and in downright earnest, "He unbeamed him from the nave to the chaps," pronouncing the word "chaps" as it is spelled! Yet this was done last night, and there was no one to tell the poor ignoramus of his error! And we heard mispronounced the words "earth," "time," "prologue," "leisure," "ingratitude," "sovereign," "mortal," "nature," etc.

Something Clever in the "Call."

Yesterday's Call contained an admirable essay on the American Statesman, and descriptions of the members of the Legislature, illlustrated with capitally executed wood engravings of the great men of the Senate and Assembly. Both letterpress and sketches were by Tommy Newcomb. Anything clever that appears in the Call now-a-days may be safely set down to him. We are rather astonished, however, at Thomas, who understands the English language pretty well, saying:

The fourth of the trio is the Chairman of the Judiciary—Senator Pendegast.

We hardly know where the fourth of a trio can come in.

Not a Bad Match.

The bridal trousseau of the Duchess of Edinburgh is said to have cost £40,000; it included, according to Russian custom, large pieces of silk and velvet, not made up, and a complete stock of linen for household and personal use. The dower of her Highness was £75,000, with £9,000 a year.

A Sight Not Often Seen.

A day or two since we visited Col. Andrews' establishment, at 221 Montgomery street, and were surprised at the immense stock of precious gems that the Colonel keeps. There were—

Great pearls, milk-white, shining like the moon;
Emeralds, grass green;
Sapphires, like skies of June;
And one great diamond outshone them all,
Large as a pigeon's egg, and clear as wine—
When held before the sun a gem divine."

A half day could not be more profitably spent than in a visit to the Colonel's emporium. If one does not wish to purchase, the genial Colonel takes great pleasure in showing his immense stock to visitors, and explaining the intricate workmanship and the artistic designs necessary to produce even one of the ornaments that go to make up his large and valuable stock.

Mr. L. Jallewits, No. 240 Kearny street, New and Second-Hand Clothing, of all descriptions, bought and sold. Store closed on Saturday until 6 P. M. yr

"The School for Scandal."

This fine old comedy is to be played for the benefit of Benjamin Webster, the London manager. "Gammer Gurtin," the correspondent of the New York Spirit of the Times, has in his last letter an account of the members of the profession who will take part in the performance which, considering the recent performance of the comedy at the California Theatre, may be found interesting:

The cast for Sheridan's "School for Scandal" is likely to become historical, and rivals the almost equally celebrated cast of some years ago at Drury Lane, on the occasion of a benefit for the Dramatic College—one of Mr. Webster's pet hobbies, by-the-by. Mr. Samuel Phelps will be Sir Peter Teazle—a performance quite unequalled in its way, for in spite of his years there is an energy and verve in Mr. Phelps' acting possessed by very few young men. This actor is one of the veterans, but how very seldom he is approached in comedy. I do not want to see any better performance than his Sir Pertinax MacSycophant, in Macklin's "Man of the World," or Lord Ogleby, in the "Clandestine Marriage." This is the acting that makes the blood beat freely in the veins. Mr. Emery, one of our first-rate artists, will be Sir Oliver Surface. The Joseph Surface of Mr. Creswick will not be so good, but such an old and well-tried actor could not be conveniently left out of the cast. Mr. Alfred Wigan or Mr. Henry Irving should have played Joseph Surface, a character which is only beginning to be understood. Actors of the old school, that is to say, actors who imitated Macready's mannerisms, and tried to persuade us that this was art, misunderstand Joseph Surface as much as Iago. Fechter, foreigner and Frenchman though he is, strikes me as the best Iago I ever saw. Some day, perhaps, we shall get an actor who will play Joseph Surface like a gentleman, and without obtruding his villainy. No one in the world could be taken in by the conventional hypocrisy of the accepted Joseph Surface. He should be a young, handsome, and captivating villian. No Lady Teazle in the world would flirt with the orthodox Joseph Surface. It is everything to get the name of Charles Mr. Matthews in the cast, and Mr. Knowles, of Manchester, has generously allowed him to forfeit one night of his engagement in order to play. Every one in the whole house will rejoice to see Charles Matthews, and will care very little how he plays Charles Surface. Mr. Buckstone as Sir Benjamin Backbite, Mr. Compton as Crabtree, and Mr. H. J. Montague as Careless, will one and all be admirable. The servant Trip falls to Mr. John Clarke; the Jew money-lender Moses will be perfectly interpreted by Mr. J. L. Toole. Snake falls to Mr. Thomas Thorne, and Rowley to Mr. Horace Wigan. Sir Harry (with song) was to have been undertaken by Mr. Santley or Sims Reeves, but unavoidable engagements prevent this. Sir Harry has therefore been claimed by Mr. W. Wrighton, the author of "Her Bright Smile Haunts Me Still," and one of the very sweetest singers for the drawing room it has ever been my good lot to hear. Sir Toby is to be played by Mr. Billington, and Lionel Brough, David James, Righton and Britton Wright will be servants, without one word to speak. Such a part as "My lord, the carriage waits," would not be considered infra dig. on this special occasion. And now for the ladies. Miss Helen Faucit will break new ground with Lady Teazle—a mistake, I venture to think. Such a consummate artist could play nothing ill, and her very name is an attraction, but it is not the time for experiments. Mrs. Sterling is, of course, Mrs. Candour, and Mrs. Alfred Mellon, Lady Sneerwell. Happily, indeed, we are to have young blood and new inspiration, also, for Miss Mabel Bateman plays Maria, and Miss E. Farron, the waiting maid of Lady Teazle. The "guests will be played by the principal members of the dramatic profession."

What Next?

Every one knows how a photograph looks when viewed through a stereoscope—but a stereoscope cannot always be had. G. D. Morse, at 417 Montgomery street has obviated this difficulty by producing a photograph that is so clear and sharp in its outlines that one would almost think he was looking through the lens of a stereoscope. Mr. Morse's parlors look more like an art gallery than a place of business. 2-x

For a good, quiet, nice saloon, commend us to the "Orient," 720 Market street. Messrs. Goldworthy & Weston are saloon-keepers who know their business thoroughly, and consequently keep only the best of Wines, Whiskys and Cigars. We can commend the "Orient" as one of the best places in the city. Try once and you will be satisfied. 2-o

Taking Things Literally.

A number of days ago an advertisement appeared in the papers stating that "1,000 butterflies were wanted at the Palace Amphitheatre by Mons. Kenebel," the French clown, which was merely intended as an advertising dodge, as Kenebel is famed for his funny Butterfly Act. It caught the eye of a San Jose rustic, and he went and caught the butterflies to the number of several hundred, and brought them up to the city for Kenebel. When Rustic learned the true state of affairs he wilted like a wet rag. He was out his time and passage money and he'd "be dod-darned if it was right, anyhow!" To settle things Manager Wilson Wilson took the butterflies and paid him the expenses of the trip and his board in town until to-morrow, and gave him a four-bit ticket for the circus to-night. The butterflies were let loose yesterday morning, and if any unseasonable butterflies are seen around anywhere it can be relied upon that they are some of those brought here by Rustic.

LIFE OF

EDWIN FORREST.

....BY....

JAMES REES,

(COLLEY CIBBER).

The Life of Edwin Forrest, with Reminiscences and Personal Recollections of the Great American Tragedian.—The author, Mr. Rees, was a warm admirer of the tragedian, having enjoyed the closest intimacy and personal friendship with him for a period of nearly fifty years, and in the latter part of his life was his constant companion. He was one of the few men who understood Mr. Forrest not only professionally, but socially, and had opportunities possessed by no one else, of becoming acquainted with the whole of his professional career, as well as with the various phases of his character in private life. He gives a complete history of Mr. Forrest's life, from the time of his birth until his death, as well as many anecdotes and incidents which have never been collected or published before, published in one large duodecimo volume of over five hundred pages.

Every copy of the work contains a portrait of Edwin Forrest, engraved on steel, in line and stipple, in the finest style of the engraver's art, from the last picture for which Mr. Forrest sat, and which he pronounced to be the best portrait ever taken of himself, as well as a copy of his Autograph, his Last Will in Full, and the Charter of the "Edwin Forrest Home," which he endowed. The work is bound in Morocco cloth, gilt back, and is sold at the low price of Two Dollars a copy.

AN OPEN LETTER

MARYSVILLE, March 1st,

DR. ABORN—DEAR SIR: The last time I was in your city, a year ago February, you treated me for Catarrh. I had been troubled with the above about THIRTEEN YEARS, and was skeptical about your being able to relieve me. The last time I called on you prior to my return home I promised to inform you whether you had effected a permanent or temporary cure. I HAVE NOT THE SLIGHTEST TRACE OF CATARRH, and as it is now a year since I was under your treatment, I think it safe in saying, that you have effected a permanent cure in my case. You are at liberty to make this letter as you see fit.

Yours Respectfully,
MRS. ELIZABETH SEAVEY.

WHERE WE CIRCULATE "FIGARO."

Everybody knows that "FIGARO" has been distributed free for years very generally throughout the city, and has been circulated as programme in every theatre and place of amusement in San Francisco; and we want everybody to know that "FIGARO" is always distributed on the Oakland Ferry-boats that bring the passengers by the great overland train to this city, and is placed in their hands every day—Sundays included. That it is mailed free every day to all the leading hotels on the Pacific Coast. That "FIGARO" is circulated by Taylor & Co., the Oakland bill distributors, every day throughout the central portions of Oakland. That it is also distributed at Sacramento and on the Sacramento steamers on their down trips to this city, and in all towns on the river side, as may be seen by the annexed certificate from A. H. Nahor, distributing agent on the steamers:

This is to certify that I have agreed to, and do, distribute "FIGARO" thoroughly on the Sacramento steamers on their down trips to San Francisco, and have made arrangements to have it generally distributed in the towns of Benicia, Martinez, Collinsville, Sherman Island, Rio Vista, Courtland, Antioch, Pittsburg Landing, New York Landing, and in all of the hotels, saloons, public places, etc., in Sacramento City. ALFRED H. NAHOR.

March 4th, 1874.

Arrangements are being made for further circulation on other lines of travel, so that "FIGARO" shall be "here, there and everywhere," and be placed in the hands of all strangers, families and business men en route to this city.

The Ladies of To-day and 30 Years Ago.

Thirty years ago the advantages one could have were few compared with to-day. Then, if a lady was troubled with any complaints incidental to womanhood, she was obliged to trust to the various methods then in vogue, and seldom with any relief being derived. The bases of nearly all the medicines then were mineral. The superiority and safety of vegetable over mineral medicine has been demonstrated by the medical faculty all over the world. The Marsh Truss Co. (31 years standing) have in connection with their Truss department a Medical Infirmary, where they make ladies cases a specialty. Their medicines are all purely vegetable. Ladies troubled with delicate diseases should call at once on the Marsh Truss Co., 513 Montgomery street, and have their cases attended to. Special consulting room for ladies. 2-x

Sir Walter Raleigh created a consternation when he appeared before his servants smoking a pipe of Tobacco. The sight was a new one to them, and they, as well as the public in general were slow to learn the use of the Weed Had they had Tobacco of the quality and perfect flavor which the Perique and Golden Thread Smoking Tobacco of to-day have, smoking would much sooner become almost universal. The Gilroy Tobacco Company (office 304 Pine street), are offering the above-named Tobaccos to the public, and we advise those in want of a good article to give them a trial. 3-x

The Art of Dancing and Deportment.

Those who appreciate culture will be glad to learn that Professor C. H. Lester has opened an Academy for the purpose of teaching, not only dancing, but those graces of deportment without which no one can shine in society. Prof. Lester is a thorough master of his art, one of the best on this side of the Rocky Mountains. Classes are held at Grand Central Hall on the corner of Sixth and Market streets on Mondays and Thursdays.

Important to Smokers.

Few men in San Francisco are aware that the enterprising firm of Kahn & Hass are employing white females labor in the manufacture of their Cigars. The very best material is used in this establishment. Call and convince yourself at 778 Market street, between Third & Fourth street. Finest brands Havana Cigars constantly on hand. 11-T

Great Bargains in Clothing.

The only store in the city that has the largest cheapest and finest assortment of Men's and Boys Clothing, is H. Peyser's Montgomery Avenue Clothing Store, 719 Montgomery street, between Washington and Jackson. Also, a large assortment of Men's and Boys' Overcoats and Cloaks, and the finest stock of Gents' Furnishing Goods, Trunks, Valises, etc. 2-x

MINE HOST of the Morton House (on Post street, near Kearny), finding that first-class accommodations, at reasonable rates, has had a tendency to fill his Hotel to overflowing, has determined to enlarge his present accommodations so that families visiting the city will be enabled to find a home in its literal sense. 2w

Read this Once.

It is universally acknowledged that the Steinway Piano and the Burdett Organ are the best instruments in the world. M. Gray, Music Publisher, 523 Clay street, is the sole Agent. Brass and String Instruments of the best make only. 3-1

Special to Ladies.

For dressmaking in all its branches and the latest styles, call on Mrs. J. J. Walker, at 310 Post street. Terms reasonable. 3-w

Grace Greenwood on Woman's Rights.

The New York Sun of March 5th, says: Grace Greenwood drew a large audience to Plymouth Church last evening. The subject of her lecture was "Indoors; or the Home." Many conservatives fear that with the franchise for women we shall lose our homes. The lecturer thought this a groundless apprehension. Her lecture was a description of home as it should be, and gave many hits at the mistakes of domestic life, the age, and public opinion. Good Mr. Brown, if his wife dies, engraves on her tombstone that she was the loving wife of James Brown, Esq. He does not expect that if he goes first, she will put on his tombstone that he was the faithful husband of Matilda Brown. The matron of the home should have a voice in making the laws by which she may be divorced, taxed, deprived of her children, imprisoned, hanged. Old age is necessary to the family completeness; so are children; as necessary to a perfect home as flowers were to Eden. But love is the great indispensible. Proud families may suffer grinding poverty and keep it concealed, but when love is out at the elbows, all the world knows it.

He Lives on It.

Col. Higginson is one of the gentlemen who gives the world his views from the lecture platform. Recently he gave utterance to the ponderous thoughts which his brain produces in the following language: "I would rather see too much enthusiasm than not enough. I often think that the spread-eagle of the stump orator is better than the cold spirit of the city editor who cuts him up. I would rather be choked with gas than smothered with starch. The colonel is in no danger of being choked with gas so long as there is a lecture room in the country. His hearers, however, are not so free from danger.

Really a Nuisance.

There is a youth of our acquaintance who is disgusted. He has been keeping company with a fair creature for the past two years. Recently, she has taken great interest in the temperance movement, and when he goes to see her, he finds her so surrounded with brothers and sisters of some temperance organization that he can't get a chance to squeeze her waist, nor do a little hugging, nor even get a few words from her dear mouth. He says, if this thing continues, the young female may save souls, but she'll lose a lover.

A Failure.

An exchange informs us that a Stillwater, Mich., man dreamed recently that his aunt was dead. The dream proved true. He tried the same dream on his mother-in-law, but it didn't work. She still lives, and he still sorrows.

A Sight Not Often Seen.

A day or two since we visited Col. Andrews' establishment, at 221 Montgomery street, and were surprised at the immense stock of precious gems that the Colonel keeps. There were—

'Great pearls, milk-white, shining like the moon;
Emeralds, grass green:
Sapphires, like skies of June;
And one great diamond outshone them all,
Large as a pigeon's egg, and clear as wine—
When held before the sun a gem divine."

A half day could not be more profitably spent than in a visit to the Colonel's emporium. If one does not wish to purchase, the genial Colonel takes great pleasure in showing his immense stock to visitors, and explaining the intricate workmanship and the artistic designs necessary to produce even one of the ornaments that go to make up his large and valuable stock.

Hair Goods.

The cheapest place in the city to buy Human and Imitation hair goods, Toys, Dolls, Ribbons etc., is the New York store 110 Second street. Agency for hair silk goods, made of pure silk No branch stores. Goods sent, C. O. D. The New York store has been established for years, and is the leading one in the city.

Do Not Suffer from Corns.

The unfortunate sufferers from Corns, Bunions, Club and Ingrowing Nails, can find instant relief by applying at Dr. B. H. Cowan's Institute, 310 Kearny street, from 1 to 6 P.M. We speak from experience, having tested the Doctor's capability. References given if required. x

The Matinee Fruit Store.

Nutmegs.

[From the Danbury News.]

The biggest thing on ice next Summer will be the price.

An exhorter in a Newton meeting warned his hearers to "look out for the pale hoss an' his rider."

It is astonishing the length of time fifteen or twenty pounds of mud will cling to a coal cart.

There is a Danbury legend to the effect that a party desiring to transact some private business with another, was invited by the other to step into a neighboring store. "But we will be disturbed there," said the first party. "Oh, no," said the second party, "they don't advertise."

Mr. Henderson, of Danbury, was appointed constable on Thursday. In the evening he officially interfered in a fight in the saddle factory tenement, and within the space of three minutes was knocked down, dragged over a rough floor on the back of his head, kicked down two flights of stairs, bitten on the back of the neck, lost two teeth, and was shoved through a fence in his shirt sleeves. He resigned the next morning. He said he was afraid he was too unobtrusive in his nature for the office.

Mrs. Peggerty had a party at her house Saturday evening, and a very pleasant party it was—being conducted on the latest approved principles of aristocratic taste. Mrs. Peggerty does scrubbing at some of the best houses in Danbury, and understands herself in consequence. With a half-dozen sheets of her own, and a number borrowed, Mrs. Peggerty's furniture was neatly enclosed in white on the occasion of the party, and presented an appearance that was exclusive to the last degree, and filled Mrs. Peggerty with a vast amount of comfort, and the guests with the most crushing awe.

Mr. O'Clarence missed his knife, Monday morning. He had laid it right on the mantel shelf the night before, and if anything could not stay just where he put it, he'd like to know the reason. The knife was not there now, and he tore about the house in a hopeless search for it. Mrs. O'Clarence mildly suggested that he might have left it at the shop, but received such a withering glance in reply, that she sincerely regretted the unhappy remark. He prosecuted the search with great vigor, looked under the stove, between the beds, and on the highest shelfs of the china closet. It was not absolutely necessary for anyone to be in the room with him to get the drift of his observations. Finally he put his hand in his pocket, and found the knife there. But he concealed his gratitude so effectually that Mrs. O'Clarence was in doubt as to his feeling it, and merely said that he'd like to catch anyone fooling with that knife again.

The Veteran's Reward.

Who wouldn't be a battered and scarred veteran in England? An ancient and used-up bandmaster of the British army has been retired upon the munificent sum of ten cents a day. Who wouldn't leave both legs on the battle-field, and wear out his arms in sounding the reveille for so grateful a country?

Something Nice for Boston.

The latest sensation of Boston is an organ grinder who wears a stove-pipe hat and kid gloves. Boston always was the most aristocratic city in the country.

What Next?

Every one knows how a photograph looks when viewed through a stereoscope—but a stereoscope cannot always be had. G. D. Morse, at 417 Montgomery street has obviated this difficulty by producing a photograph that is so clear and sharp in its outlines that one would almost think he was looking through the lens of a stereoscope. Mr. Morse's parlors look more like an art gallery than a place of business. 2-T

For a good, quiet, nice saloon, commend us to the "Orient," 720 Market street. Messrs. Goldworthy & Weston are saloon-keepers who know their business thoroughly, and consequently keep only the best of Wines, Whiskys and Cigars. We can commend the "Orient" as one of the best places in the city. Try once and you will be satisfied. 2-o

Going too Far.

Few will dispute the truth of the statement of Mrs. Robert Shebee, of Owassoo, Ill. She says that she "does not care so much about a man's striking a woman with his fist, but when it comes to taking an ax to her, it is too much." Yes, that husband was too violent in his caresses. No husband who has the feelings of a man, who possesses a spark of chivalry in his soul, would strike his wife with anything more deadly than a bootjack. The voice of the world will sustain Mrs. Shebee in her impeachment of her husband as drawing it rather strong in using an ax.

Why Is This?

The young man who used to walk eight or nine miles through Jersey mud to see his "dear," now feels happy when she visits her mother for a week. He's so dreadful busy, that he never can find time to call on her at the old lady's. "Will you love me then as now?" He has answered that conundrum.

LEW RATTLER, the well-known Minstrel, now entertains his friends at his Saloon, 334 Bush street. Give him a call. 3-x

LIFE OF EDWIN FORREST.

....BY....

JAMES REES,

(OLLEY CIBBER).

THE LIFE OF EDWIN FORREST, WITH REMINISCENCES AND PERSONAL RECOLLECTIONS OF THE GREAT AMERICAN TRAGEDIAN —The author, Mr. Rees, was a warm admirer of the tragedian, having enjoyed the closest intimacy and personal friendship with him for a period of nearly fifty years, and in the latter part of his life was his constant companion. he was one of the few men who understood Mr. Forrest not only professionally, but socially, and had opportunities possessed by no one else, of becoming acquainted with the whole of his professional career, as well as with the various phases of his character in private life. He gives a complete history of Mr. Forrest's life, from the time of his birth until his death, as well as many anecdotes and incidents which have never been collected or published before, published in one large duodecimo volume of over five hundred pages.

Every copy of the work contains a portrait of Edwin Forrest, engraved on steel, in line and stipple, in the finest style of the engraver's art, from the last picture for which Mr. Forrest sat, and which he pronounced to be the best portrait ever taken of himself, as well as a copy of his Autograph, his Last Will in Full, and the Charter of the "Edwin Forrest Home," which he endowed. The work is bound in Morocco cloth, gilt back, and is sold at the low price of Two Dollars a copy.

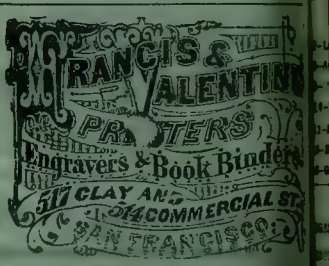
MARYSVILLE, March 1st, 1874.

DR. ABORN—DEAR SIR: The last time I was your city, a year ago February, you treated me for Catarrh. I had been troubled with the above for about THIRTEEN YEARS, and was skeptical about your being able to relieve me. The last time I called on you prior to my return home, I promised to inform you whether you had effected a permanent or temporary cure. I HAVE NOT THE SLIGHTEST TRACE OF CATARRH, and as it is over a year since I was under your treatment, I think I may safe in saying, that you have effected a permanent cure in my case. You are at liberty to use this letter as you see fit.

Yours Respectfully,



MRS. ELIZABETH SEAFORD.

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

California Theatre.

The audience at this theatre last night was limited only by the capacity of the house, and in spite of extra chairs being brought in many stood during the entire performance. It was one worth witnessing at any cost. Miss Neilson in the character of Julia in "The Hunchback," has been surpassed by no actress who has played it here. In the first and second acts, before Julia has developed the strength of character which afterward appears, Miss Neilson acted the role as many have before her, but in the fourth and fifth acts she rose to positive grandeur, and convinced all that an actress of power and genius stood before them. Miss Neilson excels in the art of displaying strong emotion without becoming maudlin, and in tragic power which never degenerates into rant. Her performance of Julia last night was characterized by many new and intelligent readings, which were recognized and accepted by the audience. The support was admirable. Henry Edwards is a splendid Mas er Walter; there are few better representatives of the character on the boards at the present day. Miss Ellie Wilton played the part of Helen charmingly, better than she ever has before, and with W. A. Mes aker, who acquitted himself capitally as Master Modus, received the compliment of an enthusiastic recall at the end of the love making scene in the fifth act. Lewis Morrison as Sir Thomas Clifford entered fully into the spirit of the part, and acted it with much fervour, tempered with discretion. W. Barry as Fathom, gave the audience a treat—acting the part splendidly. "The Hunchback" will be performed to-morrow and on Friday, after which it will be withdrawn. To night, by very general request, the delightful play of "As You Like It" will be performed, with Miss Neilson as Rosalind. As seats are secured ahead for every night of Miss Neilson's engagement, an early application at the box office is suggested to those who wish to get desirable places.

Opera House.

The new bill performed at this house last night, proved extremely popular. Billy Sheatnam, Welch and Rice, and Con. T. Murphy, made much fun in the first part, and J. G. Russell, B. Montague and W. F. Baker provided delicious vocal harmony to the accompaniment of excellent music, by the orchestra, under the direction of Geo. T. Evans. This was followed by Geo. S. Knight's diverting Dutch specialties, "The Actors" performed by Little Mae and Jule Robinson, Welch and Rice in their very lively new song and dance "Daisey," Billy Sweatnam and Charley Reed in their side-splitting act of "Uncle Abe and Sister Ruth," and Miss Susan Galton, John Howson and Alfred Kellaher in Offenbach's charming operetta entitled "Too Many Cooks or the Rose of St. Fleur." The same admirable entertainment will be given to-night.

Palace Amphitheatre.

As we were sure would be the case, one of the largest assemblages ever brought together in this spacious building was present last night when the new season by the Dockrill-Kenebel Parisian Circus Troupe, supported by the principal stars of last season, commenced. The entertainment given was admirable in every respect. The features of the first part were an equestrian somersault act by George Holland, the wonderful performances of the manege horse Ellington, introduced by Mons. R. H. Dockrill, and the excruciatingly funny burlesque of it by that pet of the San Francisco public and funniest of clowns Kenebel. M. Kenebel is if anything a little funnier than he was when he was here before, and is more at home with the public in consequence of being able to speak much more English. This portion of the entertainment terminated with wonderful leaps by the company, and the thrilling double somersault over ten horses and the same number of men piled on their backs, executed by Fred O'Brien. The second part commenced with one of the most startling and extraordinary feats ever presented in the arena, and one which the public could not dare to look on were not the possibility of accident to life, or limb guarded against by spreading an immense netting beneath the performers. Messrs Dorr and Worland hang suspended by their legs from a ladder placed near the roof of the Amphitheatre, and toss from one to the other Master Willie Dorr a child of some seven years of age. During his passage in the air, the wonderful young acrobat throws double and single somersaults. He fell in the netting last night, and immediately rose and climbed by a rope to the ladder in the air. The spectators were painfully shocked at the fall, but when they found that it was, as ring-master Kingsley observed, no "worse than falling on a feather bed," their anxious fears were calmed. This act was followed by a superb exhibition of equestrianism by Madame Dockrill, who was cheered until the building shook with the plaudits of the vast assemblage. She performed her graceful leaps over banners and through balloons with her accustomed ability, and was recalled twice to receive the congratulations of the spectators. The next thing on the programme was an excruciatingly funny act entitled "Dead and Alive," which introduced Joe Kenebel (the original favorite,) and his cousin Francois Kenebel who is a wonderfully comical genius and promises to become almost as great a favorite as Joe. This kept the spectators in a continual roar of laughter for about ten minutes, and then they enjoyed the intelligent performances of the trick horse Napoleon, introduced by Omar Kingsley, Johnny Cooke followed in his hurdle act, and then came Kenebel once more to convulse the spectators with laughter by performing his ever-pleasing Butterfly Act. This very rich and varied entertainment, which can scarcely be equalled in the United States, terminated with ground and lofty tumbling by the entire company. During the intermission many ladies and gentlemen went into the handsomely fitted up stables, which are quite a feature of the establishment, and made the acquaintance of Ellington, Napoleon, the ponies and other equine stars. The same programme will be carried out to-night, and to-morrow ther will be a matinee performance.

Mercantile Library Hall.

Prof. Denton is delivering a highly interesting series of lectures at this Hall. The subject last night was "The Future of our Planet and its Inhabitants as indicated by Geology." The subject to-night will be "The Origin of Life and Man." The theory of Darwin will be fully elucidated.

City Gardens.

The Italian Company, the Garibaldi Guard, will hold their annual picnic and ball here Sunday next. A grand instrumental concert by Chas. Alper's Band, dancing and other amusements will be the order of the day. The Garibaldi Guard are very popular with their countrymen, and there will doubtless be a large attendance.

Bella Union Theatre.

The sensation drama of "Two Crimes," in which Miss Alice Ross, Ed. Murray, Miss Jennie Johnson and others appear, the extraordinary performances of the Royal Tycoon Japanese Troupe, an amusing olio and a brilliant first part make up a capital evening's entertainment at this house.

Buckley's New Variety Theatre.

Ned Buckley, Miss Ida May, George O. Thompson, Frank Mortimore, and a host of others will appear to-night in the entertaining programme published on our first page.

JOSH BILLINGS.—This popular humorist, whose wise and witty sayings have been published again and again in every paper in the United States, will make his appearance and deliver a lecture at Platt's Hall on Wednesday evening next. He will give another lecture on the following evening. Josh Billings is so well known and appreciated on this side of the Rocky Mountains that he is sure of a large audience on both occasions.

Woodward's Gardens.

The French mail silk balloon "Le Secours" will make its first ascensions on Saturday and Sunday. Capt. Allen's balloon will also make captive ascensions half-hourly at the same time. Tickets will be given to all adults, and the lucky numbers will entitle the holders to make a trip to the clouds, or dispose of them to some one that wants to. There will be a crowd to Woodward's on Sunday.

ANATOMICAL MUSEUM.—One of the most complete collections of the kind in the United States, comprising hundreds of costly and beautiful wax models, is daily on view (to gentlemen only) at the Museum on Montgomery street. An hour may be profitably spent here.

Really Too Much.

The Hutchinson Family haven't got through afflicting the people of the United States. For years they drove the residents of the villages of this country to the borders of insanity by their singing, "We Come from the Mountains of the Old Granite State." Now, Joshua proposes to publish a biography of the entire family. Some men have no bowels of compassion.

Bad for the Churches.

Mrs. Stanton is altogether too radical. She advises the women to visit no church where they do not admit a woman preacher. We fear that Mrs. Stanton is an enemy of the clergy. If the women stop going to church there'll be few churches open. It the women do the preaching, the other women will stop away, so the churches are bound to suffer either way.

If you wish to get SUITED with a suit of clothes at reasonable rates, call on John Kavanagh, 15 New Montgomery street. His boys suits are a marvel of elegance and style. 3-w

The Young Man from the East.

"I'm a stranger in this city,
I'm lately from the East,
And mighty fond of oysters;
Where can I get a feast?
I've been to all the restaurants,
But nowhere could I find,
A plate of Eastern oysters,
Of the old-fashioned kind."

"Well, I can tell you," said his friend,
"Exactly where to go,
And where to get your oysters,
Direct from where they grow.
Just take a stroll down PINE STREET,
At 410, below the Market,
You'll see a sign, 'THE SADDLE ROCK,'
You can't fail to remark it.

"Emerson Corville keeps the place,
The best saloon in town,
There you can get your oysters raw,
Or fried so crisp and brown.
He's the largest oyster dealer
On the Pacific Coast,
And that he keeps the freshest
Has ever been his boast.

"He's got nice little private rooms,
Where you can sit at ease,
And eat your California stew,
Or Eastern if you please.
All the young men of fashion go
Right to the SADDLE ROCK,
To eat their EASTERN OYSTERS
And drink their Rhenish hock."

Tearing Down Old Landmarks.

Some men's lives are failures because they have mistaken their vocation. No matter what a man's calling may be, he should study to make that calling a success. There is more skill in selecting and arranging the adornments of our homes than many have any idea of. One of the most difficult articles to arrange with taste is Carpets. One must have an eye to the surroundings, the height of the room, the number of windows, the style of the other furniture, and then proceed to select the Carpet. For some rooms one must have a large pattern, in others a small figure; bright colors do not always look the best. Mr. Burnham, one of the firm of J. W. Burnham & Co., 618 Market and 17 Post street, has made the selecting of Carpets and Window-Hangings a study, and selected his stock accordingly—Brussels, Ingrains, Tapestry and Velvets, to say nothing of Oil Cloths, of which they make a specialty. Messrs. B. & Co. are obliged, we regret to say, to close out their entire stock at a sacrifice, on account of the tearing down of their present store, in order to rebuild. For the next thirty days Mr. Burnham can be found at his place of business, and will give his advice and long experience to all that may require it. 3-D

THE SCIENCE—for it is a science—of taking the impression of any animate or inanimate thing on Glass, Porcelain or Cardboard, by using the sun as an auxiliary, is an important one. Improvements have been made from time to time by those who have made Photography a study To our mind (and a visit will make our readers agree with us) the Artist who presides at the Florence Gallery, 23 Third street, has attained a degree of excellence seldom achieved, if ever equalled. His Life-Size Portraits are excellent and prices low. 2bh

Epicure's Retreat.

The epicurean fond of nice grain-fed, pig-pork chop, tenderloin or roast, resorts to R. F. Bunker's 74 and 75 California Market, and is never disappointed, for "Bob," is a good feeder himself, and always keeps on hand the very best in his line. Bunker's celebrated Club Sausages will tickle the palate of the most fastidious. Even dyspeptics laugh after eating those sausages. 1z

THE LOST PET.

BY C. P. A.

Oh, list! while I tell
Of the fate that befell
A pet that was dear unto me:
A rat-and-tan pup—
Oh, blitter the cup
Prepared by that "Heathen Chinee"
For me,
The friend of those vendors of tea.

This young rat-and-tan
Away from me ran—
An act which I did not foresee;
And though I did seek
For over a week
To find him, it was not to be
You'll see,
'Twas the work of that sinful Chinee.

His name was Ah-Bet—
(Not the name of my pet,
But him of Chinese pedigree)—
And he kept a small shop
And had the best "chop"
Of tit-bits from over the sea
That he
Obtained from his far-famed patrie.

He had "chow-chow" that tickles
The lover of pickles,
Though with me it did never agree—
And things filled with spice
Which may have been mice—
They looked enough like them—dear me,
To see
Such food, in the "land of the free!"

One day I'd a friend
Who was coming to spend
The day, and take dinner with me;
So I went to Ah Bet
And told him to get
A rabbit, "and fixins," and he Said 'Out,"
In a manner quite Frenchy to see.

The clock had struck one;
The dinner was done,
And served up with steaming Bohea;
"'Tis excellent fare
This rabbit, or hare,
Whichsoever it may be," said he;
(Mon ami)
"You've a prize in that Heathen Chinee."

Just then in the dish
I noticed him fish
For something he thought he could see,
That didn't look right;
And brought to the light
A tag, with inscription: "Toby."
Ah me!
'Twas that of my lost favori.

Oysters.

In strolling round the other night,
To look at 'Frisco by gas light,
Our careless feet, by chance did stray
To where a fountain's ceaseless play
Of sparkling waters, made a screen
Through which a sweet bouquet was seen;
While mossy stone and pearly shell,
O'er which the waters softly fell,
Made that window seem to be
Some fairy grotto of the sea.
"Stop," said my friend, "let's go in here;
It looks so nice—and try their cheer."
"All right," I said, "I must agree
That this place suits me to a T."
No sooner had we found a seat
Than at our side a waiter neat
Made his appearance, asked our wish—
Said they had almost any dish
That we might name. We found it true,
And cooked magnificently, too;
All kinds of oysters, juicy, fat,
Cooked every style; just think of that,
And if your mouth don't water, then
You're different from other men.
They'd clams and crabs and terrapins;
In fact, we found they had within
That cosy place all kinds of game,
Fish, flesh or fowl which we could name,
While every dish was, I am sure,
Prepared to tempt an epicure.
The ladies, too, have found, 'twould seem,
That they have here the best ice cream;
So here they flock, the little sinners,
To get what they call "such nice dinners."
Whoever doubts this let him rush
To three hundred thirty-seven Bush,
And there this truth he'll find made plain:
Who goes there once will go again,
Pacific Oyster House, 337 Bush street, above Montgomery; open Day and Night.
CHARLES HAAKE, Proprietor.

The Lucky Number.

Fortunio, the Goddess of Luck, must have designated one hundred and forty-four as her symbol. W. E. Mayhew believes in the number. He drew the second grand prize in the last lottery on that number, and then moved his large and complete stock of Drugs, Perfumes, etc., to 144 Fourth street. Naturally happy and free-hearted, he continues in business for the pleasure it affords him. He is actually giving a splendid Sachet Package of Rimmel's or Lubin's to every customer that comes to his store. 3 B

WHERE WE CIRCULATE "FIGARO."

Everybody knows that "FIGARO" has been distributed free for years very generally throughout the city, and has been circulated as programme in every theatre and place of amusement in San Francisco; and we want everybody to know that "FIGARO" is always distributed on the Oakland Ferry-boats that bring the passengers by the great overland train to this city, and is placed in their hands every day—Sundays included. That it is mailed free every day to all the leading hotels on the Pacific Coast. That "FIGARO" is circulated by Taylor & Co., the Oakland bill distributors, every day throughout the central portions of Oakland. That it is also distributed at Sacramento and on the Sacramento steamers on their down trips to this city, and in all towns on the river side, as may be seen by the annexed certificate from A. H. Nahor, distributing agent on the steamers:

This is to certify that I have agreed to, and do, distribute "FIGARO" thoroughly on the Sacramento steamers on their down trips to San Francisco, and have made arrangements to have it generally distributed in the towns of Benicia, Martinez, Collinsville, Sherman Island, Rio Vista, Courtland, Antioch, Pittsburg Landing, New York Landing, and in all of the hotels, saloons, public places, etc., in Sacramento City. ALFRED H. NAHOR.

March 4th, 1874.

Arrangements are being made for further circulation on other lines of travel, so that "FIGARO" shall be "here, there and everywhere," and be placed in the hands of all strangers, families and business men en route to this city.

The Ladies of To-day and 30 Years Ago.

Thirty years ago the advantages one could have were few compared with to-day. Then, if a lady was troubled with any complaints incidental to womanhood, she was obliged to trust to the various methods then in vogue, and seldom with any relief being derived. The bases of nearly all the medicines then were mineral. The superiority and safety of vegetable over mineral medicine has been demonstrated by the medical faculty all over the world. The Marsh Truss Co. (31 years standing) have in connection with their Truss department a Medical Infirmary, where they make ladies cases a specialty. Their medicines are all purely vegetable. Ladies troubled with delicate diseases should call at once on the Marsh Truss Co., 513 Montgomery street, and have their cases attended to. Special consulting room for ladies. 2-x

Sir Walter Raleigh created a consternation when he appeared before his servants smoking a pipe of Tobacco. The sight was a new one to them, and they, as well as the public in general were slow to learn the use of the Weed Had they had Tobacco of the quality and perfect flavor which the Perique and Golden Thread Smoking Tobacco of to-day have, smoking would much sooner become almost universal. The Gilroy Tobacco Company (office 304 Pine street), are offering the above-named Tobaccos to the public, and we advise those in want of a good article to give them a trial. 3-x

The Art of Dancing and Deportment.

Those who appreciate culture will be glad to learn that Professor C. H. Lester has opened an Academy for the purpose of teaching, not only dancing, but those graces of deportment without which no one can shine in society. Prof. Lester is a thorough master of his art, one of the best on this side of the Rocky Mountains. Classes are held at Grand Central Hall on the corner of Sixth and Market streets on Mondays and Thursdays.

Important to Smokers.

Few men in San Francisco are aware that the enterprising firm of Kahn & Hass are employing white females labor in the manufacture of their Cigars. The very best material is used in this establishment. Call and convince yourself at 773 Market street, between Third & Fourth street. Finest brands Havana Cigars constantly on hand. 11-x

Great Bargains in Clothing.

The only store in the city that has the largest cheapest and finest assortment of Men's and Boys Clothing, is H. Peyser's Montgomery Avenue Clothing Store, 719 Montgomery street, between Washington and Jackson. Also, a large assortment of Men's and Boys' Overcoats and Cloaks, and the finest stock of Gents' Furnishing Goods, Trunks, Valises, etc. 2-x

MINE HOST of the Morton House (on Post street, near Kearny), finding that first-class accommodations, at reasonable rates, has had a tendency to fill his Hotel to overflowing, has determined to enlarge his present accommodations so that families visiting the city will be enabled to find a home in its literal sense. 2w

A Co-operative Work.

The dramatic critic of the Chronicle, our old friend, is back again, and the gentleman who occupies a similar position on the Evening Post are working harmoniously together, and between them intend, if God spares their lives (which we hope he won't), to publish in the columns of these two unfortunate papers a complete history of the drama in England. As these gentlemen have the same books to copy from—Hazlitt's works, DeLacy's History of the Stage, Knight's Shakspeare, and others of a similar character, this is likely to become rather monotonous after it has been carried on five or six months longer. We hope we may be pardoned if we suggest to these erudite gentlemen that there are theatre-goers in San Francisco who possess the volumes from which they manufacture their "Footlight Flashes" and "Dramatic Sketches," and have read them. They really don't know it all. Further, the drama in the United States is assuming a very respectable position, though they may not be aware of it, and the people of San Francisco, however much they may be inclined to courteously tolerate the infliction of columns of stuff about English actors and actresses, dead and living, are somewhat offended at the gross ignorance displayed by these "critics" concerning the actors and actresses of America who have appeared in San Francisco. In fact, "somewhat too much of this."

Cool.

The Call is remarkable for its literary criticisms, almost as remarkable as the Alta. The following which, occurs in a notice of the Overland Monthly, is pleasing and refreshingly cool.

We owe Mr. Humphrey, author of the story "Mrs. Larue's Snails," in the March Overland, an apology, for having insinuated that the tale was an old one. We felt conscious of having read it before, and, not recollecting where or when, presumed we had seen it in print. Mr. Humphrey, however, reminds us that he had shown us the manuscript of the story several months ago. Surely, so clever a writer as Mr. Humphrey has no need to borrow the ideas of others.

We think Mr. Humphrey will think a little before he again submits his MSS. for perusal by the literary editor of the Call. However, he got a pretty good puff in consequence of this accident. Surely, "Mr. Humphrey has no need to borrow the ideas of others," and just as surely the "ideas" on on literary matters published in the Call are worth absolutely nothing.

Radical.

Muffington is radical in his ideas. He actually advised a friend of his who talked of getting married, not do so, because he would have to employ a "middle-man." Muffington gives the same reason for not going to church. He says "he won't have salvation peddled out to him," by clerical middlemen, but will get it direct without any intervention. We are afraid Muffington won't go to heaven, but perhaps he doesn't want to.

Gratifying.

It will be gratifying to the Prince Imperial of France, that the press of San Francisco may be considered unanimously in favor of his ascending the throne of his father. It may not help him much, but it is pleasing.

A Sight Not Often Seen.

A day or two since we visited Col. Andrews' establishment, at 221 Montgomery street, and were surprised at the immense stock of precious gems that the Colonel keeps. There were—

'Great pearls, milk-white, shining like the moon;
Emeralds, grass green;
Sapphires, like skies of June;
And one great diamond outshone them all,
Large as a pigeon's egg, and clear as wine—
When held before the sun a gem divine."

A half day could not be more profitably spent than in a visit to the Colonel's emporium. If one does not wish to purchase, the genial Colonel takes great pleasure in showing his immense stock to visitors, and explaining the intricate workmanship and the artistic designs necessary to produce even one of the ornaments that go to make up his large and valuable stock.

Do Not Suffer from Corns.

The unfortunate sufferers from Corns, Bunions, Club and Ingrowing Nails, can find instant relief by applying at Dr. B. H. Cowan's Institute, 310 Kearny street, from 1 to 6 P.M. We speak from experience, having tested the Doctor's capability. References given if required. x

A New Industry.

We recommend all men and women who are out of employment at present to lecture on Temperance. It is easy enough. It requires no study. Just gush a little, and howl a little, and spout a little, and you can easily deliver a telling Temperance lecture. We don't want this new industry to be monopolized by outsiders. There's Mrs. Duniway, just came down from Oregon to lecture on Temperance. Now Mrs. Duniway would lecture on anything or anybody. She was stumping Oregon for Grant the last time we heard of her, and now she goes squarely back on her friend, and starts in lecturing on Temperance. Grant isn't a temperance man. Haskell has started in splendidly, and is just coining money in San Jose, and other wealthy towns. Calvin McDonald will, if he knows what is best for him, drop lecturing on "The Massacre of Glencoe" and immediately prepare a lecture on temperance. He can find time to do so, between drunks, if he will only make up his mind to do so. There's money in a good Temperance lecture now-a-days.

Industry in Lake County.

The following which we clip from an exchange is dismal:

James A. Smith, of Lake County, caught 345 suckers in Seigler Creek on Sunday last. The fish weighed on an average 2 1-2 pounds each.

Suckers are not good to eat yet, James A. Smith sat all Sunday on the bank of Seigler Creek and caught suckers. If it had been a San Jose man who did this deed we could have pardoned it. Have the people of Lake County nothing to do on Sundays but catch suckers. Are there no dog fights, no cock fights, no girls to make love to, no churches to go to, no amateur minstrel troupes. Three hundred and forty-five happy little suckers bereft of life in one day by the wanton Smith! Tis pitiful.

Rather Poor.

Can't the Bulletin afford a little better quality of English? The following which appeared in its notice of the first appearance of the Dockrill-Kenebel Royal Parisian Circus Troupe is very poor:

The company is one of the best who have performed here, and deserves, as we have no doubt they will receive, the liberal patronage of the public.

It is a pity the writer of that sentence couldn't make up his mind whether to consider "the company" as singular or plural, and stick to determination.

The Suicide Season.

The suicide season has set in. We are sorry to observe that this year weapons are popular. It is a great pity for a man or woman to use pistols and knives and bare bodkins, when there are so many nice soothing compounds which will cure people of the disease of living, to be found at the drug stores. It is beastly, this throat cutting and shooting when laudanum is to be had.

Sad Indeed.

Muffington says he is much shocked to see, in these times of Temperance agitation, an advertisement running as follows: "Wanted, an infant to bring up on the bottle." He believes in giving an infant a fair start. It will take to the bottle soon enough without being brought up on it.

An Explanation.

The New York Critic, in its issue of March 21st, has the following:

Several of our New York contemporaries apologize to their readers for the lack of their California "correspondence." Explanation—the FIGARO was snowed under.

For a good, quiet, nice saloon, commend us to the "Orient," 720 Market street. Messrs. Goldworthy & Weston are saloon-keepers who know their business thoroughly, and consequently keep only the best of Wines, Whiskys and Cigars. We can commend the "Orient" as one of the best places in the city. Try once and you will be satisfied. 2-c

Imperial Milk Punch.

The best of beverages. Try it, Made and sold only by Asa L. Waugeman, at his symposiac of fine Wines, Liquors and Segars, corner of Leidesdorff and Halleck streets. Superb Hot Lunch from 11 to 2. N. B.—Stock reports telegraphed directly from the Board especially for this saloon, 2x

Hair Goods.

The cheapest place in the city to buy Human and Imitation hair goods, Toys, Dolls, Ribbons etc., is the New York store 110 Second street. Agency for hair silk goods, made of pure silk No branch stores. Goods sent, C O. D. The New York store has been established for years, and is the leading one in the city.

San Francisco Disgraced Again.

The public has scarcely recovered from the shock it received when pistols were pulled, and fired, and no one was even wounded, during the course of the De Young-Napthaly imbroglio, and now there is some more bad shooting to record. Henry D. Maline snapped three caps at Edward Joyce on New Montgomery street on Saturday evening, Edward snapped caps at him and neither pistol went off. Gentlemen, gentlemen, look to your firearms. This practice of carrying concealed weapons with mouldy caps on the nipples is one which is calculated to inflict a blot on the fair fame of San Francisco. It was not thus in the days of '49. There was no snapping of caps and shooting nothing and nobody in those days. Ah no!

Tearing Down Old Landmarks.

Some men's lives are failures because they have mistaken their vocation. No matter what a man's calling may be, he should study to make that calling a success. There is more skill in selecting and arranging the adornments of our homes than many have any idea of. One of the most difficult articles to arrange with taste is Carpets. One must have an eye to the surroundings, the height of the room, the number of windows, the style of the other furniture, and then proceed to select the Carpet. For some rooms one must have a large pattern, in others a small figure; bright colors do not always look the best. Mr. Burnham, one of the firm of J. W. Burnham & Co., 618 Market and 17 Post street, has made the selecting of Carpets and Window-Hangings a study, and selected his stock accordingly—Brussels, Ingrains, Tapestry and Velvets, to say nothing of Oil Cloths, of which they make a specialty. Messrs. B. & Co. are obliged, we regret to say, to close out their entire stock at a sacrifice, on account of the tearing down of their present store, in order to rebuild. For the next thirty days Mr. Burnham can be found at his place of business, and will give his advice and long experience to all that may require it. 3-D

The Lucky Number.

Fortune, the Goddess of Luck, must have designated one hundred and forty-four as her symbol. W. E. M'hew believes in the number. He drew the second grand prize in the last lottery on that number, and then moved his large and complete stock of Drugs, Perfumes, etc., to 144 Fourth street. Naturally happy and free-hearted, he continues in business for the pleasure it affords him. He is actually giving a splendid Sachet Package of Rimmel's or Lubin's to every customer that comes to his store. 3 B

DR. ABORN—DEAR SIR: The last time I your city, a year ago February, you treated a Catarrh. I had been troubled with the abo about THIRTEEN YEARS, and was skeptical your being able to relieve me. The last t called on you prior to my return home, I ised to inform you whether you had effect permanent or temporary cure. I HAVE NOT SLIGHTEST TRACE OF CATARRH, and as it is a year since I was under your treatment, I think safe in saying, that you have effected a perma cure in my case. You are at liberty to use letter as you see fit.

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

Opera House.

A brilliant first part is followed by an amusing interlude, in which George B. Knight appears in funny specialties, Little Mac and Julie Robinson perform the little farce of "The Actors," Welch and Rice appear in song and dance, Billy Sweatnam and Charley Reed as "Uncle Abe and Sister Ruth," and the operetta of "Two Many Cooks; or, the Rose of St. Fleur," by Miss Susan Galtor, Alfred Kelsher and John Howson terminates the performance.

California Theatre.

"As You Like It" was played last night, with Miss Neilson as Rosalind, and the same cast as last week. Every inch of room in the theatre was occupied, and a more delighted audience we have seldom seen. Acting, music, singing and scenery were all thoroughly enjoyed. To-night Miss Neilson will appear in her great character of Julia, in "The Hunchback," in which she appears to as good advantage as in any role which she has played during her engagement in San Francisco. To-morrow night "The Lady of Lyons" will be presented, with Miss Neilson as Pauline.

Platt's Hall.

Josh Billings, a specimen of whose funny sayings appears in another column, will deliver his first lecture in San Francisco this evening, at the above-named hall. The title is "Buty and the Beest," but we don't suppose that the title has much to do with the subject. There will certainly be an immense audience to listen to the modern Diogenes, who is both witty and wise.

Mercantile Library Hall.

Professor Denton delivered the first portion of a very interesting lecture last night on the subject of "The Origin of Man." He will give the second portion to-night, when the theory of Professor Darwin will be further elucidated and a refutation of it will be attempted.

Palace Amphitheatre.

The second performance given by the Dockrill-Kenabel Parisian Circus Troupe, supported by the star performers of the original company, drew a large and very fashionable assemblage of spectators last night. Master Johnny Cooke, the most remarkable child rider in the profession, gained immense applause for his daring riding, Madame Dockrill was recalled again and again, the two Kenabels kept the people in roars of laughter while they were in the ring, and the thrilling performance entitled "The Ladder in the Air," by Dorr, Worland and Master Dorr, made the spectators hold their breath with fear. The performance now given at this place of amusement can not be surpassed, and will doubtless be witnessed by everyone.

Bella Union Theatre.

The drama of "Two Olimes," a great performance by the Royal Tycoon Troupe of Japs, Moore and Bray in song and dance, Johnny Lees and others in acts, Miss Alice Ross in serio-comic songs, Ed. Murray in his "Budget of Fun," and others in songs, acts and dances make up a very attractive entertainment at this house.

Buckley's New Variety Theatre.

"The Fellow that Looks Like Me," "The Intelligence Office," "Julius in a Fix," and "A Manager's Troubles," are some of the acts to be performed to-night. Geo O. Thompson will appear in his specialties, Johnny Price in song and dance, and others in various specialties.

Woodward's Gardens.

The French mail silk balloon "Le Secours" will make its first ascensions on Saturday and Sunday. Capt. Allen's balloon will also make captive ascensions half-hourly at the same time. Tickets will be given to all adults, and the lucky numbers will entitle the holders to make a trip to the clouds, or dispose of them to some one that wants to. There will be a crowd to Woodward's on Sunday.

City Gardens.

The Italian Company, the Garibaldi Guard, will hold their annual picnic and ball here Sunday next. A grand instrumental concert by Chas. Alper's Band, dancing and other amusements will be the order of the day. The Garibaldi Guard are very popular with their countrymen, and there will doubtless be a large attendance.

ANATOMICAL MUSEUM.—One of the most complete collections of the kind in the United States, comprising hundreds of costly and beautiful wax models, is daily on view (to gentlemen only) at the Museum on Montgomery street. An hour may be pleasantly spent here.

True Merit Speaks for Itself

We read, a day or two since, of the Gold Medal on exhibition in Washington that was made and presented to the man who saved the life of the lamented Seward, in his hour of danger. We all remember of medals, crosses, honors and distinctions shown to Howe by Potentates of Foreign Powers, in recognition of the inestimable boon bestowed by him on womankind by his Sewing Machine. Those that have not succeeded in their calling in life may sneer at those who, by an untiring energy and close application to business, have succeeded to perfecting their calling. A contemporary sneeringly speaks of Bradley & Rulofson, because H. R. H., the Duke of Genoa, was pleased to bestow on that firm an honorary title, because he recognized true merit in their productions. We contend that it is not snobbish in Messrs. Bradley & Rulofson to feel pleased for the mark bestowed upon them, but that it is only natural for any one who has studied to perfect anything, to be appreciated for his efforts. Messrs. B. & R., did not make any unnecessary talk when they started the movement in this city to give the entire proceeds of one day to the Chicago sufferers, and which resulted in one-third of the entire amount raised for that purpose by the Photographers of the United States, or of the large amount they raised for the Sanitary cause during the war, and the rousing benefit they gave the San Francisco Female Hospital, and they have on more than the above occasions shown they were possessed of the feelings that go to make up the man, and not the snob.

Spring Style Hats.

FEATHERS Cleaned, Curled and Dyed, at SNOW'S, No. 25 Post street. 8x

TO YOURSELF.

I love you. Let Fate do her worst! I stand
Here in full daylight, with uplift'd hand,
And vow by my sweet mother, by the face
God took ere sin had dimmed its baby-grace,
By every hope to which the hours give breath,
That I am your's alone—in life or death.

Time's mercy lets my face seem somewhat fair,
And girlhood's sunshine lingers on my hair;
But years ago, my heart's bright youth and trust
Turned, like its idols, into worthless dust;
Since then I've watched the hopeless years drift by Without one thought—without one passing sigh—

For love or friendship. All too well I know
That present joy but breeds some future woe.
Yet, when your hand clasped mine, in that same hour
My slumb'ring heart aroused itself in power;
Awoke to learn that life could never more
Wear the same icy calmness as before.

Suns come and go; moons wax and wane; but yet
The glory of one day can never set.
Whate'er the future hold, it cannot be
Forgetfulness shall come to you or me.
The heav'ns shall pass away. The stars shall fall,
But I shall love you—love you thro' it all.

Stage Kissing.

Kissing at the close of a scene has obtained, and will always obtain so long as the British drama shall flourish. The servants—notably the poor valet—always enjoy the chief share of this pastime. He has brought his master's letter for delivery to Susan's "young lady."

"It's very nice, ain't it, Susan, for people to be in love with each other?"

"I'm sure I can't say, Mr. Smart."

"I wish somebody was in love with me, Susan."

Susan tosses her head and wonders why on earth he should wish that.

"Because"—drawing nearer—"I say, Susan, you're uncommon pretty; you are, indeed."

"For shame, Mr. Smart. Let me go, or I'll scream out."

Then, of course, follows kiss-kiss, with an agitated "There's missus' bell!" and both run out at opposite sides. If the valet be a man of infinite humor he will call out, "I say, Susan, I forgot to tell you something," and by this ingenious ruse secure another salute. Who has not seen this all again and again? Among the higher classes it is not nearly so effective, nor does it evoke much sympathy. The proceedings of the valet and Susan are, no doubt, reproduced at a hundred suburban villas and Blue Lions, and touch the true chord. In genteel comedies there is a small amount tolerated between two lovers, and with certain actresses of a highly correct turn of mind, the proceeding is carried on in a mimetic way, the kiss being about as genuine as the slap the clown gives the pantaloon in the pantomime.

The Young Man from the East.

"I'm a stranger in this city,
I'm lately from the East,
And mighty fond of oysters;
Wh re can I get a feast?
I've been to all the restaurants,
But nowhere could I find,
A plate of Eastern oysters,
Of the old-fashioned kind."

"Well, I can tell you," said his friend,
"Exactly where to go,
And where to get your oysters,
Direct from where they grow.
Just take a stroll down PINE STREET,
At 410, below the Market,
You'll see a sign, 'THE SADDLE ROCK,'
You can't fail to remark it.

"Emerson Corville keeps the place,
The best saloon in town,
There you can get your oysters raw,
Or fried so crisp and brown.
He's the largest oyster dealer
On the Pacific Coast,
And that he keeps the freshest
Has ever been his boast.

"He's got nice little private rooms,
Where you can sit at ease,
And eat your California stew,
Or Eastern if you please.
All the young men of fashion go
Right to the SADDLE ROCK,
To eat their EASTERN OYSTERS
And drink their Rhenish hock."

THE SCIENCE—for it is a science—of taking the impression of any animate or inanimate thing on Glass, Porcelain or Cardboard, by using the sun as an auxiliary, is an important one. Improvements have been made from time to time by those who have made Photography a study. To our mind (and a visit will make our readers agree with us) the artist who presides at the Florence Gallery, 28 Third street, has attained a degree of excellence seldom achieved, if ever equalled. His Life-Size Portraits are excellent and prices low. 2bh

What Next?

Every one knows how a photograph looks when viewed through a stereoscope—but a stereoscope cannot always be had. G. D. Morse, at 417 Montgomery street has obviated this difficulty by producing a photograph that is so clear and sharp in its out lines that one would almost think he was looking through the lens of a stereoscope. Mr. Morse's parlors look more like an art gallery than a place of business. 2-T

Epicure's Retreat.

The epicurean fond of nice grain-fed, pig-pork chop, tenderloin or roast, resorts to R. F. Bunker's 74 and 75 California Market, and is never disappointed, for "Bob," is a good feeder himself, and always keeps on hand the very best in his line. Bunker's celebrated Club Sausages will tickle the palate of the most fastidious. Even dyspeptics laugh after eating those sausages. 1x

IF you wish to get SUITED with a suit of clothes at reasonable rates, call on John Kavanagh, 15 New Montgomery street. His boys suits are a marvel of elegance and style. 3-w

Brief Sayings by Josh Billings.

Envy man who will spred a slander iz a sekosd-handed liar, mutch meaner, if possible, than the one who originated it.

Many people are like an old hen with one chicken—a grate deal ov fuss and hurry, but very little dispatch.

All lies, before they bekum current, pass thru three hands; the fust iz sum very diskreet person, who looks wize, and only hopes things ain't so and so; the sekund is a lawless gossip, who haz no doubt but what things are so, or even wuss; the third iz a malisbus vampyre, who fully endorses the foul blot, and spreds it broadcast thru the land.

Pride and anger are closely allied.

Diskreshun iz the smartest thing enny man possesses. If he haz got plenty ov tranes with it, he iz a giant; and if he haint got mutch ov enny, he iz a respektable pigmy.

He who haz got nothing to do in this life but to amuze hisself haz got on hand the hardest kind ov a job i know ov.

There iz nothing we are more apt to parade before others than our cares and sorrows, and there iz nothing the world kares so little about.

Take affability, good sense, honesty, and good breeding, mix them together, shake them well and yu hav the ingredients for a gentleman.

The good things a man duz are hard tu remember, the evil things are dredfull easy.

Truth kan stand stand alone, but a lie haz to lean on something, generally another lie.

A tru friend is one who ain't afrade to tell us ov our faults.

The Clergy on Theatres.

The Episcopal divines who assembled in conference, lately, in New York, for mental edification, came nigh to reaching "cross-purposes" over the discussion of what was "the position of the church with regard to popular amusements." The old school seemed greatly tried at Christian men and women patronizing the play house; but the divines living with their age defended the sock and buskin and paid the highest tributs to the legitimate drama. The Reverend Dr. Cornwall thought "the actor should be denounced on scriptural grounds," but the Rev. Dr. Wise differed very materially from Mr. Cornwall and decidedly objected to any such sentiment going out to the world as the sentiment of the conference. Rev. Mr. Crowley claimed that there was a great difference between going to see a historical play and going to look at the "Black Crook" and that kind of entertainment; and he made the startling avowal to his reverend brothers that a Presbyterian minister in London, "a godly man," once asked him to go and see the play of "Charles I.," and he went and never regretted it! The Rev. Crowley spoke out like a good, little man, and avowed his belief "when a man was fatigued with labor that a visit to the theatre, or to some place of amusement, with his wife for instance, would be beneficial." The Rev. Dr. Osgood "was in favor of places of popular amusement, where the intelligent poor could meet with recreation without dissipation."

Oysters.

In strolling round the other night,
To look at 'Frisco by gas light,
Our careless feet, by chance did stray
To where a fountain's ceaseless play
Of sparkling waters, made a screen
Through which a sweet bouquet was seen;
While mossy stone and pearly shell,
O'er which the waters softly fell,
Made that winnow seem to be
Some fairy grotto of the sea.
Stop," said my friend, "let's go in here;
It looks so nice—and try their cheer."
"All right," I said, "I must agree
That this place suits me to a 'T.'"
No sooner had we found a seat
Than at our side a waiter neat
Made his appearance, asked our wish—
Said they had almost any dish
That we might name. We found it true,
And cooked magnificently, too;
All kinds of oysters, juicy, fat,
Cooked every style; just think of that,
And if your mouth don't water, then
You're different from other men.
They'd clams and crabs and terrapins';
In fact, we found they had within
That cosy place all kinds of game,
Fish, flesh or fowl which we could name,
While every dish was, I am sure,
Prepared to tempt an epicure.
The ladies, too, have found, 'twould seem,
That they have here the best ice cream;
So here they flock, the little sinners,
To get what they call "such nice dinners,"
Whoever doubts this let him rush
To three hundred thirty-seven Bush,
And there this truth he'll find made plain:
Who goes there once will go again,
Pacific Oyster House, 337 Bush street, above Montgomery; open Day and Night.

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

California Theatre.

This theatre is no sooner opened than it is crammed full, and people are glad to get even standing room. Miss Neilson has made a great success in the character of Julia in "The Hunchback," and her performance of that role has been accepted as a new revelation of its capabilities by even old theatre goers who have seen it played by the best actresses of the day. "The Hunchback" will be played for the last time to-morrow night. To-night "The Lady of Lyons" will be presented with Miss Neilson as Pauline. The rest of the cast is published on our first page.

Opera House.

Billy Sweetnam, Billy Welch, and Con. T. Murphy are very amusing in the first part performance at this house. George S. Knight, who is to have a benefit to-morrow, is the funniest of Dutch comedians. Little Mac and Julie Robinson cause much fun in "The Two Actors," Welch and Rice are great in song and dance and are nightly encored again and again, and the delightful operetta of "Two Many Cooks; or the Rose of St. Fleur" winds up an entertainment which for variety and excellence can scarcely be equalled.

Mercantile Library Hall.

Professor Denton concluded his lecture on the "Origin of Man" last night, and illustrated Darwinian theory in good style. To night he will take up the subject of the antiquity of man, and prove that progression is the order of the universe with regard to man, that improvement in that bipod has been going on for some millions of years, and that there is room for still further improvements which will certainly be effected by natural causes in the course of the millions of years to come. Pope says: "The noblest study of mankind is man." Professor Denton has studied to good purpose, and is well worth listening to.

Platt's Hall.

The famous humorist, Josh Billings, drew a very large and fashionable audience last night, when he delivered his lecture entitled "Buty and the Beest." Everyone who has read the sayings of Josh Billings, (and who has not?) has laughed heartily over them, and it is only necessary to say that they are still funnier when delivered viva voce by their author, than they are when printed. To give an idea of how enjoyable an evening with Josh Billings is: Josh is a "plain man," who puts on no "scollops," but simply delivers chunks of wit and wisdom in a remarkably telling manner. He had last night a good deal to say about marriage, and perhaps caused many a listener who who was standing on the brink of matrimony to pause and reflect before taking the desperate leap. To-night the title of the lecture will be "Specimen Bricks." All who attend will get an immense amount of fun for their money, and fun in these matter-of-fact days is a scarce article.

Benefit of J. C. Williamson.

J. C. Williamson, the favorite comedian of the California Theatre company, will take his farewell benefit on Tuesday evening, March 31st, when he will present a new American drama written for Miss Maggie Moore and himself, by A. Maligam Esq., and entitled "Struck Oil." Mr. Williamson will appear as John Stofel, and Miss Maggie Moore as Lizzie Stofel. A part from this attraction the popularity of Mr. Williamson would insure him an overflowing house on this, the last occasion on which he will specially invite his friends, the public of San Francisco, to come and see him. The box office is now open, and there is already a large demand for tickets.

A Remarkable Concert.

On Tuesday evening, March 31st, a concert of a remarkable character will be given at Platt's Hall for the benefit of the widow of the late Charles T. Braun. All the chief singing societies of San Francisco will combine on this occasion, forming an aggregate of over two hundred voices. The names of the societies tendering this benefit are the Thalia, Harmonie, Teutonia, Mannerchor, Turn Verein, Schweitzerbund, Eureka Turn Verein, Eintracht, Hammonia and Concordia. Madame Lucy Mulder Fabbri, Miss Anna Elzer, Herr Bohlott, the Zither Club of ten performers, and a grand orchestra under the direction of Prof. Mulder Fabbri, will make a musical combination never before effected in this city, and the worthy object for which the entertainment is given, will commend it to the public.

Palace Amphitheatre.

Mlle. Dockrill, the queen of the equestrian ballet, Mons. H. Dockrill, the elegant rider and wonderful horse trainer, Joe Keuebel the most original and funniest of French clowns, and Francois, the comical grotesque, will all appear to-night in a great programme. The thrilling feat of "The Ladder in the Air," "Dead and Alive" by the Kenebels, the Butterfly Act, and many other features will be found specified in the programme published on our first page. Manager Wilson has, regardless of expense, secured the very best talent and the consequence is that those who would not think of going to an ordinary performance, flock to the Amphitheatre and enjoy the entertainment heartily.

Woodward's Gardens.

The French mail silk balloon "Le Secours" will make its first ascensions on Saturday and Sunday. Capt. Allen's balloon will also make captive ascensions half-hourly at the same time. Tickets will be given to all adults, and the lucky numbers will entitle the holders to make a trip to the clouds, or dispose of them to some one that wants to. There will be a crowd to Woodward's on Sunday.

Bella Union Theatre.

The wonderful feats by the Royal Tycoon Troupe of Japs at this house, are a great feature of the excellent programme presented. Ed. Murray, Miss Jennie Johnsen, Miss Alice Ross, John Woodard, J. W. Summers, Tommy Bree, and others appear in the sensation drama of "Two Olimes," which has made quite a hit.

Buckley's New Variety Theatre.

A great number of diverting acts will be performed to-night, Ned Buckley, Geo. C. Thompson, Miss Ida May, Frank Mortimore, Johnny Price, and a host of others will appear.

City Gardens.

The Italian Company, the Garibaldi Guard, will hold their annual picnic and ball here Sunday next. A grand instrumental concert by Chas. Alper's Band, dancing and other amusements will be the order of the day. The Garibaldi Guard are very popular with their countrymen, and there will doubtless be a large attendance.

ANATOMICAL MUSEUM.—One of the most complete collections of the kind in the United States, comprising hundreds of costly and beautiful wax models, is daily on view (to gentlemen only) at the Museum on Montgomery street. An hour may be profitably spent here.

John T. Raymond.

This genial and popular comedian, and his wife, Miss M. E. Gordon, formerly of the California company, arrived overland last night. Their season at the California Theatre will commence Monday, April 6th. They will probably open in Bancroft's "Led Astray," which has drawn Neilson houses at the Union Square Theatre, New York, for over one hundred nights.

IDENTITY.

How shall I know myself when I have come
To that strange land beyond the sea of death?
By memory of aught that mortal breath
Erst framed in words of love's great sum?
Or out of all the sweet and murmurous hum
Shall suddenly grow clear a voice that saith,
"I know thee well, O thou of little faith!"
And speak my name, and I, no longer dumb,
Make answer, "Yes, such was the name I bore!"
Not so or so, methinks, shall be the way;
But when feet have pressed that happy shore
There in the sweet, pure light of Heaven's day,
The thought which binds my old life to the dew
Shall be that still, O Love, I love but you.

Oh! Yes! Certainly.

The Chronicle's "critic" speaking of Charles Henry, an actor at the California Theatre, says: "If his elocution was equal to his figure he would be better worth seeing." This is a pity. We suppose if his eyelashes were a little longer, he would be better worth hearing.

A Failure.

It was proposed in Chicago to aid the woman's whisky war by publishing the names of citizens who patronize the saloons. It was given up, however, as the directory is copyrighted.

The Young Man from the East.

"I'm a stranger in this city,
I'm lately from the East,
And mighty fond of oysters;
Where can I get a feast?
I've been to all the restaurants,
But nowhere could I find;
A plate of Eastern oysters,
Of the old-fashioned kind."

"Well, I can tell you," said his friend,
"Exactly where to go,
And where to get your oysters,
Direct from where they grow.
Just take a stroll down PINE STREET,
At 410, below the Market,
You'll see a sign, 'THE SADDLE ROCK,'
You can't fail to remark it.

"Emerson Corville keeps the place,
The best saloon in town,
There you can get your oysters raw,
Or fried so crisp and brown.
He's the largest oyster dealer
On the Pacific Coast,
And that he keeps the freshest
Has ever been his boast.

"He's got nice little private rooms,
Where you can sit at ease,
And eat your California stew,
Or Eastern if you please.
All the young men of fashion go
Right to the SADDLE ROCK,
To eat their EASTERN OYSTERS
And drink their Rhenish hock."

Tearing Down Old Landmarks.

Some men's lives are failures because they have mistaken their vocation. No matter what a man's calling may be, he should study to make that calling a success. There is more skill in selecting and arranging the adornments of our homes than many have any idea of. One of the most difficult articles to arrange with taste is Carpets. One must have an eye to the surroundings, the height of the room, the number of windows, the style of the other furniture, and then proceed to select the Carpet. For some rooms one must have a large pattern, in others a small figure; bright colors do not always look the best. Mr. Burnham, one of the firm of J. W. Burnham & Co., 618 Market and 17 Post street, has made the selecting of Carpets and Window-Hangings a study, and selected his stock accordingly—Brussels, Ingrains, Tapestry and Velvets, to say nothing of Oil Cloths, of which they make a specialty. Messrs. B. & Co. are obliged, we regret to say, to close out their entire stock at a sacrifice, on account of the tearing down of their present store, in order to rebuild. For the next thirty days Mr. Burnham can be found at his place of business, and will give his advice and long experience to all that may require it. 3-D

THE SCIENCE—for it is a science—of taking the impression of any animate or inanimate thing on Glass, Porcelain or Cardboard, by using the sun as an auxiliary, is an important one. Improvements have been made from time to time by those who have made Photography a study. To our mind (and a visit will make our readers agree with us) the Artist who presides at the Florence Gallery, 23 Third street, has attained a degree of excellence seldom achieved, if ever equalled. His Life-Size Portraits are excellent and prices low. 2bh

What Next?

Every one knows how a photograph looks when viewed through a stereoscope—but a stereoscope cannot always be had. G. D. Morse, at 417 Montgomery street has obviated this difficulty by producing a photograph that is so clear and sharp in its outlines that one would almost think he was looking through the lens of a stereoscope. Mr. Morse's parlors look more like an art gallery than a place of business. 2-T

Epicure's Retreat.

The epicurean fond of nice grain-fed, pig-pork chop, tenderloin or roast, resorts to B. F. Bunker's 74 and 75 California Market, and is never disappointed, for "Bob," is a good feeder himself, and always keeps on hand the very best in his line. Bunker's celebrated Club Sausages will tickle the palate of the most fastidious. Even dyspeptics laugh after eating those sausages. 1z

For Photo-crayons.

And reproduction in a superior style, go to Edouard & Cobb, 606 Kearny st. near California. Those desiring any of the above for Christmas presents, should make application before the rain sets in, and so avoid disappointment, satisfaction guaranteed in all cases. 5z

Pertinent Questions.

A spiritualist journal in Chicago contains the advertisement of a medium, Mrs. Robinson, who informs the afflicted that she will tell the name of the disease and cure it if a lock person will send her a lock of his hair by letter. Now, we don't refuse to believe that Robinson can do this. We are able to believe anything, but we want to know more about it. Suppose a man has rheumatism and corns, can Mrs. Robinson detect them both in one bunch of hair? Or suppose he is deranged and bilious, will the spirits give her medicines for both diseases, or only for one? And what is a bald-headed man to do? Can she discover his disease by going into a trance over his wig? Or if a man has measles when he sends his hair, and he is afterward attacked by chills and fever, can she discern the latter? If the man should die before his hair reaches her, would the medicine do any good? And if a man cut off some of his hair and put it away before he got bald, and after baldness came he should have a cramp colic, would that hair tell Mrs. Robinson about it? We are anxious about these things, and we are equally eager to know whether, if we sent Robinson some hair from a parlor sofa, she could tell if the springs were broken and the legs demoralized.

Oysters.

In strolling round the other night,
To look at Frisco by gas light,
Our careless feet, by chance did stray
To where a fountain's ceaseless play
Of sparkling waters, made a screen
Through which a sweet bouquet was seen;
While mossy stone and pearly shell,
O'er which the waters softly fell,
Made that window seem to be
Some fairy grotto of the sea.
"Stop," said my friend, "let's go in here;
It looks so nice—and try their cheer."
"All right," I said, "I must agree
That this place suits me to a T."
No sooner had we found a seat
Than at our side a waiter neat
Made his appearance, asked our wish—
Said they had almost any dish
That we might name. We found it true,
And cooked magnificently, too;
All kinds of oysters, juicy, fat,
Cooked every style; just think of that,
And if your mouth don't water, then
You're different from other men.
They'd clams and crabs and terrapins;
In fact, we found they had within
That cosy place all kinds of game,
Fish, flesh or fowl which we could name,
While every dish was, I am sure,
Prepared to tempt an epicure.
The ladies, too, have found, 'twould seem,
That they have here the best ice cream;
So here they flock, the little sinners,
To get what they call "such nice dinners."
Whoever doubts this let him rush
To three hundred thirty-seven Bush,
And there this truth he'll find made plain:
Who goes there once will go again,
Pacific Oyster House, 337 Bush street, above Montgomery; open Day and Night.
CHARLES HAAKE, Proprietor.

A Sight Not Often Seen.

A day or two since we visited Col. Andrews' establishment, at 221 Montgomery street, and were surprised at the immense stock of precious gems that the Colonel keeps. There were—

'Great pearls, milk-white, shining like the moon;
Emeralds, grass green;
Sapphires, like skies of June;
And one great diamond outshone them all,
Large as a pigeon's egg, and clear as wine—
When held before the sun a gem divine."

A half day could not be more profitably spent than in a visit to the Colonel's emporium. If one does not wish to purchase, the genial Colonel takes great pleasure in showing his immense stock to visitors, and explaining the intricate workmanship and the artistic designs necessary to produce even one of the ornaments that go to make up his large and valuable stock.

Spring Style Hats.

WHERE WE CIRCULATE "FIGARO."

Everybody knows that "FIGARO" has been distributed free for years very generally throughout the city, and has been circulated as programme in every theatre and place of amusement in San Francisco; and we want everybody to know that "FIGARO" is always distributed on the Oakland Ferry-boats that bring the passengers by the great overland train to this city, and is placed in their hands every day—Sundays included. That it is mailed free every day to all the leading hotels on the Pacific Coast. That "FIGARO" is circulated by Taylor & Co., the Oakland bill distributors, every day throughout the central portions of Oakland. That it is also distributed at Sacramento and on the Sacramento steamers on their down trips to this city, and in all towns on the river side, as may be seen by the annexed certificate from A. H. Nahor, distributing agent on the steamers:

This is to certify that I have agreed to, and do, distribute "FIGARO" thoroughly on the Sacramento steamers on their down trips to San Francisco, and have made arrangements to have it generally distributed in the towns of Benicia, Martinez, Collinsville, Sherman Island, Rio Vista, Courtland, Antioch, Pittsburg Landing, New York Landing, and in all of the hotels, saloons, public places, etc., in Sacramento City. ALFRED H. NAHOR.

March 4th, 1874.

Arrangements are being made for further circulation on other lines of travel, so that "FIGARO" shall be "here, there and everywhere," and be placed in the hands of all strangers, families and business men en route to this city.

The Ladies of To-day and 30 Years Ago.

Thirty years ago the advantages one could have were few compared with to-day. Then, if a lady was troubled with any complaints incidental to womanhood, she was obliged to trust to the various methods then in vogue, and seldom with any relief being derived. The bases of nearly all the medicines then were mineral. The superiority and safety of vegetable over mineral medicine has been demonstrated by the medical faculty all over the world. The Marsh Truss Co. (31 years standing) have in connection with their Truss department a Medical Infirmary, where they make ladies cases a specialty. Their medicines are all purely vegetable. Ladies troubled with delicate diseases should call at once on the Marsh Truss Co., 513 Montgomery street, and have their cases attended to. Special consulting room for ladies. 2-x

Sir Walter Raleigh created a consternation when he appeared before his servants smoking a pipe of Tobacco. The sight was a new one to them, and they, as well as the public in general we e slow to learn the use of the Weed Had they had Tobacco of the quality and perfect flavor which the Perique and Golden Thread Smoking Tobacco of to-day have, smoking would much sooner become almost universal. The Gilroy Tobacco Company (office 304 Pine street), are offering the above-named Tobaccos to the public, and we advise those in want of a good article to give them a trial. 3-x

The Art of Dancing and Deportment.

Those who appreciate culture will be glad to learn that Professor C. H. Lester has opened an Academy for the purpose of teaching, not only dancing, but those graces of deportment without which no one can shine in society. Prof. Lester is a thorough master of his art, one of the best on this side of the Rocky Mountains. Classes are held at Grand Central Hall on the corner of Sixth and Market streets on Mondays and Thursdays.

Important to Smokers.

Few men in San Francisco are aware that the enterprising firm of Kahn & Haas are employing white females labor in the manufacture of their Cigars. The very best material is used in this establishment. Call and convince yourself at 773 Market street, between Third & Fourth street. Finest brands Havana Cigars constantly on hand. 11-x

Great Bargains in Clothing.

The only store in the city that has the largest cheapest and finest assortment of Men's and Boys Clothing, is H. Peyser's Montgomery Avenue Clothing Store, 719 Montgomery street, between Washington and Jackson. Also, a large assortment of Men's and Boys' Overcoats and Cloaks, and the finest stock of Gents' Furnishing Goods, Trunks, Valises, etc. 2-x

Miss Host of the Morton House (on Post street, near Kearny), finding that first-class accommodations, at reasonable rates, has had a tendency to fill his Hotel to overflowing, has determined to enlarge his present accommodations so that families visiting the city will be enabled to find a home in its literal sense. 2w

Modern Conversation.

The talk at an ordinary dinner-table and in most fashionable drawing rooms would make a very poor appearance in print. It is really wonderful how long clever and amiable people can be in one another's company without uttering one fresh idea, or discussing any common topic in an original style. The most insipid remarks, the most commonplace thoughts, the most superficial observations, often form the staple of the conversation even in the houses from which idle gossip and everything in the shape of slander are studiously banished. There is none to lead the talk, or, if a leader appears, there are none to follow. A remark of any depth or originality, timidly hazarded at "a party" by some person who has been reading or thinking on some important subject, has a startling or freezing effect. Nobody has anything to say in the way of recognition or reply, and the sudden silence makes the speaker almost feel that he has been guilty of a breach of manners. A young gentleman fresh from the university, on hearing a scholarly observation from any person at table, immediately whispers "shop" in the ear of a pretty and not very literary young lady sitting near him. A "finished" young lady will stare as if shocked or astonished on hearing a sentence quoted from Bacon's "Essays," or a couple of lines from "Paradise Lost." This fashionable repugnance to anything like solid conversation is a bad sign of society. It springs from stupidity or sheer affectation, if it be not indeed one of the worst fruits of the reigning frivolity of the day.

Female Suffrage.

On the 11th ult., the Constitutional Convention of Ohio voted, 48 to 30, in favor of an article allowing woman suffrage in that State. It was agreed that this article shall be separately submitted to the people. A majority voting "Yes" will insure the success of the proposition, a majority "No," its defeat. The section reads as follows: "Every citizen of the United States, of the age of 21 years, who shall have been a resident of the State one year next preceding the election, and, of the county, township, or ward, in which he or she resides, such time as may be provided by law, shall have the qualifications of an elector, and be entitled to vote at all elections." This action looks like extending suffrage to the women of Ohio, and if that State leads off, others will soon follow. The right to vote carries the privilege of holding office, and sooner or later Miss Brown, a handsome brunette, with flowing hair and high-heeled boots, will be chosen Governor of the Buckeye State.

Unfortunate.

The Call's corpse detective discovered what he thought was a case of suspended animation recently. The body has been buried, and the Call man's sensation is spoiled.

The Lucky Number

Fortunia, the Goddess of Luck, must have designated one hundred and forty-four as her symbol. W. E. M yhew believes in the number. He drew the second grand prize in the last lottery on that number, and then moved his large and complete stock of Drugs, Perfumes, etc., to 144 Fourth street. Naturally happy and free-hearted, he continues in business for the pleasure it affords him. He is actually giving a splendid Sachet Package of Rimmel's or Lubin's to every customer that comes to his store. 3 B

For a good, quiet, nice saloon, commend us to the "Orient," 720 Market street. Messrs. The hatchet which killed Tecumseh has been found. We are glad of it. What the country has sadly needed is a hatchet that will lie.

A woman in black stockings was soliciting charity of Danbury families last week. A woman who will wear black stockings is not deserving of charity.

All nature was encased in ice on Sunday morning. The twigs of the trees glistened in the sun's rays like the fingers of negro minstrels.

Owing to the scarcity of ice this season, the parties who are cutting from Redding pond have prudently hoisted a scarecrow in the centre of the pond.

Owing to the abandonment of the female hoops, and the lengthening of the female white skirt, the condition of the pavements is unusually good this season.

LIFE OF

EDWIN FORREST.

....BY....

JAMES REES,

(COLLEY CIBBER).

THE LIFE OF EDWIN FORREST, WITH REMINISCENCES AND PERSONAL RECOLLECTIONS OF THE GREAT AMERICAN TRAGEDIAN.—The author, Mr. Rees, was a warm admirer of the tragedian, having enjoyed the closest intimacy and personal friendship with him for a period of nearly fifty years, and in the latter part of his life was his constant companion. He was one of the few men who understood Mr. Forrest not only professionally, but socially, and had opportunities possessed by no one else, of becoming acquainted with the whole of his professional career, as well as with the various phases of his character in private life. He gives a complete history of Mr. Forrest's life, from the time of his birth until his death, as well as many anecdotes and incidents which have never been collected or published before, published in one large duodecimo volume of over five hundred pages.

Every copy of the work contains a portrait of Edwin Forrest, engraved on steel, in line and stipple, in the finest style of the engraver's art, from the last picture for which Mr. Forrest sat, and which he pronounced to be the best portrait ever taken of himself, as well as a copy of his Autograph, his Last Will, and the Charter of the "Edwin Forrest Home," which he endowed. The work is bound in Morocco cloth, gilt back and is sold at the low price of Two Dollars a copy.

.....OF.....

TRUSSES!

WM. C. LADOW, M. D., OF PENDLETON, Umatilla County, Oregon says:

Marsh's Trusses are the most superior inventions of the age. Their principle is superb and construction admirably adapted to the anatomy of parts involved. They protect the life, restore the health, renew the functions of the kidneys and other organs, obviate the pressure upon the SPINE, PUBIC BONE and spermatic chord, and in fact do more practically than all the hundreds of "OTHER" worthless inventions put together can perform. They possess merit, and I know whereof I speak, it being fully demonstrated upon myself and numerous other patients of my own. During a study of thirty years of the respective merits of different appliances, I never had anything to meet my approbation so thoroughly as the Marsh's Patent Trusses.

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

Opera House.

To-night, Geo. S. Knight, who is a great favorite with the public, will take his benefit—and we are sure will have a good house. After the first part Mr. Knight will appear and amuse the audience with some of his funniest songs and sayings, after the H. R. Archer, a vocalist and comedian, who has just arrived from the Salt Lake theatre, will present some vocal gems, Welsh and Rice will appear in song and dance and in the "O'Shannissey Guards," Little Mac in his Essence, Billy Sweetnam in ballads, and the beneficiary, Gen. T. Murphy and Charley Reed in "Vegetables vs. Tragedy." This rich entertainment will conclude with the operetta of "Too Many Cooks," by Miss Susan Galton, John Howson and Alfred Kelleher. A great bill be performed at the matinee to-morrow.

California Theatre.

Every one knows how it is, every night at the California Theatre, we suppose. Those who don't, can get an idea of the appearance of the house by opening a box of sardines or pressed figs. "The Lady of Lyons" was performed last night, and Miss Neilson won much applause for her impersonation of Pauline. Barton Hill acted the role of Claude Melnotte splendidly. Every one knows how admirable a Widow Melnotte, Mrs. Judah is, (she was called before the curtain last night,) and that Henry Edwards cannot be surpassed in the character of Gen. Damas. The play was excellently acted, and was much enjoyed by all present. It will be performed at the matinee to-morrow, and in the evening for the last time. To-night, Miss Neilson will appear as Julia in "The Hunchback." Concerning her impersonation of this role there is no difference of opinion—all admit it to be a positively superb performance.

California Theatre—Opera Night.

On Sunday night, Madame Agatha States will make her first appearance at this theatre as Rosina in the opera of "Il Barbiere di Siviglia," Signor Carlo Orlandini will play Figaro, Signor Pietro Baccei will appear for the first time as Count Almaviva, Signora Bianchi will appear as Bertha, A. Roncovieri as Dr. Bartolo, and F. Rigo as Don Basilio.

Palace Amphitheatre.

The entertainment given at this establishment is so far ahead of any ordinary circus performance that it is no wonder that one sees in the comfortable boxes and dress circle the same faces which are to be observed at an operatic performance. Manager Wilson really presents horse opera, and Mlle. Bookrill performs a whole ballet on a bare-backed steed. The Kenebels are wonderfully funny, and the whole performance is one that cannot fail to please every one. There will be a matinee to-morrow.

Platt's Hall.

Josh Billings had a good audience last night and amused his hearers very much with his "Specimen Bricks." We think another lecture would draw an equally good house, and hope that Josh will take the matter into consideration.

Bella Union Theatre.

The Tycoon Japs have made a hit and will remain at this house during the present week. To-night, in addition to other acts they will introduce the great Ladder Feat, the local extravaganza of "The Farallones" will be performed by Miss Jennie Johnson, Miss Maggie Kelly, John Woodard and others, Ed. Murray will appear in his Budget of Fun, Miss Alice Ross in serio-comic songs Miss Susie Robinson in song and dance, Johnny Tuers, Matt Kelly and others in amusing acts, and Miss Maggie St. Clair in ballads.

Buckley's New Variety Theatre.

Geo. C. Thompson in his specialties, Mortimer in sketches, Miss Irene Walters in ballads, Johnny Price in song and dance, Miss Ida May in serio-comic songs, and a host of other attractions will be presented this evening.

Caoutchouc.

The wonderful Hairless Horse on exhibition on Sutter st., opp. the Lick House, is really one of the most remarkable freaks of nature we have ever seen. Looking at the skin through a microscope not a pore can be seen. He is one of the most perfect specimens of a horse physically He stands about fifteen hands high and weighs 1,000 pounds. He is well worth a visit.

Woodward's Gardens.

The French mail silk balloon "Le Secours" will make its first ascensions on Saturday and Sunday. Capt. Allen's balloon will also make captive ascensions half-hourly at the same time. Tickets will be given to all adults, and the lucky numbers will entitle the holders to make a trip to the clouds, or dispose of them to some one that wants to. There will be a crowd to Woodward's on Sunday.

City Gardens.

The Italian Company, the Garibaldi Guard, will hold their annual picnic and ball here Sunday next. A grand instrumental concert by Chas. Alper's Band, dancing and other amusements will be the order of the day. The Garibaldi Guard are very popular with their countrymen, and there will doubtless be a large attendance.

ANATOMICAL MUSEUM.—One of the most complete collections of the kind in the United States, comprising hundreds of costly and beautiful wax models, is daily on view (to gentlemen only) at the Museum on Montgomery street. An hour may be profitably spent here.

Tearing Down Old Landmarks.

Some men's lives are failures because they have mistaken their vocation. No matter what a man's calling may be, he should study to make that calling a success. There is more skill in selecting and arranging the adornments of our homes than many have any idea of. One of the most difficult articles to arrange with taste is Carpets. One must have an eye to the surroundings, the height of the room, the number of windows, the style of the other furniture, and then proceed to select the Carpet. For some rooms one must have a large pattern, in others a small figure; bright colors do not always look the best. Mr. Burnham, one of the firm of J. W. Burnham & Co., 618 Market and 17 Post street, has made the selecting of Carpets and Window-Hangings a study, and selected his stock accordingly—Brussels, Ingrains, Tapestry and Velvets, to say nothing of Oil Cloths, of which they make a specialty. Messrs. B. & Co. are obliged, we regret to say, to close out their entire stock at a sacrifice, on account of the tearing down of their present store, in order to rebuild. For the next thirty days Mr. Burnham can be found at his place of business, and will give his advice and long experience to all that may require it. 3-D

"HADST THOU BEEN HERE."

BY FLORENCE PERCY.

Often the simple words return to me,
Pathetic, sad, yet full of faith sincere,
Breathed by the mournful maid of Bethany,
In her deep sorrow and humility,
To him she loved so well—"Hadst thou been here!"

For so, O, hopeful heart, I think of thee,
In thy continued absence, year on year—
Saying, when loss or grief has come to me,
And I have lacked thy strength so sorely—
"I had not suffered thus, hadst thou been here!"

But then, in calmer afterthought, I see
By reason's light, dispassionate and clear,
That of thy love could not have kept from me
The penalties of this mortality,
O, strong and sheltering soul, hadst thou been here!

For had thy shielding arm encircled me
Through all the years, and kept me close and near,
Still in my treasure moth and rust would be—
Still pain had rent and toil had wearied me,
And years had aged me, even hadst thou been here.

And yet let reason argue as it may,
Those words still hold me a truth most dear—
For though thou couldst not keep all grief away,
Thy presence would have changed the night to day,
And all been well with me, hadst thou been here.

The Young Man from the East.

"I'm a stranger in this city,
I'm lately from the East,
And mighty fond of oysters;
Where can I get a feast?
I've been to all the restaurants,
But nowhere could I find,
A plate of Eastern oysters,
Of the old-fashioned kind."

"Well, I can tell you," said his friend,
"Exactly where to go,
And where to get your oysters,
Direct from where they grow.
Just take a stroll down PINE STREET,
At 410, below the Market,
You'll see a sign, 'THE SADDLE ROCK,'
You can't fail to remark it.

"Emerson Corville keeps the place,
The best saloon in town,
There you can get your oysters raw,
Or fried so crisp and brown.
He's the largest oyster dealer
On the Pacific Coast,
And that he keeps the freshest
Has ever been his boast.

"He's got nice little private rooms,
Where you can sit at ease,
And eat your California stew,
Or Eastern if you please.
All the young men of fashion go
Right to the SADDLE ROCK,
To eat their EASTERN OYSTERS
And drink their Rhenish hock."

"Press Photographs."

We rather fancy that Chester C. Hull, of the Bulletin, is the author of the Press Photographs, published in the Vallejo Open Letter. If he is, he is decidly clever. A man might be a long time on the Bulletin without his cleverness being allowed to appear in his writing. What makes us think Hull writes the Press Photographs, is because the following reads like an autobiography:

"Everybody knows 'Hull of the Bulletin,' but few know him as well as we. This literary pelican is employed by the proprietors of that journal as a humorist, but his attempts in that direction even cause a melancholy sadness to cloud the face of the Laughing Hyena at Woodward's Gardens. While in the employ of Mr. Fitch, he developed remarkable talents in mixing up paste for general office use, and folding the afternoon edition of the paper, at the rate of 40 sheets per minute. His natural affiliation with preachers and Temperance Reformers, often lure him from his literary labors in the commercial department, where some of the best Patent Medicine advertissements are written by his indefatigable pen, to the dim retreats of the cloister. He is supposed to have been the author of the recanting lecture delivered by Father Duggan, with such marked effect, that ticket holders received their money back at the door. His remarkable statistical essay on the different varieties of bedbugs in the county jail, evince a decided talent for scientific research, and a familiarity with the subject possessed by but few of his professional acquaintances. He rooms with a Chinese laundryman on Washington alley."

What Next?

Every one knows how a photograph looks when viewed through a stereoscope—but a stereoscope cannot always be had. G. D. Morse, at 417 Montgomery street has obviated this difficulty by producing a photograph that is so clear and sharp in its outlines that one would almost think he was looking through the lens of a stereoscope. Mr. Morse's parlors look more like an art gallery than a place of business. 2-T

Epicure's Retreat.

The epicurean fond of nice grain-fed, pig-pork chop, tenderloin or roast, resorts to E. F. Bunker's 74 and 75 California Market, and is never disappointed, for "Bob," is a good feeder himself, and always keeps on hand the very best in his line. Bunker's celebrated Club Sausages will tickle the palate of the most fastidious. Even dyspeptics laugh after eating those sausages. 1z

The Man Who Does Not Succeed.

The following beautiful extract is from the pen of Hon. George S. Hillard:

I confess that increasing years bring with them an increasing respect for men who have not succeeded in life, as these words are commonly used.

Heaven is said to be the place of those who have not succeeded on earth; and it is sure that celestial grace does not thrive and bloom in the hot blaze of worldly prosperity.

Ill success sometimes arises from a superabundance of qualities in themselves good—from a conscience too sensitive—a taste too fastidious—a self-forgetfulness too romantic—a modesty too retiring.

I will not go so far as to say, with a living poet, that "the world knows nothing of its men;" but there are forms of greatness, or at least excellence, which "die and make no signs;" there are martyrs that miss the palm, but not the stake—heroes without the laurels, and conquerors without the triumphs.

Oysters.

In strolling round the other night,
To look at Frisco by gas light,
Our careless feet, by chance did stray
To where a fountain's ceaseless play
Of sparkling waters, made a screen
Through which a sweet bouquet was seen;
While mossy stone and pearly shell,
O'er which the waters softly fell,
Made that window seem to be
Some fairy grotto of the sea.
Stop," said my friend, "let's go in here."
It looks so nice—and try their cheer."
"All right," I said, "I must agree
That this place suits me to a T."
No sooner had we found a seat
Than at our side a waiter neat
Made his appearance, asked our wish—
Said they had almost any dish
That we might name. We found it true,
And cooked magnificently, too;
All kinds of oysters, juicy, fat,
Cooked every style; just think of that,
And if your mouth don't water, then
You're different from other men.
They'd clams and crabs and terrapins;
In fact, we found they had within
That cosy place all kinds of game,
Fish, flesh or fowl which we could name,
While every dish was, I am sure,
Prepared to tempt an epicure.
The ladies, too, have found, 'twould seem,
That they have here the best ice cream;
So here they flock, the little sinners,
To get what they call "such nice dinners."
Whoever doubts this let him rush
To three hundred thirty-seven Bush,
And there this truth he'll find made plain:
Who goes there once will go again.
Pacific Oyster House, 337 Bush street, above Montgomery; open Day and Night.
CHARLES HAAKE, Proprietor.

The Lucky Number

Fortunia, the Goddess of Luck, must have designated one hundred and forty-four as her symbol. W. E. Mayhew believes in the number. He drew the second grand prize in the last lottery on that number, and then moved his large and complete stock of Drugs, Perfumes, etc., to 144 Fourth street. Naturally happy and free-hearted, he continues in business for the pleasure it affords him. He is actually giving a splendid Sachet Package of Rimmel's or Lubin's to every customer that comes to his store. 3 B.

THE SCIENCE—for it is a science—of taking the impression of any animate or inanimate thing on Glass, Porcelain or Cardboard, by using the sun as an auxiliary, is an important one. Improvements have been made from time to time by those who have made Photography a study To our mind (and a visit will make our readers agree with us) the artist who presides at the Florence Gallery, 28 Third street, has attained a degree of excellence seldom achieved, if ever equalled. His Life-Size Portraits are excellent and prices low. 2bh

"FIGARO."

THE JOURNAL OF AMUSEMENTS.

Published every Day in the Year by

J. P. BOGARDUS

—AT—

643 Merchant and 535 Washington Sts.
Below Montgomery, San Francisco.

FRIDAY.....MARCH 27, 1874

WHERE WE CIRCULATE "FIGARO."

Everybody knows that "FIGARO" has been distributed free for years very generally throughout the city, and has been circulated as programmes in every theatre and place of amusement in San Francisco; and we want everybody to know that "FIGARO" is always distributed on the Oakland Ferry-boats that bring the passengers by the great overland train to this city, and is placed in their hands every day—Sundays included. That it is mailed free every day to all the leading hotels on the Pacific Coast. That "FIGARO" is circulated by Taylor & Co., the Oakland bill distributors, every day throughout the central portions of Oakland. That it is also distributed at Sacramento and on the Sacramento steamers on their down trips to this city, and in all towns on the river side, as may be seen by the annexed certificate from A. H. Nahor, distributing agent on the steamers:

This is to certify that I have agreed to, and do, distribute "FIGARO" thoroughly on the Sacramento steamers on their down trips to San Francisco, and have made arrangements to have it generally distributed in the towns of Benicia, Martinez, Collinsville, Sherman Island, Rio Vista, Courtland, Antioch, Pittsburg Landing, New York Landing, and in all of the hotels, saloons, public places, etc., in Sacramento City. ALFRED H. NAHOR.

March 4th, 1874.

Arrangements are being made for further circulation on other lines of travel, so that "FIGARO" shall be "here, there and everywhere," and be placed in the hands of all strangers, families and business men en route to this city.

The Ladies of To-day and 30 Years Ago.

Thirty years ago the advantages one could have were few compared with to-day. Then, if a lady was troubled with any complaints incidental to womanhood, she was obliged to trust to the various methods then in vogue, and seldom with any relief being derived. The bases of nearly all the medicines then were mineral. The superiority and safety of vegetable over mineral medicine has been demonstrated by the medical faculty all over the world. The Marsh Truss Co. (31 years standing) have in connection with their Truss department a Medical Infirmary, where they make ladies cases a specialty. Their medicines are all purely vegetable. Ladies troubled with delicate diseases should call at once on the Marsh Truss Co., 513 Montgomery street, and have their cases attended to. Special consulting room for ladies. 2-x

Sir Walter Raleigh created a consternation when he appeared before his servants smoking a pipe of Tobacco. The sight was a new one to them, and they, as well as the public in general were slow to learn the use of the Weed. Had they had Tobacco of the quality and perfect flavor which the Perique and Golden Thread Smoking Tobacco of to-day have, smoking would much sooner become almost universal. The Gilroy Tobacco Company (office 304 Pine street), are offering the above-named Tobaccos to the public, and we advise those in want of a good article to give them a trial. 3-x

The Art of Dancing and Deportment.

Those who appreciate culture will be glad to learn that Professor C. H. Lester has opened an Academy for the purpose of teaching, not only dancing, but those graces of deportment without which no one can shine in society. Prof. Lester is a thorough master of his art, one of the best on this side of the Rocky Mountains. Classes are held at Grand Central Hall on the corner of Sixth and Market streets on Mondays and Thursdays.

Important to Smokers.

Few men in San Francisco are aware that the enterprising firm of Kahn & Hass are employing white females labor in the manufacture of their Cigars. The very best material is used in this establishment. Call and convince yourself at 773 Market street, between Third & Fourth street. Finest brands Havana Cigars constantly on hand. 11-x

Great Bargains in Clothing.

The only store in the city that has the largest cheapest and finest assortment of Men's and Boys Clothing, is H. Peyser's Montgomery Avenue Clothing Store, 719 Montgomery street, between Washington and Jackson. Also, a large assortment of Men's and Boys' Overcoats and Cloaks, and the finest stock of Gents' Furnishing Goods, Trunks, Valises, etc. 2-x

Miss Host of the Morton House (on Post street, near Kearny), finding that first-class accommodations, at reasonable rates, has had a tendency to fill his Hotel to overflowing, has determined to enlarge his present accommodations so that families visiting the city will be enabled to find a home in its literal sense. 2w

Read this Once.

It is universally acknowledged that the Steinway Piano and the Burdett Organ are the best instruments in the world. M. Gray, Music Publisher, 623 Clay street, is the sole Agent. Brass and String Instruments of the best make only. 3-x

Special to Ladies.

For dressmaking in all its branches and the latest styles, call on Mrs. J. J. Walker, at 310 Post street. Terms reasonable. 3-x

A New Paper.

The Post says:

W. N. Slocum, long connected with the Evening Bulletin, an old resident and journalist of California, will be the editor of a weekly paper entitled Common Sense, of which the "Common Sense Publishing Company" announce s it will commence the publication as soon as 1,000 subscribers at $3 per annum are obtained. Mr. Slocum states in his prospectus that the newspaper will be devoted to free thought and moral reform, and will present arguments based on reason and science, to show "the continued existence of the human soul."

The Post thinks there is a good field for such a paper. What puzzles us is, how Mr. Slocum could, if he has been long connected with the Evening Bulletin, believe in the existence of the human soul at all. California newspapers don't have souls. If Mr. Slocum intends to publish a paper for the purpose of proving that all men have souls, we will give him some work to do. There are men who live, and eat, and drink, and buy, and sell, and never during the whole course of their existence give any sign that they possesss souls. If Professor Denton is right in his assertion that it took "millions of milleniums" to bring the best of men up to their present standard, doesn't it take a few generations to develop any sort of a soul in a man? Mr. Slocum must change his prospectus to make it agree with the title of the paper he intends to publish —Common Sense. He must say that he will present arguments to show "the continued existence of the human soul when such soul is already in existence." We don't like these radical papers.

The Right Man.

Charles Kingsley wants an American to be interred among the mighty dead in Westminster Abbey. There now seems to be a chance of his wish being gratified. A telegraphic despatch from London, dated March 25th is as follows:

It is reported that Ralph Waldo Emerson will receive the nomination of Lord Rector of Glasgow University, as the successor of Disraeli.

We think this will be satisfactory to Mr. Kingsley. Let Mr. Emerson accept the position of Lord Rector of Glasgow University, and when he dies he will be duly qualified for Westminster Abbey. We hope Mr. Kingsley is not in a hurry to have his wish gratified as Mr. Emerson will be really of more use in Glasgow University, than he would be in Westminster Abbey. He would be the right man in the right place in either case.

Tennyson and the Parson.

Dr. F. G. Lee stigmatizes the line "In Memoriam" as unorthodox,

Ring in the Christ that is to be.

and Tennyson replies: "I may remark that I have not written 'that other Christ to be.' Apparently your correspondent has never heard of the Second Advent. There was a fair way for him to walk in, but he puts his own stumbling block, theron, and, when he has broken his shins against it, would fain break my head, too."

Unkind.

Muffington having been robbed by his Chinese servant, says he is determined henceforth to be guided by the maxim, "Put no faith in tail bearers." This is rough on the two dogs and the cat which Muffington still cherishes.

Queer Justification.

The dramatic "critic" of the Chronicle, quotes from a criticism published in a St. Louis paper to prove that others use as bad English in their compositions as he does himself.

New Music.

Gray has just published a Serenade, dedicated to Miss Neilson, and ornamented with a handsome photograph of her. Music by Salvatore Scudere.

Do Not Suffer from Corns.

The unfortunate sufferers from Cerns, Bunons, Club and Ingrowing Nails, can find instant relief by applying at Dr. R. H. Cowan's Institute, 310 Kearny street, from 1 to 6 P.M. We speak from experience, having tested the Doctor's capability. References given if required. x

The Matinee Fruit Store.

Keeps the choicest varieties of domestic and imported Fruits, Jellies, Confectionery, etc., and sells at the lowest rates. Pure, healthy Apple Cider, fresh from the press every day. No 409 Bush street, one door above Kearny. 1-x

Half of the pain and annoyance of a dental operation is obviated by going to a thorough practitioner. We had occasion to call on H. H. Thrall, Surgeon Dentist, 305 Kearny street, and can cheerfully recommend him. 3-x

J. FIGEL, at 211 Montgomery street, has an immense stock of Men's and Boy's ready-made suits, and a full line of Furnishing Goods which he will offer at exceedingly low terms for cash.

The Innocent Miller.

Wm. J. Miller, who testified in the Black Will case, is reported by the Call to have expressed himself as follows:

The relations existing between Mr. Black and his wife, during the time I staid at the Pacheco house, were such as generally exist between husband and wife—kind and cordial.

Now, of course, the relations existing between husband and wife should be "kind and cordial," but we should like to know how far Mr. Miller has pushed his investigations with regard to the relations generally existing between husband and wife. The only way to arrive at a correct conclusion would be to collect cases and then strike the average. The Dunmow flitch of bacon which is given to the husband and wife whose relations have remained "kind and cordial" during the first year of their married life, has not many claimants now-a-days. We really think Mr. Miller spoke very hastily and without due consideration of the force of his assertion, when he said the relations of husband and wife were generally kind and cordial. We are not going to say that this is not the case, but we'll be hanged if we'll take our oath to it.

"Married."

We have received from A. Roman & Co., a novel entitled "Married," by Mrs. C. J. Newby, author of "Kate Kennedy," "Only Temper," etc. T. B. Peterson & Bros, Philadelphia, are publishing all the works of this popular novelist at fifty cents a volume. "Married" is a good specimen of the domestic novel. The characters are well drawn, and are interesting and agreeable people. Mrs. Newby's novels are interesting and not "sensational."

FOR a good, quiet, nice saloon, commend us to the "Orient," 720 Market street. Messrs. Goldworthy & Weston are saloon-keepers who know their business thoroughly, and consequently keep only the best of Wines, Whiskys and Cigars. We can commend the "Orient" as one of the best places in the city. Try once and you will be satisfied. 2-x

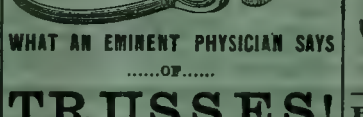
LIFE OF EDWIN FORREST.

....BY....

JAMES REES,

(COLLEY CIBBER).

THE LIFE OF EDWIN FORREST, WITH REMINISCENCES AND PERSONAL RECOLLECTIONS OF THE GREAT AMERICAN TRAGEDIAN—The author, Mr. Rees, was a warm admirer of the tragedian, having enjoyed the closest intimacy and personal friendship with him for a period of nearly fifty years, and in the latter part of his life was his constant companion. He was one of the few men who understood Mr. Forrest not only professionally, but socially, and had opportunities possessed by no one else, of becoming acquainted with the whole of his professional career, as well as with the various phases of his character in private life. He gives a complete history of Mr. Forrest's life, from the time of his birth, until his death, as well as many anecdotes and incidents which have never been collected or published before, published in one large duodecimo volume of over five hundred pages.



Every copy of the work contains a portrait of Edwin Forrest, engraved on steel, in line and stipple, in the finest style of the engraver's art, from the last picture for which Mr. Forrest sat, and which he pronounced to be the best portrait ever taken of himself, as well as a copy of his Autograph, his Last Will in Full, and the Charter of the "Edwin Forrest Home," which he endowed. The work is bound in Morocco cloth, gilt back, and is sold at the low price of Two Dollars a copy.

WHAT AN EMINENT PHYSICIAN SAYS

.....OF.....

TRUSSES!

WM. C. LADOW, M. D., OF PENDLETON, Umatilla County, Oregon says:

Marsh's Trusses are the most superior inventions of the age. Their principle is superb and construction admirably adapted to the anatomy of parts involved. They protect the life, restore the health, renew the functions of the kidneys and other organs, obviate the pressure upon the SPINE, PUBIC BONE and spermatic chord, and in fact do more practically than all the hundreds of "OTHER" worthless inventions put together can perform. They possess merit, and I know whereof I speak, it being fully demonstrated upon myself and numerous other patients of my own. During a study of thirty years of the respective merits of different appliances, I never had anything to meet my approbation so thoroughly as the Marsh's Patent Trusses.

Oysters.

In strolling round the other night,
To look at 'Frisco by gas light,
Our careless feet, by chance led stray
To where a fountain's ceaseless play
Of sparkling waters, made a screen
Through which a sweet bouquet was seen;
While mossy stone and pearly shell,
O'er which the waters softly fell,
Made that window seem to be
Some fairy grotto of the sea.
Stop," said my friend, "let's go in here—
It looks so nice—and try their cheer."
"All right," I said, "I must agree
That this place suits me to a 'T.'"
No sooner had we found a seat
Than at our side a waiter neat
Made his appearance, asked our wish—
Said they had almost any dish
That we might name. We found it true,
And cooked magnificently, too;
All kinds of oysters, juicy, fat,
Cooked every style; just think of that,
And if your mouth don't water, then
You're different from other men.
They'd clams and crabs and terrapins!
In fact, we found they had within
That cosy place all kinds of game,
Fish, flesh or fowl which we could name,
While every dish was, I am sure,
Prepared to tempt an epicure.
The ladies, too, have found, 'twould seem,
That they have here the best ice cream;
So here they flock, the little sinners,
To get what they call "such nice dinners."
Whoever doubts this let him rush
To three hundred thirty-seven Bush,
And there this truth he'll find made plain:
Who goes there once will go again,
Pacific Oyster House, 337 Bush street, above Montgomery; open Day and Night.
CHARLES HAAKE, Proprietor.

The Ladies of To-day and 30 Years Ago.

Thirty years ago the advantages one could have were few compared with to-day. Then, if a lady was troubled with any complaints incidental to womanhood, she was obliged to trust to the various methods then in vogue, and seldom with any relief being derived. The bases of nearly all the medicines then were mineral. The superiority and safety of vegetable over mineral medicine has been demonstrated by the medical faculty all over the world. The Marsh Truss Co. (31 years standing) have in connection with their Truss department a Medical Infirmary, where they make ladies cases a specialty. Their medicines are all purely vegetable. Ladies troubled with delicate diseases should call at once on the Marsh Truss Co., 513 Montgomery street, and have their cases attended to. Special consulting room for ladies. 2-x

Sir Walter Raleigh created a consternation when he appeared before his servants smoking a pipe of Tobacco. The sight was a new one to them, and they, as well as the public in general were slow to learn the use of the Weed Had they had Tobacco of the quality and perfect flavor which the Perique and Golden Thread Smoking Tobacco of to-day have, smoking would much sooner become almost universal. The Gilroy Tobacco Company (office 304 Pine street), are offering the above-named Tobaccos to the public, and we advise those in want of a good article to give them a trial. 3-J

The Art of Dancing and Deportment.

Those who appreciate culture will be glad to learn that Professor C. H. Lester has opened an Academy for the purpose of teaching, not only dancing, but those graces of deportment without which no one can shine in society. Prof. Lester is a thorough master of his art, one of the best on this side of the Rocky Mountains. Classes are held at Grand Central Hall on the corner of Sixth and Market streets on Mondays and Thursdays.

Important to Smokers.

PACIFIC COAST DRAMATIC NEWS.

GRASS VALLEY.—To-night, the Nevada City Dramatic Club will appear at Hamilton Hall in "Luke, the Laborer" and "Irish Assurance."

SAN JOSE.—Josh Billings lectured at the Opera House last night. On Monday Prof. Denton will commence a series of lectures at the Music Hall.

ANAHEIM.—The Templeton troupe performed here on Monday and Tuesday of the present week.

MARYSVILLE.—Josh Billings lectured at the theatre on Monday night on "Duty and the Beest."

EUREKA.—The Clark and Bosco Combination did a good business here. They opened on Thursday of last week to $350. The company consisted of Harry Clark and Mlle. Laura, gymnasts, and Bosco, the magician. Mr. Greenwold was the manager of the troupe.

VIRGINIA CITY.—John T. Raymond and Miss M. E. Gordon closed a very successful engagement at Piper's Opera House on Monday evening, when "The Wicked World" was performed with Mr. Raymond as Lutin, and Miss M. E. Gordon as Solace. The season closed with the engagement of these artistes, and the stock company went to Carson.

CARSON CITY.—The company from Piper's Opera House, Virginia City, opened here on Tuesday evening, and have been performing during the week.

SALT LAKE CITY.—During the present week Miss Katharine Rogers has been playing in "Led Astray" and other pieces to good business.

The Lucky Number

Fortunia, the Goddess of Luck, must have designated one hundred and forty-four as her symbol. W. E. M. yhew believes in the number. He drew the second grand prize in the last lottery on that number, and then moved his large and complete stock of Drugs, Perfumes, etc., to 144 Fourth street. Naturally happy and free-hearted, he continues in business for the pleasure it affords him. He is actually giving a splendid Sachet Package of Rimmel's or Lubin's to every customer that comes to his store. 3 B

THE SCIENCE—for it is a science—of taking the impression of any animate or inanimate thing on Glass, Porcelain or Cardboard, by using the sun as an auxiliary, is an important one. Improvements have been made from time to time by those who have made Photography a study. To our mind (and a visit will make our readers agree with us) the Artist who presides at the Florence Gallery, 28 Third street, has attained a degree of excellence seldom achieved, if ever equalled. His Life-Size Portraits are excellent and prices low. 2bh

What Next?

Every one knows how a photograph looks when viewed through a stereoscope—but a stereoscope cannot always be had. G. D. Morse, at 417 Montgomery street has obviated this difficulty by producing a photograph that is so clear and sharp in its outlines that one would almost think he was looking through the lens of a stereoscope. Mr. Morse's parlors look more like an art gallery than a place of business. 2-T

The Young Man from the East.

"I'm a stranger in this city,
I'm lately from the East,
And mighty fond of oysters;
Who-ro can I get a feast?
I've been to all the restaurants,
But nowhere could I find,
A plate of Eastern oysters,
Of the old-fashioned kind."

"Well, I can tell you," said his friend,
"Exactly where to go,
And where to get your oysters,
Direct from where they grow.
Just take a stroll down PINE STREET,
At 410, below the Market,
You'll see a sign, 'THE SADDLE ROCK,'
You can't fail to remark it.

"Emerson Corville keeps the place,
The best saloon in town,
There you can get your oysters raw,
Or fried or crisp and brown.
He's the largest oyster dealer
On the Pacific Coast,
And that he keeps the freshest
Has ever been his boast.

"He's got nice little private rooms,
Where you can sit at ease,
And eat your California stew,
Or Eastern if you please.
All the young men of fashion go
Right to the SADDLE ROCK,
To eat their EASTERN OYSTERS
And drink their Rhenish hock."

FOR a good, quiet, nice saloon, commend us to the "Orient," 720 Market street. Messrs. LIFE OF EDWIN FORREST.

....BY....

JAMES REES,

(COLLEY CIBBER).

THE LIFE OF EDWIN FORREST, WITH REMINISCENCES AND PERSONAL RECOLLECTIONS OF THE GREAT AMERICAN TRAGEDIAN.—The author, Mr. Rees, was a warm admirer of the tragedian, having enjoyed the closest intimacy and personal friendship with him for a period of nearly fifty years, and in the latter part of his life was his constant companion. He was one of the few men who understood Mr. Forrest not only professionally, but socially, and had opportunities possessed by no one else, of becoming acquainted with the whole of his professional career, as well as with the various phases of his character in private life. He gives a complete history of Mr. Forrest's life, from the time of his birth until his death, as well as many anecdotes and incidents which have never been collected or published before, published in one large duodecimo volume of over five hundred pages.

Every copy of the work contains a portrait of Edwin Forrest, engraved on steel, in line and stipple, in the finest style of the engraver's art, from the last picture for which Mr. Forrest sat, and which be pronounced to be the best portrait ever taken of himself, as well as a copy of his Autograph. his Last Will in Full, and the Charter of the "Edwin Forrest Home," which he endowed. The work is bound in Morocco cloth, gilt back, and is sold at the low price of Two Dollars a copy.

WHAT AN EMINENT PHYSICIAN SAYS

.....OF.....

TRUSSES!

WM. C. LADOW, M. D., OF PENDLETON, Umatilla County, Oregon says:

Marsh's Trusses are the most superior inventions of the age. Their principle is superb and construction admirably adapted to the anatomy of parts involved. They protect the life, restore the health, renew the functions of the kidneys and other organs, obviate the pressure upon the SPINE, PUBIC BONE and spermatic chord, and in fact do more practically than all the hundreds of "OTHER" worthless inventions put together can perform. They possess merit, and I know whereof I speak, it being fully demonstrated upon myself and numerous other patients of my own. During a study of thirty years of the respective merits of different appliances, I never had anything to meet my approbation so thoroughly as the Marsh's Patent Trusses.

AN OPEN LETTER.

MARYSVILLE, March 1st, 1874.

DR. ABORN—DEAR SIR: The last time I was in your city, a year ago February, you treated me for Catarrh. I had been troubled with the above complaint about THIRTEEN YEARS, and was skeptical about your being able to relieve me. The last time I called on you prior to my return home I promised to inform you whether you had effected a permanent or temporary cure. I HAVE NOT HAD A SLIGHTEST TRACE OF CATARRH, and safely say that I have not for a year since I was under your treatment. I think it safe in saying, that you have effected a permanent cure in my case. You are at liberty to use this letter as you see fit.

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

CALIFORNIA THEATRE—An immense audience enjoyed Miss Neilson's remarkable performance of Julia in "The Hunchback" last night. The play was capitally performed throughout, Henry Edwards' Master Walter being especially good, and Miss Ellie Wilton's Helen, W. A. Mestayer's Modus, Barry's Fathom, being admirable characterizations. Lewis Morrison, though he does not appear to as good advantage in the character of Sir Thomas Clifford as in some others, plays it acceptably. At the matinee to-day and again this evening, Miss Neilson will appear as Pauline in "The Lady of Lyons."

OPERA HOUSE.—A capital entertainment was enjoyed by those who visited this house last night, when George S. Knight took his benefit. H. R. Archer, who made his first appearance in San Francisco on this occasion, gained much applause for his singing. At the matinee to-day this evening and to-morrow evening, the bill which has proved so popular during the week will be performed. It comprises a bright first part, amusing interlude, and the very funny operetta of "Too Many Cooks," in which Miss Susan Galton and Alfred Kelleher sing admirably, and John Howson does some good comic acting.

OPERA NIGHT—CALIFORNIA THEATRE.—On Sunday night, Madame Agatha States will make her first appearance at this theatre as Rosina in the opera of "Il Barbiere di Siviglia," Signor Carlo Orlandini will play Figaro, Signor Pietro Bacci will appear for the first time as Count Almaviva, Signora Bianchi will appear as Bertha, A. Roncovieri as Dr. Bartolo, and F. Rigo as Don Basilio.

THE NEW PALACE AMPHITHEATRE.—A matinee performance will be given to-day by the company of stars engaged at this house, M. and Mme. Dockrill, the Kenebels, Fred O'Brien, Johnny Cooke, and others will appear in the great programme given on our first page. There will also be a performance this evening and to-morrow evening: A more attractive and varied entertainment than that given at this place of amusement has never been enjoyed in this city.

BELLA UNION THEATRE.—The Japs in their great "Ladder Feat" and other performances; Miss Alice Ross in serio-comic songs, Ed. Murray in funniments, Johnny Tuers and others in screaming acts, Miss Jennie Johnson, John Woodard, Miss Fanny Hooker, Tommy Barton, Matt Kelly, and others in "The Farallones," and others in various specialties will afford all who visit this theatre to-night abundant entertainment.

BUCKLEY'S NEW VARIETY THEATRE.—An immense Saturday night bill will be presented and the same programme will be performed to-morrow night. It comprises Geo. C. Thompson, Miss Ida May, Johnny Price, and a host of others in bright and original specialties.

CAOUTCHOUC.—The wonderful Hairless Horse on exhibition on Satter street, opposite the Lick House, is really one of the most remarkable freaks of nature we have ever seen. Looking at the skin through a microscope not a pore can be seen. He is one of the most perfect specimens of a horse physically. He stands about fifteen hands high and weighs 1,000 pounds. He is well worth a visit.

WOODWARD'S GARDENS.—The French mail silk balloon "Le Secours" will make its first ascensions to-day and to-morrow. Captain Alban's balloon will also make captive accessions half-hourly at the same time. Tickets will be given to all adults, and the lucky numbers will entitle the holders to make a trip to the clouds, or dispose of them to some one that wants to. There will be a crowd to Woodward's on Sunday.

CITY GARDENS.—The Italian Company, the Garibaldi Guard, will hold their annual picnic and ball here to-morrow. A concert by Charles Alpen's Band, dancing and other amusements will be the order of the day. The Garibaldi Guard are very popular with their countrymen, and there will doubtless be a large attendance.

ANATOMICAL MUSEUM.—One of the most complete collections of the kind in the United States, comprising hundreds of costly and beautiful wax models, is daily on view (to gentlemen only) at the Museum on Montgomery street. An hour may be profitably spent here.

GOLDEN GATE PARK.—Those who drive out to the new park should visit The Villa which has just been opened. Here they will find four public parlors and ten private dining rooms. Guido Mangenberg & Co the proprietors get up epicurean breakfasts, dinners and suppers at short notice.

THE CLIFF HOUSE.—Captain Foster, the genial host of the Cliff House, entertains visitors from all parts of the Globe at his famous sea-side resort. The Cliff House is THE one thing San Francisco has to boast of as different from anything else in the world. Omnibuses run every day from the terminus of the Lone Mountain Railroad.

NOTES.—On Monday evening, Miss Neilson will take her farewell benefit and make her last appearance in San Francisco. The house is entirely disposed of with the exception of the seats in the balcony and gallery, which already command a premium.

J. C. Williamson, the favorite comedian of the California Theatre company, will take his farewell benefit on Tuesday evening, March 31st, when he will present a new American drama written for Miss Maggie Moore and himself, by A. Maigam Esq., and entitled "Struck Oil." Mr. Williamson will appear as John Stofel, and Miss Maggie Moore as Lizzie Stofel. Apart from this attraction the popularity of Mr. Williamson would insure him an overflowing house on this, the last occasion on which he will specially invite his friends, the public of San Francisco, to come and see him. The box office is now open, and there is already a large demand for tickets.

On Tuesday evening, March 31st, a concert of a remarkable character will be given at Platt's Hall for the benefit of the widow of the late Charles T. Braun. All the chief singing societies of San Francisco will combine on this occasion, forming an aggregate of over two hundred voices. The names of the societies tendering this benefit are the Thalia, Harmonie, Teutonia, Maenerchor, Turn Verein, Schweitzerbund, Eureka Turn Verein, Eintracht, Hammonia and Concordia. Madame Lisa Mulder Fabbri, Miss Anna Elser, Herr Bohlott, the Zither Club of ten performers, and a grand orchestra under the direction of Prof. Mulder Fabbri, will make a musical combination never before effected in this city, and the worthy object for which the entertainment is given, will command it to the public.

Thursday evening next, is set apart for the benefit of that talented and deserving actress Miss Ellie Wilton, who is deservedly an immense favorite with the public, and never fails to please in any part she undertakes. A very pleasing performance will be given on this occasion. It will consist of the capital play of "A Victim of Circumstances," with Barton Hill as M. Bonnefoi, a piano forte recital by Miss Marian Singer, the accompanist pianiste and vocalist, who has already won from the San Francisco press recognition of her talents, a ballad by the favorite baritone J. G. Russell, and a burlesque by the charming Miss Jennie Lee and all the members of the California Company. With such attractions and such deserts, Miss Wilton cannot fail to have a crowded house.

The doorkeepers and ushers of the California Theatre, who, for civility, forbearance and general ability in fulfilling their often arduous duties, can scarcely be excelled, will take their annual benefit on Friday night. The performance will consist of "The Marble Heart," with Barton Hill as Raphael. On Saturday, "The Rivals" will be performed, with an exceptionally strong cast, for the benefit of the National Guards.

On Monday evening, April 6th, John T. Raymond, the prince of good fellows, and one of the most popular low comedians of the day, will commence an engagement at the California Theatre. The appearance of this San Francisco favorite in ANY piece would be sufficient to draw a succession of crowded houses, but a double attraction will be given in the production of the greatest success of the day—"Led Astray,"—which is up for a run of at least a year and a half, at Union Square Theatre, New York. How long it will run here, of course we cannot tell, but it is certainly good for two weeks. Gilbert's comedy of "The Wicked World" will follow.

Miss M. E. Gordon (Mrs. J. T. Raymond), is not under engagement to appear at the California Theatre. We hope, however, before she leaves she will face that public which appreciates her so well, on at least one occasion. J. T. Raymond's benefit might furnish a fitting occasion.

Housesworth & Co. have issued a photograph of Josh Billings, the humorist. It forms an admirable companion picture to that of Miss Neilson, and if framed side by side with it would suggest the title of one of Josh's lectures.

On Monday next, new and very pleasing attractions will be added to the immense entertainment given at the Palace Amphitheatre. The wonderful Carlo Family—William, George, Frederick Madame Fannie (the charming Miss Fannie Brown, formerly a member of the dramatic profession), and Masters Harry and Leo, will make their appearance, and the graceful and daring Miss Emilie Bridges will also commence an engagement. These artistes were recently the leading stars of Chiarini's Circus in Melbourne, Australia.

Miss Neilson is announced to appear at the Gaiety Theatre, London, in October.

Mons. Regamey, the wonderful caricaturist, is on his way to San Francisco. He will arrive here next week.

The plot of "Struck Oil" which is to be produced at the California Theatre on Tuesday evening, for the benefit of J. C. Williamson, is as follows: Mr. Williamson as John Stofel, a shoemaker in reduced circumstances, goes as a substitute for Deacon Skinner, who gives him the farm he lives on. Stofel is wounded and takes prisoner; he becomes crazy from the effects of his wounds, and after the war wanders about the South for three years, then makes his way towards his old home, is picked up by Dr. Bowe, and is operated upon successfully. Deacon Skinner denies giving Stofel the farm, which proves to be rich in oil. Skinner endeavors to persuade John's wife to marry him. Lizzie marries Dr. Brown, and John Stofel returns to his senses in time to expose Deacon Skinner's rascality. Sergeant Flinn, afterwards a judge, denounces the Deacon, and has him arrested. The play is something after the style of "Rip Van Winkle," inasmuch as it is a mixture of pathos and humor.

EASTERN DRAMATIC NEWS.

In New York, at the Academy of Music, the long promised opera of "Lohengrin" was produced on the 23d, with a grand mise en scene, and increased orchestra and chorus.....At Fifth Avenue Theatre the success of "Charity" is assured, and it will have a good run.....At Union Square Theatre, "Led Astray" will run a considerable number of nights more. It reached its hundredth night on the 9th.....The Martinetti Pantomime Troupe were performing at the Grand Opera House.....Dion Boucicault commenced an engagement at Booth's Theatre on the 16th, appearing in "The Colleen Bawn".....Davy Crockett," with Frank Mayo and Miss Rosa Rand in the leading roles, was drawing well at Niblo's.....At Wallack's "The Rivals" was produced on the 16th, with Mr. Gilbert as Sir Anthony Absolute; Mr. Arnott as Captain Absolute; Mr. Beckett as Bob Acres; Madame Ponisi as Mrs. Malaprop; and Miss Lewis as Lydia Languish.....At the Metropolitan Theatre, James M. Ward and Miss Winnetta Montague, appeared in "Through by Daylight" on the 16th.....At the Theatre Comique, John Hart, John Allen, Add Rymer, Harrigan and Hart, and others gave a good entertainment .....Bob Hart continued a great favorite at Bryant's Opera House.....At Tony Pastor's, Guy Linton and Miss Lucy Adams were appearing in a new burlesque sketch entitled "Courage Jerry" .....At Wood's Museum, J. J. Wallace appeared in his own drama "The Man From America," on the 16th.....At the Olympic, the California song and dance men Coghill and Cooper had made quite a hit, Billy Ashcroft was appearing in Irish characters.....Revenge" was running at the Bowery Theatre.....Fox's Broadway Theatre was to be opened on April 6th.....Pauline Lucca was presenting German Opera at the Stadt Theatre.....The season of Opera Bouffe by the Aimee Troupe at the Lyceum terminated on the 21st.

John McCullough's engagement at the Olympic Theatre, St. Louis, proved a great success. He appeared on the 16th in "Hamlet" which was put on the stage with entirely new scenery and appointments. We have only space for the following extract from a lengthy criticism of Mr. McCullough's Hamlet which appeared in the Dispatch of the 18th. "The traditional Dane is a pale fellow, in exceedingly funereal small clothes, and a black feather which sets off well the marbly whiteness of his brow. McCullough's Hamlet is a strong, ardent, self-accusing man, who feels keenly the lack there is in himself, and cannot refrain from censuring it as well in others. He is passionate without being stormy, sad and thoughtful without being mawkish, and not so unjust to any one as to himself.

Mr. McCullough's playing is excellent throughout, his elocution perfect and the greatest study apparent in the most trivial business of the stage; He is without doubt one of the first actors of the day if not the first. Booth's admirers will not hear of this, but chance for comparison will be given soon and it will then be seen that he is in nothing behind even so deservedly esteemed an actor as this descendant of tragedians." "Hamlet" was played two nights. On the 18th, "Richelieu" was presented. Of Mr. McCullough as the Cardinal the Globe says: "His representation last night of the crafty Cardinal was the magnificent effort of genius, aided by care and study. Without falling into the error that the weaknesses of the old man should be bolstered up and his strength left to care for itself, he brought out Richelieu's failings in the same strong light he cast upon his virtues. He did not seek to gloss over the fear that sometimes assailed his rugged spirit. He did not affect the carelessness of the danger that the text belies. But infirm, old and broken with intrigue and the cares of states, a tower of Pisa, leaning and trembling, though still preserving its center of gravity, he pictured in colors sharply defined, as well as colors shaded, the spirit often beyond attack but ever and anon quivering as ruin started threatening." The Democrat says: Mr. McCullough's playing is admirable; if it lacks the bitter irony given to some of the speeches by Edwin Booth, it excels that actor's impersonation in force and power. In the last scene of the fourth act, where the Cardinal utters the curse of the church, the acting was magnificent, and brought down tumultuous applause." "The Gladiator" was underlined.

The following is the route of the Vokes Family as at present arranged: Arch-street Theatre, Philadelphia, March 23d to April 4th; Grand Opera House, Baltimore, April 6th to 11th; National Theatre, Washington, 13th to 18th; Pittsburg, 20th to 25th; Cincinnati, 27th to May 9th; St. Louis, 11th to 23d; Chicago, May 25th to June 13th; Milwaukee, 15th to 20th; Toledo, 22d to 27th; Detroit, June 29th to July 4th, Salt Lake, San Francisco, and Virginia City to follow.

Barnum has shipped 300 carloads of hippodrome paraphernalia on the steamship Denmark for his exhibition in the United States. The shipment embraces lions, tigers, leopards, camels, elephants and a large number of monkeys and other wild animals, beside an extensive collection of birds.

Miss Rose Eytinge, of the Union Square Theatre, has received from Mr. Dion Boucicault an elegant gold bracelet richly studded with turquoise and pearls, and bearing an inscription stating the gift to be in remembrance of the one hundredth representation of "Led Astray."

"Led Astray" was produced at the Walnut-street Theatre, Philadelphia, on the 16th, Mrs. D. P. Bowers playing the Countess Du Chandoo.

Lawrence Barrett, Toledo, 30th and 31st.

The Globe Theatre, Chicago is advertised for sale by Ernst Prussing, real estate agent, 143 Randolph street, Chicago.

J. K. Emmet, Milwaukee, 23d; Brooklyn Theatre, April 20th.

E. A. Sothern, and associates, Richmond theatre, 23d to 28th; Wilmington, Del., 30th; Williamsport, April 2d; Wilkesbarre, 4th.

Near the fence on the corner of Forty-sixth street and Broadway, Jarrett & Palmer have stationed a sentinel armed with a musket to protect the splendid illuminated quadruple picture of Frank Mayo as "Davy Crockett." Bill-posters and chiffonniers give this bill a wide berth.

Mr. and Mrs. Barney Williams, Brooklyn Theatre, April 6th, two weeks.

A successful two weeks of "Led Astray," with Mrs. F. B. Conway, Miss Lillian Conway, and Frank Roche in the chief roles, at Mrs. F. B. Conway's Brooklyn theatre, was followed on the 9th by Mrs. J. B. Booth in her Parisian sensation "La Femme de Feu."

Philadelphia, 9th.—Col. Wood's Museum, Wybert Reeve in "The Woman in White." Business reported very good. Benefit of Mme. Ivan C. Michels as Shylock on above date. Academy of Music closed till 13th for Theodore Thomas' Concert. Walnut, second week of Charlotte Cushman to very good business. Arch, stock in drama, by Fred Lyster, "Luck; or, California in 1858," to fair houses. Chestnut, stock in "Monte Cristo," introducing in the carnival scene variety features of the Victorelli Brothers, gymnasts; the child, La Petite Ella; Kein Brothers, in Greek statues; Frank Goldie, sloggist. Business fair.

The New York Mercury says:

Clara Morris declined, it is reported, a very handsome sum recently for four weeks in San Francisco, her engagement with the Union-square Theatre rendering her acceptance impossible.

We don't know where she could have played. The Mission Street Opera House isn't quite finished yet.

"Led Astray" was produced at the Boston Museum on the 16th.

Edwin Booth commenced an engagement at De Bar's Opera House, St. Louis, on the 24th, while John McCullough was playing at the Olympic.

Cassim and Fritz, the wonderful gymnasts, who played a long engagement at the Bella Union Theatre, are now at the Theatre Comique, St. Louis.

Baker and Farron opened at the Athenæum, Columbus, Ohio, on the 16th, for one week.

Miss Ada Gray appeared at Robinson's Opera House, Cincinnati, on the 23d, in Gilbert's play of "Charity."

An exchange says: "Sothern gave a breakfast at Parker's, in Boston, the other day. The invited were Wilkie Collins, Mr. Wm. D. Howells, editor of the Atlantic Monthly; Mr. T. Bailey Aldrich, editor of Every Saturday; General Francis W. Palfrey, Mr. Thomas G. Appleton, George M. Towle, of the Post; Mr. Arthur Cheney, Mr. Orlando Tompkins, Mr. Geo. S. Derby, Dr. Frank Harris, Dr. H. E. Townsend, and Alexander Young, of the Globe. Mr. Lytton Bothern was also present. The menu was elegant—in fact, "not half bad."

Tearing Down Old Landmarks.

Some men's lives are failures because they have mistaken their vocation. No matter what a man's calling may be, he should study to make that calling a success. There is more skill in selecting and arranging the adornments of our homes than many have any idea of. One of the most difficult articles to arrange with taste is Carpets. One must have an eye to the surroundings, the height of the room, the number of windows, the style of the other furniture, and then proceed to select the Carpet. For some rooms one must have a large pattern, in others a small figure; bright colors do not always look the best. Mr. Burnham, one of the firm of J. W. Burnham & Co., 518 Market and 17 Post street, has made the selecting of Carpets and Window-Hangings a study, and selected his stock accordingly—Brussels, Ingrains, Tapestry and Velvets, to say nothing of Oil Cloths, of which they make a specialty. Messrs. B. & Co. are obliged, we regret to say, to close out their entire stock at a sacrifice, on account of the tearing down of their present store, in order to rebuild. For the next thirty days Mr. Burnham can be found at his place of business, and will give his advice and long experience to all that may require it. 3-D

"FIGARO."

THE JOURNAL OF AMUSEMENTS.

Published every Day in the Year by

J. P. BOGARDUS

525 Merchant and 535 Washington Sts.
Below Montgomery, San Francisco.

MONDAY.....MARCH 30, 1874

WHERE WE CIRCULATE "FIGARO."

Everybody knows that "FIGARO" has been distributed free for years very generally throughout the city, and has been circulated as programme in every theatre and place of amusement in San Francisco; and we want everybody to know that "FIGARO" is always distributed on the Oakland Ferry-boats that bring the passengers by the great overland train to this city, and is placed in their hands every day—Sundays included. That it is mailed free every day to all the leading hotels on the Pacific Coast. That "FIGARO" is circulated by Taylor & Co., the Oakland bill distributors, every day throughout the central portions of Oakland. That it is also distributed at Sacramento and on the Sacramento steamers on their down trips to this city, and in all towns on the river side, as may be seen by the annexed certificate from A. H. Nahor, distributing agent on the steamers:

This is to certify that I have agreed to, and do, distribute "FIGARO" thoroughly on the Sacramento steamers on their down trips to San Francisco, and have made arrangements to have it generally distributed in the towns of Benicia, Martinez, Collinsville, Sherman Island, Rio Vista, Courtland, Antioch, Pittsburg Landing, New York Landing, and in all of the hotels, saloons, public places, etc., in Sacramento City. ALFRED H. NAHOR.

March 4th, 1874.

Arrangements are being made for further circulation on other lines of travel, so that "FIGARO" shall be "here, there and everywhere," and be placed in the hands of all strangers, families and business men en route to this city.

SOUND SENSE.

There is no doubt but that the late Mr. Black, whose will is disputed, drank to excess, and it is possible that he was sometimes insane from that cause, but he certainly on one occasion made a remark which proved him to possess sound common sense. A witness testified that "Mr. Black said he believed a father should transact business with his children in the same way as with other people; that was, to do right." We entirely agree with Mr. Black. In these days, when the negroes have obtained their rights, and women are fighting bravely for theirs, children's rights ought to be considered. A child is too often treated as if he or she had no rights at all. Its happiness is made to depend on the father's or mother's mood at the time. Punch satirizes this tyranny, exercised over children by their parents, in the following sentence: Mother loquitur—"Mary, go into the next room and see what baby is doing, and tell her she mustn't." A child often finds it may do with impunity one day what it has been whipped for doing on a previous occasion, and its ideas of right and wrong become confused. A child should be allowed a will of its own, the will should not be broken, only directed. When a father or mother says to a child "you must not do" this or that, an explanation should be given why the act is forbidden. Often the child, who is tyrannized over by its father or mother, longs for the day when it will become as strong as they are and consequently be no longer in their power. There are some men who are such cowards that they take advantage of their strength to ill treat their wives and children. There is no reason in them. They are only tyrants because they can be so with impunity. The best way is Mr. Black's. Parents treat your children, whether old or young, as your equals, as much as you reasonably can, and in all your dealings with them be guided by the principle of justice. When a child finds you are in the wrong you lose that child's respect, its endeavor, henceforth, is to find out how to manage you. It knows that it is in your power and that you can restrain its liberty. What it cannot gain from you by force it will obtain by deceit. It will watch you to see if you are good natured, it will bide its time, and then, taking advantage of your weakness obtain its desire in opposition to yours. Having once done so, it will never cease to strive for liberty, until at length it has emancipated itself from your control and you have to humor its whims. By treating your children as your friends and equals, and teaching them that you have no desire concerning them save for their own good, you retain your control over them and retain their love and respect. The manner in which hoodlums are manufactured in San Francisco, is patent to all who have an opportunity to observe the manner in which the mothers and fathers of this city treat their children while they are young.

Nothing Remarkable.

An exchange says:

Less than twenty-five years ago Mr. Wm. Henry Smith, who was re-elected member of Parliament for Westminster the other day by a majority of nearly 6,000 votes, was literally "a newsboy" in the streets of London, running from one publishing house to another with his bundle of newspapers under his arm, and actually on foot in that active industry from 5 o'clock in the morning up to 8 o'clock at night.

Well, what of that? Charles De Young was in the same business, and now look at him. Loved, respected, and honored by all, the proprietor of a live paper, with ten suits for damages against him. Merit will tell.

Epicure's Retreat.

The epicurean fond of nice grain-fed, pig-pork chop, tenderloin or roast, resorts to E. F. Bunker's 74 and 75 California Market, and is never disappointed, for "Bob," is a good feeder himself, and always keeps on hand the very best in his line. Bunker's celebrated Club Sausages will tickle the palate of the most fastidious. Even dyspeptics laugh after eating those sausages. 1z

An Old-Fashioned Mother.

Some time ago, a Mrs. Buckleby, who lives in Berrien county, Mich., directed her son Samuel, a lad of fourteen years, to take a turn at the churn. Now, as Samuel had set his heart on going a-fishing at that very time, he "got his back up" and flatly refused to agitate the cream. The curvature was promptly taken out of his spine by a slipper, and, with tears in his eyes, he went duty with the dasher. In about half an hour, and during the brief absence of his mother, his eyes fell upon a plate of fly-poison, and a bright, smart thought struck him. Just before Mrs. Buckleby came back, Samuel lifted the fatal platter to his face, and as she entered he put the poison from his lips with the dramatic exclamation: "There, mother, I guess you won't lick me no more!" Now what did this Spartan dame do? Did she shriek for a doctor and fall into hysterics? Not much. She simply took Samuel by the nape of the neck, lifted him deftly into the pantry, beat the whites of six eggs together, and told him to engulf the same instanter; he refusing, she called the hired girl, and in a twinkling Sam found himself outside the albumen. Then Mrs. Buckleby began preparing a mustard emetic. Seeing this, Sam's pluck dissolved, and he commenced begging, crying, "I was only tryin' to skeer ye." But the stern mother was not to be softened, and Samuel had to swallow the mustard. He was then forced to take a dose of pain-killer, and had his back rubbed with "Vigor of Life," and his stomach with the "Oil of Gladness." Then he vomited up everything but his boots and socks. This being over, he took seven Ayer's pills, two spoonfuls of castor oil a teaspoonful of salts and a blue pill. And now, if you want to behold the maddest boy in Michigan, just say "fly poison" to Sam Buckleby.

Miss Minnie Walton in Boston.

The Boston Post, noticing Sothern's performances, says: "Miss Minnie Walton was bewitching in her assumption of Ada Ingot, looking and dressing most charmingly, and displaying a fine appreciation of the character, and unexpected ability in the delineation of the conflicting emotions of love for the actor, disgust, grief and disappointment at his supposed inebriety and filial devotion.

"Beauty and the Beast."

Messrs. Bradley & Rulofson have published, and are selling by thousands, beautifully executed photographs of the lovely Miss Neilson, and the unlovely, but funny, Josh Billings. People are unkind enough to call these two pictures after Josh's favorite lecture, "Buty and the Beest." However, as the Beast in the fairy tale was as amiable as he was ugly, Josh need not mind.

The Young Man from the East.

"I'm a stranger in this city,
I'm lately from the East,
And mighty fond of oysters;
Where can I get a feast?
I've been to all the restaurants,
But nowhere could I find,
A plate of Eastern oysters,
Of the old-fashioned kind."

"Well, I can tell you," said his friend,
"Exactly where to go,
And where to get your oysters,
Direct from where they grow.
Just take a stroll down PINE STREET,
At 410, below the Market,
You'll see a sign, 'THE SADDLE ROCK,'
You can't fail to remark it.

"Emerson Corvillie keeps the place,
The best saloon in town,
There you can get your oysters raw,
Or fried so crisp and brown.
He's the largest oyster dealer
On the Pacific Coast,
And that he keeps the freshest
Has ever been his boast.

"He's got nice little private rooms,
Where you can sit at ease,
And eat your California stew,
Or Eastern if you please.
All the young men of fashion go
Right to the SADDLE ROCK,
To eat their EASTERN OYSTERS
And drink their Rhenish hock."

For a good, quiet, nice saloon, commend us to the "Orient," 720 Market street. Messrs. Goldworthy & Weston are saloon-keepers who know their business thoroughly, and consequently keep only the best of Wines, Whiskys and Cigars. We can commend the "Orient" as one of the best places in the city. Try once and you will be satisfied. 2-c

WHAT AN EMINENT PHYSICIAN SAYS

.....OF.....

TRUSSES!

WM. C. LADOW, M. D., OF PENDLETON, Umatilla County, Oregon says:

Marsh's Trusses are the most superior inventions of the age. Their principle is superb and construction admirably adapted to the anatomy of parts involved. They protect the life, restore the health, renew the functions of the kidneys and other organs, obviate the pressure upon the SPINE, PUBIC BONE and spermatic chord, and in fact do more practically than all the hundreds of "OTHER" worthless inventions put together can perform. They possess merit, and I know whereof I speak, it being fully demonstrated upon myself and numerous other patients of my own. During a study of thirty years of the respective merits of different appliances, I never had anything to meet my approbation so thoroughly as the Marsh's Patent Trusses.

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

California Theatre.

To-night Miss Neilson will take her benefit and make her last appearance in San Francisco. "Romeo and Juliet" will be played. Seats for all portions of the house are selling at a premium. The Call says:

The fury of the storm of admiration for this young English actress has nearly spent itself.

This is a queer way of putting it. "The fury of the storm" would most certainly rage for weeks longer could Miss Neilson remain here, but her engagements will not admit of her doing so. To-morrow night J. C. Williamson will take his farewell benefit, and present for the first time in this city the original play by A. Malgam, entitled "Struck Oil." He deserves, and will certainly have a full house.

Opera House.

To-night, Billy Sweetnam, Little Mac, Con T. Murphy, Billy Welch and others will appear in the first part, Geo. S. Knight will present his Dutchisms, Sweetnam and Murphy will perform the act entitled "Actor vs Novice," Messrs Welch and Rice will appear in song and dance, Little Mac, Jule Robinson and Charles Reed in "Dat's Him," and the performance will conclude with the operetta of 'Lisbon and Fritzschen" by Miss Susan Galton and Alfred Kelleher.

Opera.

The opera of "Il Barbiere di Siviglia" was excellently performed last night by Mme. Agatha States, Signor Orlandini, Signor Bacosi, Signora Bianchi, Signor Roncovieri and Signor Rigo.

Platt's Hall.

On Tuesday evening, March 31st, a concert of a remarkable character will be given at Platt's Hall for the benefit of the widow of the late Charles T Braun. All the chief singing societies of San Francisco will combine on this occasion, forming an aggregate of over two hundred voices. The names of the societies tendering this benefit are the Thalia, Harmonic, Teutonia, Manerchor, Turn Verein, Schweitzerbund, Eureka Turn Verein, Eintracht, Harmonia and Concordia. Madame Inez Mulder Fabbri, Miss Anna Elzer, Herr Schlott, the Zither Club of ten performers, and a grand orchestra under the direction of Prof. Mulder Fabbri, will make a musical combination never before effected in this city, and the worthy object for which the entertainment is given, will commend it to the public.

Palace Amphitheatre.

To-night in addition to M. and Madame Dockrill, the Kenebels and the great star company, the wonderful Carlo Family, consisting of William, George, Frederick, Madame Fannie and Masters Harry and Leo, and Mlle. Bridges the famous slack wire performer will appear. These artistes were for a long time the leading performers of Chiarini's Circus. Such attractions should crowd the Amphitheatre to overflowing.

Buckley's New Variety Theatre.

George C. Thompson in his specialties, Ned Buckley in acts, Mortimore in sketches, and Hughey Morton, George C. Thompson, Johnny Price, Miss Katie Zoe and others in "Captain Blowhard's Troubles," are among the attractions for to-night.

Bella Union Theatre.

Johnny Tuers, Matt Kelly and Fred Ritchie, in "Looking for Work" Moore and Bray in song and dance, Ed. Murray in his "Budget of Fun," the wonderful Japs in their thrilling performance, Miss Louise Somers in ballads, Miss Jennie Johnson, John Woodard and others in the local extravaganza entitled "The Farallones" and many other performances will be presented to-night.

Woodward's Gardens.

Mons. Barbier's great balloon Le Secours made a very successful ascent from these gardens on Saturday. Due notice will be given of other ascensions. The thousands of attractions presented on every day of the week drew large crowds of visitors. The new aviary, the shark, and the aquarium should be seen by all.

CAOUTCHOUC.—The wonderful Hairless Horse on exhibition on Sutter street, opposite the Lick House, is really one of the most remarkable freaks of nature we have ever seen. Looking at the skin through a microscope not a pore can be seen. He is one of the most perfect specimens of a horse physically. He stands about fifteen hands high and weighs 1,000 pounds. He is well worth a visit.

ANATOMICAL MUSEUM.—One of the most complete collections of the kind in the United States, comprising hundreds of costly and beautiful wax models, is daily on view (to gentlemen only) at the Museum on Montgomery street. An hour may be profitably spent here

Managers

Of Amusements, Excursions, Lectures and Concerts, are directed to the splendid printing establishment of B. F. Sterett, 532 Clay street, over the San Francisco Market. The largest posters, in plain or fancy colors, are turned out in the shortest possible space of time. Also, the finest programmes, tickets, etc., printed to suit the most fastidious. Mr. Sterett keeps constantly on hand a fine line of bright colored papers of every shade, and the prices charged for these is very little in advance of plain white paper. Streamers of various sizes, from 18 to 42 inch letters, in stock, of all colors of paper and ink. Theatre Managers are especially invited to call for estimates. This well known printing house was established by the present proprietor in 1850, and has been in successful operation ever since. 3-oj

J. FIORI, at 211 Montgomery street, has an immense stock of Men's and Boy's ready-made suits, and a full line of Furnishing Goods which he will offer at exceedingly low terms for cash.

MR. L. JALLEWITZ, No. 240 Kearny street, New and Second-Hand Clothing, of all descriptions, bought and sold. Store closed on Saturday until 6 P. M. jy

REMOVAL.—Madame Clara Antonia, the Clairvoyant Physician and Independent Trance Medium, 20 Geary street, near Kearny. Consultations in English, French and German. 1o

We would recommend all who need the services of a thorough Dentist to visit Dr. G. S. Boyle, 135 Kearny, and avail themselves of his services. All work guaranteed.

A CROWN OF SORROW.

BY ADELAIDE PROCTOR.

A sorrow wet with early tears,
Yet bitter, had been long with me;
I wearied of this weight of years,
And would be free.

I tore my sorrow from my heart,
I cast it far away in scorn;
Right joyful that we two could part,
Yet most forlorn.

I sought (to take my sorrow's place)
Over the world for flower or gem;
But she had had an ancient grace
Unknown to them.

I took once more with strange delight
My slighted sorrow; proudly now
I wear it, set with stars of light,
Upon my brow.

The Vulgar Rich.

The following just rebuke is recorded by the Chicago Inter-Ocean: Last evening, at the Thomas concert, a large number of well-dressed individuals were tardy, and the "Ossian Overture," which opened the programme, was partially performed to an accompaniment of rustling silks and creaking patent leathers. The ushers had been given strict orders to seat no one during the progress of a number, and the disturbance was increased by obstreperous fashionables, who persisted in pushing down aisles and comparing the empty chairs with the number on their coupon. But, just as the orchestra was passing into the andante, Mr. Thomas rapped vigorously with his baton on the stand before him, and whirling face to the front, exclaimed indignantly, "This cannot be; I cannot play like this; I will wait until the ladies and gentlemen are seated"—and the maestro stamped off the stand. It is calculated that five millions of money was represented by a number of embarrassed groups which stood in the numerous aisles. In full prominence near the centre of the hall stood a millionaire grocer and his talented wife. In the left of the balcony a dashing young capitalist, who is said to have an income of $1,000 per day, was surrounded by a group of handsome ladies and gentlemen of his party. In the centre of the rear balcony a millionaire lumber dealer, with his father and mother-in-law, dropped abruptly into the most convenient seats, and near him was a handsome Board-of-Trade man with his embarrassed escort, who wore brown gros grain, trimmed with black velvet. Early attendance and less frou-frou will be expected from those parties hereafter.

Sir Walter Raleigh created a consternation when he appeared before his servants smoking a pipe of Tobacco. The sight was a new one to them, and they, as well as the public in general were slow to learn the use of the Weed Had they had Tobacco of the quality and perfect flavor which the Perique and Golden Thread Smoking Tobacco of to-day have, smoking would much sooner become almost universal. The Gilroy Tobacco Company (office 304 Pine street), are offering the above-named Tobaccos to the public, and we advise those in want of a good article to give them a trial. 3-J

The Lucky Number

Fortunio, the Goddess of Luck, must have designated one hundred and forty-four as her symbol. W. E. Mahew believes in the number. He drew the second grand prize in the last lottery on that number, and then moved his large and complete stock of Drugs, Perfumes, etc., to 144 Fourth street. Naturally happy and free-hearted, he continues in business for the pleasure it affords him. He is actually giving a splendid Sachet Package of Rimmel's or Lubin's to every customer that comes to his store. 3-B

THE SCIENCE—for it is a science—of taking the impression of any animate or inanimate thing on Glass, Porcelain or Cardboard, by using the sun as an auxiliary, is an important one. Improvements have been made from time to time by those who have made Photography a study. To our mind (and a visit will make our readers agree with us) the Artist who presides at the Florence Gallery, 28 Third street, has attained a degree of excellence seldom achieved, if ever equalled. His Life-Size Portraits are excellent and prices low. 2bh

New Furnishing Goods.

What Next?

Every one knows how a photograph looks when viewed through a stereoscope—but a stereoscope cannot always be had. G. D. Morse, at 417 Montgomery street has obviated this difficulty by producing a photograph that is so clear and sharp in its outlines that one would almost think he was looking through the lens of a stereoscope. Mr. Morse's parlors look more like an art gallery than a place of business. 2-x

Spiritual Phenomena.

The February number of London Society publishes a remarkable communication from Henry M. Dunphy in regard to some recent spiritualistic manifestations in the houses of two respectable merchants of the metropolis. According to the writer, matter is frequently passed through matter. Objects in one portion of a house have been removed and brought through locked doors to another, and not only shadow, evanescent forms, but apparitions materialized in all respects to the human figure are frequently seen, and touched and heard. The witnesses to these phenomena include peers, members of Parliament, diplomatists of the highest rank, judges, barristers, physicians, clergymen, members of the learned societies, chemists, engineers, journalists, and thinkers of all sorts and degrees, who have suggested and carried into effect tests of the most rigid and satisfactory character, but no deception has been discovered and no imposture brought to light. Neither was there any motive for imposture. No fee or reward of any kind depended upon the success or non-success of the manifestations.

A Temperance Prayer.

The Sacramento Bee tells how it was in these words: While the main army of the women who are to pray saloons into salvation are a little slow in advancing, a single soldier on Saturday night, solely and alone, stormed one of the forts of the enemy on J street, in which her husband was at the time. Her prayer was a la Dr. Haskell, and included a little work also. She remarked with nerve, "An' it's here ye are, is it—throwin' bits av bone out av a leather tumbler an' dhrinkin' whisky an' lavin' me to shtarve? Faix, I'll pray for ye—it's the tap av yer head I'll pray for," and she went for that end of his anatomy, and wife and husband emerged together. The pale and affrighted saloon keeper afterwards remarked that he had no idea how efficacious the prayers of the gentler sex could be.

Oysters.

In strolling round the other night,
To look at 'Frisco by gas light,
Our careless feet, by chance did stray
To where a fountain's ceaseless play
Of sparkling waters, made a screen
Through which a sweet bouquet was seen;
While mossy stone and pearly shell,
O'er which the waters softly fell,
Made that window seem to be
Some fairy grotto of the sea.
"Stop," said my friend. "let's go in here
It looks so nice—and try their cheer."
"All right," I said, "I must agree
That this place suits me to a 'T.'"
No sooner had we found a seat
Than at our side a waiter neat
Made his appearance, asked our wish—
Said they had almost any dish
That we might name. We found it true,
And cooked magnificently, too;
All kinds of oysters, juicy, fat,
Cooked every style; just think of that,
And if your mouth don't water, then
You're different from other men.
They'd clams and crabs and terrapins';
In fact, we found they had within
That cosy place all kinds of game,
Fish, flesh or fowl which we could name,
While every dish was, I am sure,
Prepared to tempt an epicure.
The ladies, too, have found, 'twould seem,
That they have here the best ice cream;
So here they flock, the little sinners,
To get what they call "such nice dinners."
Whoever doubts this let him rush
To three hundred thirty-seven Bush,
And there this truth he'll find made plain:
Who goes there once will go again.
Pacific Oyster House, 337 Bush street, above Montgomery; open Day and Night.

Tearing Down Old Landmarks.

Some men's lives are failures because they have mistaken their vocation. No matter what a man's calling may be, he should study to make that calling a success. There is more skill in selecting and arranging the adornments of our homes than many have any idea of. One of the most difficult articles to arrange with taste is Carpets. One must have an eye to the surroundings, the height of the room, the number of windows, the style of the other furniture, and then proceed to select the Carpet. For some rooms one must have a large pattern, in others a small figure; bright colors do not always look the best. Mr. Burnham, one of the firm of J. W. Burnham & Co., 518 Market and 17 Post street, has made the selecting of Carpets and Window-Hangings a study, and selected his stock accordingly—Brussels, Ingrains, Tapestry and Velvets, to say nothing of Oil Cloths, of which they make a specialty. Messrs. B. & Co. are obliged, we regret to say, to close out their entire stock at a sacrifice, on account of the tearing down of their present store, in order to rebuild. For the next thirty days Mr. Burnham can be found at his place of business, and will give his advice and long experience to all that may require it. 3-D

The Ladies of To-day and 30 Years Ago.

Thirty years ago the advantages one could have were few compared with to-day. Then, if a lady was troubled with any complaints incidental to womanhood, she was obliged to trust to the various methods then in vogue, and seldom with any relief being derived. The bases of nearly all the medicines then were mineral. The superiority and safety of vegetable over mineral medicine has been demonstrated by the medical faculty all over the world. The Marsh Truss Co. (31 years standing) have in connection with their Truss department a Medical Infirmary, where they make ladies cases a specialty. Their medicines are all purely vegetable. Ladies troubled with delicate diseases should call at once on the Marsh Truss Co., 513 Montgomery street, and have their cases attended to. Special consulting room for ladies. 2-x

"FIGARO."

THE JOURNAL OF AMUSEMENTS.

Published every Day in the Year by

P. BOGARDUS

—AT—

523 Merchant and 536 Washington Sts

(Below Montgomery, San Francisco.

TUESDAY..... .....MARCH 31 1874

WHERE WE CIRCULATE "FIGARO."

Everybody knows that "FIGARO" has been distributed free for years very generally throughout the city, and has been circulated as programme in every theatre and place of amusement in San Francisco; and we want everybody to know that "FIGARO" is always distributed on the Oakland Ferry-boats that bring the passengers by the great overland train to this city, and is placed in their hands every day—Sundays included. That it is mailed free every day to all the leading hotels on the Pacific Coast. That "FIGARO" is circulated by Taylor & Co., the Oakland bill distributors, every day throughout the central portions of Oakland. That it is also distributed at Sacramento and on the Sacramento steamers on their down trips to this city, and in all towns on the river side, as may be seen by the annexed certificate from A. H. Nahor, distributing agent on the steamers:

This is to certify that I have agreed to, and do, distribute "FIGARO" thoroughly on the Sacramento steamers on their down trips to San Francisco, and have made arrangements to have it generally distributed in the towns of Benicia, Martinez, Collinsville, Sherman Island, Rio Vista, Courtland, Antioch, Pittsburg Landing, New York Landing, and in all of the hotels, saloons, public places, etc., in Sacramento City. ALFRED H. NAHOR.

March 4th, 1874.

Arrangements are being made for further circulation on other lines of travel, so that "FIGARO" shall be "here, there and everywhere," and be placed in the hands of all strangers, families and business men en route to this city.

The Young Man from the East.

"I'm a stranger in this city,
I'm lately from the East,
And mighty fond of oysters;
Where can I get a feast?
I've been to all the restaurants,
But nowhere could I find,
A plate of Eastern oysters,
Of the old-fashioned kind."

"Well, I can tell you," said his friend,
"Exactly where to go,
And where to get your oysters,
Direct from where they grow.
Just take a stroll down PINE STREET,
At 410, below the Market,
You'll see a sign, 'THE SADDLE ROCK,'
You can't fail to remark it.

"Emerson Corville keeps the place,
The best saloon in town,
There you can get your oysters raw,
Or fried so crisp and brown.
He's the largest oyster dealer
On the Pacific Coast,
And that he keeps the freshest
Has ever been his boast.

"He's got nice little private rooms,
Where you can sit at ease,
And eat your California stew,
Or Eastern if you please.
All the young men of fashion go
Right to the SADDLE ROCK,
To eat their EASTERN OYSTERS
And drink their Rhenish hock."

For Photo-crayons.

And reproduction in a superior style, go to Edouard & Cobb, 506 Kearny st. near California, Those desiring any of the above for Christmas presents, should make application before the rain sets in, and so avoid disappointment, satisfaction guaranteed in all cases 5t

Great Bargains in Clothing.

Quite Right.

Governor Booth, who is governed by principle, was quite right in vetoing the Meiggs bill. The Legislature not being governed by principle, but by their feelings, were quite right to pass the bill over the Governor's veto. The Governor could not do less than he did, but we are sure that he is not sorry that the bill has passed. It does not matter very much what the Legislature do, but it is a matter of some consequence what Governor Booth does. The Alta says:

We think the intellect and morality of the Senate and Assembly are as reliable and worthy of confidence as are his.

It is really very little consequence what the Alta thinks. The Alta also says "we would rather trust them." It doesn't matter a bit whom the Alta would rather trust. The intellect and morality of Governor Booth are a peg or two higher than the average intellect and morality of the late Legislature, and in every veto he has proved this to be the case.

"An Independent Critic."

The dramatic critic of the Call, who said Miss Jeonie Lee was not pretty, and who thinks Miss Neilson acts Pauline in "The Lady of Lyons" splendidly, (which is not the case,) cannot be made to believe that John McCullough ranks among the greatest actors of the day. He went mousing round among the criticisms of the St. Louis press, and at last found one little paragraph about McCullough's coughing too often in "Richelieu." This the Call critic republished with the following comment:

This, we believe, is about the only break in the monotonous flow of eulogium; and, in St. Louis, this is sufficient to establish for the writer a reputation as an independent critic.

It is a great thing to be "an independent critic:" it is also a great thing to be a just critic, as ready to commend merit as to point out weakness.

Sociable Christians.

That was a most apt remark made by a member of a fashionable congregation on learning that his pastor intended preaching on the subject of recognition of friends in heaven. Said he: "My opinion is that he had better preach on the recognition of friends on earth, for I have been sitting in this pew for twenty years without being recognized by the occupant of the adjoining one."

The President a Ladies' Man.

President Grant is a ladies' man, no matter what people may say about his reticence when in their company. The proof of the pudding, as the darkey said, was in the eating of the strings. Now Gen. Grant might give the ladies any amount of lip adoration—with most men that doesn't cost much trouble—but his appointment of several hundred postmistresses is the way he takes of showing his admiration.

Come Home, Come Home.

A. J. Bierce, the Town Crier of the News-Letter, is wanted back on that paper to save its life. The News-Letter is now as stupid as it used to be lively. All the paragraphs appear to be written by one pen, and that one better adapted to the Alta than the News-Letter.

Managers

Of Amusements, Excursions, Lectures and Concerts, are directed to the splendid printing establishment of B. F. Sterett, 532 Clay street, over the San Francisco Market. The largest posters, in plain or fancy colors, are turned out in the shortest possible space of time. Also, the finest programmes, tickets, etc., printed to suit the most fastidious. Mr. Sterett keeps constantly on hand a fine line of bright colored papers of every shade, and the prices charged for these is very little in advance of plain white paper. Streamers of various sizes, from 18 to 42 inch letters, in stock, of all colors of paper and ink. Theatre Managers are especially invited to call for estimates. This well known printing house was established by the present proprietor in 1850, and has been in successful operation ever since. 3-cj

Epicure's Retreat.

The epicurean fond of nice grain-fed, pig-pork chop, tenderloin or roast, resorts to E. F. Bunker's 74 and 75 California Market, and is never disappointed, for "Bob," is a good feeder himself, and always keeps on hand the very best in his line. Bunker's celebrated Club Sausages will tickle the palate of the most fastidious. Even dyspeptics laugh after eating those sausages. 1z

Spring Style Hats.

[From the Danbury News.]

What Sodom was to Lot's wife, so is the back breadths of one woman's dress to another woman.

As the streets have not been very muddy in some time, the "Black Crook" performance was well attended.

The Burlington (Iowa) Daily speaks of a couple "resolving themselves into a committhe of two with power to increase the number."

How much of painful disappointment and unseemly language might be saved if people would remember that corn won't pop good in damp weather.

"A preventitive of sneezing," says Brown Sequard, "is to press the upper lip." That accounts for the small percentage of sneezing Sunday nights.

A Danbury man having proudly proclaimed in the presence of his little boy that his wife was no gadder, the young man was observed to involuntarily rub his back, but he said nothing.

"Boots, where are you going with that boy?" is still occasionally heard in playful interrogation. It was a popular phrase in the day of Franklin, who originated it, we believe.

Not many men forget the wash-days of their boyhood, when a fond mother, with parboiled and soapy fingers, buttoned their collars for them. Its impression upon the heart and nose is rarely effaced.

On these rosy Spring mornings, a man instinctively bounds from his couch at the first flush of day, and goes forth to inhale the fresh balmy air, leaving his wife at the stove to thaw out the dish-cloth.

There is still destitution in town. An Essex street lady applied to the authorities Friday for an order for a gallon of molasses. She was going to have a candy pull, and thought she could furnish the cake and oranges herself.

While gentlemen's sealskin caps retain their present high price, it cannot be expected that the wearers will remove them when in an audience. We cannot tell by a person's bare head that he has a seal-skin cap, you know.

The heroic firmness with which a woman will persist in carrying a roll of dry goods as large as she can hold in her arms, is only equaled by the politeness with which she requests her grocer to deliver a pound of butter at the house.

A Noble Alliance.

An English publican having been charged with co-operating with members of the Established Church at the recent election, proudly acknowledged the fact. He put up a placard with this inscription: "Beer and the Bible. Stand by a National Church and a National Beverage."

"Prayed out of town" are the words painted on the doors of Xenia, Ohio, saloons.

For a good, quiet, nice saloon, commend us to the "Orient," 720 Market street. Messrs. Goldworthy & Weston are saloon-keepers who know their business thoroughly, and consequently keep only the best of Wines, Whiskys and Cigars. We can commend the "Orient" as one of the best places in the city. Try once and you will be satisfied. 2-o

WHAT AN EMINENT PHYSICIAN SAYS

.....OF.....

TRUSSES!

WM. C. LADOW, M. D., OF PENDLETON, Umatilla County, Oregon says:

Marsh's Trusses are the most superior inventions of the age. Their principle is superb and construction admirably adapted to the anatomy of parts involved. They protect the life, restore the health, renew the functions of the kidneys and other organs, obviate the pressure upon the SPINE, PUBIC BONE and spermatic chord, and in fact do more practically than all the hundreds of "OTHER" worthless inventions put together can perform. They possess merit, and I know whereof I speak, it being fully demonstrated upon myself and numerous other patients of my own. During a study of thirty years of the respective merits of different appliances, I never had anything to meet my approbation so thoroughly as the Marsh's Patent Trusses.

AN OPEN LETTER.

MARYSVILLE, March 1st, 1874.

DR. ABORN—DEAR SIR: The last time I was in your city, a year ago February, you treated me for Catarrh. I had been troubled with the above for about THIRTEEN YEARS, and was skeptical about your being able to relieve me. The last time I called on you prior to my return home, I promised to inform you whether you had effected a permanent or temporary cure. I HAVE NOT THE SLIGHTEST TRACE OF CATARRH, and as it is over a year since I was under your treatment, I think I feel safe in saying, that you have effected a permanent cure in my case. You are at liberty to use this letter as you see fit.

Yours Respectfully,

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

Opera House.

Sweet ballads by J. G. Russell, B. Montague and W. F. Baker, and amusing performances by Billy Sweatnam, Con T. Murphy, Little Mac and Welch and Rice, make up a bright first part at this house. This is followed by George S. Knight in his specimens of Dutch fun, "Actor vs. Novice," by Billy Sweatnam and Con T. Murphy, the double song and dance entitled "Daisey," by Welch and Rice, "The Haunted Chamber" by Little Mac, and Charles Reed, and Offenbach's charming operetta of "Lischen and Fritzchen" by Miss Susan Galton and Alfred Kelleher.

California Theatre.

A tremendous house signalized the farewell benefit and last appearance of the lovely Neilson last night. The beneficiary was recalled again and again, and each time departed from the gaze of her thousands of admirers laden with floral offerings. To-night, the public of San Francisco, so liberal to talent from abroad, will have an opportunity of proving that they are no less appreciative of home talent. J. C. Williamson, who in his time has played many parts and generally played them well, will take his farewell benefit, and will appear with Miss Maggie Moore in a drama entitled "Struck Oil," by A. Malcam. The public are well aware that a treat is in store for them, and will crowd the house to overflowing. Ever since this benefit was announced, there has been a great demand for seats, and by to-night the whole house will probably be disposed of.

Platt's Hall.

This evening, March 31st, a concert of a remarkable character will be given at Platt's Hall for the benefit of the widow of the late Charles T. Braun. All the chief singing societies of San Francisco will combine on this occasion, forming an aggregate of over two hundred voices. The names of the societies tendering this benefit are the Thalia, Harmonic, Teutonia, Maennerchor, Turn Verein, Schweitzerbund, Eureka Turn Verein, Eintracht, Hammonia and Concordia. Madame Inez Mulder Fabbri, Miss Anna Elser, Herr Eehlott, the Zither Club of ten performers, and a grand orchestra under the direction of Prof. Mulder Fabbri, will make a musical combination never before effected in this city, and the worthy object for which the entertainment is given, will commend it to the public.

Palace Amphitheatre.

The entertainment given at this house last night by the combined troupes—Dockrill-Kenebel, Carlo, Bridges and Wilson's Circus—has certainly never been surpassed in the annals of the ring. Great features of the first part were the representation of Shakesperian characters on horseback by Mons. Dockrill, the "Polander Ladder" by Frederick Carlo, the wonderfully comical scene entitled "Frog Catching" by Kenebel, and Masters Leotard and Harry Carlo, perfect miracles of skill, in their startling performance on the double trapeze. In the second part the graceful and talented Mlle. Amelia Bridges appeared in wonderful performances on the tight rope, without a balance pole, in which she was accompanied by Master Leotard Carlo, Mme. Dockrill appeared in a principal equestrian act, the Kenebels in a comic interlude, the Brothers Carlo in a great variety of acrobatic feats, Little Johnny Cooke in his two-horse hurdle act, and Wm. Carlo, Frederick Carlo, Mlle. Fanny Carlo, Mlle. Amelia Bridges, Horatio Nelson, George Carlo and others in the laughable pantomime entitled "Bobby Trot." This rich bill will be presented again this evening, and at the matinee to-morrow.

Bella Union Theatre.

The Tycoon Japs in their bewildering performance, the local extravagance of "The Farallones," Moore and Bray in song and dance, Ed Murray in "Songs of the Cold Dart," amusing acts, pleasing ballads and many other good things will afford a pleasant entertainment to those who visit this house to-night.

Buckley's New Variety Theatre.

George C. Thompson in his specialties, Ned Buckley in acts, Miss Maggie Brewer in fancy dances, Mlle. Blanche in ballads, and many other favorites will appear this evening.

Woodward's Gardens.

Mons. Barbier's great balloon Le Secours made a very successful ascent from these gardens on Saturday. Due notice will be given of other ascensions. The thousands of attractions presented on every day of the week draw large crowds of visitors. The new aviary, the shark, and the aquarium should be seen by all.

City Gardens.

On Sunday April 5th, the German Garde Fusiliers, escorted by the German Dragoons, will celebrate their third anniversary at these gardens. A grand instrumental Concert will be given. Singing by S. F. Maennerchor, games for children and adults, dancing in the pavilion, election for prizes, the whole concluding with a grand ball in the evening. Tickets 50 cents, children with parents under 12 years of age free. The cars will run all night.

CAOUTCHOUC.—The wonderful Hairless Horse on exhibition on Sutter street, opposite the Lick House, is really one of the most remarkable freaks of nature we have ever seen. Looking at the skin through a microscope not a pore can be seen. He is one of the most perfect specimens of a horse physically. He stands about fifteen hands high and weighs 1,000 pounds. He is well worth a visit.

ANATOMICAL MUSEUM.—One of the most complete collections of the kind in the United States, comprising hundreds of costly and beautiful wax models, is daily on view (to gentlemen only) at the Museum on Montgomery street. An hour may be profitably spent here.

J. FIGEL, at 211 Montgomery street, has an immense stock of Men's and Boy's ready-made suits, and a full line of Furnishing Goods which he will offer at exceedingly low terms for cash.

Paris and Chicago.

Joseph Medill writes that Paris differs from Chicago in the fact that long courtships are not tolerated in the French capital. He might also have said that the cities differ in the fact that long marriages are not tolerated in Chicago, and are in Paris.

Sir Walter Raleigh created a consternation when he appeared before his servants smoking a pipe of Tobacco. The sight was a new one to them, and they, as well as the public in general were slow to learn the use of the Weed Had they had Tobacco of the quality and perfect flavor which the Perique and Golden Thread Smoking Tobacco of to-day have, smoking would much sooner become almost universal. The Gilroy Tobacco Company (office 304 Pine street), are offering the above-named Tobaccos to the public, and we advise those in want of a good article to give them a trial. 3-J

Fortune, the Goddess of Luck, must have designated one hundred and forty-four as her symbol. W. E. M shew believes in the number. He drew the second grand prize in the last lottery on that number, and then moved his large and complete stock of Drugs, Perfumes, etc., to 144 Fourth street. Naturally happy and free-hearted, he continues in business for the pleasure it affords him. He is actually giving a splendid Sachet Package of Rimmel's or Lubin's to every customer that comes to his store. 3 B

THE SCIENCE—for it is a science—of taking the impression of any animate or inanimate thing on Glass, Porcelain or Cardboard, by using the sun as an auxiliary, is an important one. Improvements have been made from time to time by those who have made Photography a study To our mind (and a visit will make our readers agree with us) the Artist who presides at the Florence Gallery, 28 Third street, has attained a degree of excellence seldom achieved, if ever equalled. His Life-Size Portraits are excellent and prices low. 2bh

What Next?

Every one knows how a photograph looks when viewed through a stereoscope—but a stereoscope cannot always be had. G. D. Morse, at 417 Montgomery street has obviated this difficulty by producing a photograph that is so clear and sharp in its outlines that one would almost think he was looking through the lens of a stereoscope. Mr. Morse's parlors look more like an art gallery than a place of business. 2-T

Good Form vs. Bad.

It is good form to be quiet and gentlemanly in public—it is bad form to be loud and self-assertive. It is good form to take the advice of Polonius to his son on the vital question of dress:

Costly thy habit as thy purse can buy,
But not expressed in fancy: rich, not gaudy:
For the apparel oft proclaims the man—

And it is excessively bad form, as the ancient courtier hints, to come out in loud "togs." It is a good form to wear very simple jewelry, and only a small portion thereof; it is bad form to be seen in sham chains and rings and pins. It is good form to wear one's hat straight on the head—it is bad form to cock it over one eye or ear, like a mountebank's ape on a barrel-organ. It is good form to abstain from smoking in places where it is not allowed, and where it may, even if literally permissible, interfere with the comfort of others; it is bad form to mouth bad cigars and death's head pipes, with swaggering remarks on the absolute necessity to existence of ceaseless puffing at times and in spots where others find the custom a nuisance. It is good form to move with a gentlemanly gait and a modest demeanor—it is essentially bad form to hector along like a tenth-rate actor from a country barn or with the aggressive strut of the sham captain. It is good form to call for what you want by its proper name and in gentle tones—it is bad form to roar your requirements out for everybody to hear, and to describe them in the language of bullies. It is good form to address the attendants in any public resort as if they were the domestics or retainers of a private gentleman—it is the worst of bad form, be they male or female, to be on terms, or pretended terms of familiarity with them, to call them Tom and Jerry, or Nellie and Annie, as the case may be, and to descend to their level in the hope of showing your vulgar companions your knowledge of life, that you are "up to the ropes," that you "know your way about town." It is good form to treat all the opposite sex with consideration and respect—it is simply blackguard form to force your uncalled for attentions, your oglings, your lip-twistings, your double-barrelled words on women who desire to be left alone, and whose dread of presumptuous snobs is only equalled by the contemplated villainy of the latter.

Oysters.

In strolling round the other night,
To look at 'Frisco by gas light,
Our careless feet, by chance and stray
To-ward a fountain's ceaseless play
Of sparkling waters, made a screen
Through which a sweet bouquet was seen;
While mossy stone and pearly shell,
O'er which the waters softly fell,
Made that window seem to be
Some fairy grotto of the sea.
Stop," said my friend, "let's go in here
It looks so nice—and try their oysters."
"All right," I said, "I must agree
That this place suits me to a 'T.'"
No sooner had we found a seat
Than at our side a waiter neat
Made his appearance, asked our wish—
Said they had almost any dish
That we might name. We found it true,
And cooked magnificently, too;
All kinds of oysters, juicy, fat,
Cooked every style; just think of that,
And if your mouth don't water, then
You're different from other men.
They'd clams and crabs and terrapins'd
In fact, we found they had within
That cosy place all kinds of game,
Fish, flesh or fowl which we could name,
While every dish was, I am sure,
Prepared to tempt an epicure.
The ladies, too, have found, 'twould seem,
That they have here the best ice cream;
So here they flock, the little sinners,
To get what they call "such nice dinners,"
Whoever doubts this let him rush
To three hundred thirty-seven Bush,
And there this truth he'll find made plain:
Who goes there once will go again,
Pacific Oyster House, 337 Bush street, above Montgomery; open Day and Night.

CHARLES HAAKE, Proprietor.

Tearing Down Old Landmarks.

Some men's lives are failures because they have mistaken their vocation. No matter what a man's calling may be, he should study to make that calling a success. There is more skill in selecting and arranging the adornments of our homes than many have any idea of. One of the most difficult articles to arrange with taste is Carpets. One must have an eye to the surroundings, the height of the room, the number of windows, the style of the other furniture, and then proceed to select the Carpet. For some rooms one must have a large pattern, in others a small figure; bright colors do not always look the best; Mr. Burnham, one of the firm of J. W. Burnham & Co., 618 Market and 17 Post street, has made the selecting of Carpets and Window-Hangings a study, and selected his stock accordingly—Brussels, Ingrains, Tapestry and Velvets, to say nothing of Oil Cloths, of which they make a specialty. Messrs. B. & Co. are obliged, we regret to say, to close out their entire stock at a sacrifice, on account of the tearing down of their present store, in order to rebuild. For the next thirty days Mr. Burnham can be found at his place of business, and will give his advice and long experience to all that may require it. 3-D

The Ladies of To-day and 30 Years Ago.

Thirty years ago the advantages one could have were few compared with to-day. Then, if a lady was troubled with any complaints incidental to womanhood, she was obliged to trust to the various methods then in vogue, and seldom with any relief being derived. The bases of nearly all the medicines then were mineral. The superiority and safety of vegetable over mineral medicine has been demonstrated by the medical faculty all over the world. The Marsh Truss Co. (31 years standing) have in connection with their Truss Department a Medical Infirmary, where they make ladies cases a specialty. Their medicines are all purely vegetable. Ladies troubled with delicate diseases should call at once on the Marsh Truss Co., 513 Montgomery street, and have their cases attended to. Special consulting room for ladies. 2-x

WHERE WE CIRCULATE "FIGARO."

Everybody knows that "FIGARO" has been distributed free for years very generally throughout the city, and has been circulated as programme in every theatre and place of amusement in San Francisco; and we want everybody to know that "FIGARO" is always distributed on the Oakland Ferry-boats that bring the passengers by the great overland train to this city, and is placed in their hands every day—Sundays included. That it is mailed free every day to all the leading hotels on the Pacific Coast. That "FIGARO" is circulated by Taylor & Co., the Oakland bill distributors, every day throughout the central portions of Oakland. That it is also distributed at Sacramento and on the Sacramento steamers on their down trips to this city, and in all towns on the river side, as may be seen by the annexed certificate from A. H. Nahor, distributing agent on the steamers:

This is to certify that I have agreed to, and do, distribute "FIGARO" thoroughly on the Sacramento steamers on their down trips to San Francisco, and have made arrangements to have it generally distributed in the towns of Benicia, Martinez, Collinsville, Sherman Island, Rio Vista, Courtland, Antioch, Pittsburg Landing, New York Landing, and in all of the hotels, saloons, public places, etc., in Sacramento City. ALFRED H. NAHOR.

March 4th, 1874.

Arrangements are being made for further circulation on other lines of travel, so that "FIGARO" shall be "here, there and everywhere," and be placed in the hands of all strangers, families and business men en route to this city.

The Young Man from the East.

"I'm a stranger in this city,
I'm lately from the East,
And mighty fond of oysters;
Where can I get a feast?
I've been to all the restaurants,
But nowhere could I find,
A plate of Eastern oysters,
Of the old-fashioned kind."

"Well, I can tell you," said his friend,
"Exactly where to go,
And where to get your oysters,
Direct from where they grow.
Just take a stroll down PINE STREET,
At 410, below the Market,
You'll see a sign, 'THE SADDLE ROCK,'
You can't fail to remark it.

"Emerson Corville keeps the place,
The best saloon in town,
There you can get your oysters raw,
Or fried so crisp and brown.
He's the largest oyster dealer
On the Pacific Coast,
And that he keeps the freshest
Has ever been his boast.

"He's got nice little private rooms,
Where you can sit at ease,
And eat your California stew,
Or Eastern if you please.
All the young men of fashion go
Right to the SADDLE ROCK,
To eat their EASTERN OYSTERS
And drink their Rhenish hock."

For Photo-crayons.

And reproduction in a superior style, go to Edouard & Cobb, 506 Kearny st. near California, Those desiring any of the above for Christmas presents, should make application before the rain sets in, and so avoid disappointment, satisfaction guaranteed in all cases 5i

Great Bargains in Clothing.

The only store in the city that has the largest cheapest and finest assortment of Men's and Boys Clothing, is H. Poyser's Montgomery Avenue Clothing Store, 719 Montgomery street, between Washington and Jackson. Also, a large assortment of Men's and Boys' Overcoats and Cloaks, and the finest stock of Gents' Furnishing Goods, Trunks, Valises, etc. 2-x

A Consistent Man.

There is nothing like being consistent. A man once boasted that his wife was the most consistent woman he ever knew, because she was "always mad." We know a man who is almost as consistent. He goes home every night rather "the worse for wear," growls at his wife, and goes to sleep and snores with the consciousness of having been consistent. He gets up in the morning with a headache, takes a little healthful exercise by walloping the boys, retires to his private closet, and "takes something," and then sits down to his breakfast and eats like one who knows his life is rounded consistently. When he gets to his place of business he bullies the errand boy and clerks, scowls at his bookkeeper, and sits down to his paper. About ten o'clock he goes out to see a man, and the way he takes his whisky would convince the most skeptical that he is leading a consistent life. He is not happy, nor does he make those about him entirely so; but he is sustained by the knowledge that he is a man of principle—a thoroughly consistent one.

Sensible Talk.

George McDonald says: It is a great mistake to teach children that they have souls. The consequence is that they think of their souls as of something which is not themselves. For what a man has can not be himself. Hence, when they are told that their souls go to heaven, they think of their selves as lying in the grave. They ought to be taught that they have bodies, and that their bodies die, while they themselves live on. They will not think that they will be laid in the grave. It is making altogether too much, and is indicative of an evil tendency to materialism, that we talk as if we possessed souls, instead of being souls. We should teach our children to think no more of their bodies when dead than they do of their hair when it is cut off, or of their old clothes when they have done with them.

All He Had.

The Territorial Enterprise says: At the funeral of Harry Shrieves, at Carson City a few days since, occurred the following incident: A Chinaman who is employed at the Merrimac mill was present, and observing that the Masons, as they passed round the grave, threw into it sprigs of evergreen, he watched his opportunity and threw in a half-dollar. Being asked afterward why he did this, he said: "Me heap likee Harry; me want to put something in the grave same like other man do, and all me got one hapdolla." Although but a poor, despised Chinaman, the act showed that he was not the least sincere among the hundreds of sincere mourners present.

Social Enjoyment.

An English gentleman, who was addicted to the habit of always asking his friends to partake of stimulants, had on several occasions invited a teetotal friend, who had refused, but wished to return the compliment in some way. One day, therefore, the Good Templar seized his companion's arm when passing a post-office, and said: "Come in here my dear boy, and have six-pen'orth of postage stamps."

A Sensible Boy.

"If a man bequeathed you a hundred pounds would you pray for him?" said a Sunday-school teacher to a pupil. "No," said he, "I would pray for another like him."

What Next?

Every one knows how a photograph looks when viewed through a stereoscope—but a stereoscope cannot always be had. G. D. Morse, at 417 Montgomery street has obviated this difficulty by producing a photograph that is so clear and sharp in its outlines that one would almost think he was looking through the lens of a stereoscope. Mr. Morse's parlors look more like an art gallery than a place of business. 2-r

Press Biography.

The Vallejo Open Letter, in its issue of Sunday, had the following biography of a literary nuisance, kindly notices of whom have several times appeared in FIGARO.

OLIVE HARPER.

Whoso lays his hands upon a woman, save in kindness, is liable to loose the respect and esteem of his lady friends. But knowing that Olive Harper delights to be noticed in journals of wide circulation, our biographer proceeds. Olive has been writing some years for the press, and it is a safe bet with good odds, that no sane person ever read an article of hers, and ever afterwards desired to read another. Her literary productions are of the skim-milk order; the very tea grounds and slop—slop of literature. There is no end to her; she can sit for hours, and string words together on nothing, without any definite result of ideas, with the ease and effect of a bull-frog singing to an audience of mud-turtles and mushrooms. For some months past she has been in Europe writing a kind of driveling and swashy series of letters to the Alta. Her celebrated essay on the fleas, at the Vienna exposition, demonstrating that she was attractive to insects, filled many with amazement. This sketch is only written to satisfy the giddy woman's love for notoriety.

Protection for Husbands.

Women haven't all the rights in Kansas. The laws protect a man out there. One was recently hauled out of bed by his wife, and then fondly caressed with a rolling-pin. He didn't like this exhibition of her love, and he preferred charges against her before a justice of the peace, and the lady was sent to prison for three months. So delighted were the people of the town by this man's display of pluck in prosecuting his wife, that they gave him a serenade on the evening of the sentencing, and they invited him to come out of his house and they would give him a new coat—of tar and feathers. As he has plenty of clothing, he declined the present.

Benj. Franklin on Money.

Money never made a man happy yet, nor will it. There is nothing in its nature to produce happiness. The more a man has the more he wants. Instead of its filling a vacuum it makes one. If it satisfies one want, it doubles and trebles that want another way. That was a true proverb of the wise man, depend upon it: Better is a little with the fear of the Lord, than the great treasure and trouble therewith.

We'll Welcome Them.

A lady of Washington, Ind., writes to Nevada that a society numbering thirty women, mostly girls from eighteen to twenty-five, has been organized to pay a visit to the Pacific Coast. They will commence their labors at Omaha, and stop at every saloon on the line of the railroad from there to San Francisco. They will probably arrive here in 1878.

St. Paul Vindicated.

A New York clergyman kindly defends St. Paul from the opprobrium cast upon him by female lecturers, by saying that the apostle's injunction on female speaking in church was only intended for the Corinthian women, who were very impulsive, and spoke early and often.

The Ladies of To-day and 30 Years Ago.

Thirty years ago the advantages one could have were few compared with to-day. Then, if a lady was troubled with any complaints incidental to womanhood, she was obliged to trust to the various methods then in vogue, and seldom with any relief being derived. The bases of nearly all the medicines then were mineral. The superiority and safety of vegetable over mineral medicine has been demonstrated by the medical faculty all over the world. The Marsh Truss Co (31 years standing) have in connection with their Truss department a Medical Infirmary, where they make ladies cases a specialty. Their medicines are all purely vegetable. Ladies troubled with delicate diseases should call at once on the Marsh Truss Co., 513 Montgomery street, and have their cases attended to. Special consulting room for ladies. 2-x

Managers

Of Amusements, Excursions, Lectures and Concerts, are directed to the splendid printing establishment of B. F. Sterett, 533 Clay street, over the San Francisco Market. The largest posters, in plain or fancy colors, are turned out in the shortest possible space of time. Also, beautiful programmes, tickets, etc., printed to suit the most fastidious. Mr. Sterett keeps constantly on hand a fine line of bright colored papers of every shade, and the prices charged for these is very little in advance of plain white paper. Streamers of various sizes, from 18 to 42 inch letters, in attack, of all colors of paper and ink. Theatre Managers are especially invited to call for estimates, This well known printing house was established by the present proprietor in 1850, and has been in successful operation ever since. 3-cj

TRUSSES!

WM. C. LADOW, M. D., OF PENDLETON, Umatilla County, Oregon says:
Marsh's Trusses are the most superior inventions of the age. Their principle is superb and construction admirably adapted to the anatomy of parts involved. They protect the life, restore the health, renew the functions of the kidneys and other organs, obviate the pressure upon the SPINE, PUBIC BONE and spermatic chord, and in fact do more practically than all the hundreds of "OTHER" worthless inventions put together can perform. They possess merit, and I know whereof I speak, it being fully demonstrated upon myself and numerous other patients of my own. During a study of thirty years of the respective merits of different appliances, I never had anything to meet my approbation so thoroughly as the Marsh's Patent Trusses.

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

California Theatre.

The farewell benefit of J. C. Williamson, which took place at this house last night, was a ople did affair. Every seat in the lower portion of the House was secured before the doors opened, the Balcony was thronged, and the gallery was packed so full that there was not room for another person. "Struck Oil," written for J. C. Williamson and Miss Maggie Moore, proved quite a success. The plot has already been published in FIGARO, and the other papers. Mr. Williamson did some excellent acting in the character of John Stofel, and was particularly strong in the last act. Miss Maggie Moore acted the role of Lizzie Stofel very cleverly, and introduced her German specialties with good effect. She was encored again and again until at length she had to beg the audience to forbear. W. A. Mestayer as Sergeant Flinn, acted the character in a manly style which took immensely with the audience, John Wilson succeeded in gaining the hatred and contempt of all for the hypocritical Deacon Skinner, E. J. Buckley was very good as Doctor Brown, and W. Barry excellent in the small part of Corporal Sharp. Mrs. Sophie Edwin as the faithful wife of John Stofel, did some good acting, and the play had full justice done it. At its conclusion, the beneficiary was called before the curtain, and made a speech in which he thanked the public of San Francisco for their uniform kindness to him, and appreciation of his efforts to please and assured the audience that he should always consider San Francisco his home. He congratulated them on the fact that their old friend, John T. Raymond was soon to appear before them, bespoke for him a hearty welcome, and trusted that when HE returned from his trip round the world they would welcome him. Some one in the gallery called out "Don't forget the boys," and Mr. Williamson replied "When I look at that gallery, I don't think I ever can forget the boys." Reminding the audience that on Thursday evening Miss Ellie Wilton was to take her benefit, and asking them to be present on that occasion Mr. Williamson retired. "Struck Oil" will be played again to-night.

Opera House.

A capital first part, with finale "Golden Showers" by Sweatnam, Little Mac and Welch and Rice, Dutch comicalities by George S. Knight, "Blinks and Jinks" by Billy Sweatnam. Little Mac and others, double song and dance by Welch and Rice, "The Haunted Chamber" by Little Mac and Chas. Reed, and the charming operetta of "Lischen and Fritzchen" by Miss Susan Galton and Alfred Kelcher, make up the liberal bill for to-night.

Benefit of Miss Ellie Wilton.

To-morrow evening, Miss Ellie Wilton, who is deservedly a great favorite with the public of San Francisco, will take her first benefit, and the public will have an opportunity of testifying their appreciation of her talent, and her untiring efforts in her profession. The performance will commence with the sparkling comedy of "The Victim of Circumstances," in which Barton Hill will appear as M. Bonnefoi, Lewis Morrison will recite "Which Will It Be?" Miss Marian Singer will play a piano forte concerto, J. G. Russell will sing "The Head Bowed Down," Miss Maggie Moore will appear in her specialities, E. J. Buckley will recite "The Signal Man Asleep," Miss Ellie Wilton will recite "Barbara Freitchie," and will be followed by J. C. Williamson in "Dot Barbara Fridchie," Con T. Murphy will deliver his original poem "The Letter of Death," and this rich entertainment will conclude with the charming comedy of "The Maid of Munster," in which Miss Jennie Lee, J. P. Burnett and Walter Leman will appear.

Palace Amphitheatre.

A splendid entertainment is given by the extraordinary combination of talent at this house. Mme. Dockrill, M. Dockrill, the Kendalls, the great Carlo Family, Mlle. Amelia Bridges and many others appear in a varied programme. Masters Leotard and Harry Carlo, the child gymnasts, are great favorites with the public. The amusing pantomime of "Bobby Trot," in which Mlle. Fanny Carlo appears as Rodolphe, closes the performances. The regular matinee will be given to-day.

Platt's Hall.

The great concert given at this hall last night by the singing societies of San Francisco, for the benefit of the widow of the late Charles T. Braun was a success in every way. The hall was crowded, and the music was delightful. The singing by two hundred trained voices, and the solos by Madame Inez Fabbri and Miss Anna Elzer were much enjoyed by the audience.

Bella Union Theatre.

The Tycoon Japs in their wonderful feats, Miss Jennie Johnson, John Woodard, Miss Fanny Hooker and others in the extravaganza of "The Farallones" Moore and Bray in song and dance, Ed. Murray in his "Budget of Fun" Johnny Tuers and other in acts, and many other attractive performances will be presented this evening.

Buckley's New Variety Theatre.

"Hard Cheek," "Obeying Orders," "Family Troubles," "Boring for Treasure," are among the attractions for this evening. Geo. C. Thompson, Johnny Price, Frank Mortimore, Lotta Gray, and a host of others will appear.

Woodward's Gardens.

Mons. Barbier's great balloon Le Secours made a very successful ascent from these gardens on Saturday. Due notice will be given of other ascensions. The thousands of attractions presented on every day of the week draw large crowds of visitors. The new aviary, the ebark, and the aquarium should be seen by all.

City Gardens.

On Sunday April 5th, the German Garde Fusiliers, escorted by the German Dragoons, will celebrate their third anniversary at these gardens. A grand instrumental Concert will be given. Singing by S. F. Maennerchor, games for children and adults, dancing in the pavilion, election for prizes, the whole concluding with a grand ball in the evening. Tickets 50 cents, children with parents under 12 years of age free. The cars will run all night.

CAOUTCHOUC.—The wonderful Hairless Horse on exhibition on Sutter street, opposite the Lick House, is really one of the most remarkable freaks of nature we have ever seen. Looking at the skin through a microscope not a pore can be seen. He is one of the most perfect specimens of a horse physically. He stands about fifteen hands high and weighs 1,000 pounds. He is well worth a visit.

ANATOMICAL MUSEUM.—One of the most complete collections of the kind in the United States, comprising hundreds of costly and beautiful wax models, is daily on view (to gentlemen only) at the Museum on Montgomery street. An hour may be profitably spent here.

A New Dramatic Company.

By the overland train, last evening, the new company, engaged by Manager Maguire, for his re-constructed Alhambra Theatre, arrived in this city. The star attractions will be the "Lingard Troupe" which has been playing to good business everywhere in the Eastern cities. It consists of Horace Lingard, the well-known character artist and comedian, Miss Alice Dunning, the charming comedienne, Miss Dickey Lingard, the piquant soubret, Miss Mary Wells, a talented actress from Booth's theatre, New York, and Mr. J. K. Mortimer, well-known throughout the union, as an excellent leading man, recently of Niblo's. In addition, Messrs. E Dunning, Richard Staples, and Mr. and Mrs. Morris, from McVicker's Theatre, Chicago, now en route for this city, will be added to the company. This will make a strong combination, capable of producing any play required in a most effective manner. Of course the plays selected will not be of a tragedy or heavy nature, as the Alhambra's stage will not be suited for such productions. It is probable that the new company will open in "Le Tentation," a translation of the French play from which Boucicault adapted his "Led Astray," in which the Lingard Troupe have been very successful in the East. Mr. Lingard holds in reserve the author's right to play "Charity," Gilberts last play. "Follies" and "Alixe," Augustin Daly's last adaptations from the French, and also "Fine Feathers" and "Old Soldiers," two new successful plays; which will all be produced in due time. Manager Maguire, as usual when he goes East, has entered vigorously into his business, and will certainly produce strong cards at the start.

EXPECTANCY.

The wind went sighing gently through the trees,
The sun shone bright, making the bursting buds
Glance like bright gems in the soft-moving breeze,
Beneath the promise of the opening Spring,
With flowers just waking from their Winter sleep
Under her feet, fairer than they, she stood,
Her hands clasped closely o'er her throbbing breast,
As if she said, "Be still, my beating heart,
And you, ye panting breaths of hope, be still,"
Her eyes were weeping—ripe, wherein the tear,
Trembled to fall, like grain from o'er ripe ear
Which the last breath of wind shakes to the ground;
So were her tears, one throb of feeling more,
Even at his footstep, heard and known, they fell.

The Praying Women in New York.

They have a sad story in New York that the women crusaders pay Harry Hill so much per night for the privilege of praying in his saloon. Harry, it is said, looks upon the women as a part of his stock company. He addresses the audience in this way: "Miss Josie will sing the favorite song, 'Naughty, Naughty Men.' Jim Bangs and Ned Porter will then appear in exercises of the noble art of self defense. Afterwards, ladies and gentlemen, the great feature of the evening's performance, the attraction unrivaled. No other house has it. The ladies will pray."

Sir Walter Raleigh created a consternation when he appeared before his servants smoking a pipe of Tobacco. The sight was a new one to them, and they, as well as the public in general were slow to learn the use of the Weed. Had they had Tobacco of the quality and perfect flavor which the Perique and Golden Thread Smoking Tobacco of to-day have, smoking would much sooner become almost universal. The Gilroy Tobacco Company (office 304 Pine street), are offering the above-named Tobaccos to the public, and we advise those in want of a good article to give them a trial. 3-J

Fortunia, the Goddess of Luck, must have designated one hundred and forty-four as her symbol. W. E. M yhew believes in the number. He drew the second grand prize in the last lottery on that number, and then moved his large and complete stock of Drugs, Perfumes, etc., to 144 Fourth street. Naturally happy and free-hearted, he continues in business for the pleasure it affords him. He is actually giving a splendid Sachet Package of Rimmel's or Lubin's to every customer that comes to his store. 3 B

Jenkins' Music.

I once more applied my talents to the trombons—this time in an honest effort to lead the band. I don't know how I did it, but I did it. Suddenly there resounded from that cylinder of brass the most doleful sound that ever assailed the ears of mortal.

"Gott in Himmell!" muttered the leader, without looking around, and the instrument crashed over the error, and crushed it out of recollection.

"Bum, bum, boom, bum, boom-m, blair-r-r, fizz!"

"Of you blease, Chenkins, you pe so gind, you don't any more."

And there was an expression of agony on the leader's face as he spoke.

"Never mind, old man," I suggested; "these people expect music, and I'm going to give 'em a show."

"Blair-r-r, boom, bum, bum, boom, fizz, bum, bum!"

"Mein Gott! mein Gott! Misser Chenkins, vas is das? Tuyfell you should mok owit of dat pand."

"Fizz, boom, blair, boom, fizz, blair, bum, bum!"

The dancers stamped, and gazed on the band with amazement.

"Told you so, old man. See! they can't dance while this is going on. Got to stop and listen. Wait until I give them another note."

"Fizz, zump, boom, blair-r-r-r, bum, bum, bum, bum, pouf, zum, fizz, swash, bum, fizz!"

We were playing the "Beautiful Danube," and I was imitating the wash of the waves on the beach. The leader swung his violin bow, and every musician strained to drown my efforts.

"Zump, bum, swash, boom, fizz, wish, pouf, bum, bum, blair-r-r-r!"

The assembly stood in amaze. They evidently never heard such music before, and they enjoyed it. My brother trombonist, who didn't make half so much noise as I, glared at me, but kept blowing.

"Misser Chenkins, of you blease to go away mit dat tam horn—"

"Boom-m-m-m-m, fizz, blair, bum, bum, bum, bum, zump!"

"Rat, tat, tat, tat!" struck the bow against the music-stand, and the music died away with a closing effort on my part. My fellow-musicians glared at me, but said nothing. The leader approached me, with wrath in his eye, and a tremor on his lip.

"Mein Herr," said he, in a tearful voice, "py G—tt, I should kill you for dot noise!"

Oysters.

In strolling round the other night,
To look at 'Frisco by gas light,
Our careless feet, by chance did stray
To where a fountain's ceaseless play
Of sparkling waters, made a screen
Through which a sweet bouquet was seen;
While mossy stone and pearly shell,
O'er which the waters softly fell,
Made that window seem to be
Some fairy grotto of the sea.
"Stop," said my friend, "let's go in here!
It looks so nice—and my their cheer."
"All right," I said, "I must agree
That this place suits me to a T."
No sooner had we found a seat
Than at our side a waiter neat
Made his appearance, asked our wish—
Said they had almost any dish
That we might name. We found it true,
And cooked magnificently, too;
All kinds of oysters, juicy, fat,
Cooked every style; just think of that,
And if your mouth don't water, then
You're different from other men.
They'd clams and crabs and terrapins!
In fact, we found they had within
That cosy place all kinds of game,
Fish, flesh or fowl which we could name,
While every dish was, I am sure,
Prepared to tempt an epicure.
The ladies, too, have found, 'twould seem,
That they have here the best ice cream;
So here they flock, the little sinners,
To get what they call "such nice dinners."
Whoever doubts this let him rush
To three hundred thirty-seven Bush,
And there this truth he'll find made plain:
Who goes there once will go again,
Pacific Oyster House, 337 Bush street, above Montgomery; open Day and Night.
CHARLES HAAKE, Proprietor.

Tearing Down Old Landmarks.

Some men's lives are failures because they have mistaken their vocation. No matter what a man's calling may be, he should study to make that calling a success. There is more skill in selecting and arranging the adornments of our homes than many have any idea of. One of the most difficult articles to arrange with taste is Carpets. One must have an eye to the surroundings, the height of the room, the number of windows, the style of the other furniture, and then proceed to select the Carpet. For some rooms one must have a large pattern, in others a small figure; bright colors do not always look the best. Mr. Burnham, one of the firm of J. W. Burnham & Co., 618 Market and 17 Post street, has made the selecting of Carpets and Window-Hangings a study, and selected his stock accordingly—Brussels, Ingrains, Tapestry and Velvets, to say nothing of Oil Cloths, of which they make a specialty. Messrs. B. & Co. are obliged, we regret to say, to close out their entire stock at a sacrifice, on account of the tearing down of their present store, in order to rebuild. For the next thirty days Mr. Burnham can be found at his place of business, and will give his advice and long experience to all that may require it. 3-D

WHERE WE CIRCULATE "FIGARO."

Everybody knows that "FIGARO" has been distributed free for years very generally throughout the city, and has been circulated as programme in every theatre and place of amusement in San Francisco; and we want everybody to know that "FIGARO" is always distributed on the Oakland Ferry-boats that bring the passengers by the great overland train to this city, and is placed in their hands every day—Sundays included. That it is mailed free every day to all the leading hotels on the Pacific Coast. That "FIGARO" is circulated by Taylor & Co., the Oakland bill distributors, every day throughout the central portions of Oakland. That it is also distributed at Sacramento and on the Sacramento steamers on their down trips to this city, and in all towns on the river side, as may be seen by the annexed certificate from A. H. Nahor, distributing agent on the steamers:

This is to certify that I have agreed to, and do, distribute "FIGARO" thoroughly on the Sacramento steamers on their down trips to San Francisco, and have made arrangements to have it generally distributed in the towns of Benicia, Martinez, Collinsville, Sherman Island, Rio Vista, Courtland, Antioch, Pittsburg Landing, New York Landing, and in all of the hotels, saloons, public places, etc., in Sacramento City. ALFRED H. NAHOR.

March 4th, 1874.

Arrangements are being made for further circulation on other lines of travel, so that "FIGARO" shall be "here, there and everywhere," and be placed in the hands of all strangers, families and business men en route to this city.

The Young Man from the East.

"I'm a stranger in this city,
I'm lately from the East,
And mighty fond of oysters;
Where can I get a feast?
I've been to all the restaurants,
But nowhere could I find,
A plate of Eastern oysters,
Of the old-fashioned kind."

"Well, I can tell you," said his friend,
"Exactly where to go,
And where to get your oysters,
Direct from where they grow.
Just take a stroll down PINE STREET,
At 410, below the Market,
You'll see a sign, 'THE SADDLE ROCK,'
You can't fail to remark it.

"Emerson Corville keeps the place,
The best saloon in town,
There you can get your oysters raw,
Or fried so crisp and brown.
He's the largest oyster dealer
On the Pacific Coast,
And that he keeps the freshest
Has ever been his boast.

"He's got nice little private rooms,
Where you can sit at ease,
And eat your California stew,
Or Eastern if you please.
All the young men of fashion go
Right to the SADDLE ROCK,
To eat their EASTERN OYSTERS
And drink their Rhenish hock."

For Photo-crayons.

And reproduction in a superior style, go to Edouard & Cobb, 606 Kearny st. near California. Those desiring any of the above for Christmas presents, should make application before the rain sets in, and so avoid disappointment, satisfaction guaranteed in all cases 5x

Great Bargains in Clothing.

The only store in the city that has the largest cheapest and finest assortment of Men's and Boys Clothing, is H. Peyser's Montgomery Avenue Clothing Store, 719 Montgomery street, between Washington and Jackson. Also, a large assortment of Men's and Boys' Overcoats and Cloaks, and the finest stock of Gents' Furnishing Goods, Trunks, Valises, etc. 2-x

Hair Goods.

The cheapest place in the city to buy Human and Imitation hair goods, Toys, Dolls, Ribbons etc., is the New York store 110 Second street. Agency for hair silk goods, made of pure silk No branch stores. Goods sent, C. O. D. The New York store has been established for years, and is the leading one in the city. 1-bh

MINE HOST of the Morton House (on Post street, near Kearny), finding that first-class accommodations, at reasonable rates, has had a tendency to fill his Hotel to overflowing, has determined to enlarge his present accommodations so that families visiting the city will be enabled to find a home in its literal sense. 2w

Not Big Enough.

An exchange says:

A fertile farm of 160 acres, near Binghampton, New York, has been bought by the labors of Charles Whitney, the electrotinist, for the site of a home for "men and women of genius, talent, character, and aspiration," who fail in literature and art. Whitney's mania, this is, and Willie Winter, of the Tribune, endorses it.

This is a charming "mania," and one that should be encouraged by all good people. But really 160 acres is a very small plot of ground if the men and women of genius who have failed in literature and art, are to live on it. It is just about the right size for a cemetery, and if all the failures in this line are buried there will become even more fertile than it is at present. People who fail as poets and painters would succeed as "fertilizers." If this is the sort of home to be founded, we bespeak places for Hector A. Stuart, and Olive Harper, who, if they have neither genius nor talent, have heaps of "aspiration."

A Great Pity.

Governor Booth bothers the Alta, and now the Post is puzzled. It cannot understand why the Governor vetoed certain bills, and pocketed others. If these papers will show why Governor Booth should not have acted as he did, they may perhaps get the public to sympathize with them. But we cannot see any necessity for the matter being explained to them. It is very hard to make some editors understand anything, and when they do understand, it doesn't have any effect on them. They go on writing maundering editorials just the same as ever. However, we think it is a pity that the Governor doesn't explain everything he has done, for the benefit of the Post and Alta. It would at least flatter their vanity.

A Cure for Earthquakes.

When we have an earthquake in San Francisco, the hardened inhabitants though a little scared during its continuance, begin to joke about it as soon as it is over, and then go and take drinks. They act differently in North Carolina. There was a little earthquaking there recently, in the vicinity of Bald Mountain, and we learn that the frightened people sent for two Baptist preachers, one black and one white, and a Methodist preacher, (white), and kept them preaching and praying for sixteen days and nights. Earthquakes here don't have the effect of making business brisk with the preachers.

Men and Women.

An exchange says: "No fashionable woman ever goes to bed without looking in the glass." To which a lady replies: "No fashionable gentleman ever goes to bed until he had looked into several with his nose."

Absurd Woman.

Mrs. Muffington, who is a constant trial to her really intelligent husband, read the other day, that a ledge of chrome ore had been discovered near Latrobe, El Dorado county, and asked if it would "bring down the price of chromos."

Anti-Monopoly.

Dr. Cunningham preached on Sunday on the "Railroad to Hell." Our readers will be pleased to learn that this favorite road is not a monopoly.

The Latest Euphemism.

The Chronicle's latest euphemism for "ill-natured lie," is "the accidental statement of our reporter."

What Next?

Every one knows how a photograph looks when viewed through a stereoscope—but a stereoscope cannot always be had. G. D. Morse, at 417 Montgomery street has obviated this difficulty by producing a photograph that is so clear and sharp in its outlines that one would almost think he was looking through the lens of a stereoscope. Mr. Morse's parlors look more like an art gallery than a place of business. 2-r

Epicure's Retreat.

The epicurean fond of nice grain-fed, pig-pork chop tenderloin or roast, resorts to R. F. Bunker's 74 and 75 California Market, and is never disappointed, for "Bob," is a good feeder himself, and always keeps on hand the very best in his line. Bunker's celebrated Club Sausages will tickle the palate of the most fastidious. Even dyspeptics laugh after eating those sausages. 1z

Spring Style Hats.

Do Not Suffer from Corns.

The unfortunate sufferers from Corns, Bunions, Club and Ingrowing Nails, can find instant relief by applying at Dr. R. H. Cowan's Institute, 310 Kearny street, from 1 to 6 P.M. We speak from experience, having tested the Doctor's capability. References given if required. x

A Pleasant Location.

Persons desiring comfortable lodgings in a Central location, should visit the Alhambra, and inspect the fine suites of rooms to let there The building is a very fine one and is well lighted and ventilated.

Glorious!

For health and pleasure, a hot or cold salt water "splash" at the Sanitarium Baths, foot of Powell St., North Beach—terminus of Kearny and Montgomery street car lines. Five tickets for $1. 1bi

Dental Work.

FOR FINEST QUALITY OF WORK, go to T. C. Jessup, dentist, cor. Sutter and Montgomery, over Tucker's. 5-u

A Partial Reform.

At a recent meeting, by the Temperance Union, Major Hoyt, among the promising converts to temperance, mentioned one who said:

"I have been drunk many times. I have swindled my old mother, by writing to her for money, and pretending that I could not get work here, when all the time I was spending my earnings for whisky. I will sign the pledge and send it to her, and confess that I have lied to her, and henceforth I will be a temperance man."

We hope that worthy tectotaller has sworn off lying as well as drinking, or he won't be much of a comfort to his mother.

Edwin Booth in St. Louis.

Edwin Booth does not receive as good treatment at the hands of the St. Louis press, as does "our John." The Democrat of March 25th says: The theatre was thronged last night with an immense audience to see Edwin Booth in his great character of Hamlet. His interpretation of the part is familiar to all theatre-goers. It is the same carefully studied, classical performance that he has given for years past—perfect in every detail, but after all, soulless—almost too perfect, too polished, to be life-like.

More Idiotic Policemen.

A gentleman was taken into the city prison on Monday night, and a charge of "drunk" entered against his name. The policeman thought he was merely "shot in the neck," but it was discovered in the morning after, he had nearly bled to death in the dark cell; that he was also shot in the thigh with a "bullet's balm," as the Call would phrase it.

Lack of Amusement.

In the city of Sacramento there were eighteen marriages last month. In San Jose, a city of much less population, there were the same number. The San Jose people get married because they have nothing else to do. In a dull place, the inhabitants take to matrimony, or drink out of sheer desperation.

The Curse of Drink.

A man in San Jose, employed in a soda factory, had his thumb blown off by the bursting of a bottle of soda water. On, this cursed drink! Another victim! (Somebody suggests that soda water is not intoxicating, but we know better. It is. People always put something in it before they drink it.)

A Nice Way to Warn Others.

The local brevities man of the Alta headed his column on Wednesday: "To-day is the first of April. Look out." On that day he was fooled nine hundred times and people only gave over playing tricks on him because there really wasn't any fun in it.

Wasteful.

At a concert to be given for the benefit of a Sunday School on Monday next, a performance of a grand march on "eight Hallet, Davis & Co.'s pianos," is announced as an attraction. Why not play the tune on one Dunham piano?

Very Appropriate.

We notice that A. M. Winn, who doesn't publish the Shop and Senate any more, is President of the Fountain Convention. Mr. Winn must take a hand when there is any spouting going on.

Good Enough.

Gilbert's drama of "Charity," now being performed at the Fifth Avenue Theatre, New York, is said to produce "laughter, tears and lavish applause."

Convinced.

Muffington has become converted to Spiritualism, and now says: "De ghostibus non est disputandum."

Managers

Of Amusements, Excursions, Lectures and Concerts, are directed to the splendid printing establishment of B. F. Sterett, 632 Clay street, over the San Francisco Market. The largest posters, in plain or fancy colors, are turned out in the shortest possible space of time. Also, beautiful programmes, tickets, etc., printed to suit the most fastidious. Mr. Sterett keeps constantly on hand a fine line of bright colored papers of every shade, and the prices charged for these is very little in advance of plain white paper. Streamers of various sizes, from 18 to 42 inch letters, in stock, of all colors of paper and ink. Theatre Managers are especially invited to call for estimates, This well known printing house was established by the present proprietor in 1850, and has been in successful operation ever since. 3-cj

The Lucky Number

Fortunia, the Goddess of Luck, must have designated one hundred and forty-four as her symbol. W. E. Mayhew believes in the number. He drew the second grand prize in the last lottery on that number, and then moved his large and complete stock of Drugs, Perfumes, etc., to 144 Fourth street. Naturally happy and free-hearted, he continues in business for the pleasure it affords him. He is actually giving a splendid Sachet Package of Rimmel's or Lubin's to every customer that comes to his store. 3 B

Who Is He?

The Boston Courier has the following, in which we venture to express our disbelief: A New York manager received lately a letter from a young San Francisco actor, enclosing his carte de visite, and asking for an engagement. After recounting his many excellencies for the position applied for, his letter concluded with: "If you do not want me, return my picture by next post, as the ladies here are crying themselves sick for 'em!"

Cheap Enough.

In San Francisco, one can if so inclined, strike a newsboy in the stomach for $100. To strike one's wife in the stomach costs about $50.

For a good, quiet, nice saloon, commend us to the "Orient," 720 Market street. Messrs. Goldworthy & Weston are saloon-keepers who know their business thoroughly, and consequently keep only the best of Wines, Whiskys and Cigars. We can commend the "Orient" as one of the best places in the city. Try once and you will be satisfied. 2-c

.....OF.....

TRUSSES!

WM. C. LADOW, M. D., OF PENDLETON, Umatilla County, Oregon says:

Marsh's Trusses are the most superior inventions of the age. Their principle is superb and construction admirably adapted to the anatomy of parts involved. They protect the life, restore the health, renew the functions of the kidneys and other organs, obviate the pressure upon the SPINE, PUBIC BONE and spermatic chord, and in fact do more practically than all the hundreds of "OTHER" worthless inventions put together can perform. They possess merit, and I know whereof I speak, it being fully demonstrated upon myself and numerous other patients of my own. During a study of thirty years of the respective merits of different appliances, I never had anything to meet my approbation so thoroughly as the Marsh's Patent Trusses.

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

Opera House.

In the first part, Billy Welch receives much applause nightly for his original song "I Marched with the American Corps," and Billy Sweetnam and Con T. Murphy, are very amusing. "Blinks and Jinks" by Billy Sweetnam, Little Mac, Charles Reed and Miss Jennie Sherman, is received with roars of laughter, George S. Knight, whose engagement closes with the present week, presents his Dutch songs and stories. Welch and Rice appear in song and dance, Little Mac and Charles Reed in "The Haunted Chamber," and Miss Susan Galton and Alfred Kelleher in Offenbach's charming operetta entitled "Lischen and Fritzchen."

California Theatre.

"Struck Oil" was performed to a good house last night and was thoroughly appreciated. To-night, Miss Ellie Wilton, who is deservedly a great favorite with the public of San Francisco, will take her first benefit, and the public will have an opportunity of testifying their appreciation of her talent, and her untiring efforts in her profession. The performance will commence with the sparkling comedy of "The Victim of Circumstances," in which Barton Hill will appear as M. Bonnefoi, Lewis Morrison will recite "Which Will It Be?" Miss Marian Singer will play a piano forte concerto, J. G. Russell will sing "The Heart Bowed Down," Miss Maggie Moore will appear in her specialties, E. J. Buckley will recite "The Signal Man Asleep," Miss Ellie Wilton will recite "Barbara Freitchie," and will be followed by J. C. Williamson in "Dot Barbara Fridohie," Con T. Murphy will deliver his original poem "The Letter of Death," and this rich entertainment will conclude with the charming comedy of "The Maid of Munster," in which Miss Jennie Lee, J. P. Burcett and Walter Leman will appear. The sale of tickets has been very large and there will certainly be a very full and fashionable audience. To-morrow evening, the doorkeepers and ushers will take their annual benefit.

Palace Amphitheatre.

The Great Carlo Family who appear nightly at this house in conjunction with M. and Mme. Dockrill, the wonderfully comical Kenebels, and Wilson's great star troupe have created a positive furore by their extraordinary feats. The juveniles Leotard and Harry Carlo are perfect miracles, and their feats arouse the spectators to the most enthusiastic demonstration of applause. Mme. Amelia Bridges the wonderful tight-rope performer, is nightly rewarded with much applause for her graceful and extraordinary performance. The public should enjoy the present season at the Amphitheatre while it lasts. Manager Wilson cannot long delay his Summer campaign.

Benefit to Mrs. Martha Gabourn.

The theatrical profession, with that readiness to help the distressed which always characterizes it has come forward for the relief of Mrs. Martha Gabourn, a widow with seven children dependent on her for support. An entertainment will be given for her benefit at Platt's Hall on April 7th. Lewis Morrison, Henry Edwards, J. C. Williamson, and other favorites will appear. The programme will shortly be published in "FIGARO."

Bella Union Theatre.

Johnny Tuers, Matt Kelly, Fred Ritchie, and others in lively acts, Miss Alice Ross in serio-comic gems, the wonderful Tycoon Japs in thrilling performances, Ed Murray in his "Budget of Fun," Miss Jennie Johnson, Miss Maggie Kelly, Tommy Barton and others in the local extravaganza entitled "The Farallones," and many other performances will be given to-night.

Buckley's New Variety Theatre.

Geo. O. Thompson, who appears nightly at this house in his original specialties is a great favorite. Mortimore and Harry Devoy cause much fun in rattling acts, and Johnny Price, Miss Irene Walters, and many others appear in songs, acts and dances.

Badger's Park.

The Fourth Annual Picnic of the D. V. Hetterkeit will take place Sunday, April 5th, 1874, at Badger's Grand Central Park, on which occasion will be performed the German farce of "Carlchen's Erste Liebe." Full band in attendance. Admission fifty cents; ladies free. Oakland ferry cars run every hour direct to the Park, every half hour to Broadway station, connecting with street cars for the Park.

Woodward's Gardens.

The gigantic French mail silk balloon "Le Secours," will make its second ascension Saturday afternoon. Every person gets a numbered ticket on entering the gardens, with the chances of drawing the privilege of making a trip to the clouds for 25 cents or disposing of the same. Prof. Allen's balloon will make captive ascensions, 2000 feet high, Saturday and Sunday.

City Gardens.

On Sunday April 5th, the German Garde Fusiliers, escorted by the German Dragoons, will celebrate their third anniversary at these gardens. A grand instrumental Concert will be given. Singing by S. F. Maennerchor, games for children and adults, dancing in the pavilion, election for prizes, the whole concluding with a grand ball in the evening. Tickets 50 cents, children with parents under 12 years of age free. The cars will run all night.

CAOUTCHOUC.—The wonderful Hairless Horse on exhibition on Sutter street, opposite the Lick House, is really one of the most remarkable freaks of nature we have ever seen. Looking at the skin through a microscope not a pore can be seen. He is one of the most perfect specimens of a horse physically. He stands about fifteen hands high and weighs 1,000 pounds. He is well worth a visit.

ANATOMICAL MUSEUM.—One of the most complete collections of the kind in the United States, comprising hundreds of costly and beautiful wax models, is daily on view (to gentlemen only) at the Museum on Montgomery street. An hour may be profitably spent here.

We would recommend all who need the services of a thorough Dentist to visit Dr. C. S. Ogle, 135 Kearny, and avail themselves of his services. All work guaranteed.

If you wish to get suited with a suit of clothes at reasonable rates, call on John Kavanagh, 15 New Montgomery street. His boys suits are a marvel of elegance and style. 3-w

REMOVAL.—Madame Clara Antonia, the Clairvoyant Physician and Independent Trance Medium, 20 Geary street, near Kearny. Consultations in English, French and German. 1o

HOW IT HAPPENED.

TO T. V.

It seems to me—
Ah well! Do you not remember
Our first meeting? Last September,
In the early Autumn?

And the first flirtation?
Tender nothings whispered low,
That made the blushes come and go
With pleasing variation?

The walk at even?
In the twilight soft and sweet—
(Wondered you our lips did meet
In pleasure stolen?)

How long we lingered,
Midst roses' perfume rich and rare—
(Love was in the fragrant air
In sweet seclusion).

It seems to me—
Ah well! Do you remember
The vows we made? Last September,
In the early Autumn? J. Q. A.

Sweet Child.

Said a bright little seven-year old to his maternal relative: "Mamma, if I am a right good boy, and say my prayers and sing psalms all the week, will God let me go to hell Saturday afternoon, and have a good time with the boys?"

How It Is In Indiana.

An Indiana lawyer used the word "disparagement" in his plea, and the judge told him that if he couldn't quit using Latin words he could sit down. The lawyer undertook to define his position and was fined $20 for contempt of court.

Disgusted.

An ambitious young lady was talking very loudly about her favorite authors, when a literary chap asked her if she liked Lamb. With a look of ineffable disgust, she answered that she cared very little what she ate, compared with knowledge.

A False Accusation.

"You're the victim of rum," said a crusader, the other day, to a veteran spiritualist. "S'are you, madam," he replied. "I never touched a drop of rum in my life. Whisky's my poison."

A High Recommendation.

A man applied for a situation on the Cincinnati police force, and gave, as one of his qualifications a personal acquaintance with almost all the Cincinnati thieves.

Make a Beginning.

Emerson says: "The way to make the world better is by reforming number one, then there is surely one less villain in the world."

Bad Times.

When women war 'gainst rum and beer, and close for aye each drinking place; then shall the salty, silent tear roll sadly down each lunch-fiend's face.

A Reasonable Request.

A saloon keeper in Des Moines has put over his door the following: "But when thou prayest, enter into thy closet—not somebody else's rum shop."

Just So.

A Dutch Legislator remarked: "Ven I vas elected, I thought I would find dem all Solomons down here, but I found dere vas some as pick fools here as mineself."

Sir Walter Raleigh created a consternation when he appeared before his servants smoking a pipe of Tobacco. The sight was a new one to them, and they, as well as the public in general were slow to learn the use of the Weed Had they had Tobacco of the quality and perfect flavor which the Perique and Golden Thread Smoking Tobacco of to-day have, smoking would much sooner become almost universal. The Gilroy Tobacco Company (office 304 Pine street), are offering the above-named Tobaccos to the public, and we advise those in want of a good article to give them a trial. 3-J

THE SCIENCE—for it is a science—of taking the impression of any animate or inanimate thing on Glass, Porcelain or Cardboard, by using the sun as an auxiliary, is an important one. Improvements have been made from time to time by those who have made Photography a study To our mind (and a visit will make our readers agree with us) the artist who presides at the Florence Gallery, 23 Third street, has attained a degree of excellence seldom achieved, if ever equalled. His Life-Size Portraits are excellent and prices low. 2bh

Charles Dickens' Wife.

Mrs. M. H. Birnham, the New York correspondent of the St. Louis Republican, says of Mrs. Dickens: She harassed and persistently embittered Dickens' domestic life. A shadow of opposition or dictation will destroy the faculties for successful literary labor, and Mrs. Dickens was the substance of all opposing and dictatorial qualities. I was acquainted years ago with a Mrs. Hunt, an American woman, who was in reduced circumstances in London. She procured a situation as seamstress in Charles Dickens' family. She had a good opportunity of judging both parties, and she very cleverly summed up the pair as having no one thing in common but discussion. There was an endless amount of petty differences in all the small affairs of life. Mr. Dickens had but to express an opinion as to the flavor of a cup of coffee, or the fit of a child's clothes, and the wife had an opposite belief to express in a disagreeable, tantalizing way. If Mr. Dickens found his temper upset and his mind disturbed by the peevishness of an ordinary woman, he was perfectly right to withdraw to a separate establishment, and the world at large should rejoice that he did. By properly remaining in that domestic atmosphere there might have been fifteen children instead of ten, but fewer of those marvellous books to comfort, amuse and delight all classes, kinds and conditions of mankind.

Queen Victoria as a Humorist.

An amusing but amiable criticism is attributed to the Queen, which, in its way, is almost good enough to have been uttered by one of those recognized humorists who have occasionally adorned thrones. Some one at the court had spoken disparagingly (of course) of the hostile criticisms pronounced by Sir Charles Dilke on the civil list. "It is strange," Queen Victoria is said to have replied, "for I remember having him, as a boy, on my knee and stroking his hair. I suppose," added her Majesty, after a moment's pause, "I must have stroked it the wrong way."

Not Far Wrong.

The Springfield Republican says: "A Good Man Gone to Roost," was a headline in a Western paper's obituary. It wasn't so great a mistake after all. It was only a difference between an "o" and an "a."

A Terrible Revenge.

Anna Dickinson is to lecture in England next Summer. We opine that this is the way the Liberals have taken of punishing the English people for their late overwhelming defeat.

Too Good.

A singular instance of skepticism is recorded in the case of the man who said the Bible was "too good to be true."

Oysters.

In strolling round the other night,
To look at 'Frisco by gas light,
Our careless feet, by chance did stray
To where a fountain's ceaseless play
Of sparkling waters, made a screen
Through which a sweet bouquet was seen;
While mossy stone and pearly shell,
O'er which the waters softly fell,
Made that window seem to be
Some fairy grotto of the sea.
"Stop," said my friend, "let's go in here
It looks so nice—and try their cheer."
"All right," I said, "I must agree
That this place suits me to a 'T.'"
No sooner had we found a seat
Than at our side a waiter neat
Made his appearance, asked our wish—
Said they had almost any dish
That we might name. We found it true,
And cooked magnificently, too;
All kinds of oysters, juicy, fat,
Cooked every style; just think of that,
And if your mouth don't water, then
You're different from other men.
They'd clams and crabs and terrapins' it
In fact, we found they had within
That cosy place all kinds of game,
Fish, flesh or fowl which we could name,
While every dish was, I am sure,
Prepared to tempt an epicure.
The ladies, too, have found, 'twould seem,
That they have here the best ice cream;
So here they flock, the little sinners,
To get what they call "such nice dinners."
Whoever doubts this let him rush
To three hundred thirty-seven Bush,
And there this truth he'll find made plain:
Who goes there once will go again.
Pacific Oyster House, 337 Bush street, above Montgomery; open Day and Night.
CHARLES HAAKE, Proprietor.

Tearing Down Old Landmarks.

Some men's lives are failures because they have mistaken their vocation. No matter what a man's calling may be, he should study to make that calling a success. There is more skill in selecting and arranging the adornments of our homes than many have any idea of. One of the most difficult articles to arrange with taste is Carpets. One must have an eye to the surroundings, the height of the room, the number of windows, the style of the other furniture, and then proceed to select the Carpet. For some rooms one must have a large pattern, in others a small figure; bright colors do not always look the best. Mr. Burnham, one of the firm of J. W. Burnham & Co., 618 Market and 17 Post street, has made the selecting of Carpets and Window-Hangings a study, and selected his stock accordingly—Brussels, Ingrains, Tapestry and Velvets, to say nothing of Oil Cloths, of which they make a specialty. Messrs. B. & Co. are obliged, we regret to say, to close out their entire stock at a sacrifice, on account of the tearing down of their present store, in order to rebuild. For the next thirty days Mr. Burnham can be found at his place of business, and will give his advice and long experience to all that may require it. 3-D

WHERE WE CIRCULATE "FIGARO."

Everybody knows that "FIGARO" has been distributed free for years very generally throughout the city, and has been circulated as programme in every theatre and place of amusement in San Francisco; and we want everybody to know that "FIGARO" is always distributed on the Oakland Ferry-boats that bring the passengers by the great overland train to this city, and is placed in their hands every day—Sundays included. That it is mailed free every day to all the leading hotels on the Pacific Coast. That "FIGARO" is circulated by Taylor & Co., the Oakland bill distributors, every day throughout the central portions of Oakland. That it is also distributed at Sacramento and on the Sacramento steamers on their down trips to this city, and in all towns on the river side, as may be seen by the annexed certificate from A. H. Nahor, distributing agent on the steamers:

This is to certify that I have agreed to, and do, distribute "FIGARO" thoroughly on the Sacramento steamers on their down trips to San Francisco, and have made arrangements to have it generally distributed in the towns of Benicia, Martinez, Collinsville, Sherman Island, Rio Vista, Courtland, Antioch, Pittsburg Landing, New York Landing, and in all of the hotels, saloons, public places, etc., in Sacramento City. ALFRED H. NAHOR.

March 4th, 1874.

Arrangements are being made for further circulation on other lines of travel, so that "FIGARO" shall be "here, there and everywhere," and be placed in the hands of all strangers, families and business men en route to this city.

The Young Man from the East.

"I'm a stranger in this city,
I'm lately from the East,
And mighty fond of oysters;
Where can I get a feast?
I've been to all the restaurants,
But nowhere could I find,
A plate of Eastern oysters,
Of the old-fashioned kind."

"Well, I can tell you," said his friend,
"Exactly where to go,
And where to get your oysters,
Direct from where they grow.
Just take a stroll down PINE STREET,
At 410, below the Market,
You'll see a sign, 'THE SADDLE ROCK,
You can't fail to remark it.

"Emerson Corville keeps the place,
The best saloon in town,
There you can get your oysters raw,
Or fried so crisp and brown.
He's the largest oyster dealer
On the Pacific Coast,
And that he keeps the freshest
Has ever been his boast.

"He's got nice little private rooms,
Where you can sit at ease,
And eat your California stew,
Or Eastern if you please.
All the young men of fashion go
Right to the SADDLE ROCK,
To eat their EASTERN OYSTERS
And drink their Rhenish hock."

For Photo-crayons.

And reproduction in a superior style, go to Edouard & Cobb, 506 Kearny st. near California. Those desiring any of the above for Christmas presents, should make application before the rain sets in, and so avoid disappointment, satisfaction guaranteed in all cases 5i

Great Bargains in Clothing.

TAKING THE INITIATIVE.

We warned the ladies of San Francisco some time ago, that the evil of intemperance in dress had assumed such gigantic proportions that the men were about to move in the matter, and that praying bands composed of earnest men, led by practiced preachers, intended to visit the dry goods and millinery establishments of this city, and pray at the proprietors until they promised to give up their unholy traffic. The ladies are determined to take this reform into their own hands before the men are driven to such extremities. The Bulletin says:

"A meeting is appointed for all who are interested in the subject of dress reform for woman, to meet in Anthony's Hall, 417 Bush street, opposite the California Theatre, on Monday afternoon, April 6th. The ladies will meet at 2 o'clock precisely, and the gentlemen at 3 o'clock. A company of ladies have commenced the agitation of this subject by calling around this little nucleus all who are interested in this great work. There is, no doubt, a great chance for improvement in this dress business, as fathers and husbands can well testify, but the work of bringing it about will be very laborious."

Woman's dress in America, is clumsy, unhealthful, expensive and in many cases inelegant. The only sensibly clad women in San Francisco, are the Chinese, who wear comfortable loose wrappers and loose pants. No Chinaman, as far as we have heard, objects to his wife wearing breeches, and we do not see why a Caucasion should object if she pleases to do so. Pants can be made as graceful and becoming for women as men, and after she has got rid of all those superfluous petticoats, which now encumber her movements, will be made more fit to take her part in the duties of life. There is no necessity for the immense number of articles of clothing which women wear. There is no reason why she should wear a greater number than a man does. The dress of the present day may be reformed and still remain womanly and pretty. There is too much of it, and it costs too much. Any dress reform which has for its object the dressing of all women alike, like convicts or soldiers must fail. Only general principles can be laid down, and each woman must be left to dress in the manner which she considers most becoming. Fashion is a tyrant from whose power many a woman would gladly emancipate herself. If it can only once become "the fashion" to dress simply and inexpensively, the reform will progress rapidly. The prettiest dresses are not the most expensive. It is the form of woman's garments that needs to be changed, not the material. Something like pants must form a portion of the reform-dress or it will be no reform at all. We are glad that the ladies have made a commencement in this much needed reform, and hope the Press will encourage them in their good work, though dry goods stores advertise liberally, their large profit they make out of the follies of women enabling them to do so.

Cool.

The Alta berated Governor Booth for vetoing bills passed by the Legislature, and said:

We think the intellect and morality of the Senate and Assembly are as reliable and worthy of confidence as are his.

In Wednesday's issue, speaking of the adjournment of this body, it said:

Two years of exemption from the corruption and folly of our biennial legislative saturnalia, when the Senate and Assembly, made up mostly of men without education, experience, character or responsibility, go through their crude and hasty experiments at tinkering the laws and controling the business of the State.

This is as much as to say that Governor Booth has neither education, experience, character or responsibility; but it really matters very little what the Alta says, as we think we have observed on some previous occasion. If we have not done so, we hasten to repair the omission.

Epicure's Retreat.

The epicurean fond of nice grain-fed, pig-pork chop, tenderloin or roast, resorts to R. F. Bunker's 74 and 76 California Market, and is never disappointed, for "Bob," is a good feeder himself, and always keeps on hand the very best in his line. Bunker's celebrated Club Sausages will tickle the palate of the most fastidious. Even dyspeptics laugh after eating those sausages. 1x

Spring Style Hats.

President Porter, of Yale, gave the following advice to the students of that institution, the other day:

"Young men, you are the architects of your own fortunes. Rely upon your own strength of body and soul. Take for your star self-reliance. Subscribe on your banner, 'Luck is a fool, Pluck is a hero.' Don't take too much advice—keep at your helm and steer your own ship, and remember that the great art of commanding is to take a fair share of the work. Think well of yourself. Strike out. Assume your own position. Put potatoes in a cart, over a rough road, and the small ones go to the bottom. Rise above the envious and jealous. Fire above the mark you intend to hit. Energy, invincible determination, with a right motive, are the levers that move the world. Don't drink. Don't chew. Don't smoke. Don't swear. Don't deceive. Don't read novels. Don't marry until you can support a wife. Be in earnest. Be self-reliant. Be generous. Be civil. Read the papers. Advertise your business. Make money and do good with it. Love your God and fellow-men. Love truth and virtue. Love your country and obey its laws." If this advice is implicitly followed by the young men of the country, the millennium is near at hand.

Civilization vs. Temperance.

A petition has been presented to the Viceroy of India by upward of 16,000 natives in favor of temperance. The petitioners say that the nation of India has always been distinguished for habits of sobriety, but that its ideas and principles have been lately unsettled by English education and aggressive civilization. They mention as a painful fact that among the higher and more educated classes, and in places long subject to British rule and the influence of Western refinement, the worst effects of temperance have been realized. They suggest, in accordance with permissive prohibitory views, that all liquor-shops should be closed "where the majority of the inhabitants object to their existence," particularly in the vicinity of educational and religious establishments and places of business; and would have the sale of liquor for consumption on the premises altogether forbidden.

A Star Notice.

Bertha Peyser, publishes a star notice in a morning contemporary, to the effect that, she isn't the Bertha Peyser who was married the other day. The Call was mean enough to charge the poor girl six bits for the privilege of clearing her character.

Steel Bars vs. Whisky Bars.

The Post advocates the striking of steel bars at stated intervals for the purpose of warning people out of whisky shops, or reminding them it is time to go home. How soon the tipplers would get accustomed to the sound!

Pleasing.

Where a man shoots himself, the Call reporter heads his account of the suicide, "The Bullet's Balm." This is soothing. A little of the bullet's balm distributed round the Call office, wouldn't do any serious harm.

A Bird of Pray—Hallelujah Cox.

Managers

Of Amusements, Excursions, Lectures and Concerts, are directed to the splendid printing establishment of B. F. Sterett, 632 Clay street, over the San Francisco Market. The largest posters, in plain or fancy colors, are turned out in the shortest possible space of time. Also, beautiful programmes, tickets, etc., printed to suit the most fastidious. Mr. Sterett keeps constantly on hand a fine line of bright colored papers of every shade, and the prices charged for these is very little in advance of plain white paper. Streamers of various sizes, from 18 to 42 inch letters, in it or, of all colors of paper and ink. Theatre Managers are especially invited to call for estimates. This well known printing house was established by the present proprietor in 1850, and has been in successful operation ever since. 3-cj

The Lucky Number

Fortunius, the Goddess of Luck, must have designated one hundred and forty-four as her symbol. W. E. Mayhew believes in the number. He drew the second grand prize in the last lottery on that number, and then moved his large and complete stock of Drugs, Perfumes, etc., to 144 Fourth street. Naturally happy and free-hearted, he continues in business for the pleasure it affords him. He is actually giving a splendid Sachet Package of Rimmel's or Lubin's to every customer that comes to his store. 3 B

What Next?

Every one knows how a photograph looks when viewed through a stereoscope—but a stereoscope cannot always be had. G. D. Morse, at 417 Montgomery street has obviated this difficulty by producing a photograph that is so clear and sharp in its outlines that one would almost think he was looking through the lens of a stereoscope. Mr. Morse's parlors look more like an art gallery than a place of business. 2-T

New Furnishing Goods.

Sir Walter Raleigh created a consternation when he appeared before his servants smoking a pipe of Tobacco. The sight was a new one to them, and they, as well as the public in general were slow to learn the use of the Weed Had they had Tobacco of the quality and perfect flavor which the Perique and Golden Thread Smoking Tobacco of to-day have, smoking would much sooner become almost universal. The Gilroy Tobacco Company (office 304 Pine street), are offering the above-named Tobaccos to the public, and we advise those in want of a good article to give them a trial. 3-j

TRUSSES!

WM. C. LADOW, M. D., OF PENDLETON, Umatilla County, Oregon says:

Marsh's Trusses are the most superior inventions of the age. Their principle is superb and construction admirably adapted to the anatomy of parts involved. They protect the life, restore the health, renew the functions of the kidneys and other organs, obviate the pressure upon the SPINE, PUBIC BONE and spermatic chord, and in fact do more practically than all the hundreds of "OTHER" worthless inventions put together can perform. They possess merit, and I know whereof I speak, it being fully demonstrated upon myself and numerous other patients of my own. During a study of thirty years of the respective merits of different appliances, I never had anything to meet my approbation so thoroughly as the Marsh's Patent Trusses.

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

California Theatre.

Miss Ellie Wilton took her benefit last night, and had a crowded house, in spite of the rain. The beneficiary appeard to good advantage, in "The Victim of Circumstances," with Barton Hill, Henry Edwards and others. Miss Marian Singer, the vocalist and pianist, who made her first appearance before the public of San Francisco on this occasion, achieved a decided success. She first played Herz's third piano forte concerto, was encored, sang "Ring on, Sweet Angelus," and being once more recalled, sang "Paddy O'Flynn," in a manner which drew great applause. Miss Maggie Moore, J. C. Williamson, J. G. Russell and others appeared in songs and dances and recitations, and the comedy of "The Maid of Munster," admirably acted by Miss Jennie Lee, J. P. Burnett and Walter M. Leman, closed the entertainment. To-night the efficient and obliging door-keepers and ushers of the theatre will take their annual benefit. "The Marble Heart," will be performed, with Barton Hill as Phidias, and Raphael Duchaillet, Lewis Morrison as Diogenes and Volage, and Miss Annie Graham as Mademoiselle Marco.

Opera House.

To-night is the last night of the jovial minstrels, last night of Welch and Rice, last night of Little Mac, last night of the Susan Galton Troupe. The very attractive bill which has delighted thousands during the week, will be presented on this occasion, and once more at the matinee to-morrow. To-morrow night immense attractions will be offered, the great Lingard troupe will appear in the play of "La Tentation" from which Boucicault made his drama of "Led Astray." The ever-popular Horace Lingard, the lovely and fascinating Miss Alice Dunning, and that particular pet of the public, Miss Dickey Lingard, will appear with J. K. Mortimer, Miss Mary Wells, and a strong company. The public will not be able to resist this temptation. Such a play, and so much talent and beauty, will certainly have the effect of crowding the Opera House to suffocation. Seats can be reserved to-day.

Palace Amphitheatre.

A great feature of the rich and rare entertainment given at this house, is the wonderful bare-back act, performed by Omar Kingsley, who is almost without a rival in that specialty. The great Carlo family, the very comical Kennebels, the daring little Johnny Cooke, the highly-trained horse Napoleon. Miss Amelia Bridges, in her tight-rope performance, without a balance pole; and many other attractions will be offered this evening, and at the matinee to-morrow.

Benefit to Mrs. Martha Gabourn.

The theatrical profession, with that readiness to help the distressed which always characterizes it, has come forward for the relief of Mrs. Martha Gabourn, a widow with seven children dependent on her for support. An entertainment will be given for her benefit at Platt's Hall on April 7th. Lewis Morrison, Henry Edwards, J. C. Williamson, and other favorites will appear. The programme will shortly be published in "FIGARO."

Bella Union Theatre.

The Japanese Troupe continue their highly successful engagement at this house. To-night, John W. Wilkes, comedian, will make his first appearance in this city as Brian O'Linn, in the amusing two-act comedy of "The Irish Mormon." Ed Murray will sing "Songs of the Gold Dart," Johnny Tuers will present his eccentricities, Moore and Bray will appear in song and dance, and many other attractions specified on our first page will be presented.

Buckley's New Variety Theatre.

Geo. C. Thompson in his specialties, Miss Lotta Gray in vocal gems, the act of "The U. S. Mail Bag," and other amusing performances will be given to-night.

Badger's Park.

The Fourth Annual Picnic of the D. V. Heiterkeit will take place Sunday, April 5th, 1874, at Badger's Grand Central Park, on which occasion will be performed the German farce of "Oarlehen's Erste Liebe," Full band in attendance. Admission fifty cents; ladies free. Oakland ferry-cars run every hour direct to the Park, every half hour to Broadway station, connecting with street cars for the Park.

Woodward's Gardens.

The gigantic French mail silk balloon "Le Secours," will make its second ascension Saturday afternoon. Every person gets a numbered ticket on entering the gardens, with the chances of drawing the privilege of making a trip to the clouds for 25 cents or disposing of the same. Prof. Allen's balloon will make captive ascensions, 1000 feet high, Saturday and Sunday.

City Gardens.

On Sunday April 5th, the German Garde Fusiliers, escorted by the German Dragoons, will celebrate their third anniversary at these gardens. A grand instrumental Concert will be given. Singing by S. F. Maennerchor, games for children and adults, dancing in the pavilion, election for prizes, the whole concluding with a grand ball in the evening. Tickets 50 cents, children with parents under 12 years of age free. The cars will run all night.

CAOUTCHOUC.—The wonderful Hairless Horse on exhibition on Sutter street, opposite the Lick House, is really one of the most remarkable freaks of nature we have ever seen. Looking at the skin tarough a microscope not a pore can be seen. He is one of the most perfect specimens of a horse physically. He stands about fifteen hands high and weighs 1,000 pounds. He is well worth a visit.

ANATOMICAL MUSEUM.—One of the most complete collections of the kind in the United States, comprising hundreds of costly and beautiful wax models, is daily on view (to gentlemen only) at the Museum on Montgomery street. An hour may be profitably spent here.

Notes.

"The Haymakers" was performed at Platt's Hall last night by the Oakland Harmonic Society. It is a bright and sparkling composition, and was excellently well rendered. Solos and choruses were well sung, and the performance was much enjoyed by a large audience.

Miss Neilson, went East yesterday.

Mrs. Judah has gone to enjoy herself among the orange groves of Los Angeles.

A telegraph dispatch says: John McCullough closed his highly successful engagement in St. Louis on the 28th of March. On the occasion of his farewell benefit on the 27th, he was presented with a gold medal, from the citizens of St. Louis, as a token of their high appreciation for him.

J. C. Williamson's benefit yielded $2,047. He

IT NEVER PAYS.

It never pays to sit and growl
When fortune seems our foe;
The better bred will push ahead
And strike the braver blow,
For luck is work
And those who shirk
Should not lament their doom,
But yield the pay
And clear the way
That better men have room.

It never pays to foster pride
And squander wealth in show;
For friends thus won are sure to run
In times of want or woe,
The noblest worth
Of all the earth
Are gems of heart and brain,
A conscience clear,
A household dear,
And hands without a stain.

It never pays to hate a foe,
Or cater to a friend;
To fawn and whine, much less repine,
The dullest times will mend.
The faults of men
Are fewer when
Each paddles his own canoe;
For feuds and debts,
And pampered pets,
Unbounded mischief brew.

It never pays to wreck the health,
In drudging after gain,
And he is sold who thinks that gold
Is cheaply bought with pain.
A humble lot,
A cosy cot,
Have tempted even kings,
For stations high
That wealth will buy,
Not oft contentment brings.

Two Boucicault Items.

The money of a well-known baker is building Boucicault's theatre in New York. Said the baker to Dion a day or two ago, "Sir, you suggested some time since an improvement in the erection of the stage; the carpenters are awaiting your instructions, and have been for two days." "Let them wait," replied the modern Shakspeare: "seventy-five million people, dependent on one for their mental pabulum, are waiting also—a pity if I should make an exception in favor of a baker's dozen of blarsted carpenters."

Boucicault has made Stuart Robson a liberal offer to play an engagement at the Haymarket Theatre, London, England. At a dinner given by the dramatist a few evenings since, at Delmonico's, to commemorate the 100th night of "Led Astray," Mr. Robson proposed the following toast, which it may be necessary to add he was not allowed to drink alone: "Our host—he who has made more plays, more players, and more fortunes for others, than any man known to the history of the stage." From this it may be fairly inferred that the oily Dion and the clever comedian having formed themselves into a "mutual admiration society of limited membership."

The World of Billiards.

As great a stride has been taken in the game of billiards during the last half century, perhaps, as in any other direction. We have all seen the caricature of billiard playing in our grandfather's days. That cartoon represented billiard playing in its early stages. Messrs Chapman & Tyrrel have been busy for the past few weeks in remodelling the second floor of the building on the N. E. corner of Bush and Kearny streets, and on Saturday evening will show to their friends and the public in general, as great a contrast to early billiard playing as there is between a Pullman palace train and an old stage coach. They have a large airy room, very light, (windows on each side) and elegantly furnished. The billiard table comprise all the latest improvements, and are first-class in every respect. The chess and card-rooms are also tastily fitted up. In the east end of the room is the Bar behind which a plate glass mirror that reflects the whole room. Messrs C. & T. deserve credit for the taste they have displayed, and we trust they will receive the patronage they deserve, and which an appreciating public are apt to bestow.

THE SCIENCE—for it is a science—of taking the impression of any animate or inanimate thing on Glass, Porcelain or Cardboard, by using the sun as an auxiliary, is an important one. Improvements have been made from time to time by those who have made Photography a study. To our mind (and a visit will make our readers agree with us) the Artist who presides at the Florence Gallery, 28 Third street, has attained a degree of excellence seldom achieved, if ever equalled. His Life-Size Portraits are excellent and prices low. 2bh

The Stage in the Past.

Canon Kingsley recently delivered a lecture in Boston. "The Stage as It Once Was" is the title of the essay—what is was once in a republic of the past, what it may be again in some republic of the future. The lecturer began with an eloquent description of the still unfinished theatre of Athens as it was 440 B. C. and the noble audience that was gathered there. He pictured in eloquent terms the scene and the listeners, and after a brief reference to and description of the part played by the chorus, he read the chorus of old men from the "Agamemnon" and a passage from the "Eumenides" of Æschylus. Pieces did not then have a run of a hundred nights or more. Tragedy and even comedy were serious subjects, calling out not a passing sigh or passing laugh, but all the higher faculties and emotions. The music and metre, too, must have surely been as noble as their poetry, their sculpture and their architecture, possessed by the same exquisite sense of form and proportion. This set purpose of the Athenian dramatists of the best school to set before men a magnified humanity, explained the masks which gave one grand but unvarying type of countenance to each well-known historic personage, and the thick-soled cothurni which gave the actor a more than human stature—in short, the absence of anything like that scenic illusion. The Greeks' work was not for themselves alone but for all races in all times, and Greek art is the heirloom of the whole human race—and that work was to assert in drama, lyric, sculpture, music, gymnastic, the dignity of man; the dignity of man which they perceived for the most part with their intense æsthetic sense through the beautiful in man. The result of this training was spoken of, and the lecture closed with a brilliant description of the fall of Greece and its causes.

A Brick of a Husband.

They make bricks out of bone dust in Australia. The Milwaukee Sentinel thinks this is better than cremation. A widow, on this plan, could take the hot bones of her lamented husband to bed with her to warm her feet with.

Oysters.

In strolling round the other night,
To look at 'Frisco by gas light,
Our careless feet, by chance did stray
To where a fountain's ceaseless play
Of sparkling waters, made a screen
Through which a sweet bouquet was seen;
While mossy stone and pearly shell,
O'er which the waters softly fell,
Made that window seem to be
Some fairy grotto of the sea.
Stop," said my friend, "let's go in here
It looks so nice—and try their cheer."
"All right," I said, "I must agree
That this place suits me to a 'T.'"
No sooner had we found a seat
Than at our side a waiter neat
Made his appearance, asked our wish—
Said they had almost any dish
That we might name. We found it true,
And cooked magnificently, too;
All kinds of oysters, juicy, fat,
Cooked every style; just think of that,
And if your mouth don't water, then
You're different from other men.
They'd clams and crabs and terrapins';
In fact, we found they had within
That cosy place all kinds of game,
Fish, flesh or fowl which we could name,
While every dish was, I am sure,
Prepared to tempt an epicure.
The ladies, too, have found, 'twould seem,
That they have here the best ice cream;
So here they flock, the little sinners,
To get what they call "such nice dinners,"
Whoever doubts this let him rush
To three hundred thirty-seven Bush,
And there this truth he'll find made plain:
Who goes there once will go again,
Pacific Oyster House, 337 Bush street, above Montgomery; open Day and Night.
CHARLES HAAKE, Proprietor.

Tearing Down Old Landmarks.

Some men's lives are failures because they have mistaken their vocation. No matter what a man's calling may be, he should study to make that calling a success. There is more skill in selecting and arranging the adornments of our homes than many have any idea of. One of the most difficult articles to arrange with taste is Carpets. One must have an eye to the surroundings, the height of the room, the number of windows, the style of the other furniture, and then proceed to select the Carpet. For some rooms one must have a large pattern, in others a small figure; bright colors do not always look the best. Mr. Burnham, one of the firm of J. W. Burnham & Co., 518 Market and 17 Post street, has made the selecting of Carpets and Window-Haggings a study, and selected his stock accordingly—Brussels, Ingrains, Tapestry and Velvets, to say nothing of Oil Cloths, of which they make a specialty. Messrs. B. & Co. are obliged, we regret to say, to close out their entire stock at a sacrifice, on account of the tearing down of their present store, in order to rebuild. For the next thirty days Mr. Burnham can be found at his place of business, and will give his advice and long experience to all that may require it. 3-D

WHERE WE CIRCULATE "FIGARO."

Everybody knows that "FIGARO" has been distributed free for years very generally throughout the city, and has been circulated as programme in every theatre and place of amusement in San Francisco; and we want everybody to know that "FIGARO" is always distributed on the Oakland Ferry-boats that bring the passengers by the great overland train to this city, and is placed in their hands every day—Sundays included. That it is mailed free every day to all the leading hotels on the Pacific Coast. That "FIGARO" is circulated by Taylor & Co., the Oakland bill distributors, every day throughout the central portions of Oakland. That it is also distributed at Sacramento and on the Sacramento steamers on their down trips to this city, and in all towns on the river side, as may be seen by the annexed certificate from A. H. Nahor, distributing agent on the steamers:

This is to certify that I have agreed to, and do, distribute "FIGARO" thoroughly on the Sacramento steamers on their down trips to San Francisco, and have made arrangements to have it generally distributed in the towns of Benicia, Martinez, Collinsville, Sherman Island, Rio Vista, Courtland, Antioch, Pittsburg Landing, New York Landing, and in all of the hotels, saloons, public places, etc., in Sacramento City. ALFRED H. NAHOR.

March 4th, 1874.

Arrangements are being made for further circulation on other lines of travel, so that "FIGARO" shall be "here, there and everywhere," and be placed in the hands of all strangers, families and business men en route to this city.

The Young Man from the East.

"I'm a stranger in this city,
I'm lately from the East,
And mighty fond of oysters;
Where can I get a feast?
I've been to all the restaurants,
But nowhere could I find,
A plate of Eastern oysters,
Of the old-fashioned kind."

"Well, I can tell you," said his friend,
"Exactly where to go,
And where to get your oysters,
Direct from where they grow.
Just take a stroll down PINE STREET,
At 410, below the Market,
You'll see a sign, 'THE SADDLE ROCK,
You can't fail to remark it.

"Emerson Corville keeps the place,
The best saloon in town,
There you can get your oysters raw,
Or fried so crisp and brown.
He's the largest oyster dealer
On the Pacific Coast,
And that he keeps the freshest
Has ever been his boast.

"He's got nice little private rooms,
Where you can sit at ease,
And eat your California stew,
Or Eastern if you please.
All the young men of fashion go
Right to the SADDLE ROCK,
To eat their EASTERN OYSTERS
And drink their Rhenish hock."

For Photo-crayons.

And reproduction in a superior style, go to Bédouard & Cobb, 596 Kearny st. near California, Those desiring any of the above for Christmas presents, should make application before the rain sets in, and so avoid disappointment, satisfaction guaranteed in all cases 5r

PACIFIC COAST DRAMATIC NEWS.

SACRAMENTO.—Sacramento has no amusement at present.

Maguire's California Minstrels, will open for a short season, at the Metropolitan theatre, on Monday.

SAN JOSE.—The Mercury says that Madame Daret will open the San Jose Opera House, on Monday, for a lengthy season. Madame Daret will be the leading lady and the legitimate will receive a large share of her attention. Miss Ella Stockton, Mrs. Brid, Mrs. Osborne, and Miss Carrie Lipsis, will support her in the female characters. The leading man of the troupe is W. J. Coggswell, one of the finest actors on this coast. He will prove a strong card. Mr. Osborne, an Australian actor of good parts, will do the heavy business. J. N. Long, from the California theatre, an excellent juvenile and character actor, Frank Cleaves, George Bird, E. Lipsis, Mr. Murray, Frank Mitchell, E. Belmour and other competent actors constitute the remainder of the company. "Lucretia Borgia" and a screaming farce will be produced on the opening night.

SANTA ROSA.—A correspondent of the Sacramento Union says:

We have at last got what Santa Rosa has been wanting for some time, a large and commodious hall, fitted up in first-class style, with a stage and scenery, lighted up with gas, and with all the modern improvements. Heretofore we did not even have a place for a public meeting without going to the court-house, and that was too small. Two enterprising young men took hold of the matter and fitted it up in good style. One of them tells me it is capable of holding 500 people.

The name is Ridgeway Hall. The Yankee Adams Troupe performed there on March 25th, 26th, and 26th to good houses. The Sonoma Democrat commends their performances highly, and says "they gave excellent satisfaction."

GRASS VALLEY.—Josh Billings will be due at Hamilton Hall, next Wednesday evening.

NEVADA CITY.—Josh Billings will lecture on Wednesday.

MODESTO.—The Wilson Dramatic Company formed here during the week.

DENVER, COL.—Miss Ella La Rue was the reigning star at Ward's Cricket Varieties, up to March 27th.

SALT LAKE CITY.—The next star at the theatre, will be Miss Annie Graham, who will commence an engagement on the 14th, opening in "Article 47."

Tearing Down Old Landmarks.

Some men's lives are failures because they have mistaken their vocation. No matter what a man's calling may be, he should study to make that calling a success. There is more skill in selecting and arranging the adornments of our homes than many have any idea of. One of the most difficult articles to arrange with taste is Carpets. One must have an eye to the surroundings, the height of the room, the number of windows, the style of the other furniture, and then proceed to select the Carpet. For some rooms one must have a large pattern, in others a small figure; bright colors do not always look the best. Mr. Burnham, one of the firm of J. W. Burnham & Co., 618 Market and 17 Post street, has made the selecting of Carpets and Window-Hangings a study, and selected his stock accordingly—Brussels, Ingrains, Tapestry and Velvets, to say nothing of Oil Cloths, of which they make a specialty. Messrs. B. & Co. are obliged, we regret to say, to close out their entire stock at a sacrifice, on account of the tearing down of their present store, in order to rebuild. For the next thirty days Mr. Burnham can be found at his place of business, and will give his advice and long experience to all that may require it. 3-n

The World of Billiards.

As great a stride has been taken in the game of billiards during the last half century, perhaps, as in any other direction. We have all seen the caricature of billiard playing in our grandfather's days. That cartoon represented billiard playing in its early stages. Messrs Chapman & Tyrrel have been busy for the past few weeks in remodelling the second floor of the building on the N. E. corner of Bush and Kearny streets, and on Saturday evening will show to their friends and the public in general, as great a contrast to early billiard playing as there is between a Pullman palace train and an old stage coach. They have a large airy room, very light, (windows on each side) and elegantly furnished. The billiard table comprise all the latest improvements, and are first-class in every respect. The chess and card-rooms are also tastily fitted up. In the east end of the room is the Bar behind which a plate glass mirror that reflects the whole room, Messrs C. & T. deserve credit for the taste they have displayed, and we trust they will receive the patronage they deserve, and which an appreciating public are apt to bestow.

Do Not Suffer from Corns.

The unfortunate sufferers from Corns, Bunions, Club and Ingrowing Nails, can find instant relief by applying at Dr. B. H. Cowan's Institute, 310 Kearny street, from 1 to 6 P.M. We speak from experience, having tested the Doctor's capability. References given if required. H

Oyster.

In strolling round the other night,
To look at 'Frisco by gas light,
Our careless feet, by chance did stray
To where a fountain's ceaseless play
Of sparkling waters, made a screen
Through which a sweet bouquet was seen;
While mossy stone and pearly shell,
O'er which the waters softly fell,
Made that window seem to be
Some fairy grotto of the sea.
"Stop," said my friend. "let's go in here
It looks so nice—and try their cheer."
"All right," I said, "I must agree
That this place suits me to a 'T.'"
No sooner had we found a seat
Than at our side a waiter neat
Made his appearance, asked our wish—
Said they had almost any dish
That we might name. We found it true,
And cooked magnificently, too;
All kinds of oysters, juicy, fat,
Cooked every style; just think of that,
And if your mouth don't water, then
You're different from other men.
They'd clams and crabs and terrapins;
In fact, we found they had within
That cosy place all kinds of game,
Fish, flesh or fowl which we could name,
While every dish was, I am sure,
Prepared to tempt an epicure.
The ladies, too, have found, 'twould seem,
That they have here the best ice cream;
So here they flock, the little sinners,
To get what they call "such nice dinners."
Whoever doubts this let him rush
To three hundred thirty-seven Bush,
And there this truth he'll find made plain:
Who goes there once will go again,
Pacific Oyster House, 337 Bush street, above Montgomery; open Day and Night.
CHARLES HAAKE, Proprietor.

Managers

Of Amusements, Excursions, Lectures and Concerts, are directed to the splendid printing establishment of B. F. Sterett, 532 Clay street, over the San Francisco Market. The largest posters, in plain or fancy colors, are turned out in the shortest possible space of time. Also, beautiful programmes, tickets, etc., printed to suit the most fastidious. Mr. Sterett keeps constantly on hand a fine line of bright colored papers of every shade, and the prices charged for these is very little in advance of plain white paper. Streamers of various sizes, from 18 to 42 inch letters, in stock, of all colors of paper and ink. Theatre Managers are especially invited to call for estimates, This well known printing house was established by the present proprietor in 1850, and has been in successful operation ever since. 3-cj

The Lucky Number

Fortunia, the Goddess of Luck, must have designated one hundred and forty-four as her symbol. W. E. Mayhew believes in the number. He drew the second grand prize in the last lottery on that number, and then moved his large and complete stock of Drugs, Perfumes, etc., to 144 Fourth street. Naturally happy and free-hearted, he continues in business for the pleasure it affords him. He is actually giving a splendid Sachet Package of Rimmel's or Lubin's to every customer that comes to his store. 3 B

THE SCIENCE—for it is a science—of taking the impression of any animate or inanimate thing on Glass, Porcelain or Cardboard, by using the sun as an auxiliary, is an important one. Improvements have been made from time to time by those who have made Photography a study. To our mind (and a visit will make our readers agree with us) the Artist who presides at the Florence Gallery, 23 Third street, has attained a degree of excellence seldom achieved, if ever equalled. His Life-Size Portraits are excellent and prices low. 2bh

What Next?

Every one knows how a photograph looks when viewed through a stereoscope—but a stereoscope cannot always be had. G. D. Morse, at 417 Montgomery street has obviated this difficulty by producing a photograph that is so clear and sharp in its outlines that one would almost think he was looking through the lens of a stereoscope. Mr. Morse's parlors look more like an art gallery than a place of business. 2-r

Sir Walter Raleigh created a consternation when he appeared before his servants smoking a pipe of Tobacco. The sight was a new one to them, and they, as well as the public in general were slow to learn the use of the Weed Had they had Tobacco of the quality and perfect flavor which the Perique and Golden Thread Smoking Tobacco of to-day have, smoking would much sooner become almost universal. The Gilroy Tobacco Company (office 304 Pine street), are offering the above-named Tobaccos to the public, and we advise those in want of a good article to give them a trial. 3-j

.....OF.....

TRUSSES!

WM. C. LADOW, M. D., OF PENDLETON, Umatilla County, Oregon says:

Marsh's Trusses are the most superior inventions of the age. Their principle is superb and construction admirably adapted to the anatomy of parts involved. They protect the life, restore the health, renew the functions of the kidneys and other organs, obviate the pressure upon the SPINE, PUBIC BONE and spermatic chord, and in fact do more practically than all the hundreds of "OTHER" worthless inventions put together can perform. They possess merit, and I know whereof I speak, it being fully demonstrated upon myself and numerous other patients of my own. During a study of thirty years of the respective merits of different appliances, I never had anything to meet my approbation so thoroughly as the Marsh's Patent Trusses.

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

OPERA HOUSE.—Immense attractions will be presented at this house, to-night, in the appearance of the great Lingard troupe, who since their first engagement in this city, have been winning fame and money in all parts of the United States. In addition to the attraction of the company, the highly successful play of "La Tentation," by Octave Feuillet, on which Boucicault founded his drama of "Led Astray," will be produced. This piece has been performed sixty-nine times by the Lingards, and always with great success. The beautiful and talented Miss Alice Dunning, will appear as Camille, Countess de Vardes, Miss Dicker Lingard, as Helene, her step-daughter, and William Horace Lingard, the favorite comedian, as Achille De Keronare, J. K. Mortimer, formerly of Niblo's Garden, New York, who will make his first appearance in San Francisco on this occasion, will play Goutran, Comte de Vardes, and Miss Mary Wells, from Booth's theatre, New York, who will also make her first appearance here, will perform the role of the Dowager Countess de Vardes. The play will be put on the stage in magnificent style, with new and costly furniture. The dresses will be of the most beautiful and eloborate nature, and the Opera House will certainly present a most brilliant appearance. The public may look forward with confidence to the enjoyment of a delightful season of comedy and modern drama at this pretty little theatre. "La Tentation," will, of course, have a long run; and after that, we are to have "Charity," "Alixe," "Folline," and other New York successes. Due notice will be given of the first appearance of Mr. Lingard in a new series of character sketches.

CALIFORNIA THEATRE.—The large audience at this house last night was a well deserved compliment to the doorkeepers and ushers for whose benefit the performance was given. "The Marble Heart" was excellently played with Barton Hill as Phidias and Raphael Duchalet, Lewis Morrison as Diogenes and Ferdinand Volago, Miss Annie Graham as the stoney-hearted Marco, and Miss Carrie Wyatt as the interesting Marie. To-night the performance will be for the benefit of the company fund of the National Guard, a company of citizen soldiers. The old comedy of "The Rivals" will be presented with an excellent cast which is published on our first page, and the matinee to-day "Struck Oil" will be played.

THE NEW PALACE AMPHITHEATRE.—At the matinee to-day, and again this evening, a great performance will be given, Frederick Carlo will present his wonderful feat of the Polander Ladder, the Kenebels will appear in their wonderfully comical scene entitled "Frog Catching." Omar Kingsley will perform his great sensational bareback act which has caused quite a furore, the juvenile Carlos will perform on the double trapeze. Mlle. Amelia Bridges and the infant Bloodin, Master Leotard Carlo, will walk the tight rope, other performances will be given, and the evening's entertainment will terminate with the very laughable pantomime of "Bobby Trot," in which the charming Mlle. Fanny Carlo will appear as Eudelphe.

BELLA UNION THEATRE.—The male and female minstrels, the Tycoon Japs, Moore and Bray, Ed Murray, Johnny Ewers, Miss Jennie Johnson and a host of other favorite performers will appear to-night. The comedy of "The Latter Mormon," which was presented for the first time last night, proved quite a success, and John W. Wilkes, who made his first appearance at this theatre, in the character of Brian O'Linn, at once established himself as a favorite with the audience. This piece will form a portion of the entertainment to-night.

BUCKLEY'S NEW VARIETY THEATRE.—"I Want to be a Doctor," "Laughing Gas," and "Quiet Lodgings," per ormed are some of the acts to be to-night. Geo. O. Thomosen, Frank Mortimore, Johnny Price and many others will appear.

BADGER'S PARK.—The Fourth Annual Picnic of the D. V. Heitekeit will take place to-morrow at Badger's Grand Central Park, on which occasion will be performed the German farce of "Carleben's Erste Liebe." Full band in attendance. Admission fifty cents; ladies free. Oakland ferry-cars run every hour direct to the Park, every half hour to Broadway station, connecting with street cars for the Park.

WOODWARD'S GARDENS.—The gigantic French mail silk balloon "Le Secours," will make its second ascension Saturday afternoon. Every person gets a numbered ticket on entering the gardens, with the chances of drawing the privilege of making a trip to the clouds for 25 cents or disposing of the same. Prof. Allen's balloon will make captive ascensions, 1000 feet high, Saturday and Sunday.

CITY GARDENS.—To-morrow, the German Garde Fusiliers, escorted by the German Dragoons will celebrate their third anniversary at these gardens. A grand instrumental Concert will be given. Singing by S. F. Maenerchor, games for children and adults, dancing in the pavilion, election for prizes, the whole concluding with a grand ball in the evening. Tickets 50 cents, children with parents under 12 years of age free. The cars will run all night.

CAOUTCHOUC.—The wonderful Hairless Horse on exhibition on Sutter street, opposite the Lick House, is really one of the most remarkable freaks of nature we have ever seen. Looking at the skin through a microscope not a pore can be seen. He is one of the most perfect specimens of a horse physically. He stands about fifteen hands high and weighs 1,000 pounds. He is well worth a visit.

ANATOMICAL MUSEUM.—One of the most complete collections of the kind in the United States, comprising hundreds of costly and beautiful wax models, is daily on view (to gentlemen only) at the Museum on Montgomery street. An hour may be profitably spent here.

GOLDEN GATE PARK.—Those who drive out to the new park should visit The Villa which has just been opened. Here they will find four public parlors and ten private dining rooms. Guido Mangenberg & Co the proprietors get up epicurean breakfasts, dinners and suppers at short notice.

THE CLIFF HOUSE.—Captain Foster, the genial host of the Cliff House, entertains visitors from all parts of the Globe at his famous sea-side resort. The Cliff House is THE one thing San Francisco has to boast of as different from anything else in the world. Omnibuses run every day from the terminus of the Lone Mountain Railroad.

NOTES.—Maurice Pike and Miss Millie Becket, late of Piper's Opera House Company, started for New York from Sacramento on the 2d.

Miss Ellie Wilson, on the occasion of her benefit on Thursday evening, was presented with a beautiful and very valuable ring. The setting consisted of a large solitaire, surrounded by a circle of smaller diamonds.

Boucicault's latest success "Led Astray," will be produced at the California Theatre, on Monday evening, when that most popular of comedians, John T. Raymond, will commence an engagement and appear before the public that appreciates him so well.

Thomas Maguire, who has been East for the purpose of providing the people of San Francisco with novelties in the amusement line, will return on Tuesday or Wednesday of next week.

"A Returned Californian" writes to us for information concerning the whereabouts of Miss Katie Wilson, Ed Marble, Louise Arnott and Miss Sue Robinson. Miss Katie Wilson, married to Ed Marble, we last heard of with a traveling company from Chicago; Miss Louise Arcott is at De-Bar's Opera House, St. Louis; and Miss Sue Robinson, Heaven rest her soul, is dead.

Miss Annie Graham, leading lady of the California Theatre, has concluded her engagement, and will start on a starring tour, opening at Salt Lake on the 14th.

The carpenters and plasterers have finished their portion of the work on the Alhambra Theatre, and the painters and upholsterers will go in next week. The theatre, when finished, will be one of the prettiest in the United States. It will be ready for opening within three weeks.

There are already two Chinese theatres in this city, and Tack Wo and Lee Yang Tong intend to build another on Jackson street, between Dupont and Kearny. The building will cost $30,000. A Chinese dramatist has been engaged to write a new play, founded on incidents of life in China and California, for the opening nights.

The theatrical profession, with that readiness to help the distressed which always characterizes it has come forward for the relief of Mrs. Martha Gabourn, a widow with seven children dependent on her for support. An entertainment will be given for her benefit at Platt's Hall on April 7th. Lewis Morrison, Henry Edwards, J. C. Williamson, and other favorites will appear. The programme will shortly be published in "FIGARO."

Wm. Painter reports to FIGARO from Artesia, Miss., where he is superintendant of a store: He doesn't like it, and wishes to get back to California. Durand, his late partner is stage-manager of the Mobile Varieties. Painter and Durand are very clever gymnasts, and can always get engagements with circuses, but as Painter plaintively remarks "they always bust, and then we lose our salary.

EASTERN DRAMATIC NEWS.

In New York, at Booth's, Dion Boucicault terminated his engagement on March 28th, and Lotta made her appearance on the 30th in her new play of "Zip, or Point Lynd Light".....At Wallack's, "Central Park" was revived on the 23d, "The Veteran" was underlined.....The Grand Opera House is at present closed, but is to re-open on Easter Monday, when Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Florence and a dramatic company will appear in "Eileen Oge".....At Niblo's Garden, Frank Mayo and Miss Rosa Rand, were still playing in "Davy Crockett"......"Charity" was to run at Fifth Avenue Theatre until Easter Monday.....At Union Square, "Led Astray" seems likely to run for another hundred nights.....At the Academy of Music the great operatic event was the production of "Lohengrin" on the 23d.....At the Lyceum Theatre, the Aimee Opera Bouffe Troupe commenced a new season on the 23d, producing "La Vie Parisienne"..... At Wood's Museum, "Rum; or the Crusade of Temperance" was produced on the 23d, and on the 30th, Alice Placide, and Dashing Charley a scout, appeared in a new drama entitled "Little Rifle".....At Bryant's Opera House, Bob Hart, Eugene and Unsworth, were the star attractions..... At the Metropolitan Theatre, Winetta Montague and J. M. Ward were playing "The Winning Hand." The Bedouin Arabs appeared in the olio ..... At Tony Pastor's the Fieldings (John and Maggie), Billy Ashcroft, Eph Horne, and others appeared.....At the New Broadway Theatre "Humpty Dumpty at Home" was the attraction .....At the Olympic, Sol. Smith Russell and the Berger Family were the reigning stars.....At the Bowery Theatre "Revenge" was running to good houses.....On the 26th ult., a matinee for the benefit of the poor was given at all the leading theatres of New York, the receipts were nearly $25,000.

The executors of Edwin Forrest have effected a settlement with the divorced wife of the deceased by paying her $95,000, she agreeing to forego all her claim for this sum. It was deemed probable that her divorce in New York would not prevent Mrs. Sinclair from laying claim to all of Forrest's estate, as he left no heirs by consanguinity. This settlement, therefore, may be regarded as a wise and reasonable method of clearing the estate, and ensuring the execution of the tragedian's will respecting the "Actors' Labor Home," for the erection and support of which it provides; and, at the same time, gives Mrs. Sinclair sufficient to keep her handsomely.

J. H. Millburn now calls himself "the great Anglo-American comedian and dancer."

Robert McWade appears in St. Louis on April 6th.

Jay Bee, of the Boston Courier, gives the following sketch of the plot of Boucicault's drama of "Led Astray" recently produced at the Boston Museum: A young wife is dissatisfied with her husband. Her reasons are vague and utterly insufficient (ladies, I cry you mercy). She cannot say but that her husband is a worthy man and one that loves her. Her grievance is that he is not sufficiently effusive and attentive, and so she goes mooning around in search of some sympathetic soul who can understand her, and condole with her in this terrible woe. He turns up at last (the sympathetic and so forth) in the shape of a romantic "scallawag" who, seeing how things stand, proceeds at once to do the respectful condoling business in a manner which stamps him an old stager at that species of work, and pleases the wife tremendously. A number of complications arise from her folly, and The Sympathetic's villainy, which eventuate in a duel between the husband and the lover, in which the former is wounded. He recovers, however, and in the last act becoming deeply sensible of how abominably he has treated that suffering angel, his wife, by not keeping on his knees before her six hours a day, and, moreover, by the cruel shock he gave her nerves in allowing himself to be shot at without any practical result worth knowing, he is affected well nigh to tears, acknowledges what a beast of a fellow he has been, and humbly implores her forgiveness. This the suffering angel of course grants him (how else could she be an angel), the curtain comes down happily, and we have another exemplification of the charming truism, that virtue is its own reward.

It will be recollected that Frank Dumont, a talented and reputable member of Duprez & Benedict's Minstrel Troupe, was, a few months ago, arrested in Atlanta, and fined $750 for an alleged theft of a pocket-book in a railroad train. Notwithstanding that Mr Dumont could prove that he had not been in the same car with the loser, the case went against him, and he suffered much mortification. Mr. Dumont's acquaintances and the professional at large, were perfectly satisfied of his innocence, but a thorough confirmation comes in the fact that the pocket-book minus the money it contained has been found near an Atlanta gambling house.

The N Y Mercury says: James Sylvester, of the Sylvester Brothers, was killed on the 20th in the Thirty-fourth street theatre, of this city, while trapezing. He miscalculated the force necessary in the final swing of his act, and swung too far falling violently upon the stage he struck his head. Two doctors happened to be in the audience, and they instantly attended him. He was unconscious, and a large gash at the back of his head showed where he had struck. The skull was beaten in at the base of the brain, and both brains and blood oozed out upon the slightest pressure. The vertebral column was also dislocated. He soon died. His age was nineteen. His partner is in London. Several days before he had dreamed of falling from a housetop. He had accepted this as a bad augury, and was considerably troubled by it. No net was in use at the time of the accident.

Frank Lawlor, manager of the well-known Globe theatre, Chicago, advertises that he will reopen April 8th, as a first-class variety theatre. Dramatic and variety stars, and a full variety company are wanted immediately.

The Fire Department turned out in procession at St Joseph, Mo., in honor of the arrival of Little Nell, the California Diamond.

The last chapter in the history of the Siamese Twins' autopsy was told on the 20th inst., when Christopher and Diogenes Bunker—the former a son of Chang, and the latter a son of of Eng—arrived in Philadelphia for the purpose of taking charge of the remains of their deceased parents. They indignantly declare that there is not and never has been the slightest intention of the family to make a speculation of the remains by exhibiting them publicly. They left Philadelphia on the evening of the 21st inst., with the remains en route for Mt. Airy, N. C.

Marie Vestvalia commenced a two weeks' engagement at the Odeon Theatre, Baltimore, Md., on March 23.

Harry Estinge has returned from California.

Charles Fechter has been positively engaged to perform at the new Park Theatre, when it shall be opened on April 6

Charles R. Thorne, Jr. Miss Emily Mestayer, and Mrs. Wilkins have been engaged by Dion Boucicault, to act their original characters in "Led Astray" at the Haymarket theatre, London, Eng., during the coming summer. The report in circulation that the entire company from the Union-square theatre is to perform there is entirely without foundation.

Palmer & Jarrett have secured Booth's theatre, and take possession in August, if not before. Such is the latest report.

Miss Neilson will appear in "The Lady of Lyons" at a matinee, on the 9th of April, at the Academy of Music, Philadelphia, for the benefit of the Philadelphia Fountain Society.

Miss Amy Stone was to leave New York on April 1st for Australia, via Denver, Salt Lake and California. She advertised for unpublished plays before leaving. She had better wait until she reaches San Francisco, and buy up the few hundred that remain in the hands of authors here.

Owen Marlowe proposes to try the experiment of a parlor dramatic entertainment in Brooklyn, and on April 6th, he will open Central Hall for that purpose.

Baker and Farrow, who opened in New Orleans, March 30, go thence to Galveston, April 6, and Houston, 13.

A correspondent of the Clipper, speaking of Lawrence Barrett, says:

"Mr. Barrett, unlike Booth and other noted actors, never slights his art through contempt for his audience, but plays with as much care in a small city and to small audiences as in the largest cities and to the largest crowds."

That is very good of Mr. Barrett. He has become accustomed to small cities and small audiences.

Mrs. Lowry, an actress, having recently become a convert to the Methodist Church, was appointed to the ministry at the conference lately closed at Baltimore. She was a prominent feature at several of Mrs. Van Cott's revivals, while that lady figured in the Monumental City.

Milton-Rayner troupe, Cincinnati, 6th, one week; Chicago, 13th, one week; St. Louis, 20th, one week.

Mrs. F. S. Chanfrau, St Charles, New Orleans, April 6th, one week.

Charlotte Cushman, under John T Ford, Washington, April 6th, one week; Baltimore, 13th, one week.

Mr and Mrs Barney Williams, Brooklyn theatre, April 6th, two weeks.

Ned Warner, the tragedian, was married on the 16th ult., to a daughter of Mr Chippendale of the Brooklyn theatre. The lady is professionally known as Mrs J Bell. Mr and Mrs Warner will leave Mrs Conway's company at the end of the season for a starring tour through the States.

Agnes Ethel recently arrived from Europe with her new husband, and proceeded to his residence in Utica.

Madame Rentz's Female Minstrels will take the road on the 30th, making the first stand at North Bridgewater, Mass. Great care has been taken in organising the party, and M B Leavitt, the manager, has spared no pains to obtain the best talent. The company will comprise Lulu Mortimer, burlesque actress; the Costellos, male and female gymnasts and flying trapezists; Hattie Forrest, character change vocalist; Sallie A. Adams, banjoist; Charles Vincent and Amelia Dean, California specialty artists; Jennie Duvare, song and dance; Blanche Maeder, soprano vocalist and soubrette, and others.

John L Davis, the dog exhibitor, has named his latest juvenile Clara Louisa Pretica Annie Gilderpra. It was so christened recently at the Catholic Church in Baltimore. He wants to make a troupe out of it when it grows up.

While Regamey, the French caricaturist was recently drawing portraits at the Front-street theatre, Baltimore, a fool took umbrage at the caricatures of Senator Whyte and Mayor Vansant, supposing that disrespect was implied. He sprang from the orchestra to the stage, upset the canvas and was about to pitch into Regamey, when a policeman appeared and quieted the disturbance by removing him.

John McCullough, closed his highly successful engagement, at the Olympic theatre, St. Louis, on the 28th ult. He is to open in Chicago on the 6th.

Epicure's Retreat.

The epicurean fond of nice grain-fed, pig-pork chop, tenderloin or roast, resorts to E. F. Bunker's 74 and 76 California Market, and is never disappointed, for "Bob," is a good feeder himself, and always keeps on hand the very best in his line, Bunker's celebrated Club Sausages will tickle the palate of the most fastidious. Even dyspeptics laugh after eating those sausages. 1z

Spring Style Hats.

Light, beautifully finished and graceful in shape, the new Spring style of Hats manufactured at "The" Hat Store, 647 Washington street (second hat store below Kearny street), is just the thing to make a man look a hundred per cent. better. 523 Merchant and 525 Washington Sts

Below Montgomery, San Francisco.

MONDAY .....APRIL 6, 1874

WHERE WE CIRCULATE "FIGARO."

Everybody knows that "FIGARO" has been distributed free for years very generally throughout the city, and has been circulated as programme in every theatre and place of amusement in San Francisco; and we want everybody to know that "FIGARO" is always distributed on the Oakland Ferry-boats that bring the passengers by the great overland train to this city, and is placed in their hands every day—Sundays included. That it is mailed free every day to all the leading hotels on the Pacific Coast. That "FIGARO" is circulated by Taylor & Co., the Oakland bill distributors, every day throughout the central portions of Oakland. That it is also distributed at Sacramento and on the Sacramento steamers on their down trips to this city, and in all towns on the river side, as may be seen by the annexed certificate from A. H. Nahor, distributing agent on the steamer:

This is to certify that I have agreed to, and do, distribute "FIGARO" thoroughly on the Sacramento steamers on their down trips to San Francisco, and have made arrangements to have it generally distributed in the towns of Benicia, Martinez, Collinsville, Sherman Island, Rio Vista, Courtland, Antioch, Pittsburg Landing, New York Landing, and in all of the hotels, saloons, public places, etc., in Sacramento City. ALFRED H. NAHOR.

March 4th, 1874.

Arrangements are being made for further circulation on other lines of travel, so that "FIGARO" shall be "here, there and everywhere," and be placed in the hands of all strangers, families and business men en route to this city.

The Young Man from the East.

"I'm a stranger in this city,
I'm lately from the East,
And mighty fond of oysters;
Where can I get a feast?
I've been to all the restaurants,
But nowhere could I find,
A plate of Eastern oysters,
Of the old-fashioned kind."

"Well, I can tell you," said his friend,
"Exactly where to go,
And where to get your oysters,
Direct from where they grow.
Just take a stroll down PINE STREET,
At 410, below the Market,
You'll see a sign, 'THE SADDLE ROCK,
You can't fail to remark it.

"Emerson Corville keeps the place,
The best saloon in town,
There you can get your oysters raw,
Or fried so crisp and brown.
He's the largest oyster dealer
On the Pacific Coast,
And that he keeps the freshest
Has ever been his boast.

"He's got nice little private rooms,
Where you can sit at ease,
And eat your California stew,
Or Eastern if you please.
All the young men of fashion go
Right to the SADDLE ROCK,
To eat their EASTERN OYSTERS
And drink their Rhenish hock."

Complimentary but Incorrect.

The Chicago Sun says:

"The Daily FIGARO, published in San Francisco, California, and devoted to theatrical matters, is probably the best paper of that kind in the United States. It is lively, reliable and able, reflecting great credit on the publisher, Mr. J. P. Bogardus. Some of the sharpest amusement critics in the West write for it regularly. No wonder FIGARO is a decided success."

FIGARO, does not, like some of our dailies, have a new critic every week. The amusement criticisms of FIGARO, are the work of one mind, and are consequently consistent, if nothing else.

Coming.

A Cincinnati paper of the 28th ult., says: The thirty young ladies who are to carry the temperance war to the Pacific coast will leave Washington, Indiana, this week for Omaha. After singing to the whisky sellers there, they will visit Reno, Virginia City, Sacramento, San Francisco, and lesser places. As they are all young, and probably pretty, the bachelors of the Pacific are awaiting the raid with eager anxiety. One California editor fears that they will all be absorbed before they reach Grass Valley.

Dumas.

Olive Logan says the younger Dumas is tall and handsome, with a speaking blue eye, a courtly manner and a smile that would ruin the heart of a tobacconist's Injun. He is less like a Frenchman than a Saxon, though it is well known that his father was of half African blood. He is wealthy and a lavish patron of the arts. His conversation is brilliant as that of one of the best characters of his plays. He writes with a steel pen with a huge ivory holder, with his feet wrapped in tiger skins.

Demoralizing,

One of the social evils is being discussed by all the newspapers in the United States. It is the male social evil. What a howl there would be if the same amount of space was devoted to the discussion of another social evil. Oh! no, we never mention it. All this talk about drunkenness is demoralizing, and will, we fear, lead innocent men to drink. It should be stopped at once. These things should not be talked about.

Woodwards Garden Catalogue.

A full catalogue of the thousands of curiosities on exhibition at these beautiful gardens has been published. It will be appreciated by visitors. We notice that a recent number of the Illustrated Christian Weekly of New York, contains two beautiful engravings of the aquarium in Woodward's Gardens, accompanied by a description of its inhabitants by the Rev. T. M. Dawson.

Complimentary.

A French paper points out how the passion for gambling is shown in this country, so that even in the wedding notices it is necessary to state that there were "no cards."

The London (England) Telegraph says journalism grinds strong brain into thinking stuff, fit for all needs and uses, but wears away a weak one into idiocy.

The World of Billiards.

As great a stride has been taken in the game of billiards during the last half century, perhaps, as in any other direction. We have all seen the caricature of billiard playing in our grandfather's days. That cartoon represented billiard playing in its early stages. Messrs Chapman & Tyrrel have been busy for the past few weeks in remodelling the second floor of the building on the N. E. corner of Bush and Kearny streets, and on Saturday evening will show to their friends and the public in general, as great a contrast to early billiard playing as there is between a Pullman palace train and an old stage coach. They have a large airy room, very light, (windows on each side) and elegantly furnished. The billiard table comprise all the latest improvements, and are first-class in every respect. The chess and card-rooms are also tastily fitted up. In the east end of the room is the Bar behind which a plate glass mirror that reflects the whole room, Messrs C. & T. deserve credit for the taste they have displayed, and we trust they will receive the patronage they deserve, and which an appreciating public are apt to bestow.

Do Not Suffer from Corns.

The unfortunate sufferers from Corns, Bunions, Club and Ingrowing Nails, can find instant relief by applying at Dr. B. H. Cowan's Institute, 310 Kearny street, from 1 to 6 P.M. We speak from experience, having tested the Doctor's capability. References given if required. 2

A "Danbury Funeral."

The day Mr. Ruby across the way was to be buried Mrs. Moriaty told her daughter Clarinda that she guessed she would attend, as she wasn't feeling very well, and a ride would do her good. She knew there would be several covered carriages furnished at the expense of the family, and she was equally confident that it could be so managed that she would occupy a portion of one of them. She was among the first at the house and occupied a prominent position.

As the other friends arrived, she took occasion to recall reminiscences of the late Ruby that brought tears to their eyes, and when the services were over, as the first carriage drove up for its load, the distress of Mrs. Moriaty at the death of Mr. Ruby, was so marked as to excite the liveliest sympathy. Then the second coach came up. Mrs. Moraity had gone down to the gate by this time, and as the door of the second coach was opened, and a call was made for its occupants, it seemed extremely doubtful if she could hold up another instant. She leaned against the post, and stared into the coach, and over its rich upholstering, and said the late Ruby seemed more like a son to her than a neighbor. Whereupon the usher looked appropriately sad, and called up the third and last coach. This had yellow cushions and pink straps, and Mrs. Moriaty didn't hesitate to protest that in the death of Mr. Ruby the community had met a loss that it was not possible to recover from, and that she would follow him to his last resting-place if she had to do it on her knees, and would feel grateful for the opportunity.

Then the third and last coach filled and drove off to take its place in the line, and Mrs. Moriaty dried her tears, choked back the sorrow of her heart with one mighty gulp, and strode into her own house, shutting the front door without the aid of the knob. She told Clarinda that it was the soulless affair she ever went to, and had it not been for the body there would have been no funeral at all.

Trinity People.

The Trinity Journal has the following: A correspondent sends us the following: "At the conclusion of the sermon the other evening, the minister asked if any one present desired to make any remarks about Jesus Christ. An individual jumped up and asked: 'Mr. Preacher:—I don't know offer I can talk much; I am a Sherman; dere ish some men belief in God, but some of them don't. How is that?'" The minister passed around the hat.

Real Estate.

A real estate agent in London has offered four prizes, amounting to $1,500, for the four best "poems," descriptive of his business.

Charles Peters ought to do something of this kind. We suggest that offering a prize of $1,000 for an ode to be read on the opening of the new market, would give employment for a time to two thousand destitute San Francisco poets, and make one of them happy.

A Lonesome Donkey.

William M. Evarts, at a public dinner lately, told this good story on himself: A few Summers since, at the urgent request of one of his youngest daughters, he sent up to his country place in Vermont a donkey for her use. She had read about donkeys, but was not familiar with their peculiar vocalism. The animal's strange noise inspired her with the profoundest pity for his evident distress. So she wrote to her father: "Dear Papa—I do wish you would come up here soon, my donkey is so lonesome."

Sir Walter Raleigh created a consternation when he appeared before his servants smoking a pipe of Tobacco. The sight was a new one to them, and they, as well as the public in general were slow to learn the use of the Weed Had they had Tobacco of the quality and perfect flavor which the Perique and Golden Thread Smoking Tobacco of to-day have, smoking would much sooner become almost universal. The Gilroy Tobacco Company (office 304 Pine street), are offering the above-named Tobaccos to the public, and we advise those in want of a good article to give them a trial. 3-x

TRUSSES!

WM. C. LADOW, M. D., OF PENDLETON, Umatilla County, Oregon says:

"Marsh's Trusses are the most superior inventions of the age. Their principle is superb and construction admirably adapted to the anatomy of parts involved. They protect the life, restore the health, renew the functions of the kidneys and other organs, obviate the pressure upon the SPINE, PUBIC BONE and spermatic chord, and in fact do more practically than all the hundreds of "OTHER" worthless inventions put together can perform. They possess merit, and I know whereof I speak, it being fully demonstrated upon myself and numerous other patients of my own. During a study of thirty years of the respective merits of different appliances, I never had anything to meet my approbation so thoroughly as the Marsh's Patent Trusses.

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

California Theatre.

To-night that most popular of comedians, Mr. John T. Raymond, will make his re-appearance before the San [illegible] Boucicault's play of "Led Astray," which has been performed over one hundred and twenty nights at the Union Square theatre, New York, and is still running to crowded houses, will be produced with new scenery, by W. T Porter and assistants, and new furniture and appointments. Mr. Raymond will appear as Hector Placide, Henry Edwards as Rudolph Chandoce, Miss Annie Graham as Armande Chandoce, Miss Maggie Moore as Mathilde, Miss Ellie Wilton as Suzanne O'Hara, J. F. Buckley as George De Lesparee, John Wilson as Major O'Hara, and W. A. Mestayer as Baron Mount Goslin. Before leaving this city Mr Boucicault cast this piece and expressed his assurance that it would have full justice done it at the hands of the California theatre company. There is but one opinion about the play, and that is that is one of the best and most popular of Mr. Boucicault's productions. A large portion of the house has already been secured and seats are taken far into the week. Mr. Raymond has many novelties to follow "Led Astray," and will doubtless play a brilliantly successful engagement.

Opera House.

This house was thronged on Saturday night, when the Lingard troupe made their first appearance in "La Tentation," on which Boucicault founded his drama "Led Astray." There was another immense audience last night, and the success of the play is assured. With the plot the public are generally familiar. The temptation is offered to a neglected wife, but is resisted and the married couple live happily ever afterwards. Miss Alice Dunning as the discontented Camille, who isn't loved enough, did some splendid acting, and looked superbly handsome, her natural charms being set off to advantage by beautiful and costly dresses. Horace Lingard, as good cousin Achille, the soul of good nature, whose homeliness of feature is forgotten by those who appreciate the beauty of his disposition, carried the sympathy of the audience with him throughout the play, and was rewarded by much applause and hearty laughter. Miss Dickey Lingard, was as jolly as ever, and delighted the audience by the charming naivete of her acting in the character of that most loveable of "hoodlumesses," Helene. J. K Mortimer as Goutran, the neglectful husband, incapable of appreciating the good qualities of the lovely Camille, proved himself an excellent actor. In the final scene of the third act he was extremely effective. Alfred Kelleher played the part of the mild young would-be seducer, George Travelyan very pleasingly and made the audience perceive that there was really no harm in the young man and that he couldn't help loving Camille. Jule Robinson played the character of the Marquis de Sellanes very creditably. Miss Mary Wells who made her first appearance before a California audience on this occasion is an actress of sterling merit; the manner in which she played the Dowager Countess de Vardes, proved that she had learned her profession in the best school. Miss Fanny Young was very good as Madame de Saulieu, Camille's mother and Miss E. Williams played the part of Madame Dumesnil very nicely. The play is capitally put on the stage with handsome furniture and costly ornaments. The reason for its popularity is very plain. It treats of a misunderstanding between a man and his wife which is happily removed without any harm happening to either party. All the "victim" wives and bored husbands in San Francisco should go to see "La Tentation." If they do so, the Opera House will be crowded for a month at least, and there will be a perceptible falling off in the business done in the divorce courts.

Platt's Hall.

To-morrow evening, a very attractive entertainment will be given by members of the dramatic and variety professions for the benefit of Mrs. Martha Gabourn, a widow with seven children to support. The public can well afford to attend on this occasion, as in addition to helping the widow and the fatherless, they will enjoy a very varied programme in which many favorites will take part. Miss Jennie Lee and J. P. Burnett will appear in "The Happy Pair," J. C. Williamson and Lewis Morrison will give recitations, the McCabe sisters, Albertine and Noko, will sing a duet, Geo. S. Knight will make his last appearance in San Francisco in his specialties, Harrington and McGlone will present their very popular double jig, Miss Lydia Boam will sing Nicodemus, and also perform a Highland Fling, Little May will perform her Essence, Master John McKenzie will sing "Sally in our Alley," Miss Emmeline Atlanti will appear in vocal selections, Billy Everton will play the banjo, and Warren and Roach will execute a clog dance. There will be a ball after the performance.

Bella Union Theatre.

The Royal Tycoon troupe of Japanese, are creating a great excitement at this house, by their wonderful feats. John W. Wilkes and Miss Jennie Johnson, cause much amusement in the comedy of "The Irish Mormon." Moore and Bray appear in song and dance, Miss Maggie St. Clair, Miss Louise Bommers, Miss Maggie Wells, and others in songs. Johnny Tuers, presents his eccentricities, and altogether a great entertainment is given.

Buckley's New Variety Theatre.

A bright first-part of wit and song, Mr. George Thompson in his specialities, Miss Maggie Brower in fancy dances, Miss Ida May in sero-comic songs, Mortimer in his sketches, and a multitude of other attractions will be presented this evening.

Woodward's Gardens.

The accident to "Le Secours" has made the captive balloon, which can't get away and bump people on the ground, very popular. Ascents will be made every fine day of the present week. There are thousands of other attractions.

CAOUTCHOUC.—The wonderful Hairless Horse on exhibition on Satter street, opposite the Lick House, is really one of the most remarkable freaks of nature we have ever seen. Looking at the skin through a microscope not a pore can be seen. He is one of the most perfect specimens of a horse physically. He stands about fifteen hands high and weighs 1,000 pounds. He is well worth a visit.

ANATOMICAL MUSEUM.—One of the most complete collections of the kind in the United States, comprising hundreds of costly and beautiful wax models, is daily on view (to gentlemen only) at the Museum on Montgomery street. An hour may be pleasingly spent here.

Palace Amphitheatre.

The great combination troupe at this establishment will appear in a very varied and attractive programme this evening. The Carlo Family will present some of their most admired specialties Mlle. Amelia Bridge will perform on the tight rope, the Kenebels will go frog catching, Omar Kingsley will a pear in his wonderful bareback act, and the very comical pantomime of "Bobby Trot," which proved so popular last week, will conclude the performance.

Notes.

Manager Maguire returned from the East last night having been most successful in securing talent for his two theatres. Stars equally as popular as the Liegards, have been engaged for the opening of the Alhambra Theatre.

Gerald Massey, poet and lecturer will shortly arrive in this city. He lectured on Sunday evening in Virginia City.

All who were acquainted with Charles K. Kothenrath, better known as Charles Kingsford, who was for a long time usher at the Alhambra Theatre, and generally liked for his obliging disposition and frank, manly deportment, will be sorry to hear of his untimely death at the hands of E. B. Congdon, who in a frenzy of madness, killed him and afterwards himself.

Dress Reform for Ladies.

Mrs. Dr. Streeter lectured on this subject a short time ago, and, contrary to most speakers, did not abuse corsets, though she remarked that nearly all now made were objectionable. Now, supposing corsets are necessary, which the writer, not belonging to the gentler sex, cannot give a practical opinion about, it seems that the style worn by the Hindoo and Muesulmanse ladies in India would be just the thing. It is a carefully cut garment of silk or cotton, which fits like a kid glove, and no more compresses the ribs or other portions of the farmework of humanity than a glove would or the epidermis itself, though it seems to afford all possible comfort and support. This triumph of Eastern millinery is called a cholee.

Family Connections.

The passion for family lineage and notoriety reached its acme a short time since. A country damsel, inquiring about her London admirer's friends, received the following promise from him. "The next time yer missus let's yer 'ave a 'oliday I'll take yer to Madam Toosawd's and show yer my brother." The brother had been hanged for murder, and his effigy was in the "chamber of horrors."

Tearing Down Old Landmarks.

Some men's lives are failures because they have mistaken their vocation. No matter what a man's calling may be, he should study to make that calling a success. There is more skill in selecting and arranging the adornments of our homes than many have any idea of. One of the most difficult articles to arrange with taste is Carpets. One must have an eye to the surroundings, the height of the room, the number of windows, the style of the other furniture, and then proceed to select the Carpet. For some rooms one must have a large pattern, in others a small figure; bright colors do not always look the best. Mr. Burnham, one of the firm of J. W. Burnham & Co., 618 Market and 17 Post street, has made the selecting of Carpets and Window-Hangings a study, and selected his stock accordingly—Brussels, Ingrains, Tapestry and Velvets, to say nothing of Oil Cloths, of which they make a specialty. Messrs. B. & Co. are obliged, we regret to say, to close out their entire stock at a sacrifice, on account of the tearing down of their present store, in order to rebuild. For the next thirty days Mr. Burnham can be found at his place of business, and will give his advice and long experience to all that may require it. 3-D

THE SCIENCE—for it is a science—of taking the impression of any animate or inanimate thing on Glass, Porcelain or Cardboard, by using the sun as an auxiliary, is an important one. Improvements have been made from time to time by those who have made Photography a study To our mind (and a visit will make our readers agree with us) the Artist who presides at the Florence Gallery, 23 Third street, has attained a degree of excellence seldom achieved, if ever equalled. His Life-Size Portraits are excellent and prices low. 2bh

What Next?

Every one knows how a photograph looks when viewed through a stereoscope—but a stereoscope cannot always be had. G. D. Morse, at 417 Montgomery street has obviated this difficulty by producing a photograph that is so clear and sharp in its outlines that one would almost think he was looking through the lens of a stereoscope. Mr. Morse's parlors look more like an art gallery than a place of business. 2-r

Spring Style Hats.

If there's one thing in all the world,
Which I have aye reviled,
At which my hatred has been hurled
Since first I was a child,
It is—but you of course can guess,
Without its being said—
It is that overcoming wretchedness
Of turning out of bed.

I see the daylight through the blind,
I hear the milkman's call,
The baker's cry—and hate my kind,
Yes, hate them one and all!
The postman comes—the paper-boy—
I know his wretched tread!
And, just when sleep I most enjoy,
Comes turning out of bed.

The world's still "got the gravy in"—
I like it well done through!
Why must I a raw day begin,
The sun would quickly "do?"
Were I a baker—why, I must
Thus early seek my bread.
I'm not! I hate it, crumb and crust.
When turning out of bed.

And yet in this dark world of woe,—
And pain, and toil, and such—
There is one other thing I know,
And hate almost as much:—
As much? I vow upon my word,
I might say 'more,' instead—
More hateful—though it seems absurd—
Than turning out of bed.

When falls the gentle cloak of night
Upon the world of toil,
When warmly glows the fire's red light,
And gleams the midnight oil,
Then comes the trouble I abhor,
The suffering that I dread,—
I hate than turning out—far more—
The turning into bed!

Boring for Gas.

A bright youth in Richmond, Ky., learning that gas was to be introduced, and observing the workmen digging out places for the pipe, inquired of one of them "how deep they would go down before they struck gas."

Too Bad.

The Louisville Courier-Journal says: "There is a prediction that Mark Twain is to die this year. Well, let him die. We shall then know whether it is true that Death loves a shining Mark."

Oysters.

In strolling round the other night,
To look at 'Frisco by gas light,
Our careless feet, by chance did stray
To where a fountain's ceaseless play
Of sparkling waters, made a screen
Through which a sweet bouquet was seen!
While mossy stone and pearly shell,
O'er which the waters softly fell,
Made that window seem to be
Some fairy grotto of the sea.
Stop," said my friend, "let's go in here
It looks so nice—and try their cheer."
"All right," I said, "I must agree
That this place suits me to a 'T.'"
No sooner had we found a seat
Than at our side a waiter neat
Made his appearance, asked our wish—
Said they had almost any dish
That we might name. We found it true,
And cooked magnificently, too;
All kinds of oysters, juicy, fat,
Cooked every style; just think of that,
And if your mouth don't water, then
You're different from other men.
They'd clams and crabs and terrapins;
In fact, we found they had within
That cosy place all kinds of game,
Fish, flesh or fowl which we could name,
While every dish was, I am sure,
Prepared to tempt an epicure.
The ladies, too, have found, 'twould seem,
That they have here the best ice cream;
So here they flock, the little sinners,
To get what they call "such nice dinners."
Whoever doubts this let him rush
To three hundred thirty-seven Bush,
And there this truth he'll find made plain:
Who goes there once will go again,
Pacific Oyster House, 337 Bush street, above Montgomery; open Day and Night.

Managers

Of Amusements, Excursions, Lectures and Concerts, are directed to the splendid printing establishment of B. F. Sterett, 532 Clay street, over the San Francisco Market. The largest posters, in plain or fancy colors, are turned out in the shortest possible space of time. Also, beautiful programmes, tickets, etc., printed to suit the most fastidious. Mr. Sterett keeps constantly on hand a fine line of bright colored papers of every shade, and the prices charged for these is very little in advance of plain white paper. Streamers of various sizes, from 18 to 42 inch letters, in stock, of all colors of paper and ink. Theatre Managers are especially invited to call for estimates. This well known printing house was established by the present proprietor in 1850, and has been in successful operation ever since. 3-cj

The Lucky Number

Fortunia, the Goddess of Luck, must have designated one hundred and forty-four as her symbol. W. E. Mayhew believes in the number. He drew the second grand prize in the last lottery on that number, and then moved his large and complete stock of Drugs, Perfumes, etc., to 144 Fourth street. Naturally happy and free-hearted, he continues in business for the pleasure it affords him. He is actually giving a splendid Sachet Package of Rimmel's or Lubin's to every customer that comes to his store. 3 B

Epicure's Retreat.

The epicurean fond of nice grain-fed, pig-pork chop, tenderloin or roast, resorts to R. F. Bunker's 74 and 75 California Market, and is never disappointed, for "Bob," is a good feeder himself, and always keeps on hand the very best in his line. Bunker's celebrated Club Sausages will tickle the palate of the most fastidious. Even dyspeptics laugh after eating those sausages. 1z

WHERE WE CIRCULATE "FIGARO."

Everybody knows that "Figaro" has been distributed free for years very generally throughout the city, and has been circulated as programmes in every theatre and place of amusement in San Francisco; and we want everybody to know that "Figaro" is always distributed on the Oakland Ferry-boats that bring the passengers by the great overland train to this city, and is placed in their hands every day—Sundays excluded. That it is mailed first every day to all the leading hotels on the Pacific Coast. That "Figaro" is circulated by Taylor & Co., the Oakland bill distributors, every day throughout the central portions of Oakland. That it is also distributed at Sacramento and on the Sacramento steamers on their down trips to this city, and in all towns on the river side, as may be seen by the annexed certificate from A. H. Babcock, distributing agent on the steamers:

This is to certify that I have agreed to, and do, distribute "Figaro" thoroughly on the Sacramento steamers on their down trips to San Francisco, and have made arrangements to have it generally distributed in the towns of Benicia, Martinez, Collinsville, Sherman Island, Rio Vista, Courtland, Antioch, Pittsburg Landing, New York Landing, and in all of the hotels, saloons, public places, etc., in Sacramento City. ALFRED H. BABCOCK.

March 4th, 1874.

Arrangements are being made for further circulation on other lines of travel, so that "Figaro" shall be "here, there and everywhere," and be placed in the hands of all strangers, families and business men, en route to this city.

The Young Man from the East.

"I'm a stranger in this city,
I'm lately from the East,
And mighty fond of oysters:
Where can I get a feast?
I've been to all the restaurants,
But nowhere could I find,
A plate of Eastern oysters,
Of the old-fashioned kind."

"Well, I can tell you," said his friend,
"Exactly where to go,
And where to get your oysters,
Direct from where they grow.
Just take a stroll down PINE STREET,
As did, below the Market,
You'll see a sign, 'THE SADDLE ROCK,'
You can't fail to remark it.

"Emerson Colville keeps the place,
The best saloon in town,
Where you can get your oysters raw,
Or fried so crisp and brown.
He's the largest oyster dealer
On the Pacific Coast
And that he keeps the freshest
Has ever been his boast.

"He's got nine little private rooms,
Where you can sit at ease,
And eat your California stew,
Or fricasseed peas,
And the young men of fashion go
Right to the SADDLE ROCK,
To eat their RAZTEEN OYSTERS
And drink their Emerald hock."

For Photo-crayons.

And reproduction in a superior style, go to Edward & Cobb, 308 Kearny st. near California. Those desiring any of the above for Christmas presents, should make application before the rain sets in, and so avoid disappointment, satisfaction guaranteed in all cases. 3x

A Bad Business.

Mr. Lawrence Barrett, has not had many opportunities of acting his Shakespearian characters in New York, and consequently has received but few notices from the New York Press; this being the case, he coolly paraphrases notices which have been bestowed on Edwin Booth, and reprints them on his bills. Here is an extract from one of Mr. Barrett's bills.

His Richard is masterly wrought. He is our ideal of the character. The intellectual rather than the brutal villain. His method was admirable. His transitions from the humility of the fawning hypocrite to subtle wit and devilish irony were thrilling. And the death—like that of some malignant viper—closed one of the most clearly-conceived and deftly-rounded pieces of acting it was ever our good fortune to witness.—New York Tribune.

It will be perceived from the following, that this is almost the same words was written not about Mr. Barrett, but of Edwin Booth:

. . . . The actor portrayed himself fully in the ideal, seized the distinct identity and personated it. . . . His method, full of original prompting and informed by wise experience, was singularly beautiful. The transitions—made with the celerity and vividness of lightning—showed Richard's subtle wit and devilish irony, his diplomacy and his tremendous intensity of purpose and courage with a distinctness and force that were often thrilling. . . . And the death—as of some malignant viper—fully-rounded, one of the most symmetrical pieces of acting it has ever been our fortune to witness. . . . .—Tribune, May 22, 1873.

Really an Innocent Paper.

The Chronicle is really not a sensational paper. We are grieved when we hear the accusation made against it. It used to be a sensation paper, we grant, but now-a-days it might be used as a first reader in an infant school. In yesterday's issue, about the only thrilling paragraph was the following, which directs how to poach eggs:

Have the water in the stew-pan boiling, break one egg at a time in a saucer, slip it carefully into the hot water, and let it remain until the white is shut and covers the yolk; then lay it carefully on a toasted and buttered slice of bread. One or two drops of vinegar put into the water tends to hold the egg together.

No one can say there is any harm in this, except the direction about the vinegar which is not good. The editorials in the Chronicle are equally innocent, and its news items are now written up, not by Industrial School graduates, but by Sunday School pupils.

Unabashed.

Forbes, of the Battle Mountain Measure for Measure, goes off the following good one on "Knify:"

Scamblins was sitting at the hotel table, with the other regulars. One man kept prodding into dishes to the right and left of him, and dumping his knife blade into his mouth. One of the boarders attending a generally, remarked: "Gentlemen eat with their forks." "Hell, yes;" says Knify, spluttering his lips, "I've seen 'em do it!"

Too Bright to Live.

The Open Letter, a weekly paper recently published in Vallejo, has ceased to exist. The people of this Coast don't seem to care about bright papers. The Open Letter was too bright and independent to live.

"The Balm of the Bullet?"

Those intending to commit suicide would do well to visit the Call news detective, and procure the balm of the bullet, of which he is inventor and proprietor. Sold in large or small quantities.

The World of Billiards.

As great a stride has been taken in the game of billiards during the last half century, perhaps, as in any other direction. We have all seen the caricature of billiard playing in our grandfather's days. That cartoon represented billiard playing in its early stages. Messrs Chapman & Tyrrell have been busy for the past few weeks in remodelling the second floor of the building on the N. E. corner of Bush and Kearny streets, and on Saturday evening will show to their friends and the public in general, as great a contrast to early billiard playing as there is between a Pullman palace train and an old stage coach. They have a large airy room, very light, (windows on each side) and elegantly furnished. The billiard table comprises all the latest improvements, and are first-class in every respect. The chess and card-rooms are also tastily fitted up. In the east end of the room is the Bar behind which a plate glass mirror that reflects the whole room. Messrs C. & T. deserve credit for the taste they have displayed, and we trust they will receive the patronage they deserve, and which an appreciating public are apt to bestow.

Do Not Suffer from Corns.

The unfortunate sufferers from Corns, Bunions, Club and Ingrowing Nails, can find instant relief by applying at Dr. R. H. Cowen's Institute, 815 Kearny street, from 1 to 5 P.M. We speak from experience, having tested the Doctor's capability. References given if required. x

Press Photograph.

It is said that the Open Letter, formerly published in Vallejo, is to be revived after a suspension of a couple of weeks in this city. The discontinuance for a time of the Open Letter, prevented the publication of the following to which we gladly give place in Figaro, as a well deserved tribute to one whose modesty alone prevents him from taking his proper place:

DELOS J. HOWE.

The Ass. Press Agent, is distinguished as one of the veterans of the California Press, having crossed the plains in the capacity of a bull-whacker in early days. Subsequently, while employed in the retail herring trade, his fine, natural abilities, attracted the attention of the very eminent jurist, Judge Tyler, who first inducted him to literary pursuits and developed the fine oratorical powers, which no less distinguish him than his great literary talents. Young Howe first gained a wide-spread public reputation by a Fourth of July oration, delivered at Bull's Ranch, in the year 1857, which caused a spontaneous outburst of inebriety in that locality. The young actor effected his escape before the enthusiastic people were permitted the satisfaction they naturally desired, and the celebration terminated by hanging a Chinaman. This eloquent effort is preserved in the enchanting volume entitled, "Humors of the Illiterate," edited by Judge Hastings. Mr. Howe, devotes much of his time and energies to oratorical efforts for the promotion of temperance and morality, and he is an earnest co-laborer of the Rev. Otis Gibson, in the evangelizing of the Chinese, receiving a salary from the Up Yea Long Society. He is the author of many of the politico-religious editorials published in the Post, and usually attributed to Harry George.

Dress Reform.

The Grass Valley Union speaking of the reform in dress proposed by certain ladies in San Francisco says:

If the ladies of San Francisco are in earnest we suggest the Chinese women as an example to be followed in the matter of dress. The Chinese fashions have not changed for thousands of years, and a dress can be handed down from mother to daughter for just as long a time as the dress will last, and still be in the prevailing mode. The ladies after awhile, when the eyes of mankind become degenerated by customary sights, may look well in the Chinese costume. The short, "skimpy" skirts and the big trousers of the Mongolian female may, in the course of years, look as well as the flowing drapery of the present civilized people, and will cost much less.

We suggested this last week. A modification of the Chinese dress might suit very well. It could be made to look pretty, and is certainly more sensible than that generally worn by women of the present day.

Interested Motives.

The Bulletin concludes an editorial on Henri Rochefort thus: "If M. Rochefort should come here, we do not think he can be given up, if he should be called for; but at the same time we have no idea that a long stay would be either very desirable or satisfactory. Least ways we do not wish to stand in the attitude of persons imploring M. Rochefort to make one among us." It is evident that Mr. Pickering is afraid that Rochefort, if he stayed in San Francisco would start a newspaper. Mr. P. doesn't want anyone to come here who is likely to start a newspaper.

Unjust.

A gentleman, the other day, in speaking of the average female of the period, said: "She doesn't know enough, sir, to boil water." We don't believe the statement. In fact, we know it to be a foul slander and a vile scandal. Isn't it plain to the shortest sighted that the women of the period keep their husbands in plenty of hot water all the time?

Sir Walter Raleigh created a consternation when he appeared before his servants smoking a pipe of Tobacco. The sight was a new one to them, and they, as well as the public in general, were slow to learn the use of the Weed. Had they had Tobacco of the quality and perfect flavor which the Perique and Golden Thread Smoking Tobacco of to-day have, smoking would much sooner become almost universal. The Gilroy Tobacco Company (office 304 Pine street), are offering the above-named Tobaccos to the public, and we advise those in want of a good article to give them a trial. 3-x

Goldworthy & Weston are saloon-keepers who know their business thoroughly, and consequently keep only the best of Wines, Whiskys and Cigars. We can commend the "Orient" as one of the best places in the city. Try once and you will be satisfied. 3-c

TRUSSES!

W. C. LABOW, M. D., OF PENDLETON, Umatilla County, Oregon says:

Marsh's Trusses are the most superior inventions of the age. Their principle is superb and construction admirably adapted to the anatomy of parts involved. They protect the ruptured parts, restore the health, renew the functions of the kidneys and other organs, obviate the pressure upon the SPINE, PUBIC BONE and spermatic chord, and in fact do more practically than all the hundreds of "OTHER" worthless inventions put together can perform. They possess merit, and I know whereof I speak, it being fully demonstrated upon myself and numerous other patients of my own. During a study of thirty years of the respective merits of different appliances, I never had anything to meet my approbation so thoroughly as the Marsh's Patent Trusses.

The above superior appliances are accurately applied at the Radical Cure Truss office of

A Bad Business.

Mr. Lawrence Barrett, has not had many opportunities of acting his Shakespearian characters in New York, and consequently has received but few notices from the New York Press; this being the case, he coolly paraphrases notices which have been bestowed on Edwin Booth, and reprints them on his bills: Here is an extract from one of Mr. Barrett's bills.

His Richard is masterly wrought. He is our ideal of the character. The intellectual rather than the brutal villain. His method was admirable, his transitions from the humility of the fawning hypocrite to subtle wit and devilish irony were thrilling. And the death—like that of some malignant viper—closed one of the most clearly-conceived and deftly-rounded pieces of acting it was ever our good fortune to witness.—New York Tribune.

It will be perceived from the following, that this in almost the same words was written not about Mr. Barrett, but of Edwin Booth:

. . . . . The actor perfected himself fully in the ideal, seized the distinct identity and preserved it. . . . His method, full of original prompting and informed by wise experiences, was singularly beautiful. The transitions—made with the celerity and vividness of lightning—showed Richard's subtle wit and devilish irony, his duplicity and his tremendous intensity of purpose and courage with a distinctness and force that were often thrilling. . . . And the death—as of some malignant viper—fully-rounded, one of the most symmetrical pieces of acting it has ever been our fortune to witness. . . . .—Tribune, May 2d, 1872.

Really an Innocent Paper.

The Chronicle is really not a sensational paper. We are grieved when we hear the accusation made against it. It used to be a sensation paper, we grant, but now-a-days it might be used as a first reader in an infant school. In yesterday's issue, about the only thrilling paragraph was the following, which directs how to poach eggs:

Have the water in the stew-pan boiling, break one egg at a time in a saucer, slip it carefully into the hot water, and let it remain until the white is thick and covers the yolk: then lay it carefully on a toasted and buttered slice of bread. One or two drops of vinegar put into the water tends to hold the egg together.

No one can say there is any harm in this, except the direction about the vinegar which is not good. The editorials in the Chronicle are equally innocent, and its news items are now written up, not by Industrial School graduates, but by Sunday School pupils.

Unabashed.

Forbes, of the Battle Mountain Measure for Measure, gets off the following good one on "Knify:"

Semblins was sitting at the hotel table, with the other regulars. One man kept prodding into dishes to the right and left of him, and dumping his knife blade into his mouth. One of the boarders intending a severity, remarked: "Gentlemen eat with their forks." "Hell, yes;" says Knify, splitting his lips, "I've seen 'em do it!"

Too Bright to Live.

The Open Letter, a weekly paper recently published in Vallejo, has ceased to exist. The people of this Coast don't seem to care about bright papers. The Open Letter was too bright and independent to live.

"The Balm of the Bullet"?

Those intending to commit suicide would do well to visit the Call news detective, and procure the balm of the bullet, of which he is inventor and proprietor. Sold in large or small quantities.

The World of Billiards.

As great a stride has been taken in the game of billiards during the last half century, perhaps, as in any other direction. We have all seen the caricature of billiard playing in our grandfather's days. That cartoon represented billiard playing in its early stages. Messrs Chapman & Tyrrel have been busy for the past few weeks in remodelling the second floor of the building on the N. E. corner of Bush and Kearny streets, and on Saturday evening will show to their friends and the public in general, as great a contrast to early billiard playing as there is between a Pullman palace train and an old stage coach. They have a large airy room, very light, (windows on each side) and elegantly furnished. The billiard table comprise all the latest improvements, and are first-class in every respect. The chess and card-rooms are also tastily fitted up. In the east end of the room is the Bar behind which a plate glass mirror that reflects the whole room, Messrs C. & T. deserve credit for the taste they have displayed, and we trust they will receive the patronage they deserve, and which an appreciating public are apt to bestow.

Do Not Suffer from Corns.

Press Photograph.

It is said that the Open Letter, formerly published in Vallejo, is to be revived after a suspension of a couple of weeks in this city. The discontinuance for a time of the Open Letter, prevented the publication of the following to which we gladly give place in FIGARO, as a well deserved tribute to one whose modesty alone prevents him from taking his proper place:

DELOS J. HOWE,

The Ass. Press Agent, is distinguished as one of the veterans of the California Press, having crossed the plains in the capacity of a bushwacker in early days. Subsequently, while employed in the retail herring trade, his fine, natural abilities, attracted the attention of the very eminent jurist, Judge Tyler, who first inducted him to literary pursuits and developed the fine oratorical powers, which no less distinguish him than his great literary talents. Young Howe first gained a wide-spread public reputation by a Fourth of July oration, delivered at Bull's Ranch, in the year 1867, which caused a spontaneous outburst of inebriety in that locality. The young actor effected his escape before the enthusiastic people were permitted the satisfaction they naturally desired, and the celebration terminated by hanging a Chinaman. This eloquent effort is preserved in the enchanting volume entitled, "Humors of the Illiterate," edited by Judge Hastings. Mr. Howe, devotes much of his time and energies to oratorical efforts for the promotion of temperance and morality, and he is an earnest co-laborer of the Rev. Otis Gibson, in the evangelizing of the Chinese, receiving a salary from the Up Yea Long Society. He is the author of many of the politico-religious editorials published in the Post, and usually attributed to Harry George.

Dress Reform.

The Grass Valley Union speaking of the reform in dress proposed by certain ladies in San Francisco says:

If the ladies of San Francisco are in earnest we suggest the Chinese women as an example to be followed in the matter of dress. The Chinese fashions have not changed for thousands of years, and a dress can be handed down from mother to daughter, for just as long a time as the dress will last, and still be in the prevailing mode. The ladies after awhile, when the eyes of mankind become degenerated by customary sights, may look well in the Chinese costume. The short, "skimpy" skirts and the big trousers of the Mongolian female may, in the course of years, look as well as the flowing drapery of the present civilized people, and will cost much less.

We suggested this last week. A modification of the Chinese dress might suit very well. It could be made to look pretty, and is certainly more sensible than that generally worn by women of the present day.

Interested Motives.

The Bulletin concludes an editorial on Henri Rochefort thus: "If M. Rochefort should come here, we do not think he can be given up, if he should be called for; but at the same time we have no idea that a long stay would be either very desirable or satisfactory. Least ways we do not wish to stand in the attitude of persons imploring M. Rochefort to make one among us." It is evident that Mr. Pickering is afraid that Rochefort, if he stayed in San Francisco would start a newspaper. Mr. P. doesn't want anyone to come here who is likely to start a newspaper.

Unjust.

A gentleman, the other day, in speaking of the average female of the period, said: "She doesn't know enough, sir, to boil water." We don't believe the statement. In fact, we know it to be a foul slander and a vile scandal. Isn't it plain to the shortest sighted that the women of the period keep their husbands in plenty of hot water all the time?

Sir Walter Raleigh created a consternation when he appeared before his servants smoking a pipe of Tobacco. The sight was a new one to them, and they, as well as the public in general were slow to learn the use of the Weed Had they had Tobacco of the quality and perfect flavor which the Perique and Golden Thread Smoking Tobacco of to-day have, smoking would much sooner become almost universal. The Gilroy Tobacco Company (office 304 Pine street), are offering the above-named Tobaccos to the public, and we advise those in want of a good article to give them a trial. 3-r

.....OF.....

TRUSSES!

W. C. LADOW, M. D., OF PENDLETON, Umatilla County, Oregon says:

Marsh's Trusses are the most superior inventions of the age. Their principle is superb and construction admirably adapted to the anatomy of parts involved. They protect the life, restore the health, renew the functions of the kidneys and other organs, obviate the pressure upon the SPINE, PUBIC BONE and spermatic chord, and in fact do more practically than all the hundreds of "OTHER" worthless inventions put together can perform. They possess merit, and I know whereof I speak, it being fully demonstrated upon myself and numerous other patients of my own. During a study of thirty years of the respective merits of different appliances, I never had anything to meet my approbation so thoroughly as the Marsh's Patent Trusses.

The above superior appliances are accurately applied at the Radical Cure Truss Office of

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

Opera House.

"La Tentation," drew another large audience last night. It will be repeated to-night with J. Norris, who has just arrived from the East, as George Trevalyan, instead of Mr. Kelleher, and John Rawson as the Marquis de Brillanes, in place of Jule Robinson. With this strengthened cast, the play will be more popular than ever. Miss Josie Batchelder, who is spoken of by our Eastern exchanges as an actress of much ability, has arrived, and will shortly make her appearance at this house.

California Theatre.

There was a very good house last night, when Boucicault's drama of "Led Astray" was produced, and the favorite comedian, John T. Raymond, made his reappearance. We published the plot of "Led Astray" on Saturday, and the public know it by heart. Mr. Raymond, as Hector Placide, caused much amusement, and gained considerable applause for his impersonation of the part. Henry Edwards as Rodolphe Chaudoce, was excellent. Miss Annie Graham played the role of Armande, with much earnestness, and brought into strong relief the unamiable traits which made that unhappy woman a nuisance to her husband. E. J. Buckley, as the lover George De Lesparre, acted with admirable ease, abstaining from gush and carrying himself in a perfectly easy and graceful manner. Miss Maggie Moore, as the self-willed Mathilde, delighted the audience by her sprightly acting. W. A. Mestayer as the languid aswell, Baron Mount Gestin, did well. Miss Ellie Wilton acted, read and dressed the part of Suzanne O'Hara with her accustomed ability. Mrs. C. E. Saunders, as the Baroness De Rivenierre, was amusing, and Mrs. Sophie Edwin as the Dowager Countess Chaudoce, acted the role with becoming dignity. "Led Astray" should draw crowded houses. If a lady asks her husband to take her to the California Theatre while it is being played, he is a fool if he refuses to do so. The husband has the best of it all through the play, and the wickedness of Armande in suffering herself to be led astray, even in thought, is strongly insisted on. On the other hand, ladies with "brutes" of husbands who prefer the club to the domestic fireside, can enjoy the play and sympathize with Armande, whose nerves are none of the best, and who, consequently, should receive more consideration from her careless lord and master.

Bella Union Theatre.

The male and female minstrels, the amusing comedy of "The Irish Mormon," with John W. Wilkes, Miss Jennie Johnson and others in the cast, the Tycoon Japs in their thrilling feats and many other attractions will be presented to-night.

Platt's Hall.

This evening, a very attractive entertainment will be given by members of the dramatic and variety professions for the benefit of Mrs. Martha Gabourn, a widow with seven children to support. The public can well afford to attend on this occasion, as in addition to helping the widow and the fatherless, they will enjoy a very varied programme in which many favorites will take part. Miss Jennie Lee and J. P. Burnett will appear in "The Happy Pair," J. C. Williamson and Lewis Morrison will give recitations, the McCabe sisters, Albertine and Noko, will sing a duet, Geo. S. Knight will make his last appearance in San Francisco in his specialties, Harrington and McGlone will present their very popular double jig, Miss Lydia Boam will sing Nicodemus, and also perform a Highland Fling, Little May will perform her Essence, Master John McKenzie will sing "Sally in our Alley," Miss Emmeline Atlanti will appear in vocal selections, Billy Everton will play the banjo, and Warren and Roach will execute a clog dance. There will be a ball after the performance.

Palace Amphitheatre.

The wonderfully comical Kenobis, in their grotesque performances, the infant wonders, Masters Leotard and Harry Carlo, Mlle. Amelia Bridges, the famous tight-rope walker, Omar Kingsley, the great equestrian, Master Johnny Cooke and other favorite performers will appear to-night in a great bill. There will be a matinee to-morrow.

Buckley's New Variety Theatre.

Johnny Price, George C. Thompson, Miss Ida May, Miss Irene Walters, Frank Mortimer and a host of others will appear to-night, in a great bill which is published on our first page.

Woodward's Gardens.

The accident to "Le Secours" has made the captive balloon, which can't get away and bump people on the ground, very popular. Ascents will be made on Saturday and Sunday. There are thousands of other attractions, and a general performance in the pavilion.

CAOUTCHOUC.—The wonderful Hairless Horse on exhibition on Sutter street, opposite the Lick House, is really one of the most remarkable freaks of nature we have ever seen. Looking at the skin through a microscope not a pore can be seen. He is one of the most perfect specimens of a horse physically. He stands about fifteen hands high and weighs 1,000 pounds. He is well worth a visit.

ANATOMICAL MUSEUM.—One of the most complete collections of the kind in the United States, comprising hundreds of costly and beautiful wax models, is daily on view (to gentlemen only) at the Museum on Montgomery street. An hour may be profitably spent here.

Sale of Choice Paintings.

A very fine collection of imported and local pictures is on view at H. M. Newhall & Co's rooms. They comprise every variety of subject, landscape, figure and still life. One magnificent flower piece, by Le Claire of Paris, with accessories of vase, antique plate, oaken table and tapestried background is worth the journey to Sansome street. The collection will be on view to Friday morning, the day of sale, and brilliantly lighted up in the evening, so that those whose business does not permit of a visit during the day can have a chance of inspecting them.

Epicure's Retreat.

An epicurean fond of nice grain-fed, pig-pork chop, tenderloin or roast, resorts to B. F. Bunker's 74 and 76 California Market, and is never disappointed, for "Bob," is a good feeder himself, and always keeps on hand the very best in his line. Bunker's celebrated Club Sausages will tickle the palate of the most fastidious. Even dyspeptics laugh after eating those sausages. 1z

THIS WORLD.

BY GERALD MASSEY.

Behold an idle tale they tell,
And who shall blame their telling it?
The rogues have got their cant to sell,
The world pays well for selling it.
They say this world's a desert drear,
Still plagued with Eve's tribulations:
That we were sent to suffer here—
What! by a God of kindness?

That since the world has gone astray,
It must be so forever!
And we should stand still—and obey
Its desolateness—never!
We'll labor for the better time
With all our might of press and pen;
Believe me, 'tis truth sublime,
God's world is worthy better men.

Oh! they are bold—knaves ever bold,
Who say we are doomed to anguish;
That men, in God's own image-mold,
Like hell-bound slaves must languish.
Probe nature's heart to its red core,
There's more of good than evil;
And man, down trodden man, is more
An angel—than a devil!

Prepare to die! prepare to live?
We know not what is living!
And let us from the world's good give
As God is ever giving,
Give action, thought, and wealth and time,
To win the primal age again!
Believe me, 'tis a truth sublime,
God's world is worthy better men.

Praying Poets.

A great religious revival is going on in St. Louis under the management of Rev. Mr. Hammond. The following are some of the requests for prayer made at one of the recent meetings: "Pray for the Postmaster of this city, that he may not use profane language in his office, and in the presence of his clerks." "Pray for sawmill and railroad employes, that they may be brought to Christ." "Pray for the boys who stand around Garrison and Easton avenues." "Pray for an unconverted druggist on Olive street." "Pray for the young men in the India-rubber store."

New Building Going Up Opposite the Palace Hotel.

Among the improvements contemplated in the immediate vicinity of the New Palace Hotel, is the tearing down and reconstruction of the frame building, 618 Market street. It is at present occupied by J. W. Burnham & Co., carpet dealers. Calling on Mr. Burnham for information concerning the improvements, we were told that they would commence rebuilding in about sixty days. Mr. B. also gave us some interesting facts concerning the Carpet business. He said that there were annually put down in this city over 60,000 new carpets, and that their house alone sold over 150,000 yards last year. He also said that their present stock, worth about $160,000, would have to be sold inside of sixty days. In place of making a profit on his sales for the next sixty days, Mr. B. said that he expected to lose about $15,000, because they had determined to make a forced sale in order to close out their entire stock so as to make room while rebuilding. Their stock comprises Brussels, Tapestries, Velvet and Ingrain Carpets, a splendid assortment of Oilcloths, of German English and American manufacture, window curtains, hearth rugs, door mats, hall and stair carpets, for which no reasonable offer will be refused. While rebuilding they will occupy the building No. 3 8 Pine street, near Montgomery.

What Next?

Every one knows how a photograph looks when viewed through a stereoscope—but a stereoscope cannot always be had. G. D. Morse, at 417 Montgomery street has obviated this difficulty by producing a photograph that is so clear and sharp in its outlines that one would almost think he was looking through the lens of a stereoscope. Mr. Morse's parlors look more like an art gallery than a place of business. 2-T

Spring Style Hats.

John Stuart Mill is severe against the opponents of Sunday amusements. He says: "The only ground on which restrictions on Sunday amusements can be defended must be that they are religiously wrong, a notion of legislation which can never be too earnestly protested against. It remains to be proved that society or any of its officers hold a commission from on High to avenge any supposed offense to Omnipotence which is not also a wrong to our fellow creatures. The notion that it is one man's duty another should be religious, was the foundation of all the religious persecutions ever perpetrated, and, if admitted, would fully justify them. Though the feeling which breaks out in repeated attempts to stop railway traveling on Sunday, in the resistance to the opening of museums and the like, has not the cruelty of the old persecutions, the state of mind indicated by it is fundamentally the same. It is a determination not to tolerate others in doing what is permitted by their religion because it is not permitted by the persecutors' religion."

A Musical Blower.

At a well known Roman Catholic church in Liverpool, lately, it had been arranged by the choir to perform Haydn's Mass, No. 1, but, owing to some unforeseen occurrence, Haydn's Service, No. 4, was substituted. Afterward, the blower of the organ, who has held the situation for many years, remarked to one of the singers: "I say, Miss, that there service went very bad, didn't it? They never told me that they were going to sing Haydn, No. 4, and I was blowing Haydn, No. 1, all the time."

Too Thin.

Some years ago a man in England who was very thin exhibited himself as a living skeleton. He made much money in this way, and as he grew rich he became fat, until several years after his retirement from the show business he was as fat as he had formerly been lean. Lately, having spent his fortune, he attempted to again reduce himself to a skeleton, with intention of returning to the show business, but he died from exhaustion soon after reaching the desired condition.

Oysters.

In strolling round the other night,
To look at 'Frisco by gas light,
Our careless feet, by chance did stray
To where a fountain's ceaseless play
Of sparkling waters, made a screen
Through which a sweet bouquet was seen;
While mossy stone and pearly shell,
O'er which the waters softly fell,
Made that window seem to be
Some fairy grotto of the sea.
Stop," said my friend, "let's go in here
It looks so nice—and try their cheer."
"All right," I said, "I must agree
That this place suits me to a T."
No sooner had we found a seat
Than at our side a waiter neat
Made his appearance, asked our wish—
Said they had almost any dish
That we might name. We found it true,
And cooked magnificently, too;
All kinds of oysters, juicy, fat,
Cooked every style; just think of that,
And if your mouth don't water, then
You're different from other men.
They'd clams and crabs and terrapins'g
In fact, we found they had within
That cosy place all kinds of game,
Fish, flesh or fowl which we could name,
While every dish was, I am sure,
Prepared to tempt an epicure.
The ladies, too, have found, 'twould seem,
That they have here the best ice cream;
So here they flock, the little sinners,
To get what they call "such nice dinners."
Whoever doubts this let him rush
To three hundred thirty-seven Bush,
And there this truth he'll find made plain:
Who goes there once will go again.

Pacific Oyster House, 337 Bush street, above Montgomery; open Day and Night.

Managers

Of Amusements, Excursions, Lectures and Concerts, are directed to the splendid printing establishment of B. F. Sterett, 532 Clay street, over the San Francisco Market. The largest posters, in plain or fancy colors, are turned out in the shortest possible space of time. Also, beautiful programmes, tickets, etc., printed to suit the most fastidious. Mr. Sterett keeps constantly on hand a fine line of bright colored papers of every shade, and the prices charged for these is very little in advance of plain white paper. Streamers of various sizes, from 18 to 42 inch letters, in stock, of all colors of paper and ink. Theatre Managers are especially invited to call for estimates. This well known printing house was established by the present proprietor in 1850, and has been in successful operation ever since. 3-cj

The Lucky Number

Fortunia, the Goddess of Luck, must have designated one hundred and forty-four as her symbol. W. E. Mayhew believes in the number. He drew the second grand prize in the last lottery on that number, and then moved his large and complete stock of Drugs, Perfumes, etc., to 144 Fourth street. Naturally happy and free-hearted, he continues in business for the pleasure it affords him. He is actually giving a splendid Sachet Package of Rimmel's or Lubin's to every customer that comes to his store. 3 B

THE SCIENCE—for it is a science—of taking the impression of any animate or inanimate thing on Glass, Porcelain or Cardboard, by using the sun as an auxiliary, is an important one. Improvements have been made from time to time by those who have made Photography a study. To our mind (and a visit will make our readers agree with us) the Artist who presides at the Florence Gallery, 28 Third street, has attained a degree of excellence seldom achieved, if ever equalled. His Life-Size Portraits are excellent and prices low. 2bh

WHERE WE CIRCULATE "FIGARO."

Everybody knows that "FIGARO" has been distributed free for years very generally throughout the city, and has been circulated as programme in every theatre and place of amusement in San Francisco; and we want everybody to know that "FIGARO" is always distributed on the Oakland Ferry-boats that bring the passengers by the great overland train to this city, and is placed in their hands every day—Sundays included. That it is mailed free every day to all the leading hotels on the Pacific Coast. That "FIGARO" is circulated by Taylor & Co., the Oakland bill distributors, every day throughout the central portions of Oakland. That it is also distributed at Sacramento and on the Sacramento steamers on their down trips to this city, and in all towns on the river side, as may be seen by the annexed certificate from A. H. Nahor, distributing agent on the steamers:

This is to certify that I have agreed to, and do, distribute "FIGARO" thoroughly on the Sacramento steamers on their down trips to San Francisco, and have made arrangements to have it generally distributed in the towns of Benicia, Martinez, Collinsville, Sherman Island, Rio Vista, Courtland, Antioch, Pittsburg Landing, New York Landing, and in all of the hotels, saloons, public places, etc., in Sacramento City. ALFRED H. NAHOR,

March 4th, 1874.

Arrangements are being made for further circulation on other lines of travel, so that "FIGARO" shall be "here, there and everywhere," and be placed in the hands of all strangers, families and business men en route to this city.

The Young Man from the East.

"I'm a stranger in this city,
I'm lately from the East,
And mighty fond of oysters;
Where can I get a feast?
I've been to all the restaurants,
But nowhere could I find,
A plate of Eastern oysters,
Of the old-fashioned kind."

"Well, I can tell you," said his friend,
"Exactly where to go,
And where to get your oysters,
Direct from where they grow.
Just take a stroll down PINE STREET,
At 410, below the Market,
You'll see a sign, 'THE SADDLE ROCK,
You can't fail to remark it.

"Emerson Corville keeps the place,
The best saloon in town,
There you can get your oysters raw,
Or fried so crisp and brown.
He's the largest oyster dealer
On the Pacific Coast,
And that he keeps the freshest
Has ever been his boast.

"He's got nice little private rooms,
Where you can sit at ease,
And eat your California stew,
Or Eastern if you please.
All the young men of fashion go
Right to the SADDLE ROCK,
To eat their EASTERN OYSTERS
And drink their Rhenish hock."

For Photo-crayons.

And reproduction in a superior style, go to Edouard & Cobb, 506 Kearny st. near California. Those desiring any of the above for Christmas presents, should make application before the rain sets in, and so avoid disappointment, satisfaction guaranteed in all cases 5r

REFORMERS.

It is the fashion of the press and the public to sneer at reformers. If a meeting is called for the purpose of starting some needed reform, the reporters of the press describe those present as long-haired, ill-dressed, lean, discontented people. These are just the people we expect to find at a reform meeting. Reforms originate with the discontented. Those who have all the comforts of life, are very well satisfied with the world, as it is, and do not wish to reform it. If we were to find Michael Reese, Sharon, Col. W. H. L. Barnes, Adelaide Neilson, Joe Ferl, Horatio Stebbins, W. C. Ralston, Miss Maggie Moore, Milton S. Latham, at the head of a reform movement, we should think the world was coming to an end. They are all comfortable and jolly enough, the world is a good enough world for them. A pretty woman does not want any law to give her her rights; she'll manage to get all that belong to her, and even more. A man who can enjoy good dinners, smoke good cigars, drink good wine, and has unlimited credit at his tailor's, doesn't care much about prosperity. On the other hand the lean, angular woman who has no personal charms which she can use to mollify the tyrant man, no money with which she can dress well, no amusement of any kind, is apt to think this a very sad, cruel world, and to set herself to devise means by which she, though neither young, pretty nor rich, may secure equal privileges with those of the male sex, who depend neither on their good looks, amiable disposition, nor money to secure them consideration. The man who has no credit at a tailor's, or a barber's, or even at a restaurant, and earns his money hardly, sees men of less intelligence than himself feeding on the fat of the land, and enjoying the good things of life, and thinks there is something wrong, that there is need of reform. So these men with long hair, and seedy apparel, join together with the lean, angular, "unpretty," unfortunate females, and they howl in unison. After they have been doing this for some years, the comfortable, well-fed portion of the community in the meantime laughing at them and wondering what they have to find fault with, they gain a point or two and no one knows how it has been done. Very absurd was the Fenian agitation, supremely ridiculous the invasion of Canada, yet it had the effect of disestablishing the Irish Church and gaining for Ireland the removal of some of her wrongs. A scrubby lot of long-haired fanatics, were the twelve apostles, a queer set of women were those who followed Jesus. All the respectable people of the day laughed and sneered at them. Nicodemus, afraid of shocking his respectable neighbors with whom he had business relations, went to Jesus by night. He would have been ashamed to be seen speaking to such a man in the day time. Go on gentlemen, reporters of the press, chaff and sneer and hoot at the ill-dressed, long-haired reformers of the day, but you may depend upon it they are doing their work, and they are doing work which if not done by them would remain undone.

The Chapman Family.

They have about fifteen members of the Chapman family in Sacramento. We have, at least one, here. Sam Chapman, who writes plays, if he does not act them, has, in association with W. Terrill, opened a splendid billiard parlor, on the northeast corner of Bush and Kearny streets. The room is furnished with Strable's beveled tables, with Delaney's steel band cushions. By-the-way, Miss Belle Chapman, another of the family, who has been winning fame and money with her cousins, the Chapman sisters, returned to this city, from the East, on Thursday.

The World of Billiards.

As great a stride has been taken in the game of billiards during the last half century, perhaps, as in any other direction. We have all seen the caricature of billiard playing in our grandfather's days. That cartoon represented billiard playing in its early stages. Messrs Chapman & Tyrrel have been busy for the past few weeks in remodelling the second floor of the building on the N. E. corner of Bush and Kearny streets, and on Saturday evening will show to their friends and the public in general, as great a contrast to early billiard playing as there is between a Pullman palace train and an old stage coach. They have a large airy room, very light, (windows on each side) and elegantly furnished. The billiard table comprise all the latest improvements, and are first-class in every respect. The chess and card-rooms are also tastily fitted up. In the east end of the room is the Bar behind which a plate glass mirror that reflects the whole room, Messrs C. & T. deserve credit for the taste they have displayed, and we trust they will receive the patronage they deserve, and which an appreciating public are apt to bestow.

Do Not Suffer from Corns.

The unfortunate sufferers from Corns, Bunions, Club and Ingrowing Nails, can find instant relief by applying at Dr. R. H. Cowan's Institute, 310 Kearny street, from 1 to 6 P.M. We speak from experience, having tested the Doctor's capability. References given if required. x

The mud is so deep at the foot of Nelson street that a pedestrian, in crossing it yesterday, had a jack-knife washed from his pocket. But that is not so deep as the mud in Bridgeport, where a man lost his hat.

Keeping it Up.

Of course, there was more shooting this morning. The men were room-mates. One got up at the uncomfortable hour of six o'clock, took his pistol, lying so invitingly before him, and shot his friend in bed, and then blew his own brains out—that is, providing he had any. That's right, keep it up, the saturnalia of shooting! Who will be the next cranky fool, or cowardly braggart, with a pistol slung on his hip, who will "draw his weapon and use it?" Next!

New Music.

We have received from the publisher, M. Gray, "The lips that touch liquor shall never touch mine" ballad, words by Sam Booth, music by Geo. T. Evans, and "The Wishing Ring," words and music by David Nesfield.

Sir Walter Raleigh created a consternation when he appeared before his servants smoking a pipe of Tobacco. The sight was a new one to them, and they, as well as the public in general were slow to learn the use of the Weed Had they had Tobacco of the quality and perfect flavor which the Perique and Golden Thread Smoking Tobacco of to-day have, smoking would much sooner become almost universal. The Gilroy Tobacco Company (office 304 Pine street) are offering the above-named Tobaccos to the public, and we advise those in want of a good article to give them a trial. 3-r

A Terrible Scandal.

A popular clergyman of Buffalo returned from an extended journey a few days since, and just as he alighted from the cars and was receiving the congratulations of a crowd of delighted parishioners, who had assembled to greet him, an inebriated individual following in his wake, seized him by the hand, and exclaimed:

"Well, good-bye, old pard, I'm going further, and I shall keep up the same old drunk for awhile yet, but you're pretty well sobbered up and you had better keep so! I 'spect, as drinkin's rough when a fellow's round home. But you know how to go on a gallus spree and have a rum time just as good as any pard I ever had, and you has my respect. Day-day, old buster."

Before the astonished clergyman could gather his wandering wits the hail fellow was off, leaving a terrible scandal for the delectation of the gossips of Buffalo, and a prospective candidate for the lunatic asylum.

Perhaps.

Abba G. Woolson closed a recent lecture in Boston, on "Woman's Dress," by declaring that, had she the autocratic power of the Shah or Czar, she would command every man in her kingdom to change his apparel with the women for one day only, that both might see how good it was! By night the men would be groaning and fuming to rid themselves of the horrors they had considered as the type of beauty in the other sex, while the poor women would be wailing over a return to their normal condition of petticoat servitude and imprisoning bands.

We very much doubt the last statement. Women are not in love with petticoats, and would take kindly to—the other things.

Unselfish Man.

In some natures the loftiest unselfishness is often strikingly manifested. There is a Brooklyn man who keeps his family at a cheap boarding-house, in order to spare the means for his mother-in-law to travel abroad.

An Even Thing.

An exchange says: "A bachelor is described as a man who has neglected his opportunity of making one poor woman miserable." Well, he has balanced the account—he has kept one man happy.

WHAT AN EMINENT PHYSICIAN SAYS

.....OF.....

TRUSSES!

Wm. C. Ladow, M. D., of Pendleton, Umatilla County, Oregon says:

Marsh's Trusses are the most superior inventions of the age. Their principle is superb and construction admirably adapted to the anatomy of parts involved. They protect the life, restore the health, renew the functions of the kidneys and other organs, obviate the pressure upon the SPINE, PUBIC BONE and spermatic chord, and in fact do more practically than all the hundreds of "OTHER" worthless inventions put together can perform. They possess merit, and I know whereof I speak, it being fully demonstrated upon myself and numerous other patients of my own. During a study of thirty years of the respective merits of different appliances, I never had anything to meet my approbation so thoroughly as the Marsh's Patent Trusses.

The above superior appliances are accurately applied at the Radical Cure Truss Office of

SPEAKS FOR ITSE[LF]

San Francisco, April 1st, 1874.

Dr. Aborn 213 Geary Street—Dear Sir: On my arrival in this city from Salt Lake last January, I was induced to call on you for treatment for deafness. I had been deaf for about 4 years; although retaining my speaking faculty had forgotten to modulate my voice, so long since I had heard myself speak, but now able to carry on a conversation without the provided that my attention is not distracted by surrounding noises. If any one wished to test the efficacy of my cure they are at liberty to call on me at the Holden House, on Kearny street, between Sacramento and California.

Yours Very Truly,

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

California Theatre.

"Led Astray" will only be played during the present week, as it must be withdrawn to make way for "The Wicked World" and other plays, which Mr. Raymond intends to produce during his limited engagement at this theatre.

Opera House.

"La Tentation," with the cast strengthened by the substitution of J. Norris for Alfred Kelleher, as George Trevelyan, and John Howson for Jule Robinson as the Marquis De Saillanes, drew a splendid house last night, and the play was capitally performed. Mr. Morris gained much applause for his impersonation of the lover, and is likely to become a favorite. John Howson, by his doing of the role of the Marquis, proved how much can be made of a small part by a good actor. Horace Lingard, Miss Alice Dunning, Miss Hickey Lingard, J. E. Mortimer and all engaged in the representation played their respective parts with much ability. "Charity," by W. S. Gilbert, the latest New York success, is underlined for speedy production.

Platt's Hall.

The variety entertainment given at this hall last night by members of the dramatic and variety professions for the benefit of Mrs. Martha Goburn, a widow with seven children, was quite a success, and was much enjoyed by all present. As all the artistes volunteered for the occasion, a considerable sum must have been realized for the worthy object in view.

Palace Amphitheatre.

There will be a new programme at the circus to-night, embracing the best acts of the wonderful Carlo Brothers, and their equally wonderful infant pupils, the funniest business possible by the twin clowns Kenobels, dashing bareback riding by Omar Kingsley, and many other attractive features.

Bella Union Theatre.

The comedy of the "Irish Mormon," the Japanese in their thrilling feats, Moore and Bray in song and dance, Miss Louise Somers in ballads, and others in various specialties, will afford abundant entertainment to all who visit this house to-night.

Buckley's New Variety Theatre.

Johnny Price in song and dance, Geo. C. Thompson in specialties, Miss Maggie Brewer in dances, Miss Katie Zoe in songs, and a great number of other artistes will appear to-night.

Woodward's Gardens.

The accident to "Le Sesours" has made the captive balloon, which can't get away and bump people on the ground, very popular. Ascents will be made on Saturday and Sunday. There are thousands of other attractions, and a general performance in the pavilion.

CAOUTCHOUC.—The wonderful Hairless Horse on exhibition on Sutter street, opposite the Lick House, is really one of the most remarkable freaks of nature we have ever seen. Looking at the skin through a microscope not a pore can be seen. He is one of the most perfect specimens of a horse physically. He stands about fifteen hands high and weighs 1,000 pounds. He is well worth a visit.

ANATOMICAL MUSEUM.—One of the most complete collections of the kind in the United States, comprising hundreds of costly and beautiful wax models, is daily on view (to gentlemen only) at the Museum on Montgomery street. An hour may be profitably spent here.

Sale of Choice Paintings.

A very fine collection of imported and local pictures is on view at R. M. Newhall & Co's rooms. They comprise every variety of subject, landscape, figure and still life. One magnificent flower piece, by Le Claire of Paris, with accessories of vase, antique plate, oaken table and tapestried background is worth the journey to Sansome street. The collection will be on view to Friday morning, the day of sale, and brilliantly lighted up in the evening, so that those whose business does not permit of a visit during the day can have a chance of inspecting it.

New Building Going Up Opposite the Palace Hotel.

Among the improvements contemplated in the immediate vicinity of the New Palace Hotel, is the tearing down and reconstruction of the frame building, 618 Market street. It is at present occupied by J. W. Burnham & Co., carpet dealers. Calling on Mr. Burnham for information concerning the improvements, we were told that they would commence rebuilding in about sixty days. Mr. B. also gave us some interesting facts concerning the Carpet business. He said that there were annually put down in this city over 60,000 new carpets, and that their house alone sold over 150 000 yards last year. He also said that their present stock, worth about $160,000, would have to be sold inside of sixty days. In place of making a profit on his sales for the next sixty days, Mr. B. said that he expected to lose about $5,000, because they had determined to make a forced sale in order to close out their entire stock so as to make room while rebuilding. Their stock comprises Brussels, Tapestries, Velvet and Ingrain Carpets, a splendid assortment of Oilcloths, of German English and American manufacture, window curtains, hearth rugs, door mats, hall and stair carpets, for which no reasonable offer will be refused. While rebuilding they will occupy the building No. 3 8 Pine street, near Montgomery.

The Lucky Number

Fortunia, the Goddess of Luck, must have designated one hundred and forty-four as her symbol. W. E. Mayhew believes in the number. He drew the second grand prize in the last lottery on that number, and then moved his large and complete stock of Drugs, Perfumes, etc., to 144 Fourth street. Naturally happy and free-hearted, he continues in business for the pleasure it affords him. He is actually giving a splendid Sachet Package of Rimmel's or Lubin's to every customer that comes to his store. 3 n

The Matinee Fruit Store.

Keeps the choicest varieties of domestic and imported Fruits, Jellies, Confectionery, etc., and sells at the lowest rates. Pure, healthy Apple Cider, fresh from the press every day. No 609 Bush street, one door above Kearny. 1-y

We would recommend all who need the services of a thorough Dentist to visit Dr. G. S. Boyle, 135 Kearny, and avail themselves of his services. All work guaranteed.

Femininities.

A Kentucky lady compromised a $20,000 breach of promise suit by accepting $5 and a new chignon.

It is stated that an English lady is going to expend $25,000 on an aqueduct to supply Jerusalem with water.

"The femalstrom" is what a Dayton newspaper calls the present woman's movement in favor of temperance.

A Western reporter was angry because a young woman would not waltz with him, and in his report of the ball called her "a graceful little toad."

The Nashville ladies who agreed to wear only calico dresses at church, have nobly kept to their resolution, but none have attended church since.

The "first lady" business afflicts Cincinnati just now, the question being whether an Alderman's wife is higher than the wife of the County Recorder.

An Iowa woman poured hot water down her husband's back to cure the toothache, and the jury held that she was practising without a license, and sent her to jail for six months.

There is no telling what that intelligent Coroner's jury will do next, since it has indicted a Connecticut man for shooting his wife, whom he, upon honor, "mistook for a stray cat."

It is pleasant to see a young creature come into a horse-car, seat herself for admiration, look happy for five minutes, and then wake up to the dismal consciousness that there is a rip in the middle finger of her right glove.

The girls of Afton, Iowa, resolved to have nothing to do with young men who drink, smoke, chew, swear, or drive fast horses. But when the fellows began making up to the girls of a neighboring town they weakened.

Pleasant.

The New York Herald thinks that if the medical schools continue to graduate female sawbones it will soon become so pleasant to be sick that no fellah will want to be well.

What Next?

Every one knows how a photograph looks when viewed through a stereoscope—but a stereoscope cannot always be had. G. D. Morse, at 417 Montgomery street has obviated this difficulty by producing a photograph that is so clear and sharp in its outlines that one would almost think he was looking through the lens of a stereoscope. Mr. Morse's parlors look more like an art gallery than a place of business. 2-r

"Led Astray" in Boston.

Jay Bee, in the Boston Courier, says: At the Museum, "Led Astray" has continued to attract large audiences. There seems to be a fascination in the subject of conjugal infidelity, positively irresistible to Americans as well as Frenchmen. Boucicault, whose hand is continually on the public pulse, knows this better than any one else, and he consequently insists that his heroine shall be led astray on the posters and in the advertisements, although in the drama that immaculate creature most perversely insists on being led aright, by which exceedingly silly course, (I speak from an artistic standpoint) she loses all that lachrymose sympathy, which is invariably evoked by actual, and just as invariably denied to supposititous frailty.

There is much talk of abysses and precipices, but nobody falls over them. Every woman in the piece is as surefooted as a mule, and although they do skim dizzy verges, there is really no great danger after all. The drama has been improved since its initial representations, in many things; notably by the elision of the dialogue in which O'Hara is allowed to bully two French gentlemen, who have exposed him as a card sharper and an adventurer. His acting in connection with either of them afterwards in an affair of honor is simply ridiculous. Among the discrepancies which still remain is Rudolph's openly admitting on the fighting ground the cause of the duel, and implicating his wife's honor, which he has hitherto guarded to the extent of making a false pretext the cause of the encounter.

Philosophical Women.

French women are true philosophers in matters of dress. A lady has a new dress, fashioned after the latest mode. She lives in it until it is passee; then she is ready for another, and so on. They do not invest large amounts in costumes too costly to be worn, and be under the necessity of burdening themselves with second-best dresses, to be used while the fine ones lie in state, until they are out of date.

A Good Sensation for a Play.

In the very latest Chicago elopement the persecuted but devoted lover snatched his bride from the enraged parent in the fourteenth story of a fashionable hotel, and made good their escape by wildly tossing her palpitating form into the descending elevator just as the old man reached, too late, the empty landing.

Oysters.

In strolling round the other night,
To look at 'Frisco by gas light,
Our careless feet, by chance did stray
To where a fountain's ceaseless play
Of sparkling waters, made a screen
Through which a sweet bouquet was seen;
While mossy stone and pearly shell,
O'er which the waters softly fell,
Made that window seem to be
Some fairy grotto of the sea.
"Stop," said my friend, "let's go in here
It looks so nice—and try their oliver."
"All right," I said, "I must agree
That this place suits me to a 'T.'"
No sooner had we found a seat
Than at our side a waiter neat
Made his appearance, asked our wish—
Said they had almost any dish
That we might name. We found it true,
And cooked magnificently, too;
All kinds of oysters, juicy, fat,
Cooked every style; just think of that,
And if your mouth don't water, then
You're different from other men.
They'd clams and crabs and terrapins'
In fact, we found they had within
That cosy place all kinds of game,
Fish, flesh or fowl which we could name,
While every dish was, I am sure,
Prepared to tempt an epicure.
The ladies, too, have found, 'twould seem,
That they have here the best ice cream;
So here they flock, the little sinners,
To get what they call "such nice dinners."
Whoever doubts this let him rush
To three hundred thirty-seven Bush,
And there this truth he'll find made plain:
Who goes there once will go again,
Pacific Oyster House, 337 Bush street, above Montgomery; open Day and Night.

CHARLES HAAKE, Proprietor.

Managers

Of Amusements, Excursions, Lectures and Concerts, are directed to the splendid printing establishment of B. F. Sterett, 532 Clay street, over the San Francisco Market. The largest posters, in plain or fancy colors, are turned out in the shortest possible space of time. Also, beautiful programmes, tickets, etc., printed to suit the most fastidious. Mr. Sterett keeps constantly on hand a fine line of bright colored papers of every shade, and the prices charged for these is very little in advance of plain white paper. Streamers of various sizes, from 18 to 42 inch letters, in stock, of all colors of paper and ink. Theatre Managers are especially invited to call for estimates. This well known printing house was established by the present proprietor in 1850, and has been in successful operation ever since. 3-cj

THE SCIENCE—for it is a science—of taking the impression of any animate or inanimate thing on Glass, Porcelain or Cardboard, by using the sun as an auxiliary, is an important one. Improvements have been made from time to time by those who have made Photography a study To our mind (and a visit will make our readers agree with us) the Artist who presides at the Florence Gallery, 28 Third street, has attained a degree of excellence seldom achieved, if ever equalled. WHERE WE CIRCULATE "FIGARO."

Everybody knows that "FIGARO" has been distributed free for years very generally throughout the city, and has been circulated as programme in every theatre and place of amusement in San Francisco; and we want everybody to know that "FIGARO" is always distributed on the Oakland Ferry-boats that bring the passengers by the great overland train to this city, and is placed in their hands every day—Sundays included. That it is mailed free every day to all the leading hotels on the Pacific Coast. That "FIGARO" is circulated by Taylor & Co., the Oakland bill distributors, every day throughout the central portions of Oakland. That it is also distributed at Sacramento and on the Sacramento steamers on their down trips to this city, and in all towns on the river side, as may be seen by the annexed certificate from A. H. Nahor, distributing agent on the steamers:

This is to certify that I have agreed to, and do, distribute "FIGARO" thoroughly on the Sacramento steamers on their down trips to San Francisco, and have made arrangements to have it generally distributed in the towns of Benicia, Martinez, Collinsville, Sherman Island, Rio Vista, Courtland, Antioch, Pittsburg Landing, New York Landing, and in all of the hotels, saloons, public places, etc., in Sacramento City. ALFRED H. NAHOR.

March 4th, 1874.

Arrangements are being made for further circulation on other lines of travel, so that "FIGARO" shall be "here, there and everywhere," and be placed in the hands of all strangers, families and business men en route to this city.

The Young Man from the East.

"I'm a stranger in this city,
I'm lately from the East,
And mighty fond of oysters;
Where can I get a feast?
I've been to all the restaurants,
But nowhere could I find,
A plate of Eastern oysters,
Of the old-fashioned kind."

"Well, I can tell you," said his friend,
"Exactly where to go,
And where to get your oysters,
Direct from where they grow.
Just take a stroll down PINE STREET,
At 410, below the Market,
You'll see a sign, 'THE SADDLE ROCK,
You can't fail to remark it.

"Emerson Corville keeps the place,
The best saloon in town,
There you can get your oysters raw,
Or fried so crisp and brown.
He's the largest oyster dealer
On the Pacific Coast,
And that he keeps the freshest
Has ever been his boast.

"He's got nice little private rooms,
Where you can sit at ease,
And eat your California stew,
Or Eastern if you please.
All the young men of fashion go
Right to the SADDLE ROCK,
To eat their EASTERN OYSTERS
And drink their Rhenish hock."

For Photo-crayons.

And reproduction in a superior style, go to Mouard & Cobb, 506 Kearny st. near California, Those desiring any of the above for Christmas presents, should make application before the rain sets in, and so avoid disappointment, satisfaction guaranteed in all cases 5x

Discontented.

The Chronicle is in favor of dress reform, but doesn't think that the ladies who are agitating it, are the proper parties to carry it out. We think they have made a very good beginning. They obtained over a column notice of their proceedings at Anthony's Hall, in both the Call and Chronicle, and and are going to hold another meeting next Monday. We are afraid, if we wait until the "leaders of society" take this matter up, we shall wait a long time. Reforms begin always among people who are "out of society."

A Poor Pretense.

We do not give Mr. Tennant credit for disinterested kindness in attemptinz to commit suicide. He said: "I have done this to rid my wife of so poor a husband. She will not be pleased, and wants a divorce, and this is the easiest way I know of." Mr. Tennant knows very well that his committing suicide, and leaving such a letter behind him, would make Mrs. Tennant unpopular, and perhaps prevent her getting another husband. It is too thin.

"A Carnival of Crime."

The above heading may not be unfamiliar to our readers. It will be observed that we do not claim it as original with "Figaro." It was suggested to us, not by any new suicide or murder, but by the following paragraph in an exchange: "Within the past eight months six new newspapers have been started in Nevada, and three more are projected."

"The Balm of the Bullet."

We believe that all this murder and suicide has been caused by that idiotic "news detective" of the Call terming shooting "the balm of the bullet." People admired the prettiness of the name, and thought they would try some of the "balm." That news detective had better try a little "balm of the bullet" and see how he likes it.

Warm Applause.

The reception of a debutante is thus described by a friend: They applauded her when she opened her mouth; they applauded her when she shut it; they applauded her when she kicked the stool; and I believe they would have applauded had she kicked the bucket.

Keep Faith with Your Children.

Don't tell a child you will do anything for it unless you intend to keep your promise. A strict observance of this rule may save you the agony of seeing your child become a liar. If you say, "I'll skin you alive!" go and skin it, though it brings tears to your eyes.

Screening Them.

A saloon-keeper in one of the towns where the woman's whiskey war is raging, made a centre shot when he replied to a lady who asked him why he kept his window glazed and a screen in front of the door, that it was to "hide the temperance men when they came in for a drink."

Hoist with His Own Pomade.

Customer (worried into it)—"Well, I don't mind taking a small bottle." Barber—Better 'ave a two shillin' one, sir; it 'olds four times as much as the other." Customer (turning upon him)—"Oh, then if I take this shilling bottle I shall be done out of half my money's worth! then I won't have any!" (Escapes in triumph.)

It has been decided in Delaware that a man is not necessarily drunk because he tries to unlock the front door at midnight with the butt end of his tobacco-box.

Iowa Courts have decided that jilting doesn't hurt a man worth a cent.

New Building Going Up Opposite the Palace Hotel.

Among the improvements contemplated in the immediate vicinity of the New Palace Hotel, is the tearing down and reconstruction of the frame building, 613 Market street. It is at present occupied by J. W. Bartham & Co., carpet dealers. Calling on Mr Bartham for information concerning the improvements, we were told that they would commence rebuilding in about sixty days. Mr. B. also gave us some interesting facts concerning the Carpet business. He said that there were annually put down in this city over 60,000 new carpets, and that their house alone sold over 150,000 yards last year. He also said that their present stock, worth about $160,000, would have to be sold inside of sixty days. In place of making a profit on his sales for the next sixty days, Mr. B. said that he expected to lose about $15,000, because they had determined to make a forced sale in order to close out their entire stock so as to make room while rebuilding. Their stock comprises Brussels, Tapestries, Velvet and Ingrain Carpets, a splendid assortment of Oilcloths, of German English and American manufacture, window curtains, hearth rugs, door mats, hall and stair carpets, for which no reasonable offer will be refused. While rebuilding they will occupy the building No. 3.8 Pine street, near Montgomery.

The Origin of Man.

The lectures of Professor Denton recently delivered in this city on the origin of man excited so much interest that we think our readers may enjoy the following lecture on the same subject delivered in South Carolina by the Rev. Cæsar Cole: BREDREN AND SISTERS:—As dis is de fust ob my coarse ob lecters. I perpoze to kommense at de bery fust of de beginnin. De fust question what stars yu in de face is dis: "Who is yer? Whar did yer cum frum at de start?" Now, I'm gwine to discus dis question on bofe scripteral an sientific pints, as appozed to de late Darwininum theorem. We is tole dat after de form becum void, den de good Lord made all de kreepin things, an den de animiles. Well den, what next? Dare must be sumbody fur to make dem wile beasts behave dareselves. Now, I ask was de monkey de man fur de situashun? No, mi hearers. He mout hab throwed cocoanuts at em til de cows cum home, and dey wouldn't been wuf a cent. So much den fur dat pint.

But Mr. Darwin sez de fizzicle formashun is de same, an therefore riginal man wuz a babboon. Now rite here, breddren, I takes groun agin Mr. D., an if yu plese we'll fite de debble wid fire. Scounce agin sciunce. Follee me close now, breddren, fur dis is a bery ticlish pint. If we is all monkeys, I ask in de name of all dat's rite and reasonable, whar iz dat tale dat ort to belong to bofe de speshies? I mean, my sisters, whar is dat longated cont nerashun of de spinal vertiba ob de backbone—dat—dat—perbensile extenshun of de spinal collum, what gibs de monkey de power to make a suspenshun railroad bridge ebry time he wants to cross de creek?

I tell yu, mi derr breddren and sisters, we hasn't got it, we never has had it, and thank de Lord, we will never be boddered wid it. But I must be breaf. Hopin dat dezs remarks will hab de effect to make you all men and wimmin tink more ob yerselves, I will cloze; but before Brudder Boles passes de bat round, I will make de nouncement dat I will deliber mi 2nd lecter at dis place on de comin Sundy on de bery vitle subjec: "De primeble fust cauz ob de kullered man."

Justice in Georgia.

There is no foolishness in the administering of justice in Thomasville, Georgia. The first two days of the Superior Court were consumed in the trial of Webster Lyons, colored, a Baptist preacher, charged with poisoning his wife. The jury, after an absence of twenty minutes, returned a verdict of guilty. He was sentenced to be hanged on the 17th day of April next. Emanuel, Charleo and Nimrod, two murderers of Juniper Hall, were also sentenced to be hung on the same day. Besides the above, a number of criminals were sent to the penitentiary for terms varying from life to a few years.

The Cockney Dialect.

There is nothing funnier in cockney vernacular than Jeames' letter, when he is in doubt which to prefer of his two lady-loves, Mary Hann or Hangelina. He writes: "There they stood together, them two young women. I don't know which is the 'andsomest. I cooldn help comparing them; and I cooldn help comparing myself to a certain Hannimie I've read of, that found it difficult to make a choice betwigst 2 Bundles of A."

Malicious.

The "independent critic" of the Post says, "the theatres have been doing a poor business; in fact, they have been both led astray, and the public refuses to follow." The Opera House is crowded nightly, but then the Opera House is not advertised in the Post. This is rather a small business. The Post is fast following in the track of the "live paper," which is so very dead now-a-days.

Sir Walter Raleigh created a consternation when he appeared before his servants smoking a pipe of Tobacco. The sight was a new one to them, and they, as well as the public in general were slow to learn the use of the Weed Had they had Tobacco of the quality and perfect flavor which the Periqua and Golden Thread Smoking Tobacco of to-day have, smoking would much sooner become almost universal. The Gilroy Tobacco Company (office 304 Pine street), are offering the above-named Tobaccos to the public, and we advise those in want of a good article to give them a trial. 3-r

FOR a good, quiet, nice saloon, commend us to the "Orient," 720 Market street. Messrs. Goldworthy & Weston are saloon-keepers who know their business thoroughly, and consequently keep only the best of Wines, Whiskys and Cigars. We can commend the "Orient" as one of the best places in the city. Try once and you will be satisfied. 2-o

It Can't be Done.

A New York paper says:

The women who, in our opinion, degrade themselves by becoming the tools of cunning temperance apostles, should accompany the members of their families when they go in society; should be present when the wine bottle is opened; should share their company in the beer garden; and the remedy will be offered for an evil which requires energetic efforts in order to suppress it. Your husband, your son, your brother will not get intoxicated in your presence; therefore do not withdraw yourself.

The trouble is that the husbands, sons and brothers will go to places where it is "not proper" for women to go.

The Lucky Number

Fortunia, the Goddess of Luck, must have designated one hundred and forty-four as her symbol, W. E. Mayhew believes in the number. He drew the second grand prize in the last lottery on that number, and then moved his large and complete stock of Drugs, Perfumes, etc., to 144 Fourth street. Naturally happy and free-hearted, he continues in business for the pleasure it affords him. He is actually giving a splendid Sachet Package of Rimmel's or Lubin's to every customer that comes to his store. 3 B

WHAT AN EMINENT PHYSICIAN SAYS

.....OF.....

TRUSSES!

WM. C. LADOW, M. D., OF PENDLETON, Umatilla County, Oregon says:

Marsh's Trusses are the most superior inventions of the age. Their principle is superb and construction admirably adapted to the anatomy of parts involved. They protect the life, restore the health, renew the functions of the kidneys and other organs, obviate the pressure upon the SPINE, PUBIC BONE and spermatic chord, and in fact do more practically than all the hundreds of "OTHER" worthless inventions put together can perform. They possess merit, and I know whereof I speak, it being fully demonstrated upon myself and numerous other patients of my own. During a study of thirty years of the respective merits of different appliances, I never had anything to meet my approbation so thoroughly as the Marsh's Patent Trusses.

The above superior appliances are accurately applied at the Radical Cure Truss Office of

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

Opera House.

The play of "La Tentation" is still drawing good houses. The beautiful Miss Alice Dunning and her magnificent dresses excite much admiration. Miss Dicky Lingard, is an universal favorite. Horace Lingard, is most amusing, and the new juvenile actor, Mr. Norris, is a decided addition to the company.

California Theatre.

"Led Astray," runs very smoothly now, and the audience much enjoy the fine acting of J. T. Raymond, Henry Edwards and E. J. Buckley. It will be played every evening this week, and at the matinee on Saturday. Husbands who don't take their wives to see "Led Astray" will miss an opportunity which they may live to regret. The piece has been the means of making a great number of discontented wives cheerful and happy, and the good work still goes on.

Palace Amphitheatre.

Fred O'Brien's wonderful leaps, the great performances by the Carlo family, the grotesque absurdities of the Kenebels, and the numerous other entertaining features presented at the horse opera house, on Mission street, delight crowds of spectators. The Concert Diabolique, by the Carlo Brothers, is one of the most amusing acts ever presented in the ring.

Bella Union Theatre.

The Japanese troupe, in their marvellous feats, Kelly, Bree and Barton in the act of "On Guard," Moore and Bray, in song and dance, John W. Wilkes, Miss Jennie Johnson, and others in various specialities will entertain visitors to this house to-night.

Buckley's New Variety Theatre.

"A Ghostly Visitation," by Frank Mortimer, Harry Devoy and Johnny Price. "Ireland vs. America," "Fishing for Salmon," by Johnny Price and George Thompson, and other acts will be performed to-night.

Platt's Hall.

The grand wrestling match for $1,000, between G. Tessier and A. Deligne, collar and elbow hold; two falls out of three, will come off at Platt's Hall, Saturday night. The contestants have been in training for the last six weeks, and a hard tussle may be anticipated. The men are both noted athelets and are well matched. The box office will be open at the Hall, Friday and Saturday.

Woodward's Gardens.

The accident to "Le Secours" has made the captive balloon, which can't get away and bump people on the ground, very popular. Ascents will be made on Saturday and Sunday. There are thousands of other attractions, and a general performance in the pavilion.

Knights of Phythias' Picnic.

The Knight's of Phythias, will hold a grand picnic, at Badger's (Oakland) Park, on Friday, May 8th. A band of twenty-four pieces will be on hand to enliven matters. That there will be a good time is well known by all who have ever attended their picnics before.

CAOUTCHOUC.—The wonderful Hairless Horse on exhibition on Satter street, opposite the Lick House, is really one of the most remarkable freaks of nature we have ever seen. Looking at the skin through a microscope not a pore can be seen. He is one of the most perfect specimens of a horse physically. He stands about fifteen hands high and weighs 1,000 pounds. He is well worth a visit.

Badger's Park.

On Sunday, the third annual picnic, of Scandinavian Singing Club, will be held here, and a pleasant time may be anticipated, with plenty of music thrown in. A full band in attendance. Admission fifty cents. Oakland ferry-cars run every hour direct to the Park, every half hour to Broadway station, connecting with street cars for the Park.

ANATOMICAL MUSEUM.—One of the most complete collections of the kind in the United States, comprising hundreds of costly and beautiful wax models, is daily on view (to gentlemen only) at the Museum on Montgomery street. An hour may be profitably spent here.

Sale of Choice Paintings.

A very fine collection of imported and local pictures is on view at H. M. Newhall & Co's rooms. They comprise every variety of subject, landscape, figure and still life. One magnificent flower piece, by Le Claire of Paris, with accessories of vase, antique plate, oaken table and tapestried background is worth the journey to Sansome street. The collection will be on view to Friday morning, the day of sale, and brilliantly lighted up in the evening, so that those whose business does not permit of a visit during the day can have a chance of inspecting them.

Notes.

The public mind is feverishly excited on the subject of suicide, and is ready to accept news on that subject without investigating it closely. A telegram states that Adolphe Hartdegaw, the violencello performer, has blown his brains out somewhere in South America, while in a fit of despondency. Those who know Hartdegan best don't believe it. Signor Ferrer had a cheerful letter from him only a few days ago, and discredits the telegram.

W. H. Hamilton, formerly of the Metropolitan Theatre, is on his way here from the East with the patent machinery used in performing the famous "Lulu" sensation feat, which has caused such a furore in London and New York.

Fred Lyster will be here next month as advance agent of E. A. Sothern, whom he will accompany to Australia. Miss Minnie Walton was recently laid up for two weeks with pleurisy, but is now recovered and is again supporting Sothern in his pieces.

Stephen Massett has been very successful in Los Angeles and San Diego, drawing large audiences to enjoy his entertainments. He will shortly return to San Francisco, where he will give three farewell entertainments prior to his departure for England.

The grand Dickens Ball, for the benefit of the San Francisco Female Hospital, will take place at Irish Hall, on Thursday evening, April 16th. It promises to be a very successful affair.

Gerald Massey, the poet of the people, has arrived in this city, and will commence a course of lectures at Platt's Hall, on Monday evening.

Sumner Hughes is busy getting up an Old Folks' Concert, at which the old time ballads of America and England will be sung by Madame Anna Bishop Alfred Wilkie and other popular artists, who will be dressed in costumes adapted to the period when the songs were popular.

Platt's Hall.

Gerald Massey, the author, poet and orator, will give his first lecture, at Platt's Hall, on Monday evening next. The subject will be, "The Man Shakespeare, with something new." This lecture will present to our citizens a rare opportunity that of hearing what an eminent literary man and Shakspearean student, a man noted for his subtle and analytical intellect, will have to say about Shakspeare and his works. Mr. Henry Edwards, of the California Theatre, will preside, and introduce Mr. Massey, on the occasion.

JONES GIVES A BALL.

A man, whose name I do not care to tell,
(Jones, Brown, or Robinson, will do as well),
Grown rich in trade, must needs at last aspire
To buy a country-seat and act the 'squire
Because a magistrate, to sessions went,
And talked of poachers, fines, crops and rent;
Conformed, in short, in every point, and then
Was welcomed by the country gentleman.
His wife, too, anxious to essay the sphere
Of rank and birth and fashion, said: "My dear,
We'll give a ball at Almack's. Write and say
We want the rooms. What? When? Six weeks to-day."

"Whom can we ask—we do not know a soul?"
"Leave that to me, and I'll arrange the whole.
We know the Duchess; I'll contrive her Grace,
She'll issue all the cards and fill the place."
The Duchess graciously invited all
Her friends, and hers alone, to Jones' ball;
The numerous guests arrive, her Grace receives
With all the ease of birth and strawberry leaves;
The Joneses, who at length discerned their doom,
Remained—the only strangers in the room.
The crowd grows thicker, and, the luckless host
Makes to the door and leans against a post.
Buried in thought he cursed himself, his wife,
Society, and fashionable life,
When a familiar voice salutes his ear:
"What? Jones: Why, who the dickens asked you here?"

—Temple Bar.

A Chapter From a French Novel.

It is Alphonse; elegant form; exquisite manners; ditto mustaches, both of which are waxed. He haunts places; Bois de Boulogne — Les Trois Freres — Bal Babile; dances like an angel—a French one, and he has—ha! "mille francs de rente." It is riches to that cher Alphonse. But he is not happy; his tender heart is blaze—it beats no longer. His last "grande passion" — eternal — was consumed in three days! What shall he do, the desolate Alphonse? He sips "eau sucre" on the Boulevard des Italiennes. His slender and emotional legs recline on three chairs. A starving woman approaches; bread for herself, for her child. The heart of Alphonse is moved. He has bought violets for five sous. He presses the bouquet into her hands, and is gone. Ah, monsieur! she exclaims. She appreciates the noble and sublime charity. It is a ray of sunshine from the past; the emblem of modesty has fallen upon her soul. She is redeemed through the caresses of these modest flowers. She falls insensible upon the pavement, and her last sigh, mingled with the fragrance of violets, ascends to heaven. Noble Alphonse!

Do You Feel

Crossgrained and stingy? Go right to the Sanitarium, foot of Powell street, North Beach, and take a 10 or 15 minutes' (not longer) hot sea-water bath, then a smart cold shower, then a vigorous rubbing with towels, and you will come out as nimble as a monkey, and feeling benevolent enough to give away all your neighbor's property. Improvements just completed. Special department for ladies. Everything neat as wax. Single tickets, 25 cents. Five for one dollar.

What Next?

Every one knows how a photograph looks when viewed through a stereoscope—but a stereoscope cannot always be had. G. D. Morse, at 417 Montgomery street has obviated this difficulty by producing a photograph that is so clear and sharp in its outlines that one would almost think he was looking through the lens of a stereoscope. Mr. Morse's parlors look more like an art gallery than a place of business. 2-r

John McCullough and Edwin Booth.

John McCullough and Edwin Booth were recently playing in St. Louis at the same time. Of their respective performances of the role of Hamlet, the Dispatch speaks as follows: Booth is familiar to the public, and is fairly considered to be one of the most polished actors, as well as the closest Shakespearean student that ever came before us. In many of his roles Edwin Booth rises above criticism, but it is particularly in such parts as do not require excessive physical action. Here Mr. McCullough undoubtedly proves the better actor of the two, as nothing could be more grand than the force and passion he brings to bear on the characters which Shakespeare evidently designed to illustrate the wild and intemperate in man's nature. Booth's Hamlet stands out like an unflawed crystal upon a sea full of specks and impurities, and the actor is without an equal in the role, if we look upon the production as a whole. But as in other parts, Booth falls below the standard when strong physique is necessary to the play, and fails to produce the effect which electrifies McCullough's audience. The character of Hamlet will be always open to criticism and complaint; the world at large failing to understand the great paradox of his nature. He was sane, yet stood upon the brink of madness; cold and austere in appearance, he was in reality warm and impulsive, chafing from too much constraint placed by himself over his emotions. The study and conception of this character as presented by Booth and McCullough differ very materially, and although the Hamlet of McCullough is one we are not so familiar with, as that of other actors who have made the part famous and been made famous by it, yet the disappointment we are forced to undergo is more pleasant than otherwise, and we soon become accustomed to the health, vitality and spirit in his Hamlet, who, according to this fine actor's reading, does not betray a symptom of madness until the play progresses and the story is familiar to his audience, and their sympathy compelled.

Oysters.

In strolling round the other night,
To look at 'Frisco by gas light,
Our careless feet, by chance did stray
To where a fountain's ceaseless play
Of sparkling waters, made a screen
Through which a sweet bouquet was seen;
While mossy stone and pearly shell,
O'er which the waters softly fell,
Made that window seem to be
Some fairy grotto of the sea.
Stop," said my friend, "let's go in here
It looks so nice—and try their cheer."
"All right," I said, "I must agree
That this place suits me to a 'T.'"
No sooner had we found a seat
Than at our side a waiter neat
Made his appearance, asked our wish—
Said they had almost any dish
That we might name. We found it true,
And cooked magnificently, too;
All kinds of oysters, juicy, fat,
Cooked every style; just think of that,
And if your mouth don't water, then
You're different from other men.
They'd clams and crabs and terrapins;
In fact, we found they had within
That cosy place all kinds of game,
Fish, flesh or fowl which we could name,
While every dish was, I am sure,
Prepared to tempt an epicure.
The ladies, too, have found, 'twould seem,
That they have here the best ice cream;
So here they flock, the little sinners,
To get what they call "such nice dinners,"
Whoever doubts this let him rush
To three hundred thirty-seven Bush,
And there this truth he'll find made plain:
Who goes there once will go again.
Pacific Oyster House, 337 Bush street, above Montgomery; open Day and Night.
CHARLES HAAKE, Proprietor.

Managers

Of Amusements, Excursions, Lectures and Concerts, are directed to the splendid printing establishment of B. F. Sterett, 532 Clay street, over the San Francisco Market. The largest posters, in plain or fancy colors, are turned out in the shortest possible space of time. Also, beautiful programmes, tickets, etc., printed to suit the most fastidious. Mr. Sterett keeps constantly on hand a fine line of bright colored papers of every shade, and the prices charged for these is very little in advance of plain white paper. Streamers of various sizes, from 18 to 42 inch letters, in stock, of all colors of paper and ink. Theatre Managers are especially invited to call for estimates. This well known printing house was established by the present proprietor in 1850, and has been in successful operation ever since. 3-cj

THE SCIENCE—for it is a science—of taking the impression of any animate or inanimate thing on Glass, Porcelain or Cardboard, by using the sun as an auxiliary, is an important one. Improvements have been made from time to time by those who have made Photography a study. To our mind (and a visit will make our readers agree with us) the artist who presides at the Florence Gallery, 23 Third street, has attained a degree of excellence seldom achieved, if ever equalled. His Life-Size Portraits are excellent and prices low. 2bh

Epicure's Retreat.

The epicurean fond of nice grain-fed, pig-pork chop, tenderloin or roast, resorts to R. F. Bunker's 74 and 75 California Market, and is never disappointed, for "Bob," is a good feeder himself, and always keeps on hand the very best in his line. Bunker's celebrated Club Sausages will tickle the palate of the most fastidious. Even dyspeptics laugh after eating those sausages. 1z

FRIDAY ..... APRIL 10, 1874

WHERE WE CIRCULATE "FIGARO."

Everybody knows that "FIGARO" has been distributed free for years very generally throughout the city, and has been circulated as programme in every theatre and place of amusement in San Francisco; and we want everybody to know that "FIGARO" is always distributed on the Oakland Ferry-boats that bring the passengers by the great overland train to this city, and is placed in their hands every day—Sundays included. That it is mailed free every day to all the leading hotels on the Pacific Coast. That "FIGARO" is circulated by Taylor & Co., the Oakland bill distributors, every day throughout the central portions of Oakland. That it is also distributed at Sacramento and on the Sacramento steamers on their down trips to this city, and in all towns on the river side, as may be seen by the annexed certificate from A. H. Nahor, distributing agent on the steamers:

This is to certify that I have agreed to, and do, distribute "FIGARO" thoroughly on the Sacramento steamers on their down trips to San Francisco, and have made arrangements to have it generally distributed in the towns of Benicia, Martinez, Collinsville, Sherman Island, Rio Vista, Courtland, Antioch, Pittsburg Landing, New York Landing, and in all of the hotels, saloons, public places, etc., in Sacramento City. ALFRED H. NAHOR.

March 4th, 1874.

Arrangements are being made for further circulation on other lines of travel, so that "FIGARO" shall be "here, there and everywhere," and be placed in the hands of all strangers, families and business men en route to this city.

The Young Man from the East.

"I'm a stranger in this city,
I'm lately from the East,
And mighty fond of oysters;
Where can I get a feast?
I've been to all the restaurants,
But nowhere could I find,
A plate of Eastern oysters,
Of the old-fashioned kind."

Well, I can tell you," said his friend,
"Exactly where to go,
And where to get your oysters,
Direct from where they grow.
Just take a stroll down PINE STREET,
At 410, below the Market,
You'll see a sign, 'THE SADDLE ROCK,
You can't fail to remark it.

Emerson Corville keeps the place,
The best saloon in town,
There you can get your oysters raw,
Or fried so crisp and brown.
He's the largest oyster dealer
On the Pacific Coast,
And that he keeps the freshest
Has ever been his boast.

He's got nice little private rooms,
Where you can sit at ease,
And eat your California stew,
Or Eastern if you please.
All the young men of fashion go
Right to the SADDLE ROCK,
To eat their EASTERN OYSTERS
And drink their Rhenish hock."

For Photo-crayons.

And reproduction in a superior style, go to Edouard & Cobb, 506 Kearny st. near California. Those desiring any of the above for Christmas presents, should make application before the rain sets in, and so avoid disappointment, satisfaction guaranteed in all cases. 5i

Rough on the Young Man.

The Chicago Times is hard on young men who smoke. A man who indulges in this innocent recreation recently wrote to the Times complaining of the tyranny exercised by employers in Chicago. He answered the advertisement of "a prominent tin merchant" calling for an expert book-keeper of good habits and orthodox religion. He says the merchant catechized him on social ethics and business morals, his capacity for the situation, etc., and closed his inquisition by asking him if he smoked. The young man replied that he did—after business hours. This did not suit the prominent tin merchant, "and," says the young man, "because I would not surrender one of my personal rights, I lost the situation." On this the Times takes him severely to task, and tells him that if he had been at all reasonable he would have made the small sacrifice which would have secured him profitable employment. It adds:

That young man is in a fair way to become a beggar, if he is not one already. He may become leader of a mob of communists, if he has any brains. It is scarcely possible that he pays his washerwoman or landlady. He plays billiards on Sunday and does not believe in religion. He spends more money for cigars than his mother ever did for tea. He wears sixteen dollar boots, and goes to dancing-school. He probably finds plenty of time to attend matinees, and knows the first name of every actor in the city. He will maintain his personal rights if his creditors lose every dollar.

We think the editor who wrote this stuff is in a fair way to become a maniac if he is not one already. It founds all these accusations on the confession of the young man that he smokes "after business hours," and will not be tyrannized over by his employer during the time which is his own. We expect that "prominent tin merchant" is a liberal advertiser, and that the Times cares more about currying favor with the rich business men of the virtuous city of Chicago than in sustaining poor men in their rights. We don't believe that young man is a beggar yet. He is probably a far better tempered, more amiable being than the rabid fanatic of the Times.

Bogus Butter.

The Virginia City Footlights says: We are informed that a certain cheap boarding house proprietor, in this city, feeds his guests on imitation butter, manufactured from soap grease, hog, dog, cat and goat fat, rotten tallow, coal oil, etc. It is made by the California Butter Company, of San Francisco, who state that they have facilities for making a ton of the horrid stuff per day. It is not quite equal to Hucks & Lambert's axle grease for lubricating hot biscuits.

The Reason.

The Bulletin notes as an extraordinary fact, that a son writes to California to ask for news of his mother. It observes:

"Letters are daily received from the East inquiring for information in regard to persons who came to the land of gold in early days, but it seldom occurs that a son writes to know the whereabouts of his mother."

The reason of this is, that mothers don't go prowling round the country as much as sons do, and they are generally better correspondents.

A Noble Remark.

What a noble masculine saying is that uttered by Randolphe Chandoce in "Led Astray:"—What is in man only a folly, in woman becomes a crime." We can't exactly see why this is so, but we suppose it must be true. Most men believe it.

A Rarity.

Pittsburgh is trying to find a man who does not belong to a lodge, grange, club, post, temple, encampment or order.

New Building Going Up Opposite the Palace Hotel.

Among the improvements contemplated in the immediate vicinity of the New Palace Hotel, is the tearing down and reconstruction of the frame building, 613 Market street. It is at present occupied by J. W. Barnham & Co., carpet dealers. Calling on Mr. Barnham for information concerning the improvements, we were told that they would commence rebuilding in about sixty days. Mr. B. also gave us some interesting facts concerning the Carpet business. He said that there were annually put down in this city over 60,000 new carpets, and that their house alone sold over 150 000 yards last year. He also said that their present stock, worth about $160,000, would have to be sold inside of sixty days. In place of making a profit on his sales for the next sixty days, Mr. B. said that he expected to lose about $15,000, because they had determined to make a forced sale in order to close out their entire stock so as to make room while rebuilding. Their stock comprises Brussels, Tapestries, Velvet and Ingrain Carpets, a splendid assortment of Oilcloths, of German English and American manufacture, window curtains, hearth rugs, door mats, hall and stair carpets, for which no reasonable offer will be refused. While rebuilding they will occupy the building No. 3 8 Pine street, near Montgomery.

Do Not Suffer from Corns.

The unfortunate sufferers from Corns, Bunions, Club and Ingrowing Nails, can find instant relief by applying at Dr. B. H. Cowan's Institute, 310 Kearny street, from 1 to 6 P.M. We speak from experience, having tested the Doctor's capability. References given if required. 2

A Pleasant Location.

Persons desiring comfortable lodgings in a Central location, should visit the Alhambra, and inspect the fine suites of rooms to let there The building is a very fine one and is well lighted and ventilated.

Queer Fun.

Among a lot of extracts from Dr. Hall's "Fun Better than Physic" we find the following:

What a grand thing it is to have an unwavering faith in every word, and syllable, and letter of the Sacred Scriptures! to feel that they are nothing less than the utterances of the Great Father of us all, to comfort, and guide, and cheer, and sustain in all life's pilgrimage!

We wonder if the Doctor considers this fun. Perhaps he does. We knew of an old lady who was reading her Bible, which, she said, was "her only comfort," and her visitor discovered that she was at that time deriving comfort from a perusal of "the generations of Esau." This sort of thing:

"And Dishon and Ezer and Dishan; these are the dukes of the Horites, the children of Seir in the land of Edom. And the children of Lotan were Hori and Heman, and Lotan's sister was Timna," etc., etc.

Rather Severe.

The Washington Capital says: A correspondent tells us how she saw a son of a Senator catch the hat of an Irish laborer being whisked away by the wind, and how the Irish laborer repaid the boy with a five-cent nickel. Our fair friend considers this as showing gentlemanly instincts in the Irish laborer and a lack of that article in the lad. We don't know about that. It was rather mean in the boy, but we think the Irishman the bigger fool of the two. And why shouldn't the son of a Senator run after a hat and be rewarded? The occupation of his papa is not so very high and lofty. We would rather have the boy run after our hat than the father. It might not be returned to us.

Wicked Punch.

Punch gives the following advice to an Amphitryon: At your banquets never allow the wives to sit opposite their husbands. Not only flirting (i. e., fun) is rendered utterly impracticable under such conditions, but there is a Gorgonism in each other's eyes which petrifies their tongues when they catch sight of one another. Let every wife be seated on the same side as her husband, and as far from his as possible; then, although it may be mostly carried on in undertones, you will never find the conversation for a moment cease.

A Queer Aimee Troupe.

Olive Logan writes from Paris about the Aimees, or dancing girls from the Nile, about whom George William Curtis wrote wonderful descriptions in his "Nile Notes." Four of them are dancing on the stage of the Folies Bergeres, and Olive pronounces them hideous. "Just imagine," she says, "four ugly negresses see-sawing their bodies to the vilest instrumental caterwauling. I must confess that an Aimee is now one of the bitter disallusions of my life."

A Genial Man.

"I've helped to bury every man that ever sold me liquor, except one, and I am after him night and day," was the cheery, good-natured remark of a temperance orator at Springfield, Massachusetts, the other day.

Managers

Of Amusements, Excursions, Lectures and Concerts, are directed to the splendid printing establishment of B. F. Sterett, 532 Clay street, over the San Francisco Market. The largest posters, in plain or fancy colors, are turned out in the shortest possible space of time. Also, beautiful programmes, tickets, etc., printed to suit the most fastidious. Mr. Sterett keeps constantly on hand a fine line of bright colored papers of every shade, and the prices charged for these is very little in advance of plain white paper. Streamers of various sizes, from 18 to 42 inch letters, in stock, of all colors of paper and ink. Theatre Managers are especially invited to call for estimates. This well known printing house was established by the present proprietor in 1850, and has been in successful operation ever since. 2-cj

Sir Walter Raleigh created a consternation when he appeared before his servants smoking a pipe of Tobacco. The sight was a new one to them, and they, as well as the public in general were slow to learn the use of the Weed Had they had Tobacco of the quality and perfect flavor which the Perique and Golden Thread Smoking Tobacco of to-day have, smoking would much sooner become almost universal. The Gilroy Tobacco Company (office 304 Pine street), are offering the above-named Tobaccos to the public, and we advise those in want of a good article to give them a trial. 3-j

"A Chinese Philosopher."

Under the above heading, the Grass Valley Union, has the following: "We saw a good-looking, square-headed Chinaman, yesterday, looking in a show window at a photograph of Josh Billings. We asked him, "you sabe him?" "I sabe," replied John; "him heep talkee Melican man talk, allee folkee heep laugh; him allee same heep write in newsee paper, and folkee heep laugh. Laugh heep do man good—Chinaman allee same." That last remark contains philosophy worthy of Confucius.

Not Settled.

It is not quite settled whether Mrs. Bella Brown, is insane or not, but it is pretty certain that Father Powers, when he horse-whipped her, was "mad." "Ira brevis furor est."

The Lucky Number

Fortuna, the Goddess of Luck, must have designated one hundred and forty-four as her symbol. W. E. Mayhew believes in the number. He drew the second grand prize in the last lottery on that number, and then moved his large and complete stock of Drugs, Perfumes, etc., to 144 Fourth street. Naturally happy and free-hearted, he continues in business for the pleasure it affords him. He is actually giving a splendid Sachet Package of Rimmel's or Lubin's to every customer that comes to his store. 3 x

.....OF.....

TRUSSES!

WM. O. LADOW, M. D., OF PENDLETON, Umatilla County, Oregon says:

Marsh's Trusses are the most superior inventions of the age. Their principle is superb and construction admirably adapted to the anatomy of parts involved. They protect the life, restore the health, renew the functions of the kidneys and other organs, obviate the pressure upon the SPINE, PERICARDIUM and spermatic chord, and in fact do more practically than all the hundreds of "OTHER" worthless inventions put together can perform. They possess merit, and I know whereof I speak, it being fully demonstrated upon myself and numerous other patients of my own. During a study of thirty years of the respective merits of different appliances, I never had anything to meet my approbation so thoroughly as the Marsh's Patent Trusses.

The above superior appliances are accurately applied at the Radical Cure Truss Office of

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

California Theatre.

To-night, at the matinee to-morrow, and to-morrow evening, will be the last occasions on which Boucicault's great play entitled "Led Astray" will be performed. Those who have not seen John T. Raymond as Hector Placide, everybody's friend, should not delay paying a visit to this theatre.

Opera House.

The rush to see the play entitled "La Tentation," the original of Boucicault's "Led Astray," continues. William Horrace Lingard, Miss Alice Dunning, Miss Dickey Lingard, J. K. Mortimer, Miss Mary Wells, J. Norris, John Howson, and the others engaged in its representation, play their respective parts capitally. "La Tentation" will be played to-night and also at the matinee to-morrow.

Palace Amphitheatre.

Among the numerous attractions offered at this mammoth show of hippodromes, not the least is the appearance of Kendall (the original San Francisco favorite) as a musician. His performance on various instruments must be heard to be appreciated. George, Frederick, Mlle. Fanny, Leotard and Harry Carlo, appear nightly. Omar Kingsley receives thunders of applause for his magnificent bare back act, and Fred O'Brien astonishes the spectators by his daring leaps. The usual matinee performances will be given to-morrow.

Bella Union Theatre.

The wonderful Japanese Troupe, who have caused such a furore at this theatre, will remain but one week longer. To-night the young comedian and vocalist, H. B. Archer, will make his appearance, and judging from his performances on the occasion of a recent benefit at the Opera House, will certainly become a favorite with the San Francisco public. "The Police Court" will be performed by Miss Jennie Johnson, J. W. Wilkes, J. R. Summers and others, and a variety of other attractions will be presented. The ever popular farce of "The Live Indian" will conclude the performance.

Buckley's New Variety Theatre.

George O. Thompson in his specialties, Mortimore in his sketches, Miss Lotta Gray in comic songs, Miss Maggie Brewer in dances, Johnny Price in song and dance, and many other attractions are offered to-night.

Platt's Hall.

The grand wrestling match for $1,000, between G. Tessier and A. Deligne, collar and elbow holds; two falls out of three, will come off at Platt's Hall, Saturday night. The contestants have been in training for the last six weeks, and a hard tussle may be anticipated. The men are both noted athletes and are well matched. The box office will be open at the Hall, Friday and Saturday.

Woodward's Gardens.

The accident to "Le Secours" has made the captive balloon, which can't get away and bump people on the ground, very popular. Ascents will be made on Saturday and Sunday. There are thousands of other attractions, and a general performance in the pavilion.

Knights of Pythias' Picnic.

The Knights of Pythias, will hold a grand picnic, at Badger's (Oakland) Park, on Friday, May 8th. A band of twenty-four pieces will be on hand to enliven matters. That there will be a good time is well known by all who have ever attended their picnics before.

Badger's Park.

On Sunday, the third annual picnic, of Scandinavian Singing Club, will be held here, and a pleasant time may be anticipated, with plenty of music thrown in. A full band in attendance. Admission fifty cents. Oakland ferry-cars run every hour direct to the Park, every half hour to Broadway station, connecting with street cars for the Park.

Agricultural Park.

The Hairless Horse will be on exhibition on Sutter street this afternoon and evening, and to-morrow (Saturday) evening, after the walking match between Mr. Crittenden's noted stallion "Irwin Davis" and "Osceolchouse," which takes place at Agricultural Park at three P. M. He will walk without clothing, which feat will, no doubt, attract a large crowd of visitors.

City Gardens.

The Swiss Sharpshooters, will hold their Picnic and Festival, at these gardens, on Sunday. The Sharpshooters will be escorted to the gardens, by the Swiss Singing Society, marching through the principal streets en route. At the gardens the exercises will consist of singing by the Society, instrumental concert, games and dancing, the whole to conclude with a grand ball at night. Admission fifty cents. The cars will run all night.

ANATOMICAL MUSEUM.—One of the most complete collections of the kind in the United States, comprising hundreds of costly and beautiful wax models, is daily on view (to gentlemen only) at the Museum on Montgomery street. An hour may be profitably spent here.

Do You Feel

Crossgrained and stingy? Go right to the Sanitarium, foot of Powell street, North Beach, and take a 10 or 15 minutes' (not longer) hot sea-water bath, then a smart cold shower, then a vigorous rubbing with towels, and you will come out as nimble as a monkey, and feeling benevolent enough to give away all your neighbor's property. Improvements just completed. Special department for ladies. Everything neat as wax. Single ticket, 25 cents. Five for one dollar.

THE WORLD WOULD BE THE BETTER FOR IT.

BY M. E. COBB.

If men cared less for wealth and fame
And less for battle-fields and glory,
If writ in human heart a name
Seemed better than in song or story;
If man, instead of nursing pride
Would learn to hate it and abhor it,
If more relied
On love to guide
The world would be the better for it.

If man dealt less in stocks and lands
And more in bonds and deeds fraternal,
If love's work had more willing hands
To link this world with the supernal;
If men stored up love's oil and wine
And on bruised human hearts would pour it,
If "yours" and "mine"
Would once combine
The world would be the better for it.

If more would act the play of life
And fewer spoil it in rehearsal;
If bigotry would sheath its knife
Till good become more universal;
If custom gray with ages grown,
Had fewer blind men to adore it—
If talent shone
In truth alone
The world would be the better for it.

If men were wise in little things—
Affecting less in all their dealings;
If hearts had fewer rusted strings
To isolate their kindred feelings;
If men, when wrong beats down the right,
Would strike together to restore it—
If right made might
In every fight
The world would be the better for it.

Comfort for Plagiarists.

Dunlop says that in all European literature there are not more than three hundred distinct plots, and two hundred and fifty of these are earlier than Christianity, and had their origin in Asia. Almost all the newspaper jokes have reached a venerable age; all the Irish bulls on record are Greek.

Quite a Nice Place.

A female help who owned up to having left seven places a year, ingenuously acknowledges to a new "Missis:" "I've been looking for a place with an old couple with property, who would consider me like a daughter."

Led Astray.

"Led Astray," is the title of a great French play which is placed before the public this week by the two theatres of this city. Although the Lingard combination play "Led Astray," the Lingards were not led astray when they visited the Photographic Parlors of Bradley & Rulofson. It is a noticeable fact that nearly all the prominent actors and actresses, who visit San Francisco, have their photographs taken. We say noticeable, because from the nature of their calling, they visit every large city in the United States, and have an opportunity to take their choice from the best. They, as a rule, have their photographs taken by Bradley & Rulofson. Not only strangers but old residents of the city find a visit to Messrs. B. & R.'s elite studio entertaining. On going to the Montgomery-street entrance (429) they ascend in the elevator (the only one connected with a photograph gallery in the world), and step out into the main parlor, the walls of which are hung with portraits of different celebrities, scenic views of the Yosemite Valley, Big Trees, and other points of interest, stereoscopic views with powerful stereoscopic lenses, for the amusement and entertainment of visitors, and last but not least, is the autograph book, in which the curious visitor can see the autographs of Princes, Dukes, Senators, Generals, and in fact the autograph of nearly every celebrity that has visited our coast. In one of the smaller parlors can be found a piano for the use of visitors. Pictures of all sizes are taken from the cameo or locket size, to the life or even heroic size of the photo-crayons. Messrs. B. & R. long since recognized the desirability of having a good pose, in order to obtain a perfect photograph, and to obtain that end they sent East and secured the services of an artist whose sole business is to pose people, so that their photographs will show to the best advantage. Such is the skill of this artist that he can tell, at a glance almost, whether the visitor should have a front, side or profile view, whether they should stand, sit, or lean; and the result is, that when the likeness is completed, the subjects are always satisfied; that their pictures are lifelike is evidenced by the remark Miss Neilson made when looking at her portrait: "I could almost believe (she said holding the picture in her hand), that I am looking at my reflection in a plate glass mirror." Her remark was but the echo of many others.

What Next?

Every one knows how a photograph looks when viewed through a stereoscope—but a stereoscope cannot always be had. G. D. Morse, at 417 Montgomery street has obviated this difficulty by producing a photograph that is so clear and sharp in its outlines that one would almost think he was looking through the lens of a stereoscope. Mr. Morse's parlors look more like an art gallery than a place of business. 2-r

Spring Style Hats.

'Tis weary watching, wave by wave,
And yet the tide heaves onward;
We climb, like corals, grave by grave,
Yet pave a path that's Sun-ward.
We're beaten back in many a fray,
But newer strength we borrow,
And where the Vanguard camps To-day,
The Rear shall rest To-morrow!

A Wife's Power.

Nothing is more beautiful than the belief of the faithful wife that her husband has all the talents, and could, if he would, be distinguished in any walk of life; and nothing would be more beautiful—unless this is a very dry time for signs—than the husband's belief that his wife is capable of taking charge of any of the affairs of this confused planet. There is no woman but thinks that her husband, the green grocer, could write poetry if he had given his mind to it, or else she thinks small beer or poetry in comparison with an occupation or accomplishment purely vegetable. It is touching to see the look of pride with which the wife turns to her husband from any more brilliant personal presence or display of wit than his, in the perfect confidence that if the world knew what she knows there would be one more popular idol.

How she magnifies his small wit and dotes upon the self-satisfied look in his face, as if it were a sign of wisdom. What a counsellor that man would make! What a warrior he would be! There are a great many corporals in their retired homes who did more for the safety and success of our armies in critical moments in the late war than any of the "high-cock-a-lorum" commanders. Mrs. Corporal does not envy the reputation of General Sheridan; she knows very well who really won Five Forks, for she has heard the story a hundred times, and will hear it a hundred more with apparently unabated interest. What a General her husband would have made, and how his talking talent could shine in Congress.

There isn't a wife in the world who has not taken the exact measure of her husband, weighed him and settled him in her own mind, and knows him as well as if she had ordered him after designs and specifications of her own. That knowledge, however, she ordinarily keeps to herself, and she enters into a league with her husband, which he was never admitted to the secret of, to impose upon the world. In nine cases out of ten he more than half believes that he is what his wife tells him he is. At any rate, she manages him as easily as the barkeeper does the elephant, with only a bamboo wand, and a sharp spike at the end. Usually she flatters him, but she has the means of pricking clear through his side on occasion. It is the greatest secret of her power to have him think that she thoroughly believes in him.

Oysters.

In strolling round the other night,
To look at 'Frisco by gas light,
Our careless feet, by chance did stray
To where a fountain's ceaseless play
Of sparkling waters, made a screen
Through which a sweet bouquet was seen;
While mossy stone and pearly shell,
O'er which the waters softly fell,
Made that window seem to be
Some fairy grotto of the sea.
"Stop," said my friend, "let's go in here
It looks so nice—and try their cheer."
"All right," I said, "I must agree
That this place suits me to a T."
No sooner had we found a seat
Than at our side a waiter neat
Made his appearance, asked our wish—
Said they had almost any dish
That we might name. We found it true,
And cooked magnificently, too;
All kinds of oysters, juicy, fat,
Cooked every style; just think of that,
And if your mouth don't water, then
You're different from other men.
They'd clam and crabs and terrapins
In fact, we found they had within
That cosy place all kinds of game,
Fish, flesh or fowl which we could name,
While every dish was, I am sure,
Prepared to tempt an epicure.
The ladies, too, have found, 'twould seem,
That they have here the best ice cream;
So here they flock, the little sinners,
To get what they call "such nice dinners."
Whoever doubts this let him rush
To three hundred thirty-seven Bush,
And there this truth he'll find made plain:
Who goes there once will go again.
Pacific Oyster House, 337 Bush street, above Montgomery; open Day and Night.
CHARLES HAAKE, Proprietor.

THE SCIENCE—for it is a science—of taking the impression of any animate or inanimate thing on Glass, Porcelain or Cardboard, by using the sun as an auxiliary, is an important one. Improvements have been made from time to time by those who have made Photography a study. To our mind (and a visit will make our readers agree with us) the Artist who presides at the Florence Gallery, 28 Third street, has attained a degree of excellence seldom achieved, if ever equalled. His Life-Size Portraits are excellent and prices low. 2bh

Epicure's Retreat.

The epicurean fond of nice grain-fed, pig-pork chop, tenderloin or roast, resorts to R. F. Bunker's 74 and 75 California Market, and is never disappointed, for "Bob," is a good feeder himself, and always keeps on hand the very best in his line. Bunker's celebrated Club Sausages will tickle the palate of the most fastidious. Even dyspeptics laugh after eating those sausages. 1z

WHERE WE CIRCULATE "FIGARO."

Everybody knows that "FIGARO" has been distributed free for years very generally throughout the city, and has been circulated as programme in every theatre and place of amusement in San Francisco; and we want everybody to know that "FIGARO" is always distributed on the Oakland Ferry-boats that bring the passengers by the great overland train to this city, and is placed in their hands every day—Sundays included. That it is mailed free every day to all the leading hotels on the Pacific Coast. That "FIGARO" is circulated by Taylor & Co., the Oakland bill distributors, every day throughout the central portions of Oakland. That it is also distributed at Sacramento and on the Sacramento steamers on their down trips to this city, and in all towns on the river side, as may be seen by the annexed certificate from A. H. Nahor, distributing agent on the steamers:

This is to certify that I have agreed to, and do, distribute "FIGARO" thoroughly on the Sacramento steamers on their down trip to San Francisco, and have made arrangements to have it generally distributed in the towns of Benicia, Martinez, Collinsville, Sherman Island, Rio Vista, Courtland, Antioch, Pittsburg Landing, New York Landing, and in all of the hotels, saloons, public places, etc., in Sacramento City. ALFRED H. NAHOR.

March 4th, 1874.

Arrangements are being made for further circulation on other lines of travel, so that "FIGARO" shall be "here, there and everywhere," and be placed in the hands of all strangers, families and business men en route to this city.

The Young Man from the East.

"I'm a stranger in this city,
I'm lately from the East,
And mighty fond of oysters;
Where can I get a feast?
I've been to all the restaurants,
But nowhere could I find,
A plate of Eastern oysters,
Of the old-fashioned kind."

"Well, I can tell you," said his friend,
"Exactly where to go,
And where to get your oysters,
Direct from where they grow.
Just take a stroll down PINE STREET,
At 410, below the Market,
You'll see a sign, 'THE SADDLE ROCK,'
You can't fail to remark it.

"Emerson Gerville keeps the place,
The best saloon in town,
There you can get your oysters raw,
Or fried so crisp and brown.
He's the largest oyster dealer
On the Pacific Coast,
And that he keeps the freshest
Has ever been his boast.

"He's got nice little private rooms,
Where you can sit at ease,
And eat your California stew,
Or Eastern if you please.
All the young men of fashion go
Right to the SADDLE ROCK,
To eat their EASTERN OYSTERS
And drink their Rhenish hock."

For Photo-crayons.

PACIFIC COAST DRAMATIC NEWS.

SAN JOSE.—The Opera House was opened on Monday night by the Madame Durot Company; the usual "fair" audience was present. "Lucretia Borgia" was performed. On Tuesday, "The Honeymoon" and "The Spectre Bridegroom" were played, to "an appreciative audience." On Wednesday, "Green Bushes" was enjoyed by an audience "which made up in enthusiasm what it lacked in numbers." On Thursday, there was a tea party given by the Rev. Hawkins Stimmon, of the First Warm Water Baptist Church, and no one went to the theatre. To-night, "Macbeth" will be produced, with Locke's music. The Mercury says: Among the attractions for the coming month, at the Opera House, are the following: The Japanese jugglers, with a minstrel variety troupe; Geo. S. Knight, Dutch comedian; J. C. Williamson and Maggie Moore in "Struck Oil."

MARYSVILLE.—The Appeal of the 8th says: The Mary Watson troupe have engaged the Marysville Theatre for two evenings, and will make its appearance on Monday evening next, in one of its choicest selections. Miss Watson is a great favorite among the patrons of the stage, and when last visiting this city was the recipient of many compliments.

GRASS VALLEY.—Josh Billings lectured on "Buty and the Beest," at Hamilton Hall on Wednesday evening.

SAN DIEGO.—Steve Massett gave an entertainment here on the 21. The Union says:

Had it not been the season of Lent, the hall would have been crowded.

Those San Diego people are too religious altogether.

PORTLAND.—On Thursday evening, April 9 h, a complimentary benefit was given at Masonic Hall, to Madame Laura A. Stevenson, under the direction of Geo. L. De Prans.

DENVER COL.—Miss Ella La Rue continued to draw crowded houses at Ward's Cricket Varieties up to April 4th. Lew Parker is a member of the company engaged here.

SALT LAKE.—Our Salt Lake exchanges not having come to hand, we do not know whether the theatre is open or not. Miss Annie Graham is to begin an engagement on the 14th, opening in "Article 47."

Sir Walter Raleigh created a consternation when he appeared before his servants smoking a pipe of Tobacco. The sight was a new one to them, and they, as well as the public in general we e slow to learn the use of the Weed Had they had Tobacco of the quality and perfect flavor which the Perique and Golden Thread Smoking Tobacco of to-day have, smoking would much sooner become almost universal. The Gilroy Tobacco Company (office 304 Pine street), are offering the above-named Tobaccos to the public, and we advise those in want of a good article to give them a trial. 8-7

Fortunio, the Goddess of Luck, must have designated one hundred and forty-four as her symbol. W. E. Mayhew believes in the number. He drew the second grand prize in the last lottery on that number, and then moved his large and complete stock of Drugs, Perfumes, etc., to 144 Fourth street. Naturally happy and free-hearted, he continues in business for the pleasure it affords him. He is actually giving a splendid Sachet Package of Rimmel's or Lubin's to every customer that comes to his store. 3 s

THE SCIENCE—for it is a science—of taking the impression of any animate or inanimate thing on Glass, Porcelain or Cardboard, by using the sun as an auxiliary, is an important one. Improvements have been made from time to time by those who have made Photography a study. To our mind (and a visit will make our readers agree with us) the Artist who presides at the Florence Gallery, 23 Third street, has attained a degree of excellence seldom achieved, if ever equalled. His Life-Size Portraits are excellent and prices low. 2bh

Do You Feel

Crossgrained and stingy? Go right to the Sanitarium, foot of Powell street, North Beach, and take a 10 or 15 minutes' (not longer) hot sea-water bath, then a smart cold shower, then a vigorous rubbing with towels, and you will come out as nimble as a monkey, and feeling benevolent enough to give away all your neighbor's property. Improvements just completed. Special department for ladies. Everything neat as wax. Single tickets, 25 cents. Five for one dollar.

Epicure's Retreat.

The epicurean fond of nice grained, pig-pork chop, tenderloin or roast, resorts to R. F. Bunker's 74 and 75 California Market, and is never disappointed, for "Bob," is a good feeder himself, and always keeps on hand the very best in his line. Bunker's celebrated Club Sausages will tickle the palate of the most fastidious. Even dyspeptics laugh after eating those sausages. 1x

FOREIGN DRAMATIC NEWS.

Foreign news to the 14th ult., speaks of the only novelty of the week at the London theatres as being a dramatization by Walter Maurice and James Rice of the novel "Ready Money Mortiboy."

John S. Clarke, having returned from wintering in Italy, was seen to reappear.

Miss Rose Evans has been engaged to appear at the New Queen's Theatre, London. The play will be "Ruth, the Reaper."

A French adaptation, entitled "Peacock's Holiday," is in rehearsal at the London Haymarket Theatre.

A female pantomime clown is engaged at the Theatre Royal, Liverpool.

Mlle. Desclee, the great original of "Frou-Frou," died at her modest residence on the Boulevard Magenta, on the 8th, of an internal complaint which had sadly afflicted her for the previous six months. Her age was thirty-seven. Her last words were "Je fonds au port." (I founder at the haven!)

Carl Rosa has decided upon founding a scholarship of the Royal Academy of Music, London, Eng., in memory of his late wife, Mme. Parepa Rosa, which will bear her name. It will be awarded by competition to British-born female vocalists between the ages of eighteen and twenty-two years, and the successful candidate will be entitled to two years free education in the Royal Academy of Music. In connection with this scholarship there will also be a prize of a gold medal with Mme. Parepa Rosa's likeness, which will be awarded to the best female vocalist in the Royal Academy of Music at the annual public distribution of prizes in July. The first election will take place in April next, for the admission of the successful candidate at the commencement of the [illegible]

Oysters.

In strolling round the other night,
To look at 'Frisco by gas light,
Our careless feet, by chance did stray
To where a fountain's ceaseless play
Of sparkling waters, made a screen
Through which a sweet bouquet was seen;
While mossy stone and pearly shell,
O'er which the waters softly fell,
Made that window seem to be
Some fairy grotto of the sea.
Stop," said my friend, "let's go in here
It looks so nice—and try their cheer."
"All right," I said, "I must agree
That this place suits me to a 'T.'"
No sooner had we found a seat
Than at our side a waiter neat
Made his appearance, asked our wish—
Said they had almost any dish
That we might name. We found it true,
And cooked magnificently, too;
All kinds of oysters, juicy, fat,
Cooked every style; just think of that,
And if your mouth don't water, then
You're different from other men.
They'd clams and crabs and terrapins'g
In fact, we found they had within
That cosy place all kinds of game,
Fish, flesh or fowl which we could name,
While every dish was, I am sure,
Prepared to tempt an epicure.
The ladies, too, have found, 'twould seem,
That they have here the best ice cream;
So here they flock, the little sinners,
To get what they call "such nice dinners."
Whoever doubts this let him rush
To three hundred thirty-seven Bush,
And there this truth he'll find made plain!
Who goes there once will go again.
Pacific Oyster House, 337 Bush street, above Montgomery; open Day and Night.
CHARLES HAAKE, Proprietor.

Managers

Of Amusements, Excursions, Lectures and Concerts, are directed to the splendid printing establishment of B. F. Sterett, 532 Clay street, over the San Francisco Market. The largest posters, in plain or fancy colors, are turned out in the shortest possible space of time. Also, beautiful programmes, tickets, etc., printed to suit the most fastidious. Mr. Sterett keeps constantly on hand a fine line of bright colored papers of every shade, and the prices charged for these is very little in advance of plain white paper. Streamers of various sizes, from 18 to 42 inch letters, in all colors of paper and ink. Theatre Managers are especially invited to call for estimates. This well known printing house was established by the present proprietor in 1850, and has been in successful operation ever since. 3-cj

What Next?

Every one knows how a photograph looks when viewed through a stereoscope—but a stereoscope cannot always be had. G. D. Morse, at 417 Montgomery street has obviated this difficulty by producing a photograph that is so clear and sharp in its outlines that one would almost think he was looking through the lens of a stereoscope. Mr. Morse's parlors look more like an art gallery than a place of business. 2-r

WHAT AN EMINENT PHYSICIAN SAYS

.....OF.....

TRUSSES!

WM. C. LINOW, M. D., OF PENDLETON, Umatilla County, Oregon says:

Marsh's Trusses are the most superior inventions of the age. Their principle is superb and construction admirably adapted to the nature of parts involved. They protect the life, restore the health, renew the functions of the kidneys and other organs, obviate the pressure upon the SPINE, PUBIC BONE and spermatic chord, and in fact do more practically than all the hundreds of "OTHER" worthless inventions put together can perform. They possess merit, and I know whereof I speak, it being fully demonstrated upon myself and numerous other patients of my own. During a study of thirty years of the respective merits of different appliances, I never had anything to meet my approbation so thoroughly as the Marsh's Patent Trusses.

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

OPERA HOUSE.—The Lingard Troupe, composed as it is of pretty women and accomplished artistes, has fairly captured the town, and the Opera House is drawing large and fashionable audiences. "La Tentation" is capitally played, and the dresses worn by the ladies of the company are not the least portion of the attraction, in the eyes of the feminine portion of the community. This very popular play will be performed at the matinee to-day and again this evening, to-morrow evening, and all next week.

CALIFORNIA THEATRE.—Both at the matinee to-day and again this evening there will doubtless be a large audience to greet the favorite comedian, John T. Raymond, in the character of Hector Placide, in Boucicault's "Led Astray." All the married people in San Francisco should attend these final performances of a play with a moral. Henry Edwards, by his admirable acting as Randolphe Chandoce, intensifies the moral which the play conveys, and Miss Annie Graham does not excite any inordinate sympathy for the discontented Armande. E. J. Buckley, as the lover, carries himself nobly and gains much applause for his capital acting.

THE NEW PALACE AMPHITHEATRE.—There will be a matinee performance to-day, at which the great bill which has delighted so many thousands during the week will be played in full. The same programme will be presented this evening, comprising Omar Kingsley in his unapproachable bareback act, the famous Carlo Family in gymnastic feats, and in the comic pantomime of "Los Quatro Amantes," the Kenebels in some of their funniest acts, the very pretty act entitled "Pyramides sur les Echelles," by Mlle. Fanny Carlo, Mlle. Amelia Bridges and the Carlo Brothers and other features specified on our first page.

BELLA UNION THEATER.—H. R. Archer, the young comedian and vocalist, who made his first appearance at this house last night, took immensely with the audience and at once established himself as a favorite. He will appear to-night in connection with the wonderful Japs, Tommy Barton, Miss Jennie Johnson, Fred Ritchie, Miss Maggie St. Clair, Miss Susie Robinson, Moore and Bray, and a host of other popular artists, who will perform a great programme of acts, songs and dances.

BUCKLEY'S NEW VARIETY THEATRE.—A great Saturday night bill will be played at this house. Johnny Price, Geo. C. Thompson, Miss Ida May, Frank Mortimore and many others will present some of their most attractive performances, and a rich selection of popular acts will be performed.

PLATT'T HALL.—The wrestling match for $1,000, between G. Tessier and A. Deligne, collar and elbow hold, two falls out of three, will come off at Platt's Hall, Saturday night. The contestants have been in training for the last six weeks, and a hard tussle may be anticipated. The men are both noted athletes and are well matched. The box office will be open at the Hall, Friday and Saturday.

PLATT'S HALL—THE LECTURE SEASON.—Gerald Massey, the author, poet and orator, will give his first lecture, at Platt's Hall, on Monday evening next. The subject will be, "The Man Shakspeare, with something new." This lecture will present to our citizens a rare opportunity that of hearing what an eminent literary man and Shakspearean student, a man noted for his subtle and analytical intellect, will have to say about Shakspeare and his works. Mr. Henry Edwards, of the California Theatre, will preside, and introduce Mr. Massey, on the occasion.

BADGER'S PARK.—The Knights of Pythias will hold a grand picnic at this Park on Friday, May 8th. The programme, which will be published in a few days, comprises games, dancing, etc. A full band will be on hand, and the committee will try their utmost to make it the picnic of the season.

I. O. B. B. PICNIC—COLUMBIA LODGE, No. 127.—This promises to be one of the finest picnics of the season, for which Badger's splendid grounds known as Grand Central Park have been engaged on Sunday, May 10th, and the arrangements for which are most complete.

AGRICULTURAL PARK.—"Caoutchouc," the Hairless Horse will be on exhibition on Sutter street this afternoon and evening, and to-morrow (Saturday) evening, after the walking match between Mr. Crittenden's noted stallion "Irwin Davis" and "Caoutchouc," which takes place at Agricultural Park at three P. M. He will walk without clothing, which fact will, no doubt, attract a large crowd of visitors.

WOODWARD'S GARDENS.—In consequence of the accident to "Le Secours" it has made the captive balloon, which can't get away and bump people on the ground, very popular. Ascents will be made on Saturday and Sunday. There are thousands of other attractions, and a general performance in the pavilion.

BADGER'S PARK.—SUNDAY EXCURSION.—To-morrow, the third annual picnic, of Scandinavian Singing Club, will be held here, and a pleasant time may be anticipated, with plenty of music thrown in. A full band in attendance. Admission fifty cents. Oakland ferry-cars run every hour direct to the Park, every half hour to Broadway station, connecting with street cars for the Park.

CITY GARDENS.—GRAND SWISS PICNIC.—The Swiss Sharpshooters, will hold their Picnic and Festival, at these gardens, on Sunday. The Sharpshooters will be escorted to the gardens, by the Swiss Singing Society, marching through the principal streets en route. At the gardens the exercises will consist of singing by the Society, instrumental concert, games and dancing, the whole to conclude with a grand ball at night. Admission fifty cents. The cars will run all night.

GOLDEN GATE PARK.—Those who drive out to the new park should visit The Villa which has just been opened. Here they will find four public parlors and ten private dining rooms. Guido Mangenberg & Co the proprietors get up epicurean dishes, dinners and suppers at short notice.

THE CLIFF HOUSE.—Captain Foster, the genial host of the Cliff House, entertains visitors from all parts of the Globe at his famous sea-side resort. The Cliff House is THE one thing San Francisco has to boast of as different from anything else in the world. Omnibuses run every day from the terminus of the Lone Mountain Railroad.

NOTES.—"Tuers & Murray's great combination," consisting of Johnny Tuers, Miss Alice Ross, Ed Murray, William Bray, the Royal Tycoon Japanese Troupe and others, will commence their interior season at Vallejo on the 18th; will show at Napa on the 20th, Sonoma 21st, and at Santa Rosa 22d 23d and 24th.

The next star at the California Theatre, after the engagement of John T. Raymond, which expires in two weeks, will be Charles Pope an actor well known here in early times and identified with the birth of the drama in California. At present he is manager and part proprietor of the Olympic Theatre, St. Louis, and during Mr. McCullough's recent engagement there, evinced his appreciation of the Shakspearean drama by spending much money in placing upon the stage "Hamlet" and "Othello" as they had never before been presented in St. Louis. Mr. Pope will make his re-appearance before the San Francisco public in the play of "Belphegor the Mountebank," which will be produced with new scenery and a full corps de ballet, with the favorite danseuse Mlle. Bonfanti, as premiere. Mr. Pope's engagement is for two weeks only.

In consequence of the immense success of "La Tentation," it will be presented at the Opera House until further notice. "Alixe" will probably be the next play. "Charity," being held in reserve as a piece de resistance.

Miss Blixi Connor, of the Chicago theatres, will shortly arrive here under engagement to manager Maguire.

Sumner Bugbee is determined to make his Old Folk's Concert, at Platt's Hall on the 22d inst. a grand success. Mme. Anna Bishop, Alfred Wilkie, Mrs. Blake, Frank Gilder, Mr. Campbell, Sam Booth, and a great number of others will appear in the costume of some few hundred years ago. Stephen Leach will arrange the songs of Merrie England in je olden tyme, and will have them sung by over thirty men and women singers. The White House dealers in pomps and vanities are engaged in making dresses for this occasion. The advocates of dress reform are expected to muster numerously on this occasion.

John McCullough will commence an engagement of one week at the Academy of Music, Chicago, on Monday next.

Miss Clara Morris is engaged to play an engagement during the Fall season at the California Theatre.

The next season at the California Theatre will commence in August. The only engagements made at present are: Miss Bella Pateman, as leading lady, and Mr. Pateman low comedian. Mr. McCullough is, during his star engagement in the East, picking out suitable actors and actresses for next season.

The following artists leave to-day with Manager Piper for his Opera House, Virginia City: Billy Sweatnam, Little Mac, Con T. Murphy, Welch and Rice, J. G. Russell, Benj. Clark, A. W. Bark, Geo. S. Knight, Charley Reed, Jule Robinson, Leon and Laiscelles, H. Lohriner, J. Kohler, W. Bohma, J. Murrios, Fred Smith, Frank Moore, Geo. Elliston and Mrs. W. H. Robinson.

On Monday, "The Wicked World" will be produced at the California Theatre, with John T. Raymond as Lutin. This new play by W. S. Gilbert, author of "Pygmalion and Galatea," "The Princess" and "The Palace of Truth," achieved a decided success at the Haymarket theatre, London. Like "Pygmalion and Galatea" it is divided into three acts, requires only one stage scene, and its action is supposed to occupy only twenty-four hours. The scene is in Fairyland, which supplies nearly the whole of the dramatis personæ. The object of the comedy is to show to fairy eyes that love is a curse and not a blessing. The sins of this "Wicked World," are exhibited in alarming colors to the residents of Fairyland.

Vanity, "a quaint, fantastic vice;" jealousy, "a universal passion;" envy, "that grieves at other men's success;" ambition, "the vice of clever men;" malice, "the hellish vice of helpless fools;" hatred, avarice, murder, rapine, theft, profanity and other sins innumerable are set down to the credit—we mean the disredit—of the wicked mortals. Here the author severely lashes our everyday offences. But the fairies want practical as well as theoretical knowledge of things below.

Mortals are summoned from earth, who create a rumpus in Fairyland, and are banished therefrom in disgrace. The piece closes with the return from earth of two fairy messengers, bearing with them the "priceless treasure" they were sent to seek—the power to love as mortals love. But the inhabitants have seen enough of the evils of love already, and their Queen sternly rejects it as "a mortal emblem, bringing in its train the direct passions of its antitype." "The Wicked World" abounds in genial wit, caustic humor and eloquent language.

The Summer Sunday excursions to Cloverdale and intermediate points will be inaugurated tomorrow. The Antelope leaves Front street wharf at 8 o'clock.

Mr. Barnum has engaged Capt. Mayne Reid to dramatize several of his novels, for production in his great Hippodrome, in New York.

Woods Cooke and Millie Turnour, arrived in New York on the 28th to join Murray's Circus.

Mrs. Jane Buckley, widow of the late James Buckley and mother of E. Bishop, G. Swaine and Frederick Buckley, died at Quincy, Mass., on March 13, in the 67th year of her age.

Gus Howard died at Alexandria, Va., on March 27, of typhoid fever. He was with George Christy for many years, and went to California with Hooley & Christy's Minstrels. During the past five years he has been performing with the Wallace Sister's Dramatic Company.

The Strakosch Italian Opera, with Ludca, will appear in Philadelphia, 13th, one week, and return to the Academy, New York, 20.

The San Francisco Minstrels opened at the Eleventh-street Opera-house, Philadelphia, on the 23d of March, and attracted a succession of large audiences during the first week. The most noticeable features of the capital programme were the "Living Pictures" by Charley Backus, Johnson and Powers' song and dance of "Oh! You Stop," and the excellent ballad singing of D. S. Wambold, Beaumont Read, and Charles Henry.

Jas. H. Budworth began an engagement at Hooley's Opera-house, Brooklyn, March 30, appearing as "Casper Veeder" in T. Murphy's drama of that name.

"Charity" was presented at the Brooklyn Theatre during the week ending March 28, with a cast embracing Miss Gertrude Kellogg as Mrs. Vanbrugh and Miss Minnie Conway as Ruth Tredgett, both of which characters were finely performed, Miss Conway's Ruth being quite a feature.

The Clipper says: F. Begamey, the caricaturist, leaves for San Francisco, April 6th, under engagement to John Wilson.

Kellogg English Opera troupe, Reading, Penn., April 14.

The New York Mercury says: Mlle. Cora Adriana, the handsome premier danseuse, goes to San Francisco under Maguire, for two months.

Mlle. Marie Bonfanti, premier danseuse, will shortly visit California professionally, under engagement to Manager McCullough.

Mrs. F. B. Conway has leased the Chesnut, Philadelphia, for a short season, commencing April 13, when "Led Astray" will be produced.

Sol. Smith Russell has been engaged as comedian at the Fifth Avenue Theatre,

The New York Mercury says: John B. McCullough, the well-known California manager and tragedian, created so great a furore during his recent engagement at the Olympic, St. Louis, that he was tendered a public banquet by the citizens to take place on the 31st. Mr. McCullough will leave for New York, April 1, and appear at Booth's May 4, under the auspices of Mr Morris Simmonds, the well-known dramatic agent of this city.

The only charge made in the cause of charity at the colossal matinee benefits under Shook and Palmer she Jarrett and Palmer on the 26th, was $300 for the use of the Academy of Music. The other theatres, artists, and all connected with the performances, cost nothing, but the benevolent stockholders, although deeply sympathizing with the poor, could not with Christian consistency forego their rent.

Billy Manning has joined Simmons and Slocum's Minstrels in Philadelphia.

Mr. Morris Simmonds, the proprietor of the well-known and old established International Dramatic Agency, 6.9 Broadway, advertises that Mr. Horace Wall, the popular agent, will become an associate in his business on May 1, and their new firm will be known as Simmons & Wall.

Lucille Western, Walnut theatre, Philadelphia, April 20.

The St. Louis Globe says of John McCullough: "Never before has an actor so won, in so short a time, by the force of his merit and the weight of his genius, upon the good and kindly feeling of St. Louis people. Their have been many who claimed the warrant of favorite to our theatre-going population, but it is questionable if one can read a clearer title to that honor than can Mr. John McCullough.

The New York Dispatch says: Our Philadelphia and other contemporaries fall into a grievous error in crediting the able and interesting interviewing articles of Wilkes' Spirit of the Times, to Colonel George H Butler, that gentleman not having been connected with the journal in question for the last three months. The articles are from the able pen of Mr. J. A. Latham, a young dramatist and journalist who has already made his mark on the Spirit.

The Lydia Thompson troupe commenced a week's engagement at the Academy of Music, Cleveland, Ohio, on March 23.

The New York Clipper, speaking of the news boys' theatre says: The Grand Duke's Opera House was last week visited by a highly distinguished assemblage, including vocalists, actors and dramatic authors. The party dropped in upon the "boys" unawares, and the sudden influx of stamps—for the visitors refused to take change—almost took the treasurer's breath away, the receipts being over $32, the largest house of the season. Conroy, the "star," shone out brilliantly before such an audience, and when he saw the genial countenance of John Brougham in the crowd, he "went for him" to write him a new piece for the Opera House, which John promised to do.

"Nyhe Crinkle" of the New York World in the course of a two-column review of Frank Mayo's acting in "Davy Crockett," says: After all, however, the chief merit is in the characterization and I can readily see that "Davy Crockett" owes in great part its success to Mr. Mayo. I am tempted to say that the character he assumes is, in its essentials of dramatic excellence, a distinct creation. I know of nothing like it on the stage. Its subdued quality, its numberless fine shades of feeling, its wholly new avoidance of the mere muscularity of heroism, and yet its admirable and constant suggestion of physical prowess, its nice preservation of the traits of the backwoodsman, his dialect, his manners, and his mental simplicity, together with the clever apprehension of the universal traits of heroism, all strike me as evidences of unusual talent and fine artistic method in the actor. Mr. Mayo has many natural qualifications for the part. He is a picture of manly beauty and health, and the grace and puissance of his action have that potent dynamic charm which all men (to say nothing of women) seek at the theatre.

The Daily Graphic, of March 15th, contains an illustration of the "living barrier" scene from "Davy Crockett."

The Chapman sisters made their appearance at the Opera House, Quincy, Ill., on March 28th, in "Little Don Giovanni", on the 30th, they produced their burlesque entitled "Louis and Leo." Both Miss Blanche and Miss Ella are great favorites.

There is a breach of promise case between two women before a Brooklyn court, damages laid at $10,000. It is not a case of Love's Labor Lost, however, of the traditional order. Mrs. Conway of the Brooklyn theatre, sues Madame Janauschek for not fulfilling an engagement. Which shows that a breach of promise suit need not always have a man at the end of it.

WHERE WE CIRCULATE "FIGARO."

Everybody knows that "FIGARO" has been distributed free for years very generally throughout the city, and has been circulated as programme in every theatre and place of amusement in San Francisco; and we want everybody to know that "FIGARO" is always distributed on the Oakland Ferry-boats that bring the passengers by the great overland train to this city, and is placed in their hands every day—Sundays included. That it is mailed free every day to all the leading hotels on the Pacific Coast. That "FIGARO" is circulated by Taylor & Co., the Oakland bill distributors, every day throughout the central portions of Oakland. That it is also distributed at Sacramento and on the Sacramento steamers on their down trips to this city, and in all towns on the river side, as may be seen by the annexed certificate from A. H. Nahor, distributing agent on the steamers:

This is to certify that I have agreed to, and do, distribute "FIGARO" thoroughly on the Sacramento steamers on their down trip to San Francisco, and have made arrangements to have it generally distributed in the towns of Benicia, Martinez, Collinsville, Sherman Island, Rio Vista, Courtland, Antioch, Pittsburg Landing, New York Landing, and in all of the hotels, saloons, public places, etc., in Sacramento City. ALFRED H. NAHOR.

March 4th, 1874.

Arrangements are being made for further circulation on other lines of travel, so that "FIGARO" shall be "here, there and everywhere," and be placed in the hands of all strangers, families and business men en route to this city.

Oysters.

In strolling round the other night,
To look at 'Frisco by gas light,
Our careless feet, by chance did stray
To where a fountain's ceaseless play
Of sparkling waters, made a screen
Through which a sweet bouquet was seen;
While mossy stone and pearly shell,
O'er which the waters softly fell,
Made that window seem to be
Some fairy grotto of the sea.
Stop," said my friend, "let's go in here
It looks so nice—and try their cheer."
"All right," I said, "I must agree
That this place suits me to a 'T.'"
No sooner had we found a seat
Than at our side a waiter neat
Made his appearance, asked our wish—
Said they had almost any dish
That we might name. We found it true,
And cooked magnificently, too;
All kinds of oysters, juicy, fat,
Cooked every style; just think of that,
And if your mouth don't water, then
You're different from other men.
They'd clams and crabs and terrapins'g
In fact, we found they had within
That cosy place all kinds of game,
Fish, flesh or fowl which we could name.
While every dish was, I am sure,
Prepared to tempt an epicure.
The ladies, too, have found, 'twould seem,
That they have here the best ice cream;
So here they flock, the little sinners,
To get what they call "such nice dinners."
Whoever doubts this let him rush
To three hundred thirty-seven Bush,
And there this truth he'll find made plain:
Who goes there once will go again.

Pacific Oyster House, 337 Bush street, above Montgomery; open Day and Night.
CHARLES HAAKE, Proprietor.

Sir Walter Raleigh created a consternation when he appeared before his servants smoking a pipe of Tobacco. The sight was a new one to them, and they, as well as the public in general were slow to learn the use of the Weed Had they had Tobacco of the quality and perfect flavor which the Perique and Golden Thread Smoking Tobacco of to-day have, smoking would much sooner become almost universal. The Gilroy Tobacco Company (office 304 Pine street), are offering the above-named Tobaccos to the public, and we advise those in want of a good article to give them a trial. 3-j

The Lucky Number

Fortunio, the Goddess of Luck, must have designated one hundred and forty-four as her symbol. W. E. Mayhew believes in the number. He drew the second grand prize in the last lottery on that number, and then moved his large and complete stock of Drugs, Perfumes, etc., to 144 Fourth street. Naturally happy and free-hearted, he continues in business for the pleasure it affords him. He is actually giving a splendid Sachet Package of Rimmel's or Lubin's to every customer that comes to his store. 3 B

Very Sad.

The Post started in well. Harry George's land articles were interesting, and his disquisitions on maritime law were very readable. All went on very well dull it "turtled" and was printed on the press of the "live paper" which is so very, very now-a-days. Since that period the Post has been retrograding. It has published flabby editorials, stupid local items, and columns of dramatic criticisms, (Heaven save the mark). Now worst of all it has "dropped into poetry, a la Silas Wegg. We cannot afford space to print in the same shape in which it originally appeared that effusion entitled "After the Matinee," which was given to the world in Saturday's matinee, but give one verse of it in the form in which it should have been printed:

Saturday, the play is ended, and the throng of ladies fair pour from out the California, glad to breathe the purer air. They quickly stream up each side Kearny; nods and becks and wreathed smiles are dealt to right and left full freely, each one uses all her wiles; each has donned her brightest war paint, stranger; for you know, of course, matinee days are occasions when the fellows in full force leave their work a good hour sooner, quit their offices and banks, disregarding filthy lucre to inspect our beauty's ranks. Ladies married, ladies single, recognize the fact, and so dress their best and look their sweetest, for that isn't wrong, you know.

Nice stuff for a paper that used to be respectable and sensible to publish. When loculitumses become "posts," their services are no longer required on well conducted journals.

Dear! Dear!

The Post says: "Governor Booth has not made a good record with the workingmen." This is a pity. Gen. A. M. Winn has, so that balances the matter. We really fancy that Governor Booth did not accept office for the purpose of making a good "record" with the workingmen. It would have been the easiest thing in the world to do if he had so chosen. The grounds of the Post's complaint are, his veto of the car conductor bill, which every car conductor knows would have docked him of one-third of his salary, and his pocketing of two or three more claptrap bills introduced by gentlemen who wished to make "a good record with the workingmen," regardless of any other considerations. The Post and Chronicle are the Chang and Eng of the San Francisco press. Eng is very sick, and we are afraid that Chang, unless he manages to get separated from Eng will be likewise affected.

A Cool Proposition.

An exchange, which is evidently edited by an idiot, says:

The French are devising the most extraordinary schemes for strengthening their army. It is now proposed to draft for active service every foreigner who is not liable to service in his own country.

It is extremely likely that the French would devise such an "extraordinary scheme" as this. The effect of it would be to keep foreigners from visiting Paris, and the effect of that would be general bankruptcy. Go to, thou art a fool.

Not Quite Recovered.

After a man is dead, it is some time before he gets out of the condition in which he was when he left this world. We say this to account for the following statement by a contemporary:

James Fisk, Jr., according to Boston mediums, spends his time in the spiritual world discovering new planets.

The reason of this condition of the late lamented James is, doubtless, that Stokes "made him see stars" and he goes on doing so.

"The Open Letter."

This paper, formerly published in Vallejo, which is somewhere on the way to Alaska we believe, is to be republished in San Francisco on Saturday, April 18th. The proprietors promise "original and brilliant matter from the pens of a corps of contributors embracing the best literary talent on the coast." The Open Letter proprietors will not pen in their contributors too strictly, hence we may expect some original ideas.

THE SCIENCE—for it is a science—of taking the impression of any animate or inanimate thing on Glass, Porcelain or Cardboard, by using the sun as an auxiliary, is an important one. Improvements have been made from time to time by those who have made Photography a study To our mind (and a visit will make our readers agree with us) the Artist who presides at the Florence Gallery, 28 Third street, has attained a degree of excellence seldom achieved, if ever equalled. His Life-Size Portraits are excellent and prices low. 2bh

Do You Feel

Crossgrained and stingy? Go right to the Sanitarium, foot of Powell street, North Beach, and take a 10 or 15 minutes' (not longer) hot sea-water bath, then a smart cold shower, then a vigorous rubbing with towels, and you will come out as nimble as a monkey, and feeling benevolent enough to give away all your neighbor's property. Improvements just completed. Special department for ladies. Everything neat as wax. Single tickets, 25 cents. Five for one dollar.

Epicure's Retreat.

The epicurean fond of nice grain-fed, pig-pork chop, tenderloin or roast, resorts to R. F. Bunker's 74 and 75 California Market, and is never disappointed, for "Bob," is a good feeder himself, and always keeps on hand the very best in his line. Bunker's celebrated Club Sausages will tickle the palate of the most fastidious. Even dyspeptics laugh after eating those sausages. 1z

Selene's Curse.

We copy from "The Wicked World," Gilbert's new comedy, the Fairy Queen's curse of Sir Ethais, an earthly knight whose love has proved inconstant. Sir Ethais caps his offence by boasting of his honor, and Selene replies:

Thine honor! Thou dost well to speak of that.
Can devils take the face and form of gods?
Are truth and treachery so near akin
That one can wear the other's countenance?
Are all men such as thou? Or art thou not
Of thine accursed race the most accursed?
Why, honorable sir, thou art a knight
That wars with womankind! Thy panoply
A goodly form, smooth tongue, and fair false face.
Thy shield a lie; thy weapon an embrace;
The emblem of thy skill a broken heart;
Thine is a gallant calling, Ethais—
Thou manly knight—thou soul of chivalry—
Thou most discreet and prudent warrior!
Away, and touch me not! My nature's gone.
May heaven rain down her fury on thy soul;
May every fibre in that perjured heart
Quiver with love for one who loves thee not!
May thine untrammeled soul at last be caught,
And fired and chained and rivetted to one
Who, with the love of heaven upon her lips,
Carries the hate of hell within her heart!
Thou phantom of the truth—thou mimic god—
Thou traitor to thine own unhappy soul—
Thou base apostate to the lovely faith,
That thou hast preached with such false eloquence
I am thine enemy!

Wine Proverbs.

In vino veritas.

A heart for wine is a heart for kindness.

A real wine drinker laughs with his eyes.

Beware of the wine vault, facilis descensus Averni.

Burgundy smiles, hock winks, champagne laughs.

Port for the people, claret for the gentry, burgundy for princes.

Good wine should drink smooth like liquified velvet.

Love stole its purple light from the wine cup.

Cupid and champagne exchange many a glance.

Of wine and love the first taste is best; no second sip equals it.

The bottle is of the aristocracy; treat it like a gentleman.

The Caliban of wine is port, the Ariel champagne.

The drunkard's fault is not the wine's, but his own.

Your stomach is your wine cellar; keep the stock small and good.

Business.

A Mrs. Dr. Martin, of Brooklyn, is looking about for half a dozen good-looking young ladies with a view to training them for temperance work. After she has them well trained, she intends to take them to the smaller towns, and hold meetings, making no charge for admission. At these meetings one of the young ladies will offer prayer, another will talk, and then all the young ladies will go around with baskets and take up a collection. Then it will be announced that on the day following, at a given hour, some specified saloon will be visited. Mrs Martin has no doubt of the success of her enterprise. She says "the man does not live who can resist the persuasion of six pretty girls of the nineteenth century."

Poor Fellow.

A member of the Boston School Committee, who does not think the election of women to that body legal, complains in the Post that he has been called "ass," "dolt," "stupid," "rowdy" and "mendacious" by the gentle sex.

Spring Style Hats.

WHAT AN EMINENT PHYSICIAN SAYS

.....OF.....

TRUSSES!

WM. C. LADOW, M. D., OF PENDLETON, Umatilla County, Oregon says:

Marsh's Trusses are the most superior inventions of the age. Their principle is superb and construction admirably adapted to the anatomy of parts involved. They protect the life, restore the health, renew the functions of the kidneys and other organs, obviate the pressure upon the SPINE, PUBIC BONE and spermatic chord, and in fact do more practically than all the hundreds of "OTHER" worthless inventions put together can perform. They possess merit, and I know whereof I speak, it being fully demonstrated upon myself and numerous other patients of my own. During a study of thirty years of the respective merits of different appliances, I never had anything to meet my approbation so thoroughly as the Marsh's Patent Trusses.

The above superior appliances are accurately applied at the Radical Cure Truss Office of

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

California Theatre.

To-night, Mr. John T. Raymond, will appear as Lutin, a comic servant, in W. S. Gilbert's beautiful fairy comedy entitled "The Wicked World." The cast will comprise Lewis Morrison, W. A. Mestayer, Miss Ellie Wilton, Mrs. Sophie Edwin, Miss Maggie Moore, Miss Emily Denin, Miss Nellie Cummins, and Miss Carrie Wyatt. The scene is laid above the clouds, happiness reigns until some of the troubles of the wicked world beneath are introduced. The performance will conclude with "Foodles," John T. Raymond playing the inebriated Timothy, and Mrs. O. R. Saunders, Tab the Toodles. There will be fun enough at the California to-night.

Opera House.

There is no necessity for any change in the programme at this house. "La Tentation" played by Horace Lingard, Miss Alice Dunning, Miss Dickey Lingard, Miss Mary Wells, J. K. Mortimer, J. Norris, John Howson and others draws immense audiences. It will be presented this evening and every evening until further notice. The next piece produced at this house will present Miss Josie Batchelder to the public.

Palace Amphitheatre.

George and Frederick Carlo in their comic act as "Les Freres Comiques," Fred O'Brien in his wonderful leaps, Omar Kingsley in his thrilling bareback rider, Johnny Cocke in his dashing two-horse hurdle act, and a great variety of other performances will be presented this evening, the jovial Kenobels enlivening the entertainment with their very funny acts.

Platt's Hall.

There will doubtless be a large and fashionable audience to listen to Gerald Massey, the popular lecturer, who will be introduced this evening to the public of San Francisco by Henry Edwards. The subject of the lecture this evening will be "The man Shakespeare, with something new." The next lecture will be given on Wednesday evening at the same place; subject: "Why does not God kill the Devil?" and the course will conclude on Friday with "The Coming Religion." Tickets for the entire course are set at the reasonable price of one dollar.

The Dickens Ball.

The Dickens Ball for the benefit of the San Francisco Female Hospital, will come off at Union Hall, on Thursday evening, April 16th. Society has been excited on this subject for weeks past, and the result will be something extraordinary. Captain Cuttle, Little Nell, Toots, Dick Swiveller, the Marchioness, Little Nell, the Cheerybles Brothers, Uriah Heep, Wilkins Micawber, Mrs. Gallp, Sally Brass, Peggotty, Carker, Joe, the Fat Boy, Mr. Pickwick, and hundreds of other characters will be represented. Tickets can be obtained at Gray's music store, Steele's drug store, Neuman's drug store, 29 Post street, and of any of the lady managers. One of woman's rights is, to be taken care of when she is sick. We hope the good people of San Francisco will prove their belief in this by crowding Union Hall, on Thursday next, and enriching the treasury of the S. F. F. Hospital.

Bella Union Theatre.

The wonderful Tycoon Japs in their great feats, H. R. Archer in songs, Miss Jennie Johnson, John Wilkes and others in the local play of the "Police Court," Moore and Bray in a double song and dance, Miss Susie Robinson in song and dance, and many other attractions will be offered to-night.

Buckley's New Variety Theatre.

George C. Thompson, Johnny Price, Miss Ida May, Hughey Morton, Miss Fanny Webster and a great many favorites will appear to-night in the programme published on our first page.

The Wrestling Match.

The wrestling match between G. Tessier and A. Deligne, came off at Platt's Hall, on Saturday evening. The contest was a short but exciting one. Mr. Tessier won the match.

Woodward's Gardens.

The great aquarium, the new aviary, the museum, the art gallery, the skating pavilion, the seal pond, and other attractions draw immense crowds of visitors. The captive balloon makes ascensions on Saturday and Sunday.

BADGER'S PARK.—The Knights of Pythias will hold a grand picnic at this Park on Friday, May 8th. The programme, which will be published in a few days, comprises games, dancing, etc. A full band will be on hand, and the committee will try their utmost to make it the picnic of the season.

I. O. B. B. PICNIC—COLUMBIA LODGE, No. 127.—This promises to be one of the finest picnics of the season, for which Badger's splendid grounds known as Grand Central Park have been engaged on Sunday, May 10th, and the arrangements for which are most complete.

ANATOMICAL MUSEUM.—One of the most complete collections of the kind in the United States, comprising hundreds of costly and beautiful wax models, is daily on view (to gentlemen only), at the Museum on Montgomery street. An hour may be profitably spent here.

Managers

Of Amusements, Excursions, Lectures and Concerts, are directed to the splendid printing establishment of B. F. Sterett, 532 Clay street, over the San Francisco Market. The largest posters, in plain or fancy colors, are turned out in the shortest possible space of time. Also, beautiful programmes, tickets, etc., printed to suit the most fastidious. Mr. Sterett keeps constantly on hand a fine line of bright colored papers of every shade, and the prices charged for these is very little in advance of plain white paper. Streamers of various sizes, from 18 to 42 inch letters, in jet ck, of all colors of paper and ink. Theatre Managers are especially invited to call for estimates. This well known printing house was established by the present proprietor in 1850, and has been in successful operation ever since. 3-cj

OUR BABY.

BY MARY D. BRINE.

There's a dear little head with rings of hair
Just softly clustering here and there;
There are dear little eyes that are soft and bright,
Just fresh from the glory of heaven's light.
There's a baby to love with a love so true:
I know whose baby it is, do you?

There are two little lips that have known the bliss
So oft already of mother's kiss;
There are two little hands which must cling ere long
To mother's hand, so tender and strong.
There's a baby to guard and love so true:
I know whose baby it is, do you?

There are dear little feet that have not yet tried
To wander away, o'er this earth so wide;
That must learn so carefully, day by day,
The weary road that is life's pathway.
There's a baby to guide and love so true:
I know whose baby it is, do you?

There's a dear little heart that has yet to learn
For how many things a heart can yearn;
That is beating on in its little life,
With never a thought of care or strife.
There's a baby to pray for and love so true:
I know whose baby it is, do you?

Woman Items.

The wife of the editor of the British Medical Journal, Mrs. Ernest Hart, has gone to Paris for the purpose of studying, with a view to taking her medical degrees.

The Lower Houses of the Legislatures of Iowa and Michigan have declared in favor of amending the constitutions of these States so as to extend the suffrage to women.

Sarah Smiley, the Quaker preacher, has taken captive the Toledo Blade, for whom "her sweet voice swells out into mellifluous modulations more captivating than the highest flights of oratory."

The Sophomore class at the Wesleyan University "embraces four young ladies." An appreciative exchange thinks that it would be more conducive to comfort if there was one apiece all around.

Pity the sorrows of the wealthy. (If you are only a newspaper man, that is about the nearest you will ever come to a personal acquaintance with the woes of the wealthy.) That beautiful ex-distributor of superfine hash at a Terra Haute (Ind.) hotel, hasn't slept a wink since the gallant beaus of the towns discovered that she had inherited $40,000 in gold. She says "them noises is worse than a regiment of sick fish-horns." She is serenaded regularly every night, vocally and instrumentally.

Practicing Dentistry.

The Walla Walla Union knows a young man in that county who writes "Dr." before his name and "M. D." after it, who, after having, to his own satisfaction, mastered the science of medicine and surgery, has concluded to turn his attention to practical dentistry. In order to enable him to pull teeth without pain, he procured the head of a sheep that had lately been slaughtered, and repaired to the brush along the bank of a creek. When thus secluded, as he supposed, from "prying eyes," he produced his forceps, gently smoothed the sheep's face with his hand, probably to inspire the patient with confidence, then opened its mouth, laid firmly hold of a molar with his "tooth hooks" and gave surge that brought out the tooth. He then stepped back, wiped his forceps on the seat of his pants, and said in the most soothing tone, "Madam, did it hurt you?" A man who was fishing in the creek, not twenty feet away, didn't hear what the sheep said.

What Next?

Every one knows how a photograph looks when viewed through a stereoscope—but a stereoscope cannot always be had. G. D. Morse, at 417 Montgomery street has obviated this difficulty by producing a photograph that is so clear and sharp in its outlines that one would almost think he was looking through the lens of a stereoscope. Mr. Morse's parlors look more like an art gallery than a place of business. 2-T

"In vino veritas—there is truth in wine. It was the saying of all antiquity that deep drinkers are great talkers, and that wine induces us to speak the truth."

"Alcoholism as a disease is dying out. The question used to be between much alcohol and a little. The question now is between very little and none at all."—Lancet.

I have pondered over it as others have done, and I am inclined to place the desire for fermented liquors side by side with the desire for immorality, for both are unknown to the brute creation, and I regard them as distinctive features of the masterpiece of the last sublunary revolution."—Brillat-Savarin.

He Couldn't Stand It.

A funny scene occurred the other night at the Bowery Theatre, New York, where the stage was occupied by the representation of a bedroom at midnight, with an old gentleman reading a letter. To the sound of slow music a villain entered the room, and with a cat-like tread approached the old man, clutching in his hand a glittering knife. He approached slowly, and the excitement among the gamins in the gallery became intense. Just as the would-be assassin was about to make the deadly plunge at the unsuspecting victim, a boy who was leaning with open mouth far over the railing of the gallery sung out with frantic earnestness, "Look behind you guv'ner. There's a feller goin' to stab yer!" The assassin dropped his knife and roared with the audience, and the curtain was rung down without anybody being murdered.

The Young Man from the East.

"I'm a stranger in this city,
I'm lately from the East,
And mighty fond of oysters;
Where can I get a feast?
I've been to all the restaurants,
But nowhere could I find,
A plate of Eastern oysters,
Of the old-fashioned kind."

"Well, I can tell you," said his friend,
"Exactly where to go,
And where to get your oysters,
Direct from where they grow.
Just take a stroll down PINE STREET,
At 410, below the Market,
You'll see a sign, 'THE SADDLE ROCK,
You can't fail to remark it.

"Emerson Corville keeps the place,
The best saloon in town,
There you can get your oysters raw,
Or fried so crisp and brown.
He's the largest oyster dealer
On the Pacific Coast,
And that he keeps the freshest
Has ever been his boast.

"He's got nice little private rooms,
Where you can sit at ease,
And eat your California stew,
Or Eastern if you please.
All the young men of fashion go
Right to the SADDLE ROCK,
To eat their EASTERN OYSTERS
And drink their Rhenish hock."

WHERE WE CIRCULATE "FIGARO."

Everybody knows that "FIGARO" has been distributed free for years very generally throughout the city, and has been circulated as programme in every theatre and place of amusement in San Francisco; and we want everybody to know that "FIGARO" is always distributed on the Oakland Ferry-boats that bring the passengers by the great overland train to this city, and is placed in their hands every day—Sundays included. That it is mailed free every day to all the leading hotels on the Pacific Coast. That "FIGARO" is circulated by Taylor & Co., the Oakland bill distributors, every day throughout the central portions of Oakland. That it is also distributed at Sacramento and on the Sacramento steamers on their down trips to this city, and in all towns on the river side, as may be seen by the annexed certificate from A. H. Nahor, distributing agent on the steamers:

This is to certify that I have agreed to, and do, distribute "FIGARO" thoroughly on the Sacramento steamers on their down trips to San Francisco, and have made arrangements to have it generally distributed in the towns of Benicia, Martinez, Collinsville, Sherman Island, Rio Vista, Courtland, Antioch, Pittsburg Landing, New York Landing, and in all of the hotels, saloons, public places, etc., in Sacramento City. ALFRED H. NAHOR.

March 4th, 1874.

Arrangements are being made for further circulation on other lines of travel, so that "FIGARO" shall be "here, there and everywhere," and be placed in the hands of all strangers, families and business men en route to this city.

Oysters.

In strolling round the other night,
To look at 'Frisco by gas light,
Our careless feet, by chance did stray
To where a fountain's ceaseless play
Of sparkling waters, made a screen
Through which a sweet bouquet was seen;
While mossy stone and pearly shell,
O'er which the waters softly fell,
Made that window seem to be
Some fairy grotto of the sea.
Stop," said my friend, "let's go in here
It looks so nice—and try their cheer."
"All right," I said, "I must agree
That this place suits me to a 'T.'"
No sooner had we found a seat
Than at our side a waiter neat
Made his appearance, asked our wish—
Said they had almost any dish
That we might name. We found it true,
And cooked magnificently, too;
All kinds of oysters, juicy, fat,
Cooked every style; just think of that,
And if your mouth don't water, then
You're different from other men.
They'd clam sand crabs and terrapins'll
In fact, we found they had within
That cosy place all kinds of game,
Fish, flesh or fowl which we could name,
While every dish was, I am sure,
Prepared to tempt an epicure.
The ladies, too, have found, 'twould seem,
That they have here the best ice cream;
So here they flock, the little sinners,
To get what they call "such nice dinners."
Whoever doubts this let him rush
To three hundred thirty-seven Bush,
And there this truth he'll find made plain:
Who goes there once will go again.

Pacific Oyster House, 337 Bush street, above Montgomery; open Day and Night.

CHARLES HAAKE, Proprietor.

Sir Walter Raleigh created a consternation when he appeared before his servants smoking a pipe of Tobacco. The sight was a new one to them, and they, as well as the public in general were slow to learn the use of the Weed Had they had Tobacco of the quality and perfect flavor which the Perique and Golden Thread Smoking Tobacco of to-day have, smoking would much sooner become almost universal. The Gilroy Tobacco Company (office 304 Pine street), are offering the above-named Tobaccos to the public, and we advise those in want of a good article to give them a trial. 3-J

The Lucky Number

Fortune, the Goddess of Luck, must have designated one hundred and forty-four as her symbol. W. E. Mayhew believes in the number. He drew the second grand prize in the last lottery on that number, and then moved his large and complete stock of Drugs, Perfumes, etc., to 144 Fourth street. Naturally happy and free-hearted, he continues in business for the pleasure it affords him. He is actually giving a splendid Sachet Package of Rimmel's or Lubin's to every customer that comes to his store. 3 B

Stick to Business.

The Grass Valley Union says:

Mrs. J. A. Duniway, edits and is the proprietor of the New Northwest, a weekly newspaper published at Portland, Oregon. She earned the money, on a sewing machine, with which to purchase the material for the paper, and she raised the boys who do the work of the office. She is at present lecturing in this county on the subject of temperance and she shows herself to be a woman of good strong sense, pleasing all who hear her.

We are in favor of a woman doing everything she can, but she should stick to one thing. If Mrs. Duniway had stuck to running a sewing machine, or raising boys, or editing a paper, she might have made a success of either of these occupations, but to try to do all at once and, in addition, to run round the country lecturing on temperance, is attempting too much.

The Best Way.

The Cincinnati Saturday Night says: Happy times these for publishers of newspapers. If they don't take sides both parties are mad at 'em. If they go for right recklessly, then one side is mad as a rail, and the other side want a conservative consideration of all their whims, which is simply impossible for a level-headed human to accord. The only way to do is to shut your eyes, follow your innate convictions and speak the truth to the best of your ability; not forgetting that the question of "What is truth?" remains an unanswered problem to the worldling even to this days.

The Grass Valley Bachelors.

The Grass Valley Union takes a paragraph from FIGARO in which it is prophesied that the young and pretty Indiana crusaders will be absorbed before they reach Grass Valley, and says: Grass Valley is not alarmed in the least, and our bachelors here are the poorest absorbers in the world. They will not absorb the girls who are here right under their eyes all the time, and the girls who are prettier by far than any Indiana can send out or keep at home.

Discouraging.

A man pardoned out of the State Prison by Governor Booth three months ago, came to this city and commenced a drunk, which he wound up on Saturday by committing suicide by taking morphine. He saved up enough money while in prison to enable him to go on this debauch. If the Governor had allowed him to serve his full term of five years he might, perhaps, have accumulated a sufficient sum to invest in real estate instead of whisky.

Lord Bacon on Riches.

I cannot call riches better than the baggage of virtue; the Roman word is better, impedimenta,—for as the baggage is to an army so is riches to virtue; it cannot be spared nor left behind but it hindereth the march; yea, and the care of it sometimes loseth or distributeth the victory. Of great riches there is no real use, except it be in the distribution; the rest is but conceit.

Unpopular.

The Chronicle is running a tilt against the cemeteries. It is strongly in favor of cremation instead of interment. Muffington thinks that to use the bodies of one's relatives for fuel would be a burning shame.

THE SCIENOR—for it is a science—of taking the impression of any animate or inanimate thing on Glass, Porcelain or Cardboard, by using the sun as an auxiliary, is an important one. Improvements have been made from time to time by those who have made Photography a study To our mind (and a visit will make our readers agree with us) the Artist who presides at the Florence Gallery, 23 Third street, has attained a degree of excellence seldom achieved, if ever equalled. His Life-Size Portraits are excellent and prices low. 2bh

Do You Feel

Crossgrained and stingy? Go right to the Sanitarium, foot of Powell street, North Beach, and take a 10 or 15 minutes' (not longer) hot sea-water bath, then a smart cold shower, then a vigorous rubbing with towels, and you will come out as nimble as a monkey, and feeling benevolent enough to give away all your neighbor's property. Improvements just completed. Special department for ladies. Everything neat as wax. Single tickets, 25 cents. Five for one dollar.

What Next?

Every one knows how a photograph looks when viewed through a stereoscope—but a stereoscope cannot always be had. G. D. Morse, at 417 Montgomery street has obviated this difficulty by producing a photograph that is so clear and sharp in its outlines that one would almost think he was looking through the lens of a stereoscope. Mr. Morse's parlors look more like an art gallery than a place of business. 2-T

Epicure's Retreat.

The epicurean fond of nice grain-fed, pig-pork chop, tenderloin or roast, resorts to R. F. Bunker's 74 and 75 California Market, and is never disappointed, for "Bob," is a good feeder himself, and always keeps on hand the very best in his line. Bunker's celebrated Club Sausages will tickle the palate of the most fastidious. Even dyspeptics laugh after eating those sausages. 1z

Important to Smokers.

Few men in San Francisco are aware that the enterprising firm Kahn & Haas are employing white female labor in the manufacture of their Cigars. The very best material is used in this establishment. Call and convince yourself at 773 Market street, between Third and Fourth streets. Finest brands Havana Cigars constantly on hand. 11-T

REMOVAL.—Madame Clara Antonia, the Clairvoyant Physician and Independent Trance Medium, 20 Geary street, near Kearny. Consol-

Agassiz and Children.

He was a great lover of children. He was constantly speaking to them in the street and caressing them, not from affectation or desire to be popular, but because he could not help it. A friend tells me of an instance which well illustrated his tenderness for children. Once, while conducting some scientific experiments, it became necessary to have some water immediately. Agassiz seized a pitcher and ran out to a pump near by. He went out quickly, but was slow in coming back. They waited twice as long for the water as would have sufficed to bring it, and then went out to see what was the matter. There sat Agassiz down by the pump, his legs crossed, and a little child, which he was fondly soothing and caressing, nestled in between them. In his haste at the pump he had accidentally struck the child standing near by. Though the blow was of little account, the exigencies of science seemed to him the less important, and he had to put down his pitcher and open his heart. When deeply engaged in scientific investigation, he would leave his work to seize and fondle a child that had strayed into his room, and the interrupted mental process seemed to be resumed without difficulty.

Thankful Girl.

The Truckee Republican tells the following nice anecdote of the sweet simplicity of one of its young girls: "A Miss in town who reads the papers, recently perused an account of Professor Denton's lectures in San Francisco on the subject of the "Antiquity of man." The Miss was very much interested in that portion of the lecture which described man as having been a million years or so ago nothing more than a cannibal, "born naked in the world, and in appearance but little above a wild beast." After reading this vivid description of our forefathers to her mother, she exclaimed, "How thankful I am Ma, that I was not born a cannibal—and naked. How awful it would have been!"

Hurrah for the Old Maids.

The New York Ledger comes to the rescue of old maids, as follows: "Shriveled and withered you say they are! Men and women grow old and grow gray, whether married or single; but many an old maid lingers to-day on this mundane sphere who would have died long ago, an unhappy but popular and admired wife, had she consented to marry some man whom she does not love, but did despise, and said 'Yes' where conscience and God commanded her to say 'No.' Long live old maids, and let no woman, from the fear of becoming one, ever willfully and deliberately sacrifice herself. It is the next crime to suicide."

A Safe Investment.

A noted broker in New York, who hesitates in his speech, lately gave excellent advice about investment. One of his friends said to him:

"I've just mortgaged my house, and have a few thousands to spare. Can't you tell me of something good and safe to go into, where I can make a neat thing and be perfectly secure?"

Ye-ye-yes, I k-k-know a-a-a first-r-r-rate thing f-f-for you."

"What is it!"

"B-b-b-buy that mort-mort-gage!"

Startling.

An Indianapolis father shot six times at a supposed burglar, and was astonished to hear the fellow ask: "Whazzer mazzer, fazzer; whazzer doing?"

Spring Style Hats.

Light, beautifully finished and graceful in shape, the new Spring style of Hats manufactured at "The" Hat Store, 647 Washington street (second hat store below Kearny street), is just the thing to make a man look a hundred per cent. better. .....OF.....

TRUSSES!

WM. O. LABOW, M. D., OF PENDLETON, Umatilla County, Oregon says:

Marsh's Trusses are the most superior inventions of the age. Their principle is superb and construction admirably adapted to the anatomy of parts involved. They protect the life, restore the health, renew the functions of the kidneys and other organs, obviate the pressure upon the SPINE, PUBIC BONE and spermatic chord, and in fact do more practically than all the hundreds of "OTHER" worthless inventions put together can perform. They possess merit, and I know whereof I speak, it being fully demonstrated upon myself and numerous other patients of my own During a study of thirty years of the respective merits of different appliances, I never had anything to meet my approbation so thoroughly as the Marsh's Patent Trusses.

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

Opera House.

The capital acting of Miss Alice Dunning, Wm. Horace Lingard, Miss Dickey Liegard and others, engaged in the representation of "Our Tantation," have won for this play a popularity which Boucicault's "Led Astray" failed to achieve. On Thursday evening, the beautiful society play of "Charity," will be produced.

California Theatre.

A delightful performance of W. S. Gilbert's charming fairy comedy entitled "The Wicked World" was given at this theatre last night. J. T. Raymond was perfectly at home in the comic part of Lutin, and caused much amusement, gaining both a plaudit and laughter for his rendition of the part. Lewis Morrison and W. A. Mestayer as the fairies Ethais and Phyllon and as their mortal counterparts, Sir Ethais and Sir Phyllon, played the characters with much skill, giving good effect to the blank verse and playing with much spirit. Miss Ellie Wilton, who distinguished herself so much in the role of Cynisca in "Pygmalion and Galatea," was equally at home in that of Selene, the Fairy Queen, acting it with grace and animation and reading the speeches charmingly. She was encouraged by liberal applause. Her delivery of Selene's defiance of Ethais, and denunciation of his baseness, was positively grand, and fairly brought down the house. Mrs. Sophie Edwin, as the amorous Darine, was particularly good, and Miss Maggie Moore as the sprightly Zayda, was all that could be desired. Miss Carrie Wyatt, who is a very pleasing reader, was good as Locrine, and the text had generally full justice done it. The language is very beautiful and is well worthy of the careful reading bestowed on it by the members of the California Theatre company. The play is magnificently mounted; an outburst of applause on the rising of the curtain betokened the audience's appreciation of the efforts of Mr. Porter. The costumes of the fairies are very beautiful and must have cost an immense sum. The stage presented a brilliant appearance and there was no lack of beauty. The manner in which "The Wicked World" was received last night, proved that it had made a hit and it will doubtless attract crowded houses. The evening's entertainment terminated with the comic drama entitled "The Toodles," in which Mr. Raymond sent the audience into fits of laughter by his wonderfully comic acting as the inebriated Timothy, and was ably supported by Mrs. C. R. Saunders and others. The same attraction this evening.

Platt's Hall.

Gerald Massey had a large and appreciative audience last night, when he delivered his first lecture entitled "The man Shakspeare, and something new." Mr. Massey fulfilled his promise to the letter. He presented a sub le analysis of the character of Shakspeare, and advanced entirely new and original theories concerning disputed passages in his sonnets and plays, casting light on what has hitherto seemed obscure and meaningless to many who have read and even studied Shakspeare. Space will not permit an extended review of this admirable lecture in these columns. We can only state that the matter was valuable and interesting, and the manner of the lecturer earnest and forcible. Mr. Massey does not depend on tricks of elocution to move his hearers. He says what he has to say in a plain, earnest, straightforward way. He has a clear, distinct voice, the tones of which are very pleasant and reach the hearts as well as the ears of the listeners. Henry Edwards introduced the lecturer in a brief speech, and afterwards remained on the stage reveling in the new information brought forward to enable all to better understand his favorite author. Mr. Massey will deliver his next lecture, at Platt's Hall, to-morrow night. The title will be "Why does not God kill the Devil?" We are sure it will be thoroughly enjoyed by all who listen to it.

Palace Amphitheatre.

The wonderfully amusing Kenebels, the daring and graceful Omar Kingsley, the Carlo Family, Miss Amelia Bridges, Fred O'Brien, Johnny Cooke and others, who make up the great combination at this establishment, present an entertainment which can scarcely be surpassed. There will be a matinee to-morrow, when all the stars will appear.

Bella Union Theatre.

The capital vocalism of H. R. Archer, the wonderful feats of the Japs, the sprightly acting of Miss Jennie Johnson, Tommy Barton's character songs, Fred Ritchie's "Dutch Blunders," and a great variety of other performances make up a rich evening's entertainment at this house.

Buckley's New Variety Theatre.

A bright first part is followed by an amusing olio of songs, acts and dances, specialties by George O. Thompson, sketches by Mortimore, and other attractive performances. The evening's fun terminates with a rattling afterpiece.

The Dickens Ball.

The Dickens Ball for the benefit of the San Francisco Female Hospital, will come off at Union Hall, on Thursday evening, April 16th. Society has been excited on this subject for weeks past and the result will be something extraordinary. Captain Cuttle, Little Nell, Toots, Dick Swiveller, the Marchioness, Little Nell, the Oberrable Brothers, Uriah Heep, Wilkins Micawber, Mrs. Gamp, Sally Brass, Peggotty, Carker, Joe, the Fat Boy, Mr. Pickwick, and hundreds of other characters will be represented. Tickets can be obtained at Gray's music store, Steele's drug store, Neuman's drug store, 29 Post street, and of any of the lady managers. One of woman's rights is, to be taken care of when she is sick. We hope the good people of San Francisco will prove their belief in this by crowding Union Hall, on Thursday next, and enriching the treasury of the S. F. F. Hospital.

BADGER'S PARK.—The Knights of Pythias will hold a grand picnic at this Park on Friday May 8th. The programme, which will be published in a few days, comprises games, dancing, etc. A full band will be on hand, and the committee will try their utmost to make it the picnic of the season.

I. O. B. B. PICNIC—COLUMBIA LODGE, No. 127.—This promises to be one of the finest picnics of the season, for which Badger's splendid grounds known as Grand Central Park have been engaged, on Sunday, May 10th, and the arrangements for which are most complete.

ANATOMICAL MUSEUM.—One of the most complete collections of the kind in the United

Notes.

We find the following paragraph in the telegraphic dispatches to the morning papers:

CHICAGO, April 13.—Mr. John McCullough has been long looked for in Chicago, and at last has been secured by Mr. Gardner. He opened at the Academy this evening, in the character of Spartacus, in the "Gladiator," supported by Charles Pope as Phasarius, and Miss Lillie as Senona. Mr. McCullough was every inch a gladiator, and made a great hit in Spartacus. He was called before the curtain at the end of every act, and received the warmest congratulations in the general applause.

Lewis Morrison.

The popular leading man of the California Theatre company, will take his farewell benefit and make his last appearance next week, John T. Raymond, giving up a night to him for that purpose. He will produce his best star play, "Rose," written expressly for him, by Miss Celia Logan. The California public gave Mr. Morrison a hearty welcome, he has since then done his best to please them and they will no doubt muster numerously to bid him adieu and wish him success in the new line in which he has struck out.

Woodward's Gardens.

The great aquarium, the new aviary, the museum, the art gallery, the skating pavilion, the seal pond, and other attractions draw immense crowds of visitors. The captive balloon makes ascensions on Saturday and Sunday.

City Gardens.

The tenth yearly picnic and ball of the Steuben Guard, Captain C. Wechats, will be held at the City Gardens, on Sunday next, the 19th inst. The Guards will be escorted to the grounds by the famous San Francisco Cadets, who will add to the interest of the occasion by giving an exhibition of their remarkable "Blindfold Drill." There will be rifle shooting and games of all kinds, concert and dance, and music by Alpers' favorite band. Admission fifty cents. Cars will run all night.

THE THREE WATCHWORDS.

BY ALFRED MORRIS.

To wait, to wait, to work;
Ah, me: the fiery sun,
The level, treeless, barren, dew-drained fields—
I would the Work was done!

To watch, to work, to wait;
Ah me! the tedious roar
Of wreck-strewn oceans roofed with sombre clouds—
I would the Watch was o'er!

To wait, to work, to watch;
Ah, me! Thou absent Friend,
Comest Thou quickly? So Thou saidst; I would
The Waiting had an end!

My soul, be still and strong;
Night follows after faith.
In all advancement of the true and good,
He cometh as he saith.

My soul, be still and strong;
Here on the Lord's estate
No place is useless, no experience vain.
Work on; Watch on; and Wait.

Dion Boucicault.

The New York Dispatch, in answer to a correspondent, gives the following brief biography of Boucicault: The early life of Mr. Dion Boucicault, the actor and dramatist, is veiled in obscurity. When quite a young man he appeared in some of the English provincial towns, under the assumed name of Mr. Lee Morton. When examined in the English Court of Bankruptcy, in 1848, he himself stated that he was an Irishman, but that his father was a Frenchman; that his name was Boucicault, and when he visited France he passed as the Viscompte De Boucicault, to which he had a right. He was born in Dublin, December 26, 1820, and educated under the care of his guardian, Dr. Lardner, and at the London University.

Solid Sermonizing.

A sermonizer made these remarks on the following soul-saving question: "My brethren, a man cannot afford to lose his soul. He's got but one, and he can't get another. If a man loses his horse he can get another; if he loses his wife he can get another; if he loses his child he can get another; but if he loses his soul—good-by, John."

Managers

Of Amusements, Excursions, Lectures, and Concerts, are directed to the splendid Printing Establishment of B. F. Sterett, 532 Clay Street, over the San Francisco Market. The largest Posters, in Plain or Fancy Colors, are turned out in the shortest possible space of time. Also, Beautiful Programmes, Tickets, etc., etc. printed to suit the most fastidious. Mr. Sterett keeps constantly on hand a fine line of bright colored papers of every shade, and the prices charged for these are very little in advance of plain white paper. Streamers of various sizes, from 18 to 42 inch letters, in stock, of all colors of paper and ink. Theatre Managers are especially invited to call for estimates. This well known Printing House was established by the present proprietor in 1850, and has been in successful operation ever since. 3-cj

Nothing makes a person laugh so much as a set of new teeth.

Mark Twain believes in the Woman Movement if it is confined to the wash-tub.

Stepping with the bare feet on an oil-cloth at 2 A. M., rarely fails of suggesting new figures of speech.

"The "Roving Wild Cats of Tiger Valley" is the name of a Nebraska State military company.

A Slawson funeral was postponed one day to enable the friends and relatives to attend the Black Crook matinee.

Tickets of invitation to his execution have been printed and mailed to his friends by a Georgian condemned.

If a stick of wood is too long for the stove kick it a few times with your heel. Then take it out and saw it off.

A North Carolina landlord posts a notice in his dining-room that the Legislature would be first seated, afterward the gentlemen.

If there is one time more than another when a woman should be entirely alone it is when a line full of clothes comes down in the mud.

A lady fainting at the Opera House Thursday evening, begged her husband with her failing breath not to forget to put the mackerel in soak.

Mr. Cobleigh left off his flannels Thursday, and on Friday morning he quietly said to his wife, "Mid. Cobleid, ged by udder-gloads dabgwick!"

A Danbury lady of lately acquired wealth who visited Dr. Myers, Friday, to be vaccinated, said she wanted the highest-priced scab—an Alderney, she believed.

A plumber has his dark and disagreeable phases of life like other people. At some houses he has to sit on a wooden bottom chair while waiting for his fire to come up or a boy to return from the shop with the forgotten solder.

One of the best preserved of the customs handed down to us by our ancestors, is burning straw bedding in the back yard. A few fresh bones in the heap imparts an aroma that no one can describe, although many of the neighbors will try to.

It was a grand pleasure coming down through the main avenues, Saturday morning, while on each side and overhead the snow-laden branches and twigs interlaced within each other formed walls and arch of most delicate tracery, and finding fresh shad in market.

The husband of Mrs. Whipple, the prominent temperance woman, had a narrow escape from a most ludicrous accident, Tuesday morning. He had been to one of the neighbors to borrow some bread, and was going up the stoop of his house on his return, when a ten-penny nail used to fasten his pants and suspenders together gave away, and he had but just time to spring through the door as the pants came down.

The Young Man from the East.

"I'm a stranger in this city,
I'm lately from the East,
And mighty fond of oysters;
Where can I get a feast?
I've been to all the restaurants,
But nowhere could I find,
A plate of Eastern oysters,
Of the old-fashioned kind."

"Well, I can tell you," said his friend,
"Exactly where to go,
And where to get your oysters,
Direct from where they grow.
Just take a stroll down PINE STREET,
At 410, below the Market,
You'll see a sign, 'THE SADDLE ROCK,
You can't fail to remark it.

"Emerson Corville keeps the place,
The best saloon in town,
There you can get your oysters raw,
Or fried so crisp and brown.
He's the largest oyster dealer
On the Pacific Coast,
And that he keeps the freshest
Has ever been his boast.

"He's got nice little private rooms,
Where you can sit at ease,
And eat your California stew,
Or Eastern if you please.
All the young men of fashion go
Right to the SADDLE ROCK,
To eat their EASTERN OYSTERS
And drink their Rhenish hock."

WHERE WE CIRCULATE "FIGARO."

Everybody knows that "FIGARO" has been distributed free for years very generally throughout the city, and has been circulated as programme in every theatre and place of amusement in San Francisco; and we want everybody to know that "FIGARO" is always distributed on the Oakland Ferry-boats that bring the passengers by the great overland train to this city, and is placed in their hands every day—Sundays included. That it is mailed free every day to all the leading hotels on the Pacific Coast. That "FIGARO" is circulated by Taylor & Co., the Oakland bill distributors, every day throughout the central portions of Oakland. That it is also distributed at Sacramento and on the Sacramento steamers on their down trips to this city, and in all towns on the river side, as may be seen by the annexed certificate from A. H. Nahor, distributing agent on the steamers:

This is to certify that I have agreed to, and do, distribute "FIGARO" thoroughly on the Sacramento steamers on their down trips to San Francisco, and have made arrangements to have it generally distributed in the towns of Benicia, Martinez, Collinsville, Sherman Island, Rio Vista, Courtland, Antioch, Pittsburg Landing, New York Landing, and in all of the hotels, saloons, public places, etc., in Sacramento City. ALFRED H. NAHOR.

March 4th, 1874.

Arrangements are being made for further circulation on other lines of travel, so that "FIGARO" shall be "here, there and everywhere," and be placed in the hands of all strangers, families and business men en route to this city.

Oysters.

In strolling round the other night,
To look at 'Frisco by gas light,
Our careless feet, by chance did stray
To where a fountain's ceaseless play
Of sparkling waters, made a screen
Through which a sweet bouquet was seen;
While mossy stone and pearly shell,
O'er which the waters softly fell,
Made that window seem to be
Some fairy grotto of the sea.
Stop," said my friend, "let's go in here
It looks so nice—and try their cheer."
"All right," I said, "I must agree
That this place suits me to a 'T.'"
So sooner had we found a seat
Than at our side a waiter neat
Made his appearance, asked our wish—
Said they had almost any dish
That we might name. We found it true,
And cooked magnificently, too;
All kinds of oysters, juicy, fat,
Cooked every style; just think of that,
And if your mouth don't water, then
You're different from other men.
They'd clams and crabs and terrapins'd
In fact, we found they had within
That cosy place all kinds of game,
Fish, flesh or fowl which we could name,
While every dish was, I am sure,
Prepared to tempt an epicure.
The ladies, too, have found, 'twould seem,
That they have here the best ice cream;
So here they flock, the little sinners,
To get what they call "such nice dinners."
Whoever doubts this let him rush
To three hundred thirty-seven Bush,
And there this truth he'll find made plain:
Who goes there once will go again,
Pacific Oyster House, 337 Bush street, above Montgomery; open Day and Night.
CHARLES HAAKE, Proprietor.

Sir Walter Raleigh created a consternation when he appeared before his servants smoking a pipe of Tobacco. The sight was a new one to them, and they, as well as the public in general we e slow to learn the use of the Weed Had they had Tobacco of the quality and perfect flavor which the Perique and Golden Thread Smoking Tobacco of to-day have, smoking would much sooner become almost universal. The Gilroy Tobacco Company (office 304 Pine street), are offering the above-named Tobaccos to the public, and we advise those in want of a good article to give them a trial. 3-y

The Lucky Number

Fortunia, the Goddess of Luck, must have designated one hundred and forty-four as her symbol. W. E. Mayhew believes in the number. He drew the second grand prize in the last lottery on that number, and then moved his large and complete stock of Drugs, Perfumes, etc., to 144 Fourth street. Naturally happy and free-hearted, he continues in business for the pleasure it affords him. He is actually giving a splendid Sachet Package of Rimmel's or Lubin's to every customer that comes to his store. 3-B

Do Not Suffer from Corns.

The unfortunate sufferers from Corns, Bunions, Club and Ingrowing Nails, can find instant relief by applying at Dr. R. H. Cowan's Institute, 310 Kearny street, from 1 to 6 P.M. We speak from experience, having tested the Doctor's capability. References given if required. x

REFORMERS.

When we recently deprecated the habit indulged in by so many of making fun of the reformers, we did not mean to say that all the so-called reformers were actuated by worthy motives and merited the esteem and encouragement of the community. Far from it. Too many seek not the well-being of the human race, but notoriety for themselves, hoping eventually to gain some substantial benefit from such notoriety. Men and women who would not waste two words or ten minutes on a drunkard, will deliver tirades against the evils of intemperance, two hours in duration, to an audience composed of people who never got drunk in their lives. Not entirely disinterested are these reformers. Men and women who lack the brains and education to compose a decent newspaper article, will rise to address an audience at Pollywog Hall, and fancy that they are leaders in the great army of Progress. We don't believe it, but still we say, let them alone. They swell the ranks. Numbers count. Never mind what motives these people are actuated by, they are helping on the work. Each one of them can, perhaps, lay a brick in the new edifice which reformers are trying to rear. What matters it if each one of them thinks that on his or her efforts alone depends the stability of the fabric. Let him or her hug the pleasing delusion. Let each one of them lay a brick and die. We don't think that reformers as a rule make such luxurious living out of their labor that anyone need envy them. Dio Lewis and Gough, feather their nests pretty comfortably, but thousands make only a bare subsistence. All cannot be leaders; if the rank and file enlist only for their pay and rations, and don't care a picayune which side wins, still they may for the sake of that paltry remuneration do good service in a fight. At any rate leave the reformers alone as long as the principles they advocate or think they advocate, are such as would, if carried out, secure more happiness to the human race. They are all doing something toward a great work, even as the small coral insect is helping to build an island in utter ignorance of the magnitude of the work in which he is engaged. The world is not too good; there is plenty of room for reformers, and we say don't discourage them, even if you cannot understand them or respect their motives.

A Nice Pudding.

An exchange says:

The wife of one Hood, an Ohio murderer to be hung next month, made a pudding of rice, saws, files, aquafortis, and sugar, to console her condemned husband during his last days; but before the little luxury had been entirely consumed the keeper interposed and put Hood back on regular prison fare—he could be controlled so much better.

We don't think such a pudding could be healthy. It would have probably caused a breaking out. If Hood had made use of it he would not be able to digest now.

A Wyoming Bear.

"Dorothy Williams, of Wyoming, met a grizzly bear on the way to church." We are pained to note, from further perusal of the narrative, that the religiously disposed bear gave up his intention of listening to the sermon and swallowed the old lady. He doubtless thought her the most digestible.

Pretty Severe Punishment.

With all the horror of intemperance now manifesting itself, we don't think the public of San Francisco are ready to admit that a man who gets drunk and becomes noisy and insulting deserves to be knocked down and stabbed to death with a bowie knife.

Took Their Teddy.

An irreligious exchange points out that Noah, the only man good enough to be saved at the flood, and Lot, the only righteous man in Sodom, both got drunk at the first opportunity.

What Next?

Every one knows how a photograph looks when viewed through a stereoscope—but a stereoscope cannot always be had. G. D. Morse, at 417 Montgomery street has obviated this difficulty by producing a photograph that is so clear and sharp in its outlines that one would almost think he was looking through the lens of a stereoscope. Mr. Morse's parlors look more like an art gallery than a place of business. 2-r

Epicure's Retreat.

The epicurean fond of nice grain-fed, pig-pork chop, tenderloin or roast, resorts to B. F. Bunker's 74 and 75 California Market, and is never disappointed, for "Bob," is a good feeder himself, and always keeps on hand the very best in his line. Bunker's celebrated Club Sausages will tickle the palate of the most fastidious. Even dyspeptics laugh after eating those sausages. 1z

Important to Smokers.

Few men in San Francisco are aware that the enterprising firm Kahn & Haas are employing white female labor in the manufacture of their Cigars. The very best material is used in this establishment. Call and convince yourself at 773 Market street, between Third and Fourth streets. Finest brands Havana Cigars constantly on hand. 11-r

Spring Style Hats.

Fresh and Sweet.

For the best confectionery, go to Canty and

Very Just.

The Cincinnati Times, commenting on sympathy expressed for Rochefort by a contemporary, says:

"If the Commercial means to say that Rochefort's punishment was too severe, and that he is deserving of pity, we agree with it; if it means to say that his principles merit laudation, and that he is a safe man for an orderly and peace-loving citizen to follow, we disagree. Rochefort and Bradlaugh both are extreme agitators. They rebel not so much against a form of government as against the powers that be. They would cry revolution as much under the Consuls as under Cæsar. Their watchword is revolt, and they have written it in very bloody characters."

Rochefort is to be welcomed when he reaches San Francisco. If the welcome is warm enough, he may, perhaps, go into partnership with either Mr. Marriott of the News Letter or Mr. Thistleton of the Jolly Giant.

Good for the Post.

The Post's editorials have generally a good, manly tone about them, it is only now and then any narrow-minded utterance is found in them. The following with regard to women and their rights is outspoken enough to please anyone: "We should like to see more avenues of employment open to women; not that we do not believe that by right of sex they should be exempted from most of the rough work of the world, and not that we quarrel with the public opinion which makes the husband the sole provider for the family; but that we want to see women more independent, more free, to marry or not, as they please. If woman suffrage would secure this, then we are in favor of woman suffrage."

"His Highness."

The Examiner says: A citizen residing in the southern portion of the city, who is considerably annoyed by hoodlums, has lodged a complaint in writing at the police headquarters. Following is a copy of the complaint:

To the honorable mayor t. g. cockril, Chief of Police—Dear Sir:—I have been anoyed by a lot of boyes better known as hoodlums, who congregate around my store. You will comfer a grate favour to relief me of this troubles. Your Highness allow me to state that I am not able to discribe the trouble what I have to undergo by those inferior set of mankind. In checking this hard concern you will confer an everlasting favour to your most subordinate servant.

Insinuating Girls.

Rhode Island girls are not wanting in the art of gently insinuating that, like Barkis, "they're willin'." It was only recently that a lady walking one evening, under the classic shades of Brown University, overheard the following conversation between a young lady and gentlemen just in front of her: "Charley, did you ever hear it said that if a person found a four-leaved clover and put it in their shoe, the first lady or gentleman the person walked with would be their husband or wife?" "No—never heard of it before." "Well, I found one and put it in my shoe this morning, and you are the first one I have walked with. I wonder if it is true?"

She Saw the Joke.

A Maine husband wanted to bet his wife that she could not whip a panther, but she saw the joke and refused to try.

THE SCIENCE—for it is a science—of taking the impression of any animate or inanimate thing on Glass, Porcelain or Cardboard, by using the sun as an auxiliary, is an important one. Improvements have been made from time to time by those who have made Photography a study To our mind (and a visit will make our readers agree with us) the Artist who presides at the Florence Gallery, 23 Third street, has attained a degree of excellence seldom achieved, if ever equalled. His Life-Size Portraits are excellent and prices low. 2bh

Superstitions.

A certain business man in this city pretends to believe in a certain lucky number, but we don't believe it, else he would not change his luck by changing his number as he is about doing, or in other words he proposes to constitute himself a committee of two with full power to increase the number from time to time. However, we wish them luck.

.....OF.....

TRUSSES!

WM. C. LADOW, M. D., OF PENDLETON, Umatilla County, Oregon says:

Marsh's Trusses are the most superior inventions of the age. Their principle is superb and construction admirably adapted to the anatomy of parts involved. They protect the life, restore the health, renew the functions of the kidneys and other organs, obviate the pressure upon the SPINE, PUBIC BONE and spermatic chord, and in fact do more practically than all the hundreds of "OTHER" worthless inventions put together can perform. They possess merit, and I know whereof I speak, it being fully demonstrated upon myself and numerous other patients of my own During a study of thirty years of the respective merits of different appliances, I never had anything to meet my approbation so thoroughly as the Marsh's Patent Trusses.

The above superior appliances are accurately applied at the Radical Cure Truss Office of

SPEAKS FOR ITSELF

SAN FRANCISCO, April 2d, 18

DR. ABORN 213 GEARY STREET—DEAR SIR On my arrival in this city from Salt Lake last January, I was induced to call on you for treatment for deafness. I had been deaf for about years; although retaining my speaking faculty had forgotten to modulate my voice, so long it since I had heard myself speak, but now able to carry on a conversation without trouble provided that my attention is not detracted surrounding noises. If any one wishes to test efficacy of my cure they are at liberty to call at the Holden House, on Kearny street, between Sacramento and California.

Yours Very Truly,

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

California Theatre.

"The Wicked World" with its beautiful scenery, charming fairy costumes and admirable acting by John T. Raymond, Miss Ellie Wilton, Lewis Morrison, W. A. Mestayer, Miss Maggie Moore, Mrs. Sophie Edwin, Miss Nellie Cummins, Miss Emily Denin, Miss Carrie Wyatt, the Stanley Sisters, Miss Katy Pell, Miss Murphy, Miss Castilla and others, was thoroughly enjoyed by a large audience last night. The farce of "Poodles" concluded one of the most attractive entertainments of the season. "The Wicked World" should be witnessed by all who have seen and enjoyed "Pygmalion and Galatea" and the "Palace of Truth," by the same author.

Opera House.

The very interesting drama entitled "La Tentation," which has made such a hit at this house, will be played this evening for the last time. To-morrow evening W. S. Gilbert's drama entitled "Charity," which has had a very successful run in New York, will be presented with a very strong cast.

Palace Amphitheatre.

William Carlo and his infant pupils, Leotard and Harry, the wonderfully comical Kenebels, the Ducrow Brothers, Johnny Cooke, the great Omar Kingsley, and a host of other stars will appear at the matinee performance to-day and again this evening.

Platt's Hall.

To-night Gerald Massey will deliver a lecture bearing the startling title "Why does not God kill the Devil?" So many people have been asking this recently, the Devil having had things pretty much his own way of late in San Francisco, that we are sure Platt's Hall will be thronged by persons seeking information on the subject. Those who might be kept away by an amiable dislike to hear any one abused, need not, we think be alarmed on this point. Mr. Massey is an eminently just man, and will, we are sure, give the Devil his due and not use harsher language than the occasion may seem to justify.

The Dickens Ball.

The Dickens Ball for the benefit of the San Francisco Female Hospital, will come off at Union Hall, on Thursday evening, April 16th. Society has been excited on this subject for weeks past and the result will be something extraordinary. Captain Cuttle, Little Nell, Toots, Dick Swiveller, the Marchioness, Little Nell, the Cheerybie Brothers, Uriah Heep, Wilkins Micawber, Mrs. Quilp, Sally Brass, Peggotty, Carker, Joe, the Fat Boy, Mr. Pickwick, and hundreds of other characters will be represented. Tickets can be obtained at Gray's music store, Steele's drug store, Neuman's drug store, 29 Post street, and of any of the lady managers. One of woman's rights is, to be taken care of when she is sick. We hope the good people of San Francisco will prove their belief in this by crowding Union Hall, on Thursday next, and enriching the treasury of the S. F. F. Hospital.

Bella Union Theatre.

The male and female minstrels in a lively first part, H. R. Archer, the talented vocalist, in ballads, Master Jimmy Moore in song and dance, Kelly and Barton in the act of "The Floating Head," Miss Jennie Johnson and others in the local play of "The Police Court," the wonderful Japs in their great feats, and other entertainments will be presented this evening.

Buckley's New Variety Theatre.

George C. Thompson in his original specialities Mortimere, Devoy and Morton in acts, Johnny Price in song and dance, Miss Lotta Gray in vocal gems, and others in various specialities, will present a capital entertainment this evening.

Woodward's Gardens.

Captive ascensions on Saturday and Sunday by Prof. Allen's balloon. On Sunday, at four o'clock, Prof. Allen will make a grand free ascension, three miles high, with the chances of landing at the Alameda County Hospital or wherever the wind may take him. The Kenebel frog feat and other performances in the Pavilion on Sunday.

City Gardens.

The tenth yearly picnic and ball of the Steuben Guard, Captain C. Wochats, will be held at the City Gardens, on Sunday next, the 19th inst. The Guards will be escorted to the grounds by the famous San Francisco Cadets, who will add to the interest of the occasion by giving an exhibition of their remarkable "Blindfold Drill." There will be rifle shooting and games of all kinds, concert and dance, and music by Alpers' favorite band. Admission fifty cents. Cars will run all night.

I. O. B. B. PICNIC—COLUMBIA LODGE, No. 127.—This promises to be one of the finest picnics of the season, for which Badger's splendid grounds known as Grand Central Park have been engaged, on Sunday, May 10th, and the arrangements for which are most complete.

ANATOMICAL MUSEUM.—One of the most complete collections of the kind in the United States, comprising hundreds of costly and beautiful wax models, is daily on view (to gentlemen only) at the Museum on Montgomery street. An hour may be profitably spent here.

Arrived.

Mr. W. Hoskins, a comedian of repute, and Miss Florence Colville, a very clever young actress, arrived here yesterday on the "Tartar" from Australia.

Managers

Of Amusements, Excursions, Lectures, and Concerts, are directed to the splendid Printing Establishment of B. F. Sterett, 532 Clay Street, over the San Francisco Market. The largest Posters, in Plain or Fancy Colors, are turned out in the shortest possible space of time. Also, Beautiful Programmes, Tickets, etc., etc. printed to suit the most fastidious. Mr. Sterett keeps constantly on hand a fine line of bright colored papers of every shade, and the prices charged for these are very little in advance of plain white paper. Streamers of various sizes, from [illegible] to 42 inch letters, in stock, of all colors of paper and ink. Theatre Managers are especially invited to call for estimates. This well known Printing House was established by the present proprietor in 1850, and has been in successful operation ever since. 3-cj

LET US LOVE.

Love, let us love! What have we else to do?
Who cannot count one hour of life to come;
Who only know the present to be true,
The voice that now we hear to be not dumb;
To whom, as on a barren beach we stand,
The past and future are the tide-whelmed sand.

Love, let us love! For love and life and death—
What else?—we know are real; and as we must
By nature's force both hold and yield our breath,
So let us take, not forced, but as in trust,
Upon ourselves the third reality,
And love so long as love, life, death shall be.

Loveless Marriage.

The New York Ledger says:

"I do not love him now, but think perhaps I might after we should be married."

This is the burden of so many letters addressed to us that we esteem it worth while to answer them, one and all, in our editorial column.

You do not love him, but think you may after marriage. And in this state of mind you propose to marry. You give him a husband's control over you; and accord to him all the rights and privileges of a husband over a wife; you bind yourself to him for life, before you love him, if you ever should love him at all, which you concede is doubtful.

You think you may love—may! If you should it might be well enough.

But suppose you do not, what then?

It is fearful to contemplate. The bare possibility makes one shudder. The weariness, the loneliness, the dreariness, the days of unsatisfied longing, the nights of sleeplessness and tears—altogether the life of utter misery and woe which is the lot of a wife wedded to an unloved husband, is something dreadful to contemplate.

No, no. The chance is one which no conscientious, no sane person should ever take.

Your prayer: "Suffer us not to be led into temptation," should comprehend a supplication that you may not incur the peculiar temptations which beset the path of unloving and unloved married persons.

Do not marry one whom you do not love.

A Pleasant Talk.

A Louisville reporter has had what he called "a pleasant conversation with an amiable undertaker" on the subject of cremation.

Some wag sends us the following: "The first question of the crusaders—Do you worship the jug-ger-naut?"

Customs of Different Countries.

Prentice Mulford writing from Paris says, "That a breakfast without wine is deemed almost an impossibility by a true Frenchman." Mott, when Minister to England, in writing of the English people, notices the universal use of what may be called that nations beverage—English Ale. The brawny coal heavers in New Castle, the powerful Cornish miners in the tin mines of Cornwall, the sturdy Welsh, the thrifty Scot, the versatile Irishman deem ale a necessity to enable them to perform their toils, while the highest in the land, both male and female, require their glass or tankard of ale, not only to assuage their thirst but to give tone and vigor to their system. Travellers say that tea and rice form the principal part of the living in the Chinese Empire. The above is certainly not more true than that ale, porter and roast beef go far towards forming the meat and drink of an Englishman. We have English Ale and Porter here in San Francisco, but it is not the ale and porter that is obtained in England. Stock ale and porter as used in England, will not bear shipment to this country, unless a certain amount of alcohol is used, which tends to make it more of an alcoholic drink than a malt beverage. Englishmen in this country, and Americans who have visited England, often express their regret at not being able to obtain a glass of British Beer, as they call it. Messrs Merrifield & Rosener some time since, conceived the idea of brewing ale and porter here in San Francisco similar to the English beverages. For that purpose, one of the gentlemen made a visit to England, where he visited some of the most noted breweries, and also secured the services of English brewers, whom he brought to San Francisco with him, his partner in the meantime making the necessary arrangements here. Messrs. M. & R. proposed to have their ale ready for the market before informing the public of their movements. Of course, their friends were aware of their intentions, and from them others learned of it, so that before their stock was ready for market (although they had hogshead after hogshead full and placed in tiers, it had not got the age that the English brewers had decided it should have), people were calling at their main depot, 521 Market street first to try it and then almost invariably to order a dozen bottles or a package sent to their residence. Although their would-be customers were satisfied with the ale Messrs. M. & R. were determined not to sell until they were satisfied that their ale and porter would prove what they call it "The Star Ale and Porter." They are now ready, for the Market, and that they will find a ready sale is the belief of all who have tried it.

The cheapest place in the city to buy Human and Imitation hair goods, Toys, Dolls, Ribbons etc., is the New York store 110 Second street. An Irishman speaking of suicide, said the only way to stop it was to make it a capital offense, punishable with death.

They will never cease getting up horrors in Chicago. There is now a movement on foot to abolish free lunches in that city.

"If a Miss is as good as a mile, how good is a Mrs.?" If she is a widow, she will be good for a league under any circumstances.

At what hour did the devil make his appearance in the Garden of Eden? Some time in the night. He certainly came after Eve.

The Shah of Persia wants Mrs. Colt, widow of the great fire-arm manufacturer, to come over to his delightful kingdom and make horse pistols for the Mohammedans.

A boy at Danville, Illinois, has had his skull fractured while playing base-ball. It is sad to think of the death of one so full of promise, so early in the base-ball season.

Heroism is limited, after all. A girl who, the other day jumped into Merrimac River and rescued a drowning child, fainted away when she saw her false curls floating down stream.

An "affair of honor" may be looked for soon in Brooklyn. An affectionate wife recently found pieces of an ostrich plume in her husband's beard—and the plume was not her own.

Two young ladies of Lacrosse were standing by the side of a ditch thirteen feet wide, which they didn't know how to cross, when their escort said "snakes!" and they cleared it at a bound.

Her Opinion of It.

A young lady in this city who has a mother that is rather too circumspect to suit her fancy, complains that every time charming Gus comes to see her, mother seats herself in the parlor with them as though she was trying to sit them out. She says Gus sometimes stays until 12 o'clock, but her mother don't get tired worth a cent, and she firmly believes that the old lady would sit there and knit and sew until broad daylight in the morning. A few nights since Gus remained until 3 o'clock in the morning, just to see how things would work; the mother hummed that lively old tune, "When shall we three meet again," and when the beau announced that he was going, she placidly said, "Oh, don't be in a hurry," adjusted her glasses, and went on with the tune. After dinner the young lady reasoned with her mother, and said she did not like it. "Why," said the mother, "I thought you would like to have my company." "No, mother," she said, "your room about the time Gus is here would be company, and you must know that my opinion is, 'two is company and three is a crowd.'" The mother is now debating the question, and says she believes that is the way she used to think when she was courting.

Unprincipled.

Here is a man whom we do not hesitate to call the most unprincipled advertiser who ever lived. The brass of some chaps is grim and peculiar, if not gloomy:

"A Chicago hair restorer went out into the suburbs, stuck his posters all over a church pulpit, and then asked the minister to call attention to them."

The Young Man from the East.

"I'm a stranger in this city,
I'm lately from the East,
And mighty fond of oysters;
Where can I get a feast?
I've been to all the restaurants,
But nowhere could I find,
A plate of Eastern oysters,
Of the old-fashioned kind."

"Well, I can tell you," said his friend,
"Exactly where to go,
And where to get your oysters,
Direct from where they grow.
Just take a stroll down PINE STREET,
At 410. below the Market,
You'll see a sign, 'THE SADDLE ROCK,
You can't fail to remark it.

"Emerson Colville keeps the place,
The best saloon in town,
There you can get your oysters raw,
Or fried so crisp and brown.
He's the largest oyster dealer
On the Pacific Coast,
And that he keeps the freshest
Has ever been his boast.

"He's got nice little private rooms,
Where you can sit at ease,
And eat your Ostfornia stew,
Or Eastern if you please.
And the young men of fashion go
Right to the SADDLE ROCK,
To eat their EASTERN OYSTERS
And drink their Rhenish hock."

WHERE WE CIRCULATE "FIGARO."

Everybody knows that "FIGARO" has been distributed free for years very generally throughout the city, and has been circulated as programme in every theatre and place of amusement in San Francisco; and we want everybody to know that "FIGARO" is always distributed on the Oakland Ferry-boats that bring the passengers by the great overland train to this city, and is placed in their hands every day—Sundays included. That it is mailed free every day to all the leading hotels on the Pacific Coast. That "FIGARO" is circulated by Taylor & Co., the Oakland bill distributors, every day throughout the central portions of Oakland. That it is also distributed at Sacramento and on the Sacramento steamers on their down trips to this city, and in all towns on the river side, as may be seen by the annexed certificate from A. H. Nahor, distributing agent on the steamers:

This is to certify that I have agreed to, and do, distribute "FIGARO" thoroughly on the Sacramento steamers on their down trips to San Francisco, and have made arrangements to have it generally distributed in the towns of Benicia, Martinez, Collinsville, Sherman Island, Rio Vista, Courtland, Antioch, Pittsburg Landing, New York Landing, and in all of the hotels, saloons, public places, etc., in Sacramento City. ALFRED H. NAHOR.

March 4th, 1874.

Arrangements are being made for further circulation on other lines of travel, so that "FIGARO" shall be "here, there and everywhere," and be placed in the hands of all strangers, families and business men en route to this city.

Oysters.

In strolling round the other night,
To look at 'Frisco by gas light,
Our careless feet, by chance did stray
To where a fountain's ceaseless play
Of sparkling waters, made a screen
Through which a sweet bouquet was seen;
While mossy stone and pearly shell,
O'er which the waters softly fell,
Made that window seem to be
Some fairy grotto of the sea.
Stop," said my friend, "let's go in here
It looks so nice—and try their cheer."
"All right," I said, "I must agree
That this place suits me to a 'T.'"
No sooner had we found a seat
Than at our side a waiter neat
Made his appearance, asked our wish—
Said they had almost any dish
That we might name. We found it true,
And cooked magnificently, too;
All kinds of oysters, juicy, fat,
Cooked every style; just think of that,
And if your mouth don't water, then
You're different from other men.
They'd clams and crabs and terrapins'd
In fact, we found they had within
That cosy place all kinds of game,
Fish, flesh or fowl which we could name,
While every dish was, I am sure,
Prepared to tempt an epicure.
The ladies, too, have found, 'twould seem,
That they have here the best ice cream;
So here they flock, the little sinners,
To get what they call "such nice dinners."
Whoever doubts this let him rush
To three hundred thirty-seven Bush,
And there this truth he'll find made plain:
Who goes there once will go again,
Pacific Oyster House, 337 Bush street, above Montgomery; open Day and Night.
CHARLES HAAKE, Proprietor.

Sir Walter Raleigh created a consternation when he appeared before his servants smoking a pipe of Tobacco. The sight was a new one to them, and they, as well as the public in general were slow to learn the use of the Weed Had they had Tobacco of the quality and perfect flavor which the Perique and Golden Thread Smoking Tobacco of to-day have, smoking would much sooner become almost universal. The Gilroy Tobacco Company (office 304 Pine street), are offering the above-named Tobaccos to the public, and we advise those in want of a good article to give them a trial. 3-j

THE SELF-EDUCATED MAN.

We respect the self-educated man. We respect any educated man. The self-educated man, however, is too apt to make himself a nuisance, by insisting that his education must necessarily be a superior article, that it is better than the education for which a man's father paid when he was a boy. He might just as well say, because he made his pants himself, that they are superior to those which a man can procure of a fashionable tailor. We are willing to admit that it was very creditable of him to educate himself, and that he is a better man for it, but we won't admit that his education, which he picked up laboriously, must necessarily be better than a collegiate education which came to some one else as a rightful heritage, his position in life entitling him to it. We don't want the self-educated man to undervalue an education of this kind. If his education is as good, so much the better for him. If he only commenced learning Latin and Greek when he was twenty-four years of age, and mastered these languages before he was thirty, we will confess he is a clever fellow, and deserves credit for so doing. But his Latin isn't any better than that which was taught a more fortunate person who commenced at seven years old and finished his education by the time he was twenty-one. These self-educated men must not look down on those who went to school, and they must not insist that they know more than they do. If they have a right to do this then Blind Tom, who plays by ear has a right to consider himself a better musician than Rubenstein. The self-educated man who is modest, and regrets his lack of early educational advantages, must be respected by every one, but as a rule self-educated men are, after all, only half-educated. They think they know it all, but they don't. They imagine that the knowledge which they have acquired with so much painstaking is rare and exceptional, and are unwilling to admit that it is possessed by others. A great many of them also will not allow that there is anything they don't know, or couldn't know if they so desired. We don't at all object to the self-educated man considering himself the equal of any other educated man, but that he is his superior we will not allow, until he shows full and sufficient cause for our so acknowledging.

The Man Shakspeare.

Shakspeare is regarded by many with a feeling akin to idolatry. He is regarded as above all criticism. Gerald Massey, in his lecture entitled as above, makes Shakspeare a more real personage than many other students of his works have done. He shows that he was not above getting even on an enemy by introducing a sly cut at him in one of his plays, that he often appealed to the public by a "local allusion," or reference to passing events. Shakspeare did not scorn to make a pun and often made a very bad one. He sometimes chose a friend as hero for a play, and in fact did very much as writers of the present day do. He was a shrewd business man and liked to make money; he was a convivial soul and loved his glass. "Take him for all in all, he was a man," (nothing more) but, we shall not look upon his like again.

Don't Do It.

We wish Gerald Massey wouldn't call Shakspeare "Willie." Does he call Tom Moore "Tommy?" We much prefer, if Mr. Massey must call Shakspeare pet names, that he speak of the poet as "Bill." "Willie" is too soft a name for such a man as Shakspeare.

San Jose Fashions.

A rural belle attended a ball and wore a red bombazine dress, ruched with a point, alpaca, and an overskirt of rose gingham with a border of parsely blossoms.

What Next?

Every one knows how a photograph looks when viewed through a stereoscope—but a stereoscope cannot always be had. G. D. Morse, at 417 Montgomery treet has obviated this difficulty by producing a photograph that is so clear and sharp in its outlines that one would almost think he was looking through the lens of a stereoscope. Mr. Morse's parlors look more like an art gallery than a place of business. 2-T

Epicure's Retreat.

The epicurean fond of nice grain-fed, pig-pork chop, tenderloin or roast, resorts to R. F. Bunker's 74 and 75 California Market, and is never disappointed, for "Bob," is a good feeder himself, and always keeps on hand the very best in his line. Bunker's celebrated Club Sausages will tickle the palate of the most fastidious. Even dyspeptics laugh after eating those sausages. 1z

Important to Smokers.

Few men in San Francisco are aware that the enterprising firm Kahn & Haas are employing white female labor in the manufacture of their Cigars. The very best material is used in this establishment. Call and convince yourself at 773 Market street, between Third and Fourth streets. Finest brands Havana Cigars constantly on hand. 11-T

Spring Style Hats.

Very Stupid.

Some stupid fellow wrote to us to ask the name of the doctor who was present at the Dress Reform meeting at Anthony's Hall, Monday. He says the Call reporter calls him sometimes Dr. Tinkum, sometimes Dinkum, and also Binkum and Winkum, and Tinkum. He says these can't be mistakes of the printer, and wishes to know what it means. Bless your soul this is "fun"—Call fun. Spelling a man's name wrong is fun. You can always make fun of a man in that way. Try it on some of your friends. If a man's name is Jones, call him Bones, or Dones, or Mones, or Sones. Mind you don't get your head punched, though.

Not a Dress Reformer.

Our American Portia, Phœbe Conzens, the young St. Louis lawyer, doesn't dress like her brothers at the bar, according to the Golden Age. She wears a heavy silk with a polonaise richly trimmed with black lace, roses in her bosom, white frills around her neck, and a sparkling aigrette in her hair. While pleading she wears a modest jacket with black velvet hat and plumes, which she often removes while speaking.

A Good Fellow.

Dr. Doran, writes the London Figaro, gives the following characteristic anecdote of the kind-hearted Shirley Brooks: "Some years ago, a fellow-journalist suddenly died; Shirley took his old comrade's work, in addition to his own, for a year, in order that the widow might receive that year's salary. It was a noble subscription in her behalf."

Unexpected.

A Danbury man, who recently lost his wife, was asked by a friend, several days after, if she did not die suddenly. "Indeed she did," he exclaimed, with much feeling. "Why, only a week afore, there was a man around here that wanted to insure her, but I never dreamed of anything happening. And," he added apologetically, "I don't believe anybody would have thought it to look at her."

Love's Rights.

This was the way it happened: Susan Brown and Charles Cady were sitting up together in Georgia, when old Brown came in with a shot-gun and Charles pulled a revolver and whanged him full of bullets. The coroner's jury said it was a justifiable case of manslaughter, and sparking hasn't been interrupted since.

Reform is a task which fools and idlers always defer to some future period.

Managers

Of Amusements, Excursions, Lectures, and Concerts, are directed to the splendid Printing Establishment of B. F. Sterett, 532 Clay Street, over the San Francisco Market. The largest Posters, in Plain or Fancy Colors, are turned out in the shortest possible space of time. Also, Beautiful Programmes, Tickets, etc., etc. printed to suit the most fastidious. Mr. Sterett keeps constantly on hand a fine line of bright colored papers of every shade, and the prices charged for these are very little in advance of plain white paper. Streamers of various sizes, from 18 to 42 inch letters, in stock, of all colors of paper and ink. Theatre Managers are especially invited to call for estimates. This well known Printing House was established by the present proprietor in 1850, and has been in successful operation ever since. 3-cj

THE SCIENCE—for it is a science—of taking the impression of any animate or inanimate thing on Glass, Porcelain or Cardboard, by using the sun as an auxiliary, is an important one. Improvements have been made from time to time by those who have made Photography a study To our mind (and a visit will make our readers agree with us) the Artist who presides at the Florence Gallery, 28 Third street, has attained a degree of excellence seldom achieved, if ever equalled. His Life-Size Portraits are excellent and prices low. 2bh

.....OF.....

TRUSSES!

WM. O. LADOW, M. D., OF PENDLETON, Umatilla County, Oregon says:

Marsh's Trusses are the most superior inventions of the age. Their principle is superb and construction admirably adapted to the anatomy of parts involved. They protect the life, restore the health, renew the functions of the kidneys and other organs, obviate the pressure upon the SPINE, PUBIC REGION and spermatic chord, and in fact do more practically than all the hundreds of "OTHER" worthless inventions put together can perform. They possess merit, and I know whereof I speak, it being fully demonstrated upon myself and numerous other patients of my own During a study of thirty years of the respective merits of different appliances, I never had anything to meet my approbation so thoroughly as the Marsh's Patent Trusses.

The above superior appliances are accurately applied at the Radical Cure Truss Office of

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

Opera House.

To-night, W. S. Gilbert's play entitled "Charity," will be produced with the cast given on our first page. The plot is as follows: Mrs. Van Brugh lives with her daughter, Eve, in affluence. She is esteemed by most with whom she comes in contact, the one point on which her conduct fails to meet universal approval consisting in her readiness to help the fallen of her own sex, who never find her ears closed to their appeals. Eve has two suitors—one, the favored, Fred Smailey, the son of a prosperous country gentleman, the other and the less fortunate, being Ted Atheiney, a son of Dr. Atheiney, the vicar of the parish and bishop-elect of a distant colony. The elder Smailey has agreed to the marriage of his son with Eve. He has, however, a rooted conviction that there is some mystery in connection with her birth, his suspicion pointing to the idea that at the time of her father's marriage with her mother he had a first wife still living. To ascertain the truth of this he employs Fitz Partington, a private inquiry officer, who the more gladly attempts the investigation as he has a second mission on hand that may easily be coupled with it, that is, of tracing home to Smailey a forgery he is believed to have committed. His reasons for prosecuting the inquiry into Mrs. Van Brugh's marriage are, that he is next of kin to the late Captain Van Brugh, and that the discovery she is not married will transfer her property to him. Smailey, pushing his inquiries into her past life, and telling her his reasons for suspecting her, receives from the distraught woman a confession that she never was married to the man whose name she bears. Her daughter's birth is illegitimate, and her right to the property she possesses is, she now for the first time sees, more than doubtful. Making a forlorn appeal to her persecutor, she offers, if he will bury the knowledge of her sin in his own mind, to surrender her property to him. This proposal the Pharasaic Smailey refuses, and he goads the woman to such a point that she is at length compelled herself to disclose her true position to those who have esteemed her, and, bitterest mortification of all, to her daughter. The scene in which she does this, forms the climax of the play. The remaining action is occupied with bringing out the characters of those around her. Smailey the younger shows himself a worthy son of his father, and breaks off the engagement with Eve in a manner indescribably base and cowardly. Dr. Atheiney, as becomes his sacred functions, holds out to the penitent woman the hand of forgiveness inviting her to cross the water with him and commence a new life, where the secrets of her life are known no more. His son, meantime, shows that his affection for Eve is undiminished, and a pretty clear hint is given that his love will console Eve for the desertion of her false lover. Meanwhile, justice has been slowly dogging the footsteps of Smailey. The means he has employed for the persecution of Mrs. Van Brugh brings about his own discomfiture, and the advertisements he has issued, in the hope of proving her to have married a bigamist, bring home to himself the guilt of forgery. Chief agent in this is one Ruth Tredgett, a tramp, whom Mrs. Van Brugh has rescued from a life of shame into which she had been precipitated by Smailey.

California Theatre.

"The Wicked World," (which the critic of the Bulletin calls a 'nursery comedy!') will be repeated to-night. It abounds in poetry, wit and satire, and as presented by John T. Raymond, and the California Theatre company, cannot fail to delight people of cultured taste and appreciation for high dramatic art. "Toodles," terminates the performance every evening.

Platt's Hall.

A very large audience assembled here last night to listen to Gerald Massey's lecture entitled "Why does not God kill the Devil." Mr. Massey delivered a very erudite and strikingly bold discourse on ancient and modern religions, and proved that the theologians were responsible for the existence of the Devil, that churches could not get on without him. He showed that what appeared evil and the work of the Devil, was simply part of the Divine scheme. According to Mr Massey, the people of this earth have the Devil at their mercy, and can kill him just as soon as they agree to be unselfish and work for the common good. To-morrow evening, Mr. Massey will deliver his last lecture in San Francisco. The subject is "The Coming Religion." If the talented lecturer's engagements would permit of his remaining here he could crowd Platt's Hall for many nights.

Palace Amphitheatre.

The great Carlo Family, the Docrow Brothers, Fred O'Brien, the comical Kenebel, Mlle. Amelia Bridges, Johnny Cooke, the famous Omar Kingsley, and others will appear this evening in a programme comprising many of the most extraordinary feats ever presented in the ring. On Sunday evening a complimentary benefit will be given to Mons. Barbier, the intrepid aeronaut, who lately met with an accident.

Bella Union Theatre.

H. E. Archer, the popular balladist, the Royal Tycoon Japs, the play of the "Police Court," Jimmy Moore in song and dance, Matt Kelly, Tommy Barton, Fred Ritche, and others in acts, and many other attractions will be offered this evening.

Buckley's New Variety Theatre.

Johnny Price, George O. Thompson, Frank Mortimore, Miss Ida May, Miss Lotta Gray, and a host of other favorites will appear to-night in a great bill.

Woodward's Gardens.

Captive ascensions on Saturday and Sunday by Prof. Allen's balloon. On Sunday, at four o'clock, Prof. Allen will make a grand free ascension, three miles high, with the chances of landing at the Alameda County Hospital or wherever the wind may take him. The Kenebel frog feat and other performances in the Pavilion on Sunday.

City Gardens.

The tenth yearly picnic and ball of the Steuben Guard, Captain O. Wochats, will be held at the City Gardens, on Sunday next, the 19th inst. The Guards will be escorted to the grounds by the famous San Francisco Cadets, who will add to the interest of the occasion by giving an exhibition of their remarkable "Blindfold Drill." There will be rifle shooting and games of all kinds, concert and dance, and music by Alpers' favorite band. Admission fifty cents. Cars will run all night.

ANATOMICAL MUSEUM.—One of the most complete collections of the kind in the United States, comprising hundreds of costly and beautiful wax models, is daily on view (to gentlemen [illegible]

The Dickens Ball.

The Dickens Ball for the benefit of the San Francisco Female Hospital, will come off at Union Hall, this (Thursday) evening, April 16. Society has been excited on this subject for weeks past and the result will be something extraordinary. Captain Cuttle, Little Nell, Toots, Dick Swiveller, the Marchioness, Little Nell, the Cheerybie Brothers, Uriah Heep, Wilkins Micawber, Mrs. Quilp, Sally Brass, Peggotty, Carker, Joe, the Fat Boy, Mr. Pickwick, and hundreds of other characters will be represented. Tickets can be obtained at Gray's music store, Steele's drug store, Neuman's drug store, 29 Post street, and of any of the lady managers. One of woman's rights is, to be taken care of when she is sick. We hope the good people of San Francisco will prove their belief in this by crowding Union Hall, on Thursday next, and enriching the treasury of the S. F. F. Hospital.

I. O. B. B. PICNIC—COLUMBIA LODGE, No. 127.—This promises to be one of the finest picnics of the season, for which Badger's splendid grounds known as Grand Central Park have been engaged, on Sunday, May 10th, and the arrangements for which are most complete.

Such Modesty.

At a musical party in Boston, the other evening, one of the young ladies who was on the programme for a ballad lost her self-possession and courage at the eleventh hour, and said she "really couldn't sing before so many people." Whereupon her father, who was among the guests, entered into an angry altercation with her, which terminated abruptly by the daughter calling her father a fool, and announcing her intention of going "straight home." The rapid return of the demoiselle's self-possession and courage so startled the company that the party broke up soon after.

Women as Voters.

General Edward Ley, who was acting Governor of Wyoming Territory when suffrage was granted to the women, delivered a lecture at Boston, recently, on its workings. He declares that no domestic jars have occurred, even when in one case a husband and wife were rival candidates for the same office, the one on the Democratic, the other on the Republican ticket. The women usually vote for the best candidates, and can not be bribed, and the whole political situation is improved.

A Slap at Boucicault.

William Winter, of the New York Tribune, gives Boucicault the following slap: "Octave Feuillet is at last mentioned, in the official announcement of the Union Square Theatre, as concerned with Dion Boucicault, in the authorship of "Led Astray." This act of justice to the real author of the comedy, comes late; but—better so than never to have come at all."

The Worst of the Season.

The man who made this pun ought to be thrown overboard in the middle of the ocean so that he couldn't be washed ashore. He is a Graphic man: "The two young boys who were yesterday sent to the Penitentiary for selling prize packages of soap, should take warning from this legend which is supposed to flame on its walls: 'Who enters here leaves soap behind.'"

The Difference.

Says the Territorial Enterprise: Down in San Francisco when anything goes wrong with a man he commits suicide. Up here the men lives on, "grins and bears it," hoping sometime or other to become a mining superintendent.

Berkeley.

An omnibus will leave the corner of Seventh street and Broadway, Oakland, on Sunday morning next, April 18th, at nine o'clock, and again at noon, to convey intending purchasers to the beautiful property of the Berkely Villa Association. Half-acre lots are offered at $350 each, in small monthly payments. This is the best opportunity now offering for investment in real estate. For full particulars and maps of the property apply to William Stuart, 113 Leidesdorff street. 4-0

Customs of Different Countries.

Prentice Mulford writing from Paris says, "That a breakfast without wine is deemed almost an impossibility by a true Frenchman." Mott, when Minister to England, in writing of the English people, notices the universal use of what may be called that nations beverage—English Ale. The brawny coal heavers in New Castle, the powerful Cornish miners in the tin mines of Cornwall, the sturdy Welsh, the thrifty Scot, the versatile Irishman deem ale a necessity to enable them to perform their toils, while the highest in the land, both male and female, require their glass or tankard of ale, not only to assuage their thirst but to give tone and vigor to their system. Travellers say that tea and rice form the principal part of the living in the Chinese Empire. The above is certainly not more true than that ale, porter and roast beef go far towards forming the meat and drink of an Englishman. We have English Ale and Porter here in San Francisco, but it is not the ale and porter that is obtained in England. Stock ale and porter as used in England, will not bear shipment to this country, unless a certain amount of alcohol is used, which tends to make it more of an alcoholic drink than a malt beverage. Englishmen in this country, and Americans who have visited England, often express their regret at not being able to obtain a glass of British Beer, as they call it. Messrs Merrifield & Rosener some time since, conceived the idea of brewing ale and porter here in San Francisco similar to the English beverages. For that purpose they secured the services of English brewers. Messrs. M. & R. proposed to have their ale ready for the market before informing the public of their movements. Of course, their friends were aware of their intentions, and from them others learned of it, so that before their stock was ready for market (although they had hogshead after hogshead full and placed in tiers, it had not got the age that the English brewers had decided it should have), people were calling at their main depot, 521 Market street first to try it and then almost invariably to order a dozen bottles or a package sent to their residence. Although their would-be customers were satisfied with the ale Messrs. M. & R. were determined not to sell until they were satisfied that their ale and porter would prove what they call it "The Star Ale and Porter." They are now ready, for the Market, and that they will find a ready sale is the belief of all who have tried it. This ale and porter can be had on draught at nearly all of the saloons in the city.

From one tooth to a full upper set, from $5 to $20. Filling reasonable. Dr. Cromwell, D.

THE FARMER FEEDETH ALL.

BY CHAS. G. LELAND.

My lord rides through his palace gate,
My lady sweeps along in state,
The sage thinks long on many a thing,
And the maiden muses on marrying?
The minstrel harpeth merrily,
The sailor plows the foaming sea,
The huntsman kills the good red deer,
And the soldier wars without a fear:
But fall to each, whate'er befall,
The farmer he must feed them all.

Smith hammereth cherry red the sword,
Priest preacheth pure the Holy Word,
Dame Alice worketh 'broidery well,
Clerk Richard tales of love can tell,
The tap-wife sells her foaming beer,
Dan Fisher fisheth in the mere,
And courtiers ruffle, strut and shine,
While pages bring the Gascon wine;
But fall to each, whate'er befall,
The farmer he must feed them all.

Man builds his castles fair and high,
Wherever river runneth by,
Great cities rise in every land,
Great churches shew the builder's hand,
Great arches, monuments and towers,
Fair palaces and pleasing bowers;
Great work is done, be't here or there,
And well man worketh everywhere;
But work or rest, whate'er befall,
The farmer he must feed them all.

Desperate Poets.

In Kentucky when a young man gets afflicted with rhyme, and writes a "pome," and wants it published, he loads his shot-gun and starts for the editor of the country paper. When he presents the product of his brain to the editor he says, "I want that yeer in yer paper, next week, sartin." If the editor refuses to publish the "potry" the irate child of genius unloads his gun in the editor's ear. To the honor of the editors, be it said, a good many of them prefer death. All heroism and patriotism are not dead yet in Kentucay.

A Libel.

A Saratoga belle, who, six months ago, was so languid that she could scarcely support herself at the altar, now throws a flat-iron fifty-five feet, and hits her husband every time. What a libel on the sex are such items as this, circulating through the provincial press. Everybody knows that a carefully tabulated statement shows that no Saratoga belle can "heave a flatiron over fourteen and a half feet, and then it goes the way she didn't intend it to.

The New King of the S. I.

Since it was made known that King Kalakaua was once an editor, his friends, in searching for extenuating circumstances, have discovered that his grandfather was hung for the murder of his grandmother.

Fast Girls.

Two Detroit girls have been arrested for getting on a locomotive, opening the throttle-valve and starting the machine. They then jumped off, but the engine ran through a freight train, doing $700 damage.

Unprofessional.

The Arkansas bar is evidently improving. It has solemnly passed a resolution censuring the assassination of Judge Fox by lawyer Aldridge as unprofessional.

The Young Man from the East.

"I'm a stranger in this city,
I'm lately from the East,
And mighty fond of oysters;
Where can I get a feast?
I've been to all the restaurants,
But nowhere could I find,
A plate of Eastern oysters,
Of the old-fashioned kind."

"Well, I can tell you," said his friend,
"Exactly where to go,
And where to get your oysters,
Direct from where they grow.
Just take a stroll down PINE STREET,
At 410, below the Market,
You'll see a sign, 'THE SADDLE ROCK,
You can't fail to remark it.

"Emerson Corville keeps the place,
The best saloon in town,
There you can get your oysters raw,
Or fried so crisp and brown.
He's the largest oyster dealer
On the Pacific Coast,
And that he keeps the freshest
Has ever been his boast.

"He's got nice little private rooms,
Where you can sit at ease,
And eat your California stew,
Or Eastern if you please.
All the young men of fashion go
Right to the SADDLE ROCK,
To eat their EASTERN OYSTERS
And drink their Rhenish hock."
